STATESBORO YOUTH COUNCIL DESIGNATED AWARD MONEY BOWEN COMMUNITY SERVICE AWARD TO BE PRESENTED.

At a meeting of the Statesboro Youth Council this week the council selected five candidates for the J. B. Searce Community Service Award and voted to present a similar award to a young teenage woman in recognition of outstanding community service.

This award will be known as the "Honorable Bowen Community Service Award." Five young women and five young men were selected as candidates for the award. From this group of ten candidates the Recreation Department will select three and a special ad hoc committee will select the final candidate from the group.

In other business the Youth Council voted to extend to the Statesboro Lions their endorsement of the Lions Safety Driving Campaign.

Plans were formulated for a large summer formal honoring the college students before they leave for college in the fall. Those invited will be all junior and senior high school students and all college students who are home on vacation. Final plans will be announced later in this newspaper.

Candidates selected for the two awards are: Glenn Jennings, Perry Kenney, Jerry Fitcher, Gilbert Come and Guy Freeman. Jane Beaver, Shirley Pruner, Nancy Stubbs, Sybil Griner, and Lucille Phillips.

Support prices for peanuts set for 1953 crop

The U. S. Department of Agriculture in Washington has announced that it will support grower prices of 1953 crop peanuts to reflect a national average of not less than $237.60 a ton. The figure is 30 per cent of the parity price of peanuts on April 24, when the minimum national support average was announced.

If 90 per cent of parity is higher than $277.40 at the start of the marketing year Aug. 1, the support average and the individual support levels for the various types would be increased accordingly. Minimum supports by type included:

Virginia—$229 a ton for peanuts containing 65 per cent sound mature kernels.
Runners—$213 a ton for peanuts containing 65 per cent sound, mature kernels.
Spanish—$234 a ton for peanuts grown east of the Mississippi river containing 70 per cent sound, mature kernels, and 30 per cent peanuts west of the Mississippi containing 70 per cent sound, mature kernels.

Valencia—The support rate for these of this type suitable for cleaning and roasting will be the same as for Virginia type. The price for other Valencia type peanuts will be the same as for Spanish-type peanuts in the same area.

With a deep feeling of thankfulness

THERE WAS NOT the great tumultuous demonstration which followed at the announcement of the cessation of fighting in Europe.

There was not the great joyful outbursts which followed the cease firing in the Pacific.

Even so there was a deep, heart-felt thankfulness in the being of every peace loving person in the Western world, with the announcement that a truce had been signed in Korea.

President Eisenhower made a brief but powerful Statement on Sunday night shortly after the signing of the agreements.

"Tonight," he began, "we greet with thanksgiving the signing of an armistice.

"The cost of repelling aggression has been high... incalculable... it has been paid in terms of tragedy."

The President expressed "solemn gratitude for those who have given up their lives in a foreign land."

He said that the Korean war had proved that "only courage and sacrifice can keep freedom alive upon this earth."

"It is proper that we salute particularly the valor of the armies of South Korea," the President said.

Continuing Mr. Eisenhower said, "each of us devoutly prays that now peoples will no longer resort to futile battle to settle their differences."

"Throughout the coming months we and our United Nations allies must be vigilant against the possibilities of untoward developments."

He added: "We shall feverently strive so that free peoples will be brought one step closer to their goal of peace."

Almost ninety years ago, Eisenhower recalled, President Lincoln delivered his second inaugural address. He quoted from that address as applicable to the present day:

"With Malice toward none, with charity for all, and firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right..."

"This is our resolve and our dedication."

In five short minutes our President gave his people a picture of the United Nations having met the challenge of aggression "with deeds of decision," and a warning that "We must not relax our guard."

And now begins the long, tedious task of writing the peace. Remembering that the truce negotiations began on July 10, 1951 it is entirely possible that peace is still a long way off.

So in the meantime we must continue vigilant. The struggle for just and lasting peace has just begun.

For Heroism In Action

BRIG. GEN. P. D. GINDER, commander of the Thunderbolt Division, decorated him with a Bronz Star for "heroism in action against "armed enemy" in Korea.

"Corporal JOHN H. EASON, RA 14-470-950, Armor, United States Army, is cited for heroism in action against an armed enemy in the vicinity of To'pikang, Korea.

