Here Is The Speech General Ike Should Have Made In Columbia S.C.

I want you to forget that deposits are now insured by the Government up to $10,000.00.
I want you to forget that United States Government today is spending over $2,000,000.00 for school lunches and over $11,000,000.00 for old age benefits, aside needy persons and dependent children.
I want you to forget that the United States Government today is spending over $5,000,000.00 to help build your highways in South Carolina.
I want you to forget that the government is spending $2,500,000 to help build hospitals in South Carolina.
Speaking to you in the campaign, I have stuck to generalities. I have skirted in generalities the entire sweep of progress America has made during the past 20 years in every direction. After all, I am the Republican candidate.

I have closed my eyes to the degradation of life for ordinary citizens which went on under every Republican administration, especially in the South.
I have preached that the Democratic party has never paid you any attention and that I am your new chosen leader to guide you out of the waters of the Democratic party into the perilous, adventurous and historically uncertain waters of the Republican party. I and my friends hold spite for Democratic leadership and would take you by the hand for a "Republican Thriller." There is nothing like it if you can't remember back more than 20 years. It is the votes that count.
To discuss the details would be to raise the Democrats. So I shall continue to deal in generalities.
I cannot defend the record of Republican congressmen or presidents. So I attack the Democrats, good or bad unless they have embraced the Taft-Tweed Republican ideas like I have.

PRISON, HOT DOGS AND BEER. On December 7, 1949, General Eisenhower said in a speech in Galveston, Texas, that "if all that Americans want is security, they can go to prison." On September 27, 1949, the General told a group of Columbia University students in New York City, "I should think that the best example of security would be a man serving a lifetime in a Federal prison." On November 30, 1949, the General said in an address in New York City that "Maybe we like caviar and champagne when we ought to be out working on hot dogs and beer."

I do not regard experience in military affairs as an asset to the President of the United States. In January 1948, I stated in a letter to Leonard B. Finder:
"The necessary and wise substitution of the military to civil authority can best be sustained when life-long professional soldiers abstain from seeking high political office."
Your own General Robert E. Lee said with regard to his being President of the Confederacy: "I could not do the people the injustice to accept high public office with whose questions it has not been my business to become familiar."
CONCLUSION
I love Democrats, particularly when I ask for their votes. On July 10, 1952, I am correctly quoted by the Washington Times Herald as saying: "When I was a small boy in Kansas we used to talk about the Democrats as we did about the town drunks and that situation hasn't changed a bit." The Democrats at that time here in South Carolina were Ben Tillman, Ed Smith, William Elliott, William Elliott Gonzales, Ambrose G. Lee, Asbury C. Lamber, Richard I. Manning and Cole L. Blease and most of our fathers and grandfathers.

I am asking you to forget that in 1932 the per capita income was $233.00 a year while today it is $1,002.00.
I want you to forget that in 1932 every man, woman and child in South Carolina had on deposit an average of $35.00 while today they have an average of $304.00.
I want you to forget that in 1932, eighteen banks in South Carolina with deposits over $28,000,000.00 closed their doors their tobacco sales slips. Maybe they had better overlook the fact that a majority of the Republican members of Congress have voted against the extension of 90% of party support, have voted to reduce soil conservation payments and against the program they now have.

As I said before, my whole 40 years in the army have made me thoroughly familiar with farm problems.
I own a farm in Pennsylvania which I bought shortly before this campaign. So, you farmers can understand that I am familiar with your farm problems. The Republicans have three farm policies that are guaranteed to suit every body.
We have the Republican platform, we have the record of the Republican Congress, and we have my own statements. You can take your choice.
The Republican platform states that the Republican party wants the farmer to get 100 percent of the price for his products. This is partly but it does not say how to achieve this. That will be left up to the Republican leaders of Congress who were in control of the 80th Congress.
The Republican 80th Congress passed the slippery, sliding party support to give less support to the farmer when he needs it the most and under which the farmer will never know what the support will be when he plants. Under that bill farm support prices can slide down to a point below the cost of production. That is the last definite program of the Republican members of Congress.
This bill really suits the grain mills, the cotton mills, the cotton buyers, tobacco companies, big business generally, and the Republican president and vice president of the American Farm Bureau Federation.
Our Republican Congress helped pass it and those farmers that like it can take it as our platform.
Now to take care of those who do not agree with the above, I make a speech in Minnesota to a big crowd of farmers and jumped off the Republican platform and jumped on the Democratic platform; and went one step further telling them that I wanted 100 percent parity and endorsed several features of the Brannon plan.
Of course Senator Taft, Aiken and the other Republicans who will be in control of Congress when we Republicans are elected will not go along with me. And I know it. But it's the votes that count.
The fact that the tobacco growers of South Carolina in July of this year voted 98.9% favorable for their tobacco program does not yet convince me that they know what they want.
They should listen to me, a farmer, and to Governor Dewey, another farmer, instead of reading american decision to assist the south Koreans was inescapable. The alternative would be another kind of Munich.

