We must be ready when the time comes

And out of these there's group that will go marching off to air defense. So many phones, so many names and faces stick out. On the outside, the in-between line is there. And the feeling comes through that everyone must do their part. Our country is at war. And we must do our part.

We hope to bring you news of the fighting and how it's affecting our community. We'll try to bring you stories of brave men and women who are serving our country.

The editor's uneasy chair

Our readers have been writing in to us about the recent changes in the local government. They say that the new mayor is doing a great job of solving problems and that the council is working hard to make the city a better place to live.

We hope to bring you more stories of the city's progress in the coming weeks.