On 26 June, 1953 Corporal EASON was the driver of a tank in an exposed forward position. When the enemy in a fanatical attack overran the position, Corporal EASON calmly stayed at his post until orders to move the tank back to friendly lines. At this time the enemy fired a rocket launcher at the tank and blew a track off. It was then decided to back the tank down the precipitous mountainside behind them. With inspired driving skill Corporal EASON backed the tank off the position and, while moving rapidly backward, managed to get the tank into first gear. This plus the judicious use of one steering lever still useable he managed to keep the tank under control during the plunge down the mountainside. This action saved the lives of the crewmen. The heroism exhibited by Corporal EASON, both during the fire fight on the position and during the plunge down the hill reflects great credit on himself and the military service."

Modern lone ranger

A MYSTERY DRIVER in a mystery automobile will tour the United States during the next few weeks with a frame of mind that most drivers would find a little short of heavenly.

He'll drive along hardly giving a hoot whether or not he's being tailed by a policeman—in fact, half hoping he'll be arrested.

He's an unidentified driver in an undisclosed car touring America trying to find out how badly American drivers are being victimized by "speed traps."

His trip is sponsored by the American Automobile Association and Cars magazine after numerous complaints from drivers over the nation that they are being "taken" by traps designed simply to collect fines.

Naturally, we hope his way will be full of "traps" and his arrests many if it will help to expose some of the speed-trap rackets on our highways. Tourists have been victims of this sort of thing much too long.

Biggest mystery of all, though, concerning the mystery driver is who's going to get him out from under the jails, as the saying goes, each time he tangles with an officer that's more interested in law enforcement than collecting fines?

Up she goes

THIS WEEK we toss up our hat for one of Statesboro's young professional men who has received state-wide recognition as a leader.

Sidney Dodd, Statesboro attorney, has been named commander of the American Legion for Georgia. He was elected without opposition.

His rise in the ranks of the American Legion has been steady since 1946 when he became commander of the Dexter Allen Post, No. 90, here in Bulloch county. He then was named commander of the first congressional district for 1947-48. For two years he was on the department executive committee and a member of national committees each year. He was vice chairman of the Veteran's Preference Committee for the national organization, and is a present member of the National Insurance Advisory Board to the national commander of the American Legion.

Last year he was named Georgia senior vice commander, and then recently, at the state convention in Savannah, he was named to the highest state rank in the Legion.

We congratulate Mr. Dodd.

We commend Mayor Dutton

WE COMMEND Mayor Edward A. Dutton of Savannah Beach upon the fine manner in which he resolved the differences that were building up between the citizens of Statesboro and the resort beach at Tybee.

In a letter to Mayor Bowen last week Mayor Dutton expressed his regrets that the "Tybee incident" occurred which involved some of Statesboro's teen-age crowd.

He wrote Mayor Bowen that disciplinary action had been taken and assured our mayor and the citizens of Statesboro that "there will never be a similar occurrence."

All of which proves that when people get together and discuss their differences, solutions can be found.

We're proud of Corporal John H. Eason. Bulloch county should be proud of him.

Disabled Veterans Deserve Jobs

By VIRGINIA RUSSELL

Bulloch counties have many rare virtues. One virtue stands prominently. They were brought up on "It's more blessed to give than to receive," and Bulloch's are surely are blessed! To the fact, we can attest and admit that it is right blessed to receive what they give.

Our garden had great promise until the dry weather ruined everything. The amazing thing is that our friends grew things in spite of the weather and shared them with their friends.

We have received peas, corn, tomatoes, okra, squash, grapefruit, and watermelon. We enjoyed this variety of living things but we even rejoiced over the gifts of steak and chicken.

Such gifts sound too good to be true but goodness seems to exist in large quantities in this area.

To some people there might be a feeling of obligation upon accepting so many wonderful things. This is not so with us. The only feelings we have are humbleness and gratitude. But we don't feel in any way, that we should pay back these gifts. Of course, if we ever have something pretty good growing we love to share it with our neighbors and friends.

The reason we feel this way is that on some few occasions we've done a little deed of kindness (freedom) and felt so warm and cozy and glowy inside because of having done something kind. We've imagined our crown up in heaven and we could just see one of the Helpers up there putting a little star in it. In fact, we've tried it on and decided it needs many more stars. But before we adjusted the thing on our head, we very well so the star could slip off and we decided to see the Helper fly over to our crown and with some little tweezers he'd place our star and put it back on the crown. How do we feel about it?

