A Vision To Cause Jitters

SOMETHING must be done. And we must do it quick, and with courage. Observers who study our traffic situation are chafing under the possibilities of federal authorities re-routing through traffic away from our business section.

Visions of U. S. 301 traffic being moved off North Main and South Main streets give motel operators, hotel owners, restaurant owners, and retail businessmen the jitters every time they think of it.

And the possibility exists. And will continue to exist until we in Statesboro do something about it.

Observers note that between the hours of seven and nine o'clock in the morning and between five and seven o'clock in the evening North and South Main becomes a traffic bottleneck, for both local and tourist traffic.

During the 7 to 9 o'clock morning hours tourists are getting breakfast and readying themselves to take off. Local people funnel into the main street from all sections of Statesboro, and a traffic problem develops to shorten the tempers of both tourists and local citizens.

The same thing happens during the 5 to 7 evening hours. Tourist coming in, local citizens trying to get home. We have come to recognize that the tourist and his family and their traveling is big business to Statesboro. And if we are to keep it, develop it, we must take care of it.

A study of a map of the city of Statesboro reveals that citizens living in several sections of town can drive, if they would, to their place of business or to the place where they park their cars without driving along North or South Main and becoming a part of the traffic on these streets.

However, others work in sections of the business district which make it impossible to get from their homes to their work without getting into the traffic along North and South Main streets.

Because of the several dog-leg and dead-end street crossings along North and South Main it's difficult to cross, so local drivers get into the traffic line.

Surveying the map indicates several possibilities which would necessitate new sections to existing streets, condemning certain buildings, and additional paving—all of which, if done, would bring about loud screams of protest.

We suggest that every citizen of Statesboro who drives to and from work figure out a route which will keep him from becoming involved in the traffic flow along North and South Main streets during those two morning hours and two evening hours. We believe he'll get to work from home and home from work quicker and in better tempo.

And the resulting relief of the bottleneck may divert those who would from changing our traffic flow.

Try it!

OUR CONGRESSMAN, Prince Preston, has announced that he will be a candidate to succeed himself as congressman of the First District when his present term expires.

"Uncle Dave," as Mr. D. B. Turner, editor of The Bulloch Times, is affectionately known by members of the Georgia Press Association and the state of Georgia, was the highlight of the meeting of the First District Press Association held in Savannah Friday night.

The editors of the district were hosts to the district members of the Georgia Legislature at a dinner at the DeSoto Hotel. It was strictly an informal get-together, and a thoroughly delightful affair.

During the meeting, the district president, Harry Rhoden of Lyons, called on "Uncle Dave" to make a short talk. "Uncle Dave" did, and drawing on his apparently inexhaustible source of stories he put the meeting "in stitches."

We have always contended that the annual frays held by the Burlington Lions Club does not reveal the nation's champion lion. We admit that they tell some of the best of their annual meeting, but some told around here in Bulloch county on any Saturday afternoon would put to shame the declared 1951

Georgia, the South, the nation, are exerting all our energies and influences to better the relations between peoples of all races, all creeds, all nations, to promote the practice of goodwill to our fellowman, such a statement sets us back decades.

And it must make wonderful material for the propaganda mills of Russia, and rich fertilizer for the political hawking of demagogic politicians in our own state.

We had hoped our governor had risen above such tactics.

Teamwork Will Do It

IT IS ADMITTED that our farmers are facing one of the most difficult years in our history in meeting the nation's requirements for food and fiber. Goals are expected to be as high or higher than in the past year.

Agriculture experts fall in line with our own county agent, Byron Dyer, who last week painted a word picture of what farmers might have to expect this year. They agree that cost of production in 1952 will top that of 1951. Labor will be short. Supplies of fertilized and insecticides may be limited. Farm debts will rise.

Production may be increased. That's the word.

How? asks the farmer, in the light of the problems set out by the experts.

Here are some of the ways suggested by the same experts:

A wise use of land—rotation containing legumes at required intervals on cultivated land, luxuriant sod crops for grazing and forage on lands not suitable for cultivation, and the replenishment of plant food nutrients removed from the soil by heavy cropping.

Special attention to farm management. The use of tried and proven fertilizer practices, varieties, and insect and disease control practices will help produce the greatest number of units of products at the lowest possible cost.

A conservation farm plan based on the capabilities of the land is the foundation of all agricultural programs. Hence, the greatest need for agriculture in 1952 is to recognize the capability of each acre and use it accordingly.

Strive for a balanced farm program which will bring the greatest returns.

All these are conceded to be ways to work out solutions to farm problems.

But the one we like best is that which suggests teamwork between town and rural areas. This sort of relationship between the farmers and their town neighbors is of first importance, in our opinion.

