Our tobacco markets depend on our vigilance

Some people are already setting out tobacco plants. Others will get it in the next week or so.

They are sowing the tiny seed with hopeful hearts and worried minds.

What of the prospects that the plants will survive? What of the prospects of a favorable growing season? What of the prospects of a good market?

These are only a few of the question marks which fill the being to whom tobacco plays such a prominent part.

Back in 1928 the people of Statesboro and Bulloch county first knew what it was for tobacco to be sold here.

Since then the Statesboro market has grown steadily and strongly.

Part of the credit for the growth and reputation of our tobacco market is based on the integrity of the warehousemen who as business men, are entrusted with handling the crop under the State and Federal laws.

A warehouseman is not merely a business man as in other business where anyone can operate. Inevitably he is a part of a system upon which farmers depend.

An editorial appearing in the March 27th Raleigh, N. C. News and Observer takes a stand which should be of interest to every tobacco grower in this section.

"Speaking to the court after D. Woodrow Worthington, who owns two warehouses in Eastern North Carolina, had pleaded guilty, the District Attorney said, the Associated Press reported, that the charges presented a serious threat to the industry, especially in Kentucky, a heavy tobacco producer." They represent in even greater measure a threat to the greater tobacco industry in Eastern North Carolina. The fact that Worthington was tried in Kentucky does not mean that he is fit to run warehouses in North Carolina. Obviously he is not. He admitted guilt on six charges of altering figures on tobacco inspection slips to make the poundage seem more than it was, 19 counts of 'nesting' or concealing tobacco of an inferior grade in baskets topped with higher quality leaf, and six counts of forging the name of an inspector for the U. S. Department of Agriculture on inspection slips. Such a man well deserved the $25,000 fine and suspended prison sentence which the Federal Judge gave him. Clearly, however, not even the payment of that fine will begin to pay for the damage he has done to an industry upon which thousands of North Carolinians—as well as Kentuckians—depend."

The News and Observer editorial continues: "This is a case which should not be left merely to the courts. It requires action also—and prompt action—by the Tobacco Boards of Trade in the towns in which Worthington has operated and by the Bright Belt Warehouse Association. If the warehouse marketing system in this and other tobacco states is to survive, the warehousemen and the system must have the confidence of the farmers, the buyers and the government in their integrity. Those organizations which represent and regulate the warehouse system should act promptly to prevent the continuance in this industry of a man who has repeatedly violated the laws upon which all honest men must depend. Swift and stern action should be taken in this matter."

The tobacco market here in Statesboro—in all Georgia should be concerned about this case.

We must see that our warehouses be operated by men in whom we can place our trust.

The future of our tobacco market depends upon our vigilance.

And they spread music all 'round, all 'round

They had a wonderful time. And they spread the glad news. That Statesboro is the city where "Nature Smiles and Progress has the Right-of-Way."

Sponsored by the Statesboro and Bulloch County 301 Association, the Statesboro High School Blue Devil Band made a four-day tour of Florida, playing in four concerts in three of the state's leading cities.

They left here last Friday morning flying four big banners proclaiming the fact that they came from Statesboro. Friday night the band was the feature of "Statesboro Day" so proclaimed by Mayor McCormick of Jacksonville Beach. Saturday and Sunday nights they appeared in concert at Daytona Beach, and Monday morning they played on the "Green" at Silver Springs.

It was a good will tour. Members of the band carried hundreds of the new descriptive folders on Statesboro and Bulloch county printed up by the Chamber of Commerce. They distributed strip maps featuring U. S. Highway 301.

And they spread music all 'round, all 'round. They broadcast their youthful enthusiasm for their hometown—Statesboro.

And we're sure that Florida found them delightful and showed them the wonderful courtesy which characterizes the state south of us.

And anyone planning a trip who saw them must surely, by now, realize that Statesboro is a must on their itinerary, using U. S. 301, to and from Florida.

Buy Easter Seals for crippled children

More than 100,000 handicapped children live in our wonderful state. We don't have to be sold on the idea of giving help to these handicapped children.

