A WISE OLD SAGE once said, "All life is attack and reaction, whether it is in your garden, in your life or in your garage." This is certainly true in the case of plant pests and weeds. Some pests are managed by chemical control, while others are controlled by natural means.

One such pest is the brown spot fungus, which attacks many different plants. To control it, a fungicide called "Brown Spot Killer" should be applied according to label directions. It is available at most garden centers or supply stores.

Another pest that can be controlled with a natural method is the Japanese beetle. They feed on the leaves of many different plants, including lawn grasses. To control them, a biological control called "Japanese Beetle Killer" can be used. This product is sold at many garden centers and supply stores.

In addition to chemical and biological controls, there are also mechanical methods of pest control. For example, hand-harvesting strawberries is effective in controlling strawberry weevil. This pest attacks the fruit and can cause significant damage.

Overall, there are many different methods of pest control available, both chemical and non-chemical. It is important to choose the method that is most effective for the specific pest and plant involved.

Mother's Day should be every day in the year

Despite the nationwide concentration in the form of a single annual day, Mother's Day is a recognition that mothers everywhere are to be honored and appreciated. The theme of the second Sunday in May, which celebrates mothers, is a reminder that mothers are inordinately loved and appreciated for their love and devotion to their children. The theme of the second Sunday in May, which celebrates mothers, is a reminder that mothers are inordinately loved and appreciated for their love and devotion to their children. These thoughts are shared with mothers everywhere by all of us, and it is fitting that we take this opportunity to express our gratitude and appreciation to them.

The editor's uneasy chair

As the editor of this newspaper, I am often faced with the challenge of balancing the need for accuracy and fairness with the desire to provide meaningful and engaging content. This is never more challenging than during times of political or social unrest, when the temptation to sensationalize or oversimplify can be great. It is in these situations that the editor must strive to maintain a clear and unbiased perspective, and to ensure that the news is presented in a way that allows readers to make informed decisions. The editor's uneasy chair is a reminder that this task is not easy, but it is necessary to fulfill our responsibility to our readers.

This Week's Meditation

By Mrs. Larue T. Bassett, Jr.

It seems to me...

The Lions Club says thanks to all

The Lions Club of Statesboro is expressing its appreciation to all of its members and supporters for their hard work and dedication to the organization. The club has been active in the community for many years, and has made a significant impact on the lives of many local families. The club is grateful for the support it has received, and is looking forward to continuing its work in the future.

The editor of the Statesboro Herald, Mr. Russell, says that every day should be celebrated as Mother's Day. He writes:

"Mother's Day should be every day in the year. It is a day to remember the love and devotion that mothers provide for their children. And even though we celebrate on the second Sunday in May, it is important to remember that mothers are deserving of our love and appreciation every day."

Thiodan wipes out tobacco insects

Thiodan is a pesticide that has been used to control tobacco insects. It is applied in the field to help control insects that can damage tobacco plants. The use of Thiodan has helped to improve the yield of tobacco, and has contributed to the success of the tobacco industry.

Brand a Bargain at Your Chevy Dealer's Truck Roundup!

At this time of year, when the weather is warm and the days are long, it is the perfect time to get out and explore the countryside. Whether you're looking for a weekend getaway or a longer road trip, there's something for everyone in the South. And when you're ready to return home, Thiodan is there to help you clean up after your adventure.

The Statesboro Herald also notes that the use of Thiodan has helped to improve the yield of tobacco, and has contributed to the success of the tobacco industry.