It is demonstrated here in Bulloch county in many ways.

With this sort of teamwork, coupled with the suggestions made, we have no doubts that our farmers will produce.

Real Homemakers Are Truly Artists

By VIRGINIA RUSSELL

"Most of us feel it in our hearts. But only a few ever get around to telling her so." It is the title of Ernest Rogers' column in last Sunday's Atlanta Journal. Mr. Rogers tells of a man who wrote in to nominate his wife for Atlanta's Woman-of-the-Year. The man most ably presented the virtues of his wife, virtues which mainly consisted of being a fine homemaker, mother, and wife. Mr. Rogers concludes his article by saying:

"It is unlikely that men are generally aware of all the planning and effort that goes into the day-by-day operation of a home; and a woman who performs this task devotedly and in good spirit is certainly the woman of every year."

Recently, after visiting in many homes, I have thought along the same lines. How true is it that Mr. Rogers. But it is certainly true that women who make real homes for their families are great artists, artists in the truest sense of the word, the greatest painters, the most graceful dancers, or most skillful writers.

In her role as cook, a woman must plan three meals a day, remember to include all the foods that are necessary for the good health of her family, and recalling that color in each meal makes for better appetites. Then she must make a trip to the store and purchase the food. Finally, she cooks the food, scientifically preserving all of its nutrients, and in dishes that have been carefully chosen to blend with the colors in the dining room, serves it artistically to her family.

It takes anywhere from one to three hours to prepare a good meal, which the family takes 20 minutes to devour, and another good hour cleaning up afterwards. An occasional meal wouldn't take so much effort, but a family somehow expects a meal three times a day, and most of the time, even the mother seems to eat that way.

As a housekeeper, a wife must clean, dust, mop, and wax floors, straighten rooms, dust furniture, make beds, put away clothes that have been washed and ironed. She must see that sofa and chair covers, and draperies, are dry cleaned or laundered periodically, more often when little feet stand upon them. She must plan color schemes for each room and buy materials that blend with each other and with the walls. In choosing colors, she must consult the whims of her husband and children. At least twice a year she must have the house thoroughly cleaned. She must pack away one season's clothes and unpack the clothes worn for another.

As mother, the woman of the house must bathe, feed, and love the little ones, continue her care of the older ones. Sometimes their noses have to be wiped, their stumped toes tied up, their cut fingers band-aided, and their tears dried up with kisses. After the physical needs are cared for the moral and spiritual needs must be looked after, precept and example, and prayer. A mother never gets through trying to install right-living.

This same creature we've been talking about must also be a wife to her husband. She must be prepared for any mood that a hard or any easy day has cast him into. She must be a lover, a friendly and tactful critic, a diplomat. She must be clean, tidy, and attractive. "Heaven! Nobody can be so many persons in one!" you say. Yes, there are many such creatures right here in Statesboro. And, man! So help you! Go give her a kiss of gratitude right now!

In the beginning there was some question as to how well music and television might mix. But the new Dash Shore and Perry Como shows have topped all ratings in their particular time slots every week, proving that music is GOOD no matter what medium you get it through. The audience appeal of these popular singers is terrific, because without a doubt people do like to see their music being made as well as to hear it.

Television brings all kinds of music... along with the popular singers, cowboy tunes, folk singers, opera, symphony orchestras, chamber music... a complete lineup. So you can be sure to enjoy the musical show with your eyes as well as your ears. If you're a music lover, television is definitely for you.

In fact, no matter what kind of entertainment you like, television brings it to you. It's the most far-reaching medium yet devised. And it's high time you got in on all the wonderful things that are happening TV-wise.

When you want expert installation and service, along with a good television set... come in and see us. We have a complete selection of RCA VICTOR models, priced to suit your budget. Our technicians are tops. So you get TV at its best at BULLOCH TIRE & SUPPLY CO., 41 E. Main St. Phone: 472. (Adv.)

YOUR BLOOD IS NEEDED—Keep Tuesday, January 22, in mind. The Bloodmobile in season and a surplus of blood is here. Let's say, if you give, it's painless to give, it's a life-saver to give.

Every farm family should have a home garden large enough to supply a good variety of vegetables in season and a surplus for preserving out of season.

As ever, JANE.

COLLEGE CLASS TO BE ASSIGNED TO PROGRAM. The Physical Education Department of Georgia Teachers College announced this week that 16 students studying community recreation at the college will be assigned to work in the recreation program beginning January 8 for the winter quarter. These students work in all phases of the recreation program and receive college credit for their work. This class is under the direction of Mr. J. I. Clements of the College Head and Physical Education Department.