Coming up is Easter. And the one agency in Georgia which does so much to help these children depends upon this season as an incentive for Georgians to help them help these unable to help themselves.

The Georgia Society for Crippled Children for years has been

You can't blame schools for Jr's delinquency

By VIRGINIA RUSSELL

Our Savannah neighbors have had a panel discussion on Juvenile Delinquency and according to the newspapers the school set-up is to blame for much of the delinquency. He suggested if the newspapers are right that the schools go back to the 3 R's and do away with music appreciation and art.

This suggestion, in my way of thinking, is about as idiotic a suggestion as could have been made. In the first place the schools are teaching the 3 R's plus citizenship, plus art appreciation and music appreciation.

The gentleman did not suggest that we close up all liquor stores, shut up radio stations, television stations, movie houses, and any or all concerns that are in any way harmful to children's moral growth, such a suggestion, ridiculous as it would have been, would in my way of thinking, have been more sensible.

The schools are hardly responsible for the juvenile delinquency problem. It is true that a few young people might be rescued from a certain line of crime if there was more money to invest in the curriculum. These young people who need help, ironical as it is, are the ones who need to be removed from the school of the 3 R's. They can't read and will never read. They can't learn higher arithmetic and will never learn it. By law, they are forced to remain in school until they are sixteen years old. They usually spend their last two years or so in the 6th grade where they are misfits socially. Their classmates are usually under 12 years of age.

In this school room they are bored with reading and feel very insecure because they can't read but they must bear the humiliation of having children younger than they read far better than they.

These same young people, therefore do everything possible to attract attention away from the books to them. They make a teacher's life hectic. They use terrible language front of younger children. They often tell some degrading stories to the younger children. Much spiritual suffering is inflicted on these younger boys and girls by these older, worldlier boys and girls.

If the state enforces its law of compulsory school attendance until 16 years of age, it ought also provide funds to care for all kinds. Of such young people could be sent to a class room where they might learn shop, and other skills.

Finally in sheer exhaustion you drop into a restless sleep—sleep that is again disturbed by the early morning hours.

And you know there's no rest for the weary. If your neighbor spent as restless a night as you did, it's hard to see how he and his family could sleep through that poor dog's misery. You wonder that your neighbor didn't get up and go out in the yard and try to console him and his own family with some of the things that matter of sorts of things. What manner of dog is it that continues keeping dogs which are a nuisance to his neighbors and certainly to him and his own family. He's a good neighbor generally otherwise.

People coming to the prison are from all walks of life. The rehabilitation program carried on there is designed to take care of the various groups. He pointed out that cabinet shop for skilled carpenters whereas the average carpenter is used in maintenance work around the farm.

Industrial arts and home economics are given lots of attention under the best of supervision. Mr. Higgins stated, He employed numerous leather articles made by the prisoners that were comparable to any found any place.

Many of the women become experts in the sewing room where electric machines for sewing and cutting garments are used.

J. H. Matta, president of the Bulloch County Rural Telephone Club, advised the group that the actual staking of lines had started and that three crews would be in action during next week. He predicted that activity in the rural telephone program would pick up considerably during the next few days.

HERE'S WHAT THE ALMANAC SAYS THE WEATHER WILL BE:

Today, April 8 — Unsettled
Friday, April 9 — Unsettled
Saturday, April 10 — Unsettled
Sunday, April 11 — Fair
Monday, April 12 — Sunny
Tuesday, April 13 — Pleasant
Wednesday, April 14 — Pleasant

DON'T BLAME US IF THE ALMANAC IS WRONG.

THE TROUBLE IS THAT dog lovers ain't always as nice as their dogs. Jim lets his dog both the neighbors at night, but he doesn't bark and howl at night while your neighbors are trying to sleep and rest? If he does, do something about it. You would not want your neighbor to go to the police about the nuisance your dog creates.

You one to try your neighbor to do something about your howling dog.

It's just a simple matter of courtesy—being neighborly and not being too selfish.

And who knows, maybe the quietness which will result will cure you of the case of nerves with which you've been bothered lately.