In the first chapter of my book "Crusade in Europe" on page 5, I say with reference to Pearl Harbor "I assumed that Japan would make no move against us until after we were committed to the European War."
As quoted by the Christian Science Monitor, I stated in July of 1950 that regarding Korea there was no recourse but to do what President Truman said and did.
So far, in this campaign, I have severely criticized the foreign policy which I helped formulate and carry out. I feel that if I criticize the foreign policy which I helped make, I should state some concrete changes I would make.
The best I have been able to do was carried in a radio and television broadcast on Friday, September 19, 1952 where I stated that the fundamentals of my foreign policy would be: first, state it in plain English; second, stop trying to contain the Russians; third, encourage the love of freedom behind the iron curtain; and fourth, where we are engaged in battle, withdraw our troops to rest areas and let our allies bear the burden. Such a policy would endeavor us to our allies and draw to us many new friends.

TAFT-HARTLEY
Governor Stevenson and I apparently see the problem about alike. Both of us say the law should be changed. He says we should repeal the law and write another one in order to get rid of the words Taft-Hartley, which seem to offend a great deal of people. I say amend the law and keep the name. I don't want to offend Taft's feelings.
FEPC
In my campaign speech in Charlotte and elsewhere in the South I have not mentioned FEPC because I thought the mention of my party's platform might lose me some votes in the South. I know what the platform calls for and know I am behind it for the rest of the campaign when I am up North. I admire the courage of Governor Stevenson for standing behind his platform but I am not going to say anything where or when I think it will lose votes.
FARM PROGRAM
I am a farmer.

Committeemen '53
In community elections held Sept. 17, 1952, committeemen were elected for 18 districts. These committeemen elected will be responsible for contacting individual farmers under the 1953 Agricultural Conservation Program and Federal Crop Insurance program. They will also be responsible in connection with the peanut and tobacco marketing quota program, as well as other activities.
The following farmers were elected in the communities named as chairman, vice president and regular member respectively: 44th—John M. Strickland, J. O. Neville and H. G. Anderson. 45th—Leon B. Holloway, C. C. Anderson, and Johnnie Deke. 46th—R. W. Vickory, E. C. Hendrix and G. A. Penelope. 47th—Sect. A—James E. Davis, Gerald Brown and Francis G. Groover. 47th, Sect. B—Tyrrell Munkley, John C. Cromley and D. B. Hendrix. 53rd—Charlie R. Deal, Jesse Atkins, and R. M. Bragg. 53rd—J. I. Smith, A. C. Tankersley and Hudson Metts. 54th, Sect. A—A. J. Woods, A. L. Brown and Floyd Roberts. 54th, Sect. B—Luke Hendrix E. L. Womack and Gene Brinson. 1950s—Charles W. Hodges, O. E. Nesmith and G. A. Lanier.

Mike Gains 45 Pounds for 4-Hers
Protein kept before hogs when on corn and mineral truly pays off, the two feeding demonstrations carried on by the 4-H Club at the East Georgia Trading Post and Cliff Martin's Milling Company can be taken as a guide.
"Mike" the pig that is getting protein supplement at the Trading Post has gained 45 pounds since September 5 and "Ike" getting all the corn, mineral water he wants but no supplement, has gained one pound. "Mike" at Portal in Cliff Martin's store has gained 49 pounds since September 8 and "Ike" has gained 29 pounds.
In an effort to convince hog farmers the need of using protein supplement along with the feeds, Gerald D. Groover, manager of the Trading Post here, and Cliff Martin, manager of the milling company at Portal, put two pigs in pens in their feed stores and are feeding them exactly alike, except Mike is getting all the protein supplement desired along with the other feed.
The demonstration will run until November 1 at the Trading Post and November 8 at Cliff Martin's. The clustlers will then raffie off Mike at each place.

ALL'S FAIR

By JANE

FROM the President's mouth comes a story of Wild West in the South. The Jaycees in their fall round-up appeared in rugged Western style. Annie Oakley in blue denim with boots and saddle had ridden many a mile...

Under the light of Western stars pinned right on the ceiling, Rock Waters and his band sent 'em King and some rookie cowhands from T.C. Had 'em square dancing and round dance 'till 'till 'till...

Now, we trust this news is all on the level, for we got it from your Jaycee president, Big Chief Joe Neville.

Yes, the Fall Round-up was a complete success from the standpoint of good entertainment. The decorations in the club room were done by Carmen Morris and her co-workers. The music of the Community Center room was like the open prairie, with the ceiling studded with stars. On the walls were portraits of boots and saddles, and other western regalia. Baked beans, baked ham, rolls, pickles, and potato chips, individual cakes, green goggies, and big red punch were served from the check wagon by the foreman of the ranch, Bernard Morris.

ANOTHER PARTY went so-phi-isticated on us. The Girls Guild, which is a Freney way of putting on a masquerade party, Tully Pennington was a sensation as the "Man from Mars," stamping around in gold hip boots and a stove pipe hat—wearing red goggles and a big red mouth. His "Lady from Mars" was Lib Sorrier in a dramatic suit of black and silver. Liz and the "Man from Mars" were both escapes from a beauty parlor, with wild and bushy hair. Liz wore moccasins, a red tattered skirt, with an animal skin thrown slantwise around her shoulders. She carried a bone in her hand and horns rattled from her wrists.

