THE COMMUNITY SAYS 'WELCOME' TO A. & M. KARAGHEUSIAN, INC.

For sometime we've been knowing that we would have some new neighbors.

We knew this because they had selected a site for their new home in our community and on about June 1 they began constructing the building into which they will begin moving the latter part of October.

And today we learn the name of our new neighbors—A. & M. Karagheusian, Inc., manufacturer of Gulistan Carpet, one of the largest carpet manufacturers in America.

And we join with all our neighbors in saying — "We Welcome You."

This company is no stranger to many homeowners in our community—rather, let's put it this way—many homeowners in our community know Gulistan Carpet, made by A. & M. Karagheusian, Inc.

The company was founded by Arshag and Miran Karagheusian, brothers who, in 1897, imported Persian rugs. In 1905 they began making domestic carpets. In 1928 the technique of chemical washing to give domestic rugs the beautiful sheen of Orientals was developed. This improvement resulted in the famous "Gulistan Rug," considered to be the finest in Oriental reproduction. It was about this time that the name "Gulistan" was adopted as a trade name for all the rugs and carpets made by A. & M. Karagheusian, Inc. The name means "Garden of Roses," and those familiar with the rugs admit that the name is a particularly fitting trademark.

We must let them know that we are as friendly as Mr. Karagheusian found us when he visited our community. We do know that they will make job opportunities for as many as 300 of their Bulloch County neighbors. And for that the entire community should be deeply thankful, both those who become associated with the company as employees and by the business and professional community of Statesboro and Bulloch County.

It is difficult to estimate what our new neighbor will mean to our community. We do know that they will make job opportunities for as many as 300 of their Bulloch County neighbors. And for that the entire community should be deeply thankful, both those who become associated with the company as employees and by the business and professional community of Statesboro and Bulloch County.

'Thanks' to all who helped

And now that we've said, "Welcome" we wish to express, on behalf of our community, thanks to those who were the principals in bringing the A. & M. Karagheusian, Inc. to Statesboro to be our neighbors.

Working with the company officials from the first day Statesboro was considered for the new Division was the Executive committee of the Bulloch County Development Corporation, made up of Mayor Bill Bowen, Thad Morris, Wallis Cobb, C. B. McAllister, Edgar Wynn, Ike Minkovitz and Tom Martin.

Working behind the scenes, but playing a most important part were Mr. Eugene Yates and his assistant, Mr. J. Curtis Smith of the Industrial Development Department of Georgia Power Company. It is to these two, through the Georgia Power Company, that the community owes a deep and abiding debt of gratitude for bringing this great industry to our community. Mr. Yates and Mr. Smith spent a lot of time and effort in the interest of our community. It was they who were of inestimable help in solving the problems which climaxed in the final selection of Statesboro.

And to Mrs. Alfred Dorman for remembering that her husband, the late Alfred Dorman, would have had her to do as she did in making available the site for the new home of this industry which has come to our community.

And to all others who helped, directly and indirectly, we add our thanks.

Our community appreciates it.

Bulloch farmers say

"Thanks," Judge

Farmers in Bulloch County will like Judge Walton Usher's consideration of them during the rush of the pre-tobacco market opening preparations which are at a high this week and next prior to July 27, the 1961 opening date.

Judge Usher has postponed the Court to the fourth Monday in August. He has, however, summoned the July Grand Jury to report on Monday, July 24, but experience has been that the Grand Jury can finish up its business with dispatch, when it wishes.

For the farmers in the county we say, "Thanks, Judge."

Mr. Charles A. Karagheusian, chairman of the board of the company, visited in Statesboro a few weeks ago and found Statesboro and Bulloch County to his liking. He expressed it like this: "... my tour of this lovely community quickly convinced me that Statesboro is the kind of town that we would be very proud to call 'the new home of Karagheusian.' I was very much impressed with the many genuinely friendly people I met there. . . . We hope to share in Statesboro's growth and prosperity in the years ahead."

Try it for summer time relaxation

All right, so it's been hot as a firepopper . . . "too hot to do a thing," you allow.

But you forget that it's not too hot to read. Just sit and read. Not doing a thing but just sitting, and if you are a Kennedy Democrat and have a Kennedy Rocker, then just sit and rock and READ.

Not just the newspaper—get a BOOK to read.