So we feel very kindly about our friends' crowns. Now we can't believe there are any stars and believe there are an awful lot of new stars shining and sparkling around. And of course, we're glad that our crowns are being put on with the new stars, and not to cause the Helper to err a single one. We'll just sit here at home and think about our kind friends.

Editor's Uneasy Chair

We've already admitted that we're no fisherman and that we want no part of the business of going fishin'.

But that doesn't mean that we close our column to those who do want a part of the business of going fishin'.

Let's prove it we are going to use here this week a piece we found in Milton Beckerman's "Claxton Enterprise." It's about a fish bait.

We know that every fisherman who is a fisherman worth his hook, line and sinker, will laugh at us and snicker and say to himself—or even to herself—"why the pore pore, we've known about that all our life."

Ok, so you know. Maybe we'll make some converts for you.

Here 'tis. The story is about a man who is an expert on fish bait, and how to catch fish bait, there's nothing in the fish to indicate that the man is an expert fisherman—just a fish bait expert.

He catches roaches. He uses cigar boxes with funnels of tin inserted in holes in the bottom of the boxes. One of the rigs is set a little off the floor in the store of a grocer friend. Roaches, he has learned, run in the gismo but have never learned the trick of entering the narrow end of the funnel to come out. For catching bran, Mr. Dowdy says, nothing is better than a roach.

There you are. Take it or leave it and any cracks about our ignorance about such matters will be ignored.

CONVERSATION INFORMATION—There are 935,400 families in Georgia. They own 798,300 automobiles and trucks, 569,300 refrigerators, $11,900,350, 350,000 television sets and 329,000 vacuum cleaners... all this on an annual buying income of $4,000.

At the time the thing was written the condition existed. And we guess it will exist until the law is put into effect which we voted recently—to fence our livestock, making it illegal to allow livestock to roam our public highways—after 1955.

Now that we have remedied the condition we can read with some degree of calm what others have had to say about us. The piece which roused our kinfolk was written by Roy Thompson in his column called "The Feedback" which appeared a trip he made to Florida passing through Georgia.

Here it is. "St. Petersburg Fla.—If there is any room for animals in Heaven,

Our Health Department

The following is a release from the State Health Department, which was written by one of our own Bulloch county citizens, Dr. J. E. McCroan, Jr. We heartily endorse and agree with his statements and recommendations as Bulloch county is one of those counties which has a real hookworm problem. The greatest problem the health department is having today is that of getting the cooperation of parents to submit their children and their children and themselves, and then to take the treatment if the laboratory reports positive findings.

Services and help people to take advantage of them, but still a great many of our farm families continue to ignore the condition.

"Approximately 44,000 Georgia children are now infected with hookworm. What are we going to do about this problem?"

This question was presented at the quarterly conference of regional public health personnel July 22 in Atlanta.

In a recent survey in Georgia only 35 per cent of the persons questioned knew where hookworms came from.

Hookworms enter the body through the skin, usually the feet. The hookworms grow inside the body and lay thousands of eggs that are passed out of the body with bowel movements. Lying on the ground, the hookworm eggs soon hatch out and more hookworm larvae are born, ready to bore through the feet of the first barefoot person that comes along.

"Therefore," says Dr. J. E. McCroan, Jr., assistant director of the Epidemiology Division, "I believe that the most logical solution to the hookworm problem is the building of more sanitary privies."

Practically all hookworm infections are found in the 49 counties of Georgia, including the Coastal Plains region. In these 49 counties, 12,094 homes have no toilets whatsoever, and 85,802 homes have open cesspools, which afford little or no protection against hookworms.

Dr. McCroan says that the economic factor is one of the biggest obstacles, since sanitary privies cost 50 to 75 dollars to build. Tenant farmers are reluctant to construct the toilets because they may move to another farm and could not take the toilet with them.

"It appears that the landowners will have to share much of this responsibility," he stated.

George M. Stenhouse, director of the State Health Department's Division of Health Education says, "We must use every educational technique available to us in order to motivate the citizens living in the hookworm area to understand the problem and to do something about it."

The question was raised as to the fly problem created by the average private sack of potatoes. "It can be accomplished by maximum use of machinery in farming, coupled with proven land conservation techniques. It has been

Bulloch county

people have

BY VIRGINIA RUSSELL

Bulloch counties have many rare virtues. One virtue stands prominently. They were brought up on "It's more blessed to give than to receive," and Bulloch's are surely are blessed! To the fact, we can attest and admit that it is right blessed to receive what they give.