Our SOIL

Our soil and its conservation may seem to have been abandoned by its absence from the picture of late, but nothing could be further from the true facts. It is at this time of year that so much is actually being done that there is no time available for telling about it.

It was a baby when my grandfather, Jason Franklin, died. And I remember only one of his brothers, my Great-Grandfather, who was a free and old when I saw him once at Upper Lotts Creek church. What kind of people are your neighbors' children? This story, I think, will give some indication. One day in Statesboro I was talking with Fred Kennedy, the son of Mike Kennedy who lived just across the branch here. Fred Kennedy told George's state prison is not a chain gang but an institution. He stated and the warden of the prison, told the Middle-ground Farm Bureau Thursday night.

People coming to the prison are from all walks of life. The rehabilitation program carried on there is designed to take care of the various groups. He pointed out that cabinet shop for skilled carpenters whereas the average carpenter is used in maintenance work around the farm.

ALL'S FAIR

THE FRANKLIN HERITAGE

Every person has a heritage from the past which reaches back through the dim and distant ages. We are—each of us—the end product of many heres and cultures. The blood of ancient heroes—yes, and ancient villains—runs in our veins. No person escapes this heritage from the past. It is ours at birth and nothing can ever change that fact. A son may long ever so feverently to change the facts of his father's or his grandfather's life, but he will find it impossible to do so.

"The moving finger writes," says Omar Khayyam, "and having writ, moves on: nor all your piety nor wit shall lure it back to cancel half a line; nor all your tears wash out a word of it."

This being true, I think we can safely say that the richest inheritance we Franks will ever have was ours at birth. I speak of course, of the Franklin name, which came to us with that splendor which shines out from lives nobly lived, on lives highest levelled.

As you are well aware, our branch of the Franklin family can trace its past only as far back as my great-grandfather, Purnell Purnell, and his wife, Susan Alderman. Beyond him, there is a great abyss. Uncle George and Aunt Lucy have not been allowed to over-bridge this gap. Like Stanley and Livingston they have explored the heart of Georgia, South Carolina, and North Carolina; they have peered at gravestones until their eyes went weary; they have waded waist-deep in muddy southern swamps, and they have not hesitated to bridge something else about Purnell's children, and no doubt that more important than anything else, they have not hesitated to do so, without exception, development of the lives not only those who were educated, of their children and their children, but of all the children of the family.

It is to the glory of God, "What the chief end of man?" is the catholicism. And the chief end of man is the glory of God. Trust in them, in the beauty of the lives, fulfill the highest of mankind can know. That is priceless heritage.

It seems to me that we must have resolve to make our lives worthy of them and of the sacrifices. All the best of our past can, and should be, served in us. The Franklin name was bright with honor when we received it. And it is sacred trust and duty to pass it on unblemished, a shining light to guide the steps of those who follow us.

There is no higher loyalty than loyalty to the dead. They are not here to chide us or to praise us. We are on our honor to speak, but you can be sure that all these friends spirit watch our faltering words with highest expectations. This is a challenge to me. I place before you: That we be faithful to all that is good and true, for the glory of God, for the service of our country, for honor and good name of all for our beloved family. May we be able to say someday with pride—

REMEMBER A FRANKLIN MOREHOUSE.

My father and my mother forsake me, then the LORD will take me up. Teach me thy way, O LORD, and lead me in a plain path, because of mine enemies.

Deliver me not over unto the will of mine enemies; for false witnesses are risen up against me, and such as breath out cruelty.

I had faint, unless I had believed to see the goodness of the LORD in the land of the living. Wait on the LORD, be of good courage, and he shall strengthen thine heart; wait, I say, on the LORD.

PURNELL FRANKLIN FAMILY REUNION HELD SUNDAY

Early Sunday morning April 5, 1954, the rafters and weather boarding of the old Jason and Alderman Rountree Franklin home at the junction of the Burkhalter Road and the King's Highway, must have quivered with an awareness of the importance of the day. Birds that built nests in the evergreen trees must have twittered with excitement in the days before as Mrs. Herchel (Pearl) Franklin, Dr. George Franklin and his wife, Lucy Dean, raked the leaves from the yard and the area under the widespread oaks where the tables were

SPRING FLOWERS USED IN LIVING ROOM

Attractive arrangements of spring flowers were used in the living room.