"And where can I get a book?" you ask.

Well the Statesboro Regional Library, of course.

And if it's too much work getting back home, just you sit there in the quietness of the air-conditioned library and take it easy—with a good book.

Can't beat it for summer relaxation!

If you want to know what a person is thinking, watch what he is doing. His actions may give you more information than you can get from listening to what he is saying. That is the opinion of Professor Ray L. Birdwhistell of the University of Buffalo's psychology Department.

Dr. Birdwhistell advises you to watch the gestures. He calls this science kinesics—the study and interpretation of gestures and body movements.

According to Dr. B. these unconscious motions are highly revealing. The following Birdwhistell "translations," based on eighteen years of observation, should be of interest to you if you want to know what is going on in the mind of that person you are talking to.

Hand-wringing means thinking over an idea.

Rubbing the nose—Rejection, disagreement.

Patting the hair — Approval.

Sleeping the fingers — Feeling of superiority.

Rubbing the eyes — An inner desire not to see something that might change the subject's mind.

Fingers interlocked, elbows on desk — inward struggle to keep quiet.

Tugging at shirt cuff — Self-satisfaction.

Hitching up trousers — Concern over making a decision.

Legs crossed, one foot swinging — Desire to walk away.

Thru the P's of Virginia Russell

By DR. JOHN MOONEY

The Editors of Medical Management are interested in how and how much people write. According to them the "writing-est" people in the country are police sergeants. (That's a surprise! Next come newspaper reporters, college students, and in fourth place, physicians.)

Doctors may not lead the list in doing the most writing, but they are the undisputed champions of the word writer club members.

This has given the public many a laugh. One of the favorites of the big time comedians would be the doctor who scribbled an invitation for a friend to come to dinner on a prescription pad.

The friend didn't show up at the appointed time, but a week later the doctor phoned to say "Thanks a lot for the prescription, doctor. I had it filled and it's done wonders for my heartburn."

In the lingo of handwriting experts into almost any column are called "spiders." Their wiggly, wobbly, undecipherable scribbles cost the nation billions of dollars a year in lost business, unsettled estates, unclaimed letters. (Med. Man.)

Psychologists have come up with complex explanations to account for this annoying habit. The factors involved may be complicated. But they have a sneaking notion that most of the spidery writing is due to carelessness.

the editor's uneasy chair

Because we've had this written since the week of July 6 when Mr. Will Cromley was honored by the U. S. Weather Bureau and because we believe it to be of general interest and because we don't want to throw it away and because it'll save us time in writing a new column, we use it this week. All of these are good reasons and convince us to use it to fill our Uneasy Chair this week.

It is a history of the climate of Bulloch County since 1907 when the first records were kept at the Weather Station at Brooklet.

Brooklet is located in Bulloch County, in the southern part of the East Central Climatological Division. It is in the northern part of the Lower Coastal Plain Province about 40 miles northwest of Savannah. The county is about equally divided between the Middle and Lower Coastal Plains. The elevation is level to moderately rolling, with the elevation within the county ranging mostly between 100 and 300 feet above sea level. The soils are predominantly sandy and loamy sands.

Bulloch County summers are warm and rather humid, with little variation in temperature from day to day. The maximum temperature reaches, on an average, 90 degrees F on about three out of four days from June through August. Over the years there has been an average of six days per summer with maximum of 100 degrees or higher. The highest temperature of record is 107 degrees and occurred in both August and September of 1925. Summer night temperatures are usually comfortable, dropping to the low seventies, or even below seventy, by early morning. The average minimum for the three summer months is just under seventy.

Winters are relatively mild and short in the Bulloch County area. Freezing occurs on an average of 26 days during the winter, but severely cold weather occurs infrequently. A temperature as low as 20 degrees can be expected during slightly more than half the winters. Daytime temperatures almost always rise to above freezing, even during the coldest months, or so, there is little interruption of normal outdoor activities by low temperatures. The lowest temperature officially recorded at Brooklet was 10 degrees in February 1917. The last spring freeze usually occurs before the middle of March, and the first fall freeze does not generally come until late November. This gives an average freeze-free growing season of approximately 260 days.