Our garden had great promise until the dry weather ruined everything. The amazing thing is that our friends grew things in spite of the weather and shared them with their friends.

We have received peas, corn, tomatoes, okra, squash, grapefruit, and watermelon. We enjoyed this variety of living things but we even rejoiced over the gifts of steak and chicken.

Such gifts sound too good to be true but goodness seems to exist in large quantities in this area.

To some people there might be a feeling of obligation upon accepting so many wonderful things. This is not so with us. The only feelings we have are humbleness and gratitude. But we don't feel in any way, that we should pay back these gifts. Of course, if we ever have something pretty good growing we love to share it with our neighbors and friends.

The reason we feel this way is that on some few occasions we've done a little deed of kindness (freedom) and felt so warm and cozy and glowy inside because of having done something kind. We've imagined our crown up in heaven and we could just see one of the Helpers up there putting a little star in it. In fact, we've tried it on and decided it needs many more stars. But before we adjusted the thing on our head, we very well so the star could slip off and we decided to see the Helper fly over to our crown and with some little tweezers he'd place our star and put it back on the crown. How do we feel about it?

So we feel very kindly about our friends' crowns. Now we can't believe there are any stars and believe there are an awful lot of new stars shining and sparkling around. And of course, we're glad that our crowns are being put on with the new stars, and not to cause the Helper to err a single one. We'll just sit here at home and think about our kind friends.

MISS REMINGTON WEDS

MR. SWICORD IN BEAUTIFUL CEREMONY

The First Baptist Church was the lovely setting of the wedding ceremony Wednesday afternoon, July 22, uniting in marriage Miss Ann Remington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hinton Remington, and Mr. Carl Luther Swicord, Jr., son of Mrs. E. L. Swicord and the late Rev. George Lovell Jr.

The nuptial vows before a large assemblage of relatives and friends, using the impressive double-ring ceremony.

The lovely altar decorations were in keeping with the classic and the modern. Two stately evergreen trees interspersed with a matching lace-edged stole featured circular bands of lace combined with finely pleated net. The full skirts were made of multiple folds of filmy net over tulle with circular lace bands set in the skirts. They carried recent shapely bouquets of white gardenias interspersed with miniature ivy.

Harry Swicord of Savannah, brother of the groom, was the best man. The groomsmen were Jack Devin, uncle of the groom, of College Park, Md., Gene L. Hodges, Creighton Perry, Dr. Wayne Culbreth, Vaughn Dyer and Royce McKee, of Colquitt.

The blonde bride, petite and lovely, entered with her father by whom she was given in marriage. Her wedding gown of Chantilly lace, bridal satin, and nylon tulle was exquisitely designed in the traditional manner with fitted lace bodice applied on the yoke of illusion edged with seed pearls at the neckline, and fastened down the back with small lace covered buttons. The long crystal sleeves ended in points over the hands. The full skirt of diaphanous tulle extended into a graceful chapel train. Her hair was styled in waves and her face was attached to a Juliet cap of matching lace. Her only ornament was a bracelet one of pearls.

The reception rooms and dining room were beautifully decorated with white gladioli and asters. The bride's table with imported lace and linen cutwork cover was exceptionally lovely with the three-tiered wedding cake, embossed with white roses and topped with a miniature bouquet of gardenias, maline and net based on satin and net ruffing encircled with gardenias.

Opposite the cake was a crystal epergne holding white carnations and gladioli florals with burning candles.

Assisting in entertaining and serving were Mrs. Barney Averitt, Mrs. Wallis Cobb, Mrs. Thad Morris, Mrs. C. B. M. Allister, Mrs. Loy Waters, Mrs. Linton Lanier, and Mrs. E. N. Brown. The bride's register at punch bowls on the lawn were Mrs. Bill Olliff, Mrs. Sue Simmons, Mrs. Bucky Atkins, Mary Jeanette Agan, Patsy Odum, Betty Anne Sherman, Jackie Zetterower, Marilyn Nevils, Doreen Thompson, Shirley Olliff.

Miss Mary Jon Johnston entertained her house guests, Miss Jackie Murray and Miss Jane Strauss, of Augusta, with a bridge party at her home Saturday afternoon.