Pound cake was served with coffee, and fudge was placed on the card tables during the games.

Mrs. Ivey Spivey received two bath towels for top score. For low, a green water jar, went to Mrs. Jerry Howard. Mrs. Beaman Williams won floating force, which was an ash tray. For cut, Mrs. Thurman Lanier received a fruit juice pitcher. (It is singular that three out of four prizes were won by visitors.)

Others present were Mrs. E. W. Barnes, Mrs. Joe Neville, Mrs. Jack Norris, Mrs. Edward Scott, Mrs. J. B. Williams and Mrs. John Cobb.

THE SPADE AND TROWEL CLUB WITH MRS. JONES

On Tuesday afternoon the Spade and Trowel Garden Club met at the home of Mrs. H. P. Jones Jr., with Mrs. Jack Wynne as co-hostess.

Mrs. Sidney Dodd and Mrs. John Daniel Deal were in charge of the program. The topic discussed was concerned with the planting and care of annuals.

Everyone brought lovely arrangements. The flowers used were iris, roses, pansies, azalea and verbena.

At the conclusion of the program and business session, they were served fudge cake and coffee.

PURNELL FRANKLIN FAMILY REUNION HELD SUNDAY

Early Sunday morning April 5, 1954, the rafters and weather boarding of the old Jason and Alderman Rountree Franklin home at the junction of the Burkhalter Road and the King's Highway, must have quivered with an awareness of the importance of the day. Birds that built nests in the evergreen trees must have twittered with excitement in the days before as Mrs. Herchel (Pearl) Franklin, Dr. George Franklin and his wife, Lucy Dean, raked the leaves from the yard and the area under the widespread oaks where the tables were

MR. BROUCEK HOSTESS AT BRIDGE

On Monday night, Mrs. Jack Broucek entertained at a bridge party at her home in Collegeboro.

Spring flowers were used in the decorations.

Miss Lizzie Norman with top score received a hob nail crystal mayonnaise dish. Mrs. Donald Hackett received a crystal plate for low. For cut Mrs. Donald McDougald received crystal salt and pepper shakers. A lovely linen handkerchief was presented to Miss Ruth Steiger, of Pennsylvania, guest of Mrs. Dan Hooley.

Tomato aspic in a chicken salad ring, potato chips, hot rolls and coffee were served.

Other guests were Mrs. J. I. Clements, Mrs. Tom Alexander, Mrs. Dan Hooley and her sister, Miss Ruth Steiger, Mrs. Mary Owen Bruce, Mrs. J. B. Seavey, Mrs. Leona Newton, Mrs. Dana King and Mrs. Tom Little.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Groover of Statesboro announce the birth of a son, Bruce Warren, April 3, at the Bulloch County Hospital. Mrs. Groover was before her marriage Miss Alne Hayslip of Statesboro.

Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Proctor of Swains announce the birth of a son, Eldwyn Allen, April 4, at the Bulloch County Hospital. Mrs. Proctor is the former Mrs. Ouida Strickland of Pembroke.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Leonard of Claxton announce the birth of a daughter, Linda Paulette, April 4, at the Bulloch County Hospital. Mrs. Leonard is the former Miss Pauline Priester.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Morris and their little daughter, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Thad Morris. Bob was very popular here. He is at present a psychiatrist at the State Hospital in Milledgeville. He is working on his thesis which is the only work he has to conclude before he receives a Ph.D. degree.

Those traveling from a distance to be present were Rebecca Franklin, for her husband and her husband, Ward Morehouse of New York; Dr. and Mrs. George Franklin, Mass.; Charles Franklin, son of Judge Oscar Franklin, came from Livingston, Texas.

The largest group was the Jason family with 67 members present. Hiram and Jasper had only one family each. Others well represented were the Alderman Franklin descendants, Remer Franklin and the Mitchell clan. In all there were approximately 150 present.