Bulloch County's average annual rainfall is slightly greater than the average for the East Central Division. Rainfall distribution shows a summer and early fall maximum with fairly equal distribution throughout the remainder of the year. No month has an average of less than two inches, and only the months June through September show an average greater than four inches. Monthly rainfall totals have ranged from a high of 24.34 inches in September 1929, to none at all in October 1984. Only a trace of rain has been recorded in two other months. Less than one inch of rain has been recorded in all months except July. Annual rainfall has varied from 71.38 inches in 1929 to 20.78 inches in 1984. Some of Bulloch's heaviest rains have occurred in connection with tropical storms that either moved inland or near enough the coast, to bring the area under their influence. Rains that total one inch, or more, in a year occur, on the average, 12 times per year. They are most likely in July and September, and least likely in January, October and November.

COMMENT ON THE NEWS OF THE DAY

House Speaker Sam Rayburn, speaking on the A.C.T.V. show, "Issues and Answers" comment-ed, "The caliber of representative lives in Congress today is the highest I've ever known." Most of us would agree with Mr. Rayburn on this fact. At the same time it makes me a little upset to learn that Congress has built itself a "stove" in the Capitol where "members can buy anything they want to buy at cost. I wonder if manufacturers who wish to influence their congressmen would consider making their wares available at less than cost. Investigation shows that many congressmen are calling for the store to stock items not usually used in their offices. Things like automobiles, tires, conditioners and etc. Not trusting each other a system has been devised so that the Congressmen must justify purchase of any unusual item needed. Surely we can trust our men in these high places to be men of honor. Congressmen already are given sizable expense allowances which are designed to cover these same expenses. This is a new way found to again increase these allowances.

Mr. Rayburn also said, "The United States will have to meet Force with Force in Berlin." Now Mr. Rayburn almost always man, woman or child in the United States could have told you this many months ago and many can also tell you that not many folks, including

THE STORM RAGED

The lightning flashed across the sky. Sometimes near and sometimes far away. The thunder rumbled almost simultaneously with the show of lightning.

Reading the newspaper (Atlanta Journal) was the right thing to do at such a time if the feeling of desolation needed help.

The headlines on one article read: "Philadelphia Open Sunday as Liquor Becomes Legal." The article read in parts, "And it was noted that the sun shone brilliantly as the city had its first legally wet Sunday in 167 years."

"At 1 p.m. you could walk into almost any neighborhood and get a bit of hard stuff."

"Last month, the citizens voted their approval for liquor sales on Sunday, ending another of the old blue laws that both the city and its hotels claimed was costing millions of dollars annually in convention business."

Bulldog football ticket sales best in history

Georgia's advance football ticket sales are the highest in history, reports Bulldog Business Manager Howell T. Hollis.

"Last year was the best we ever had at the gate," says Hollis, "and it looks like we'll improve this year, judging by current advance sales."

Hollis thinks the record advance sales are due to the fine five-game home schedule which he considers one of the most attractive in Bulldog annuals—pre-season SEC favorite Alabama Vanderbilt, South Carolina, Kentucky and perennial SEC power Auburn.

"We are also happy to report to our supporters the Sanford Stadium is being improved in several ways: new dressing room for visiting team underneath scoreboard, new rest rooms at both ends of the upper level of South side stands, renovated press box, new concession stands and new President's box," continues Hollis.

Hollis reminds all Bulldog ticket holders the contribution to Georgia Student Educational Fund that their dead-

A six-step story of the famous Gulistan Carpet

1. HERE IS WHERE the fine Gulistan Carpet, manufactured by A. & M. Karagheusian, Inc. begins. The picture shows some of the finest imported wools brought to the company's warehouses and stored in bales.

2. THE WOOL IS carefully blended, according to exacting formulae. The various types of wool are washed and scoured to remove all foreign matter. Here is one of the washing operations.

3. AFTER SCOURING the wool is dyed and blended. The wool emerges from the carding machines in "roving" as shown.

New Statesboro firm, one of largest manufacturers of carpet in America

A. & M. Karagheusian, Inc., manufacturer of Gulistan Carpet, is one of the largest carpet manufacturers in America. For more than half a century the firm has maintained a continuous record of growth.

The company was founded in 1900 in Roselle Park, New Jersey, by Arshag and Miran Karagheusian, brothers who, in 1897, imported Persian rugs to New Jersey. They purchased a mill in Freehold, New Jersey to make domestic carpets. A spinning mill in Roselle Park, New Jersey was acquired in 1922, thus enabling the company to handle the entire production from the processing of raw wool to finished carpet.