BROWNIE SCOUTS WORKING HARD. The Brownie Scouts, under the direction of their volunteer leaders, are hard at work at the Center with projects of all kinds. They are working with baskets, shadow boxes, painting, and many other projects. The program is well organized according to instructions from national headquarters and is being divided into working as leaders of one group and serve as chairman of the committee which supervises the overall program. Other volunteer leaders include Mrs. Carl Franklyn, Mrs. Wallace, Mrs. Helen Anderson and Mrs. Harry. These ladies are doing an outstanding work in the Brownie program.

SAVE ORGANIC MATTER. "Don't allow soil or uncontrolled fires on the farm, urge Extension service leaders. Instead of burning the material, turn it into fertilizer. Soils are generally too weak to have organic matter go up in smoke.

GUM TURPENTINE. Experience indicates that maximum gum yields from chemical stimulation will be obtained if the field-killed tissue above the turpentine face is removed some time between the end of one season and the beginning of the next.

FOREST VALUES. Our woodlands are a great responsibility. Besides providing us lumber and other wood products, forest build up the soil and improve the climate. They give us a steady supply of water and help prevent floods that gully our fields.

MISS SHIRLEY ANNE WALTERS WEDS HAL COLEMAN WATERS

The vaulted choir loft and the chance of the Mulberry Street Methodist Church in Macon, banked with palms, ferns and amylax with a fan-shaped arrangement of white gladioli silhouetted against the background of greenery interspersed with lighted cathedral tapers in altar candelabra, formed a classically beautiful setting for the bridal party Sunday afternoon, January 6, as Miss Shirley Anne Walters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Walters of Macon, became the bride of Sgt. Hal Coleman Waters, son of Mr. and Mrs. Loy Anthony Waters of Statesboro.

The Rev. Jake Hillis officiated in the impressive ceremony before an assemblage of friends and relatives of the popular couple. Miss Margaret Smith, organist, presented a program of traditional wedding music and accompanied Mrs. Howard Ingley, soprano, who sang "I Love Thee" and "All For You."

The ushers were Emory H. McKinnon Jr. of Atlanta, Hiram Camp of Jonesboro, John B. Wilkerson of Macon and Loy Anthony Walters Jr. of Statesboro.

Miss Justice Delores Todd of Macon, maid of honor, wore a coral flower blue taffeta dress with off-shoulder neckline bordered with taffeta cord in loop design which extended down the front of the bodice to the waistline and in redingote effect down the skirt, revealing a front panel of pleated nylon net. Her bouquet was a Dutch iris with yellow mallow pinks tied with wide yellow satin ribbon.

The bridesmaids were her twin sisters, Misses Joan and Janet Walters, of Macon and Ann Waters, sister of the groom. They were dressed in costumes identical to the maid of honor's. All wore clusters of Dutch iris in their hair and pearl drop earrings. Their bouquets differed from that of the maid of honor only in the use of chrysanthemum pinks.

The bride, entering with her father, by whom she was given in marriage, wore a gown in her wedding gown of white satin streamers extended fan-wise and were pulled by sorority sisters of the bride, who is an Alpha Gamma Delta. Symbols and souvenirs were attached to the ribbons.

Mr. and Mrs. Waters left during the evening for Atlanta where they stopped at the Biltmore. They went on to Sea Island. Mrs. Waters traveled in a powder blue Shalimar wool costume with a white orchid corsage. While at Sea Island, the bride and groom were entertained at luncheon by Mr. and Mrs. Francis A. Breen of Atlanta and Sea Island.

Upon their return from their wedding trip, Sgt. and Mrs. Walters will occupy an apartment at Tomah, near Camp McCoy, Wis., where Mr. Walters is with the National Guard unit under Col. Ellis.

Camp, Miss Mabel Kerr, Mr. and Mrs. James Walker, of Atlanta; John Waters of Swainsboro; Mr. and Mrs. Travis Waters and daughter, Dorothy, of Washington, Ga. Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Sherman, Dr. and Mrs. Wanda Floyd, Mrs. Vidie Lee Hilliard, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Simmons, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Abernathy and son, David, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fletcher and son, Jere, Mr. and Mrs. Lannie Simmons of Statesboro; Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Hinson, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Mathis of Graymont; Mr. and Mrs. John C. Peterson and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Poe of Mt. Vernon.

Both were coronas of purple orchids.

Immediately following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a reception at the Sidney Lanier cottage. The receiving line, composed of the bride and groom, the mothers and lady attendants, formed in the drawing room in front of a pier glass mirror with an open fire in the quaint fireplace at the end of the room. An arrangement of painting of the bride and groom hung over the carved mantel where an exquisite arrangement of white flowers were used.