The Johnston home was beautifully decorated with lavender and purple asters.

Miss Johnston served lime sherbet punch, individual embossed cakes, chicken salad sandwiches, pimiento cheese sandwiches, and minis.

The guests, Jackie and Jane, each received a home. Mrs. Lane Johnston, of Athens, was given a linen roll cover. Prizes at bridge were won by Betty Johnston, who received a jewelry case for high; vari colored summer beads went to Mary Henderson for cut; Jane Edens for cut; and Mrs. Ray for cut. Others invited were Jackie Mitchell, Jane Beaver, Sybil Griner, Carolyn Blackwell, Margaret Ann Dekle, Jean Martin, Jo Attard.

ALL'S FAIR BY JANE SOCIALS PERSONALS

Who says we haven't had weddings all summer long? Why were we heard wedding marches and voices lifted in a song... Who says we don't go places on long vacations? Why were we heard about our well-to-do relations... But as for Jane, she simply TALKS and writes... A trying to keep up with ocean liners and air plane flights... You know our boys and girls who go to summer camps... Make all sorts of stuff from bill folds to pretty lams... There are soft ball games at night at the Recreation Center... But the nights have been so cool the players shiver like in winter... Then we have our summer visitors, the tobacco men and their wives... They add a lot of zest and fun to our placid lives... Now we have to admit that the thing that worries us... Is the high Cost of Living and the battle and the fuss... That rattles past our bed room on highway 301... Even that is forgotten... When we heard the PILOTS Won—Did They?

Statesboro people seem to be out to conquer. With the Ray Howards, the manager at Bell's and a wife of his, they did all but plant a flag in the town of Mitchell in North Carolina. I could keep up with them when they mentioned Asheville, but when they spent the night at the Blue Ridge Inn, I'll admit I was puz- zled. I got bent trying to figure that one out. When is a creek a branch? and what makes a

So when Marilyn goes down the aisle in August, she will follow little Mary Anderson who will be scattering rose petals before her favorite bride this summer. Mary is the lovely little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Brannen on Fair Ground Road.

PEARL BRADY finds that a nursery isn't the best idea after all. When Henry and Lila Brim wrote Pearl that they were coming to spend a few days with her, she was all excited. She planned and fitted a nursery for Lila's baby, Patricia Ann. It was wonderful while they were here but now that they have returned to their home in Sasser, Ga., Pearl is a bit sad when she looks at the empty baby bed.

As ever, JANE.

Mrs. Alvaretta Register will arrive Saturday by plane, from Norfolk, Va. Her mother, Mrs. J. S. Kenan, and Mrs. Virginia Kern and son, Kenan, will join her for a lovely vacation trip to Sarasota and Key West, Fla. Mrs. Register is Executive chairman of the Social Service Bureau in Norfolk.

SAFETY FIRST

What causes an accident? Much as you might hate to admit it, there's only one answer to that question. Drivers cause accidents—not highways, cars or weather. So, it stands to reason that only YOU as a driver can prevent an accident. Use more common sense and less horse-power behind the wheel, and help prevent acci- dents.

The Bulloch Herald, Statesboro, Ga. THURSDAY, JULY 30, 1953

SAFETY FIRST

What causes an accident? Much as you might hate to admit it, there's only one answer to that question. Drivers cause accidents—not highways, cars or weather. So, it stands to reason that only YOU as a driver can prevent an accident. Use more common sense and less horse-power behind the wheel, and help prevent acci- dents.

With bulb harvesting time about here, Roy Isowden of the Agricultural Extension Service recommends harvesting bulbs carefully to prevent injury to the mother bulb, stem bulbs and scales.

that the crewmen, who split up after leaving the tank, all had to hide from scores of communists whom they encountered during the night. "I got it!" (I'd)

Eason, the driver, met a Red who attempted to bayonet him. "I was running along," he said, "when this Chinik jumped out and yelled 'GI! GI!' Then he tried to bayonet me. My flak vest saved my life." Eason reported that his attacker made several lunges at his chest before he could pull out his .45 and shoot him.

Several of the crewmen said they became so thirsty and tired during their all-night trek that they licked the dew off leaves for water.

Wise and Sharkey were the first to reach the friendly tank in the morning. Wise said they thought the other crewmen had been killed, "and I just began to cry."

Later in the morning, Eason came in alone, followed soon after by the rest of the crew.