Three years later the company expanded into the production of handwoven rugs in Flushing, China. Employing some 6,000 Chinese weavers, Karagheusian was the world's largest producer of Oriental rugs. The plant was confiscated in World War II with the Japanese invasion, but was rehabilitated after the war. It has since been confiscated by the Chinese Communists.

In 1928 the technique of chemical washing to give domestic rugs the beautiful sheen of Orientals was developed. This improvement in fine carpet making was exemplified in the famous "Gulistan Rug," considered the finest quality Oriental reproduction.

Rapid Expansion. The entire carpet industry was adopted as a trade name for all Karagheusian rugs and carpets. "Gulistan" means "Garden of Roses," a particularly fitting trademark.

During the war all carpet production was halted and the mills converted to the manufacture of war material. The Karagheusian plants turned out millions of yards of duckcloth, thousands of gun covers, tarpaulins, signal flags and Navy machine parts.

Post-War Era Brings Rapid Expansion. The end of the war brought with it a period of immense activity and growth for A. & M. Karagheusian, Inc. The entire country turned towards re-establishing a peacetime economy and for Karagheusian the next few years were the most important in the firm's greatest period of expansion.

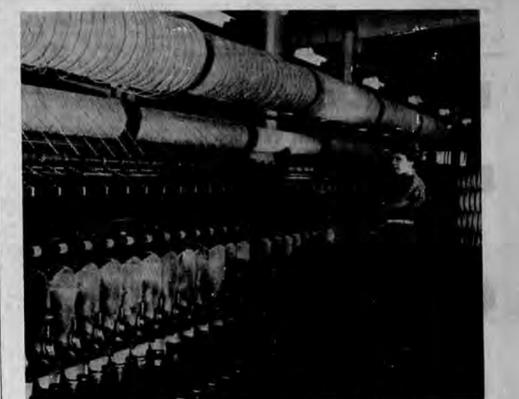

Southern Divisions Established. Two more mills were acquired in 1952. The company moved southward with the purchase of a plant in Albany, Georgia for the manufacture of tufted carpets. In 1957 another mill was opened in Aberdeen, North Carolina. This mill was established for the production of velvet carpets.

Since its establishment in 1952, the Albany Division has been expanded a number of times. The fibers in parallel position with each other into a "roving." These rovings are wound on large "jack spools" which are then delivered to the Spinning Department.

SPINNING. Here the roving yarn is "drafted" or elongated in even fashion. The twist is then inserted. These single ends of twisted yarn or huge bobbins are delivered next to the Twisting Operation where two or more ends are "plied" together, either in the same color for a solid color carpet, or in several colors for multi-color carpets.

WINDING. The final stage is Winding. Here the yarn is placed on cones for shipment to all of Karagheusian's carpet plants. At dozen of stages throughout the manufacturing process, the product is carefully weighed, examined and tested to insure the high quality carpet yarn to meet with Karagheusian's exacting standards. Each year many millions of yards of these yarns are consumed in Gulistan Carpet.

In the same manner as wool, synthetic fibers, such as Acrilan and Nylon are manufactured at Karagheusian's Spinning and Dyeing Division.

4. ROVING THEN proceeds to the spinning frames where a set number of turns makes yarn out of the roving.

5. SINGLE ENDS of yarns are plied together on this twisting frame, making the required weight for the particular carpet to be manufactured.

6. THE FINISHED Yarn is then re-wound and packaged according to requirements of the looms or tufting machines which will use the yarns for manufacture of Gulistan Carpet.

Peanut growers are urged to vote for peanut promotion

LAUNDRING WASH-AND-WEAR

In laundering wash-and-wear suits and slacks containing dacron polyester or orlon acrylic fiber, avoid the use of hot water and strenuous washing action, suggests Miss Leonora Anderson, head of the Extension clothing department at the University of Georgia College of Agriculture.

By ROY POWELL
County Agent

The Georgia Farm Bureau Federation today urged peanut growers to vote their ballot to determine the future of a growing peanut industry.

Harry L. Brown, President of the Georgia Farm Bureau Federation, reminded growers "only a few days remain for peanut growers to cast their ballot to determine if producers will develop a program designed to create larger markets, consumption, and new uses for Georgia peanuts."