The bride's table, in one of the parlors of the cottage, was overlaid with heavy lace centered with a low arrangement of carnations and gladioli. Crystal bowls held flat arrangements of gardenias and the silver branched candelabra were in the background decorations. At one end of the table was the covered wedding cake. The bride and groom removed the top tier which was a fruit cake, to be kept for their first anniversary. The cake is employed by the Pennsylvania Railway Co.

Farm Bureau News
J. H. Wyatt Tells Brooklet Farm Group Of Needed Changes in Peanut Program

Every effort possible is being made to bring about some needed changes in the peanut program for 1952, J. H. Wyatt, member of the state Farm Bureau peanut committee, stated at the Brooklet Farm Bureau meeting Wednesday night of last week.

In reviewing what had happened by date, Mr. Wyatt pointed out that the entire committee listened to farmers and others in Macon for two full days the first of November on what is wrong with the peanut program as it was administered in 1951. Then the group met with others interested in peanuts — shellers and end-users — at Albany the last of November.

A committee of Farm Bureau members, shellers and end-users of peanuts from the entire peanut belt met later in Washington. Complaints from all concerned were heard and a memorandum made of all.

The entire group, including Mr. Wyatt's committee from Georgia, met with representatives of PMA and the Fats and Oils Division of USDA while in Washington and were told that the 1952 program had been made up. The proposed program was read and outlined in detail to the committee.

The committee of farmers and peanut users found but very few changes in the program from 1951 and asked for a hearing on the proposed changes they wanted in the 1952 program. PMA and the Fats and Oils Division agreed to grant such a hearing before the 1952 program is announced.

Mr. Wyatt expressed the hope that the 1952 program would be more to the liking of all concerned than was the 1951 program. The reports given this State Farm Bureau committee from farmers, shellers and end-users of peanuts indicated that the 1951 program was a "100 percent program"; they were all 100 percent against it in every detail.

MIDDLEGROUD DISCUSSES TIMBER PRESERVATION

The Middleground Farm Bureau discussed methods of preserving timber for buildings and fence posts at their meeting last Thursday night.

Miss Frank Deal, district PMA performance supervisor met with the group at Middleground and urged them to make their soil-banking practice report for the PMA office by January 15 so they could be paid for 1951 practices. Mr. Deal also asked that they not overlook returning the sheets now being received on the 1952 PMA program. He explained that no farm had a soil-banking allowance for 1952, but that allowances would be set up by the county committee in February, based on what was turned in on this sheet. These forms are to be returned to the county PMA office by February 2.

Those present at both the above meetings were urged to use forms to control blue mold on tobacco beds. Those who have controlled blue mold found that if they kept ferns on the plants until they were about the size of a dime they could prevent the mold from doing damage to the plants.

It was reported at these meetings that REA had assured the local rural telephone directors that funds would be available to start the local project around January 10 or 15.

Tree transplanters bought by the banks of the county are available for use again this year, it was announced. They can be procured through the county agent's office. The Brooklet group served a fried chicken supper and Middleground enjoyed a barbecue supper.

Forestry News

Personnel of the Bulloch County Forestry Unit have made a New Years resolution.

They have determined to bring about a heavy production in the number of fires which annually ravage our county's forestland.

Accomplishing this resolve, however, will require the cooperation of all Bulloch County citizens. Hunters must do their part by being careful with cigarettes and matches while searching for game. Farmers and landowners must use caution in burning brush. All citizens must report wildfire and woods smoke by telephoning their Forestry Unit headquarters, 501 L.

The next four months will to a large extent determine the success or failure of our campaign to cut down the number of forest fires in Bulloch County. Every during this period are more dormant than during other seasons, and although this dormancy period begins to end in late March and early April, high winds during those two months

MARCH OF DIMES
JANUARY 2-31

Bring a new form of forest fire danger.

Realizing that resolutions are of little avail without action to back them up, members of the Bulloch County Forestry Unit plan to bring vehicles and equipment to scenes of forest fires with the shortest delay possible and to bring these blazes under control with a minimum loss of acreage.

Stopping wildfires before they start, however, still remains the most effective means of keeping a coating of forest green over Bulloch County's 284,083 acres of woodlands.

PLAQUES TO 4-H BOOSTERS

A plaque for meritorious service to 4-H during 1951 was presented to the Barrow County Home Demonstration Council at a 4-H Club achievement banquet held recently in the county. The Barrow County Farm Bureau Chapter received a like award.

One acre of good pasture will feed as much livestock as 10 to 50 acres of woodland.

Large roomy cows that are sure breeders and good milkers are best adapted to fat calf production.

An abundance of good pastures and plenty of home-grown feed are essential for a profitable beef enterprise.

A career counselor says folks are happiest if they just do what comes naturally. Your life work should be easy... because you ought to enjoy doing it.