Doc and Helen Arundel lit up the place as "Diamond Liz" and "Diamond Jim Brady." Doc wore a stove pipe hat—and a huge diamond on his necktie. Helen, gowned in black with long train, wore diamonds on her fingernails and toenails. Diamonds were in her hair and gleaming from her throat. Horace McDougald went as the Scotchman himself. In the plaid kilts he had bought while stationed in the British Isles.

Dot Brammen was a "study in red," wearing red dress, gloves and shoes.

The Bob Donaldsons and George Johnston went as a quartet, representing the "death of color." They were clad in black with chalky white faces and black eyebrows. They carried a casket in which Satan lay—thus proving that he had gone to the devil.

Bonnie and Will Woodcock were Collegiate. They were cheerleaders for Tech. Their costumes were gold and white and they carried megaphones.

Quite comical were Jake and Henrietta Hines. They went in old fashioned bathing suits. Henrietta used an old one of her mother's back in the days when they ran the Tybee Special.

Sara Ellis was a charming Dutch girl.

Well, I may be excused, I reckon, if I introduce a serious note. Folks, on Tuesday, November 4, we have an election coming up. One of the most important that has faced us in years. We are living in the most critical period of history and much depends on the man who will guide us. How can we be sure in choosing a man who declares his decisions will be his alone, then changes policies at each whistle stop. He has embraced the cause of the people, who declares his decisions will be his alone, then changes policies at each whistle stop. He has embraced the cause of the people, who declares his decisions will be his alone, then changes policies at each whistle stop.

This is no time to desert the Democratic party. Adlai Stevenson is his own man. He has courage. He has proved it by picking the hottest spot in the United States to declare he is in favor of giving the title of tideland oil to all the states, instead of enriching Texas alone. Submerged oil fields off the coast do not, legally belong to Texas. Any school boy or girl should know that a few miles away from the coast you're out of the United States as far as legal ownership is concerned. Stevenson speaks mark him as a man of high intellect, great courage—entirely capable of making world policies, of shaping up government facilities. It is far better now to stand for democracy as it is practiced in the democratic party, than to be impoverished by the Republicans, who have never considered the welfare of the Deep South.

As ever, JANE.

Deal Family Hold Annual Reunion

Members and friends of the Deal family held their third annual reunion at the Bethlehem Church on Sunday, October 42. Roscoe Deal, president, presided.

Wilber Cason opened the meeting the devotional. Dr. R. J. H. DeLoach made the principal address, "Keep Your Feet on the Ground in Any Transaction."

Officers elected are: Francis Allen, president, Emmitt Deal, secretary; Mrs. Stothard Deal, treasurer; and Mrs. Albert Deal, publicity.

The 1953 reunion will be held the second Sunday in October at Bethlehem.

Bulloch County
FARM NEWS

Farm Bureau
Bulloch FB To Send Group To Savannah

Bulloch County Farm Bureau will have a large delegation at the state convention if plans made at Ogechee, Nevils and Register last week are any indication as to number that will attend from the county.

At Ogechee on Tuesday night, C. W. Zetterstrom, the president there, counted some 12 who planned to attend the meeting in Savannah on October 27, 28 and 29. Then, at Nevils on Wednesday night, Hase Smith, their president, counted some 20 who were going. L. R. Anderson, Register president, had 15 who stated they planned to attend the convention. It will be held at the DeSoto Hotel this year.

Mr. Zetterstrom and J. A. Hunt urged the Ogechee group to make certain they attended commodity conferences on Tuesday morning, which, to them, was the real working part of the Georgia Farm Bureau.

Motion pictures were a part of the Ogechee and Nevils programs.

Tobacco growers using cyanimid to kill weed seed on their tobacco beds were asked to add 100 lbs. of 20 percent superphosphate also per 100 yards to help offset the possibility of any phosphate being locked and made unavailable to the plants by the cyanimid.

Nevils discussed the possible changes available in systems of

Edwin Hotchkiss At FFA Conclave

Edwin Hotchkiss of the Statesboro FFA Chapter is in Kansas City, Missouri, this week attending the 25th National Convention of Future Farmers of America.

Hotchkiss received an expense-paid trip to the Convention as district winner of an FFA painting contest.

The Georgia Delegation to the Convention includes some 50 FFA members and advisors from the entire state and left by train from Atlanta.

Outstanding speakers scheduled for the convention program include Oscar R. Ewing, Federal Security Administrator; Earl J. McGrath, also include it in the notice.

The Register group also voted to ask every landowner to make a special effort to procure the Farm Bureau membership of the present year.

Register will elect officers in November. The group asked President Anderson to install a "swap-buy-and-sell" period at each meeting, giving the members a chance to sell of things they might want to sell and inquire of things they might want to buy.

Charles Cates, principal of the Register school, stated that if such information was given him some three days prior to the time notices of the meetings were mailed out, he would