Deadline for casting ballots is July 25. "Any grower not casting a ballot is automatically voting against a grower self-help program for better marketing opportunities," the Farm Bureau President explained.

"Producers groups in other states have enlarged their income opportunities tremendously by establishing commodity self-help programs," he said.

"Florida citrus growers have increased consumption of Florida citrus from 11 pounds per capita to 45 pounds in the United States, and California cling peach growers more than doubled the consumption of peaches with a grower financed research, promotion and education program."

The proposed peanut promotion program would be financed by $1 per ton assessments — if approved by growers.

"While ballots have been mailed to all growers they may also be obtained from County Farm Bureau Offices on the County Agents Office."

1000 killed in a year in tractor accidents

About 1,000 persons are killed each year in the United States in farm tractor accidents. That is why vehicle and farm machinery safety are being stressed during this year's Farm Safety Week, says Willis E. Huston, agricultural engineer of the University of Georgia Cooperative Extension Service.

Over the last eight years, the death rate from tractor accidents has climbed 50 percent. In addition to these fatal accidents, nonfatal mishaps involving tractors occur at the rate of about 45,000 a year, Mr. Huston pointed out.

One-third of tractor fatalities occur on highways, not in the field. To help prevent tractor accidents on highways, Mr. Huston makes the following suggestions:

Good planning can avoid much unnecessary movement of farm equipment on heavily traveled roads.

Keep the tractor under control. Slow down for turns. Leave the tractor in gear on downhills.

Only experienced operators, possessing a true judgment, should be given the responsibility of handling farm machinery on public roads.

Permit no extra riders on the tractor. Many of the tractor accident fatalities are small children.

Well located entrances to fields and farmyards allow good visibility for operators of farm machinery and motor vehicles. Courtesy makes friends and prevents accidents. Pulling off the pavement to let faster traffic pass takes only minutes—and may save lives.

Red flags by day, approved lighting by night, call attention of the motorist to the dangers of slow moving machinery.

Value of quality is recognized by hog market

Quality may soon be given its due reward at Georgia hog markets, according to James A. Christian, animal husbandman of the University of Georgia Cooperative Extension Service.

Most Georgia sales barns now sell hogs on a weight basis only, he explained. But leading markets in the state are starting to divide hogs into uniform quality and weight groups instead of weight groups alone.

This change in marketing system is to be made at the auction barn in Brooks County on August 30 by Harold Long, owner and manager of the barn, Mr. Christian reported.

In midwestern hog states, he continued, quality has been an important consideration in sales for many years.

This system for marketing hogs, new in Georgia, will make it possible for buyers to purchase the number and quality of hogs they desire at the price they can afford to pay.

"All hogs that weigh 200 pounds are not worth the same amount of money," he declared. He pointed out the results of the carcass contest at the State Barrow Show in Americus last March. The top hog in the show had a cutout value of $20.86 per hundred pounds live weight. This was $4.98 a hundred live weight in value more than the poorest hog.

This means that for every hundred pounds the best hog weighed alive it was worth over $4.00 more than the poorest hog where it really counts—the meat counter. However, under the present system both hogs would have brought about the same price to the producer.

The average for the 30 barrows in the carcass contest was $18.46 per hundred on the live weight basis. These figures show that the top barrow in this group was worth $2.40 more per hundred pounds than the average of all the hogs, while the poor hog was worth

Don't overfish newly stocked fish pond

By E. T. "Red" MULLIS
Soil Conservation Service

There have been several Cooperators of the Ogeechee River Soil Conservation District who have inquired about when to start fishing their newly stocked ponds. Many have received the false conception that after the bream have spawned you can begin removing the bream. Actually you should not remove any bream or bass until after the bass have spawned which is usually the second spring.

There are several good reasons why you should not fish for bream as soon as they have reproduced. One of the primary reasons being that they should be allowed to spawn as much as possible the first year to produce sufficient food for the hungry young bass. Another is that by leaving the original bream in the pond, they will take up most of the available bream food, keeping the millions of little bream from growing into intermediate size (too small for people to eat, yet too big for the young bass) and thereby overstocking the pond with bream. Thus by keeping the millions of small reproduction bream small for a year will allow the young bass to thin them out to a manageable number.

More disappointments have been caused by overfishing a newly stocked pond the first year than all others combined (with the possible exception of putting catfish and other fish in the pond in addition to the hatchery fish). Both the young bream and young bass are easily caught that first spring, summer, and fall, and the temptation to catch them is very great. However, for the benefit of many years of future fishing pleasure, resist that temptation to catch them during that first year. Wait until you are sure the bass have reproduced, then happy fishing!

J. Harry Lee is named to FHA area committee

Appointment of J. Harry Lee as a member of the Farmers Home Administration area committee was announced this week by Marshall R. Thippen, the agency's county supervisor serving Bulloch, Bryan and Evans Counties.

Mr. Lee is one of Bulloch County's most progressive farmers and businessmen. He is a native of the Leefield community, being one of their most substantial citizens, and is well known for his civic and agricultural interests.

Two other members make up the 3-member committee which works with the county supervisor to see that the best possible use is made of the agency's farm credit service program consistent with local farmers' needs. The other two members are W. C. Hodges, Rt. 2, Statesboro, and H. Erastus Akins, Rt. 1, Register. Each member is appointed for a 3-year term. Mr. Lee succeeds Dan W. Hagan, Rt. 2, Statesboro, whose 3-year term expired this year.

The committee determines the eligibility of individual applicants for all types of loans. It also reviews borrowers' progress and aids the county supervisor in adapting the agency's loan policies to conditions faced by farmers in this area. Members are selected and appointed so that, so far as possible, different areas or neighborhoods are represented.

The Farmers Home Administration makes annual or inter-mediate term loans to farmers who need adequate funds to buy equipment and livestock, and longer term loans to build or repair houses and other essential farm buildings, and to purchase or improve land suitable for family-type farm operations.

The local office is located at 7 North College St. in Statesboro.

Recent studies also show that one out of 10 fatal accidents to rural residents involves farm machinery other than tractors and motor vehicles.

"Safety is a Family Affair" is the theme for Farm Safety Week, proclaimed by Gov. George Wallace during the week of July 23-29.

In his proclamation, Gov. Wallace urged all citizens of Georgia to support and participate in this special effort to reduce the number of farm accidents.

The two critical areas of rural highway and farm machinery safety will be stressed during this year's Farm Safety Week, according to Willis E. Huston, agricultural engineer for the University of Georgia Cooperative Extension Service.

Huston said the Extension Service will work with the Georgia Farm and Home Safety Council and all other groups and agencies concerned with farm safety to help rural families become aware of the dangers in these and other areas.

Four 4-H Clubs, home demonstration clubs and other groups will help emphasize the week in their communities, he said.

The areas of rural highways and farm machinery were selected because of the large number of fatal and crippling injuries for which they are responsible, Huston continued.

He pointed out that motor vehicle accidents claimed the lives of 5,300 farm residents in 1956. Some 4,700 of these were non-work accidents.

Recent studies also show that one out of 10 fatal accidents to rural residents involves farm machinery other than tractors and motor vehicles.

Observance of the week of July 23-29 as Farm Safety Week was also proclaimed nationally by President John F. Kennedy.

The observance is co-sponsored nationally by the Department of Agriculture and the National Safety Council.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman called upon all

Herman Talmadge reports: How foreign policy affects textiles

There is no better example of what is wrong with American foreign policy than what is being done in its name to this country's textile industry.

For more than a decade now this basic industry has been in a state of chronic depression. From the facts at hand it would appear that this country's greatest need today is for an American Desk at the State Department.

The industry was led to believe it could expect better of the new Administration and optimism followed the appointment of a Cabinet-level committee to recommend a course of action. Those hopes were dashed when the committee came up with a nebulous, eight-point program centered on an international conference instead of imposition of import quotas and were dashed when the State Department announced the proposal it intends to put before the Department's jargon, "developing" country, somewhere mad enough to refuse foreign aid and turn Communist.

The Department's idea of solving the problem is to seek a system of voluntary textile import quotas based on the record 1960 levels for all areas except Hong Kong which would take a 20 per cent cut and Japan which would get a five per cent increase. Even those quotas would be increased with each succeeding year.

A State Department official hiding behind the cloak of anonymity gave an interview in which he stated that it was only because of "political pressure" that a conference was being held. He accused the textile industry of having an "insatiable appetite" and engaging in "hysterics" and maintained that the developing nations must be satisfied that the conference is being approached in a liberal spirit. His entire attitude was one of favoring foreign over American interests.

No one would argue with the position that it is important for the United States to maintain good relations with the textile-producing areas of the world; but, by the same token, no fair-minded individual would agree that they should be achieved at the expense of an industry regarded by the Defense Department as essential to national defense and looked to by almost 900,000 Americans as their source of livelihood.

The only reason for having a State Department is to represent American interests abroad. When it ceases to perform that

GOOD OLD DAYS

Uncovered in some old school records in California are the following rules for teachers made by their school board in the 1880's:

—Each teacher will bring a bucket of water and scuttle of coal for the day's session.

—To conserve supplies, make your pens carefully. You may whittle nibs for the individual tastes of your students.

—Men teachers may take one evening a week for courting purposes, or two evenings a week if they attend church regularly.

—After 10 hours in school the teachers should spend the remaining time reading the Bible or other good books.

—Women teachers who marry or engage in unseemly conduct will be dismissed.

—Each teacher should lay aside from each pay a goodly sum of his or her earnings for their declining years so that we will not become a burden on society.

—Any teacher who smokes, uses liquor in any form, frequents pool or public halls, or gets shaved in a barber shop, will give good reason to suspect his worth, intentions, integrity and honesty.

—The teacher who performs his labor faithfully and without fault for five years will be given an increase of 25c per week in his pay, provided the Board of Education approve.

The descendants of Pickens Wesley Watson and Martha Satcher Watson held their reunion Sunday, July 2, at Hubert Watson's pond east of Twin City.

About 150 members attended and enjoyed the basket dinner spread in the spacious private Club House.

Luther I. Watson, president, led the meeting after dinner and began by introducing Rev. S. Carter Berkeley, Twin City Methodist minister, who gave a short enjoyable talk on our American and Family heritage and why it should be so cherished and preserved.

Mrs. A. V. Holloway read the minutes of the last meeting. She then recognized the six family groups of the original Georgia Family and each representative gave the information they had obtained on their family.

The next reunion will be held next year on the Sunday preceding July 4 at Hubert Watson's Pond.

The group elected the following officers: DeVane Watson, Statesboro, president; Mrs. J. P. Foy, Statesboro, vice-president; Mrs. Lawson Brannen, Metter, secretary.

Miss Donnie Powell, Mr. Vernon Street wed Sunday, July 9

The Calvary Baptist Church, Sunday, July 9, was the scene of the marriage which united Miss Donnie Powell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Powell and Vernon Street, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Street.

A selection of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Georgie Dwinell, organist, and she accompanied Mrs. Don Scarborough as she sang, "I Love You Truly" and "O Perfect Love."

The Rev. Auston Yoamans Sr., pastor of the bride and groom, performed the ceremony before a background of palms under a white wrought iron arch with standards on either side holding sunburst arrangements of white gladioli, large mums and lavender pom-poms. Standing cathedral and tree candelabras held lighted white tapers.

The groom chose as his best man his brother-in-law, Bobby Stubbs. His brother, Tommy Street, and another brother-in-law, Jim Mitchell, served as usher-groomsmen.

Miss Linda Powell, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore a dress of lavender silk organza and taffeta with a fitted bodice, ending in a point over the bouffant skirt. It featured a scalloped neckline and tiny cap sleeves. She wore a halo of matching lavender with a tiny circular veil. Her bouquet was a nosegay of lavender mums encircled with scallops of pearls.

Miss Lynn Forbes and Miss Virginia Smith served as bridesmaids. They wore dresses of the same material and color as the maid of honor, but their festal bouquets and headpieces were identical to the honor attendant.

Little Jimmy Mitchell, nephew of the groom, was ring bearer and a niece of the groom, Cindy Mitchell, was flower girl. She wore a white embroidered pinafore over a dress of lavender and dropped petals from a tiny white basket.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in a gown of nylon tulle, with long pointed sleeves and a Sabrina neckline accented with garlands of sequin embroidered Alencon type lace. Panels of sequin embroidered lace radiated into the buoyant tulle skirt which flowed gracefully into a chapel train.

Her matching head piece was of sequin stuffed lace and was topped with a tiny pearl coronet and held a wide floating elbow length veil.