Lewell Akins has returned from his trip abroad, arriving in Statesboro Friday. He brought interesting reports on home town boys that he, according to plan, visited in various places. He visited Wendell Crouse in Rome and reported that Wendell is a fine fellow and doing a good job. At Stuttgart, Germany, he enjoyed a visit with Capt. and Mrs. Robert Morris and their children, Karen and little Frank. And it was wonderful seeing Mike McDougald, in Weisbaden, Germany. He's having a good time—and in London, Lewell, Jack and Addie Avertit had lots of catching up to do on events overseas, and the things happening back in Statesboro.

Delegates to the State Garden Convention held in Macon this week are Mrs. J. P. Foy and Mrs. Waldo Floyd. They left Statesboro Wednesday for a brief visit to Atlanta. They will be at the Dempsey Hotel Thursday night and will remain until the tours of homes and gardens are over and have tea at one of the very lovely homes.

Mr. and Mrs. George Shearouse went to Albany Sunday to hear Mrs. Shearouse's daughter, Miss Lucille Purser, as she performs with Tony Pastor's Orchestra at the Albany Service Men's Club. From Albany the orchestra will go to Virginia, and will be in Washington, D. C., for an engagement and from there to New Jersey. Lucille has up to this time played in 13 states.

now is the time to HURRY HOGS TO MARKET ... on the Purina Program

The chart shows average hog prices at Chicago by months for the last 10 years. The peak of the hog market is coming earlier—it used to be September, then August. Last year's peak came in July. So hog men must make every day count to be ready when markets are best.

THE NEW PIG STARTENA, fed on the Purina Program, helps get hogs off fast ... to market weight up to 2 weeks earlier. Thousands of Purina Program feeders are now marketing hogs at 5 to 5 1/2 months. That's because the Purina Hog Program is backed by years of research ... built to get the most pork from home-grown grains ... built to speed hogs along the market road.

IMPORTANCE OF AGRICULTURE

By W. TAPP BENNETT

Director Development Department, Central of Ga. Railway

My friend, J. M. Eleazer, Extension Information Specialist at Clemson College, S. C., likes to play with figures and comes up with the following:

"In the United States a baby is born every 8 seconds on an average. And a person dies every 21 seconds. Every two minutes an immigrant moves in, and every 17 minutes one person moves out of the country. All of this happens down to the fact that a new person is added to our population every 12 seconds. That means 300 an hour, or 7,200 a day. And that grinds on constantly, 365 days a year. In a year it adds up to considerably over 2 1/2 million."

This yearly population increase equals the total population of some of our Southern states. These new people must be fed, clothed and sheltered by products from our present farm acreage as we do not have available land to increase farm acreage in proportion to this population increase.

Former Secretary of Agriculture, Charles F. Brannan, in discussing the importance of agriculture, said that we all immediately appreciate the importance of agricultural production of food, but there are other facts about agriculture that need to be repeated from time to time.

He asked, "How many persons, for example, know that industries which produce 1/3 of all our manufactured products originate on farms? How many persons appreciate the fact that about $1 in $4 of the revenue of the Nation's railroads is derived from the transportation of agricultural products?"

These are some of the facts that a person needs to consider in order to appreciate the place of agriculture in our economy, and do realize that we must depend upon the findings of our scientists as they come to us from the experiment station and plant breeder and apply them to the land as the only way to assure a continued abundance of services goes for products that

Spring Quarter Enrollment Is Slightly Higher

With 281 girls and 227 boys enrolled this quarter T. C. has a total enrollment of 508, 2 more than last spring quarter.

Miss Viola Perry, registrar, states that with a fall quarter enrollment of 545 and a winter quarter enrollment of 521, the size of the student body is holding up remarkably well.

Thirty-two of these 508 are new students, though many of these have attended T. C. before.

The totals, according to classes are: freshmen girls, 96; freshmen boys, 74; sophomore girls, 66; sophomore boys, 41; junior girls, 49; junior boys, 48; senior girls, 69; senior boys, 63; and one special student.

They never dreamed they would do a million-dollars-a-year

When L. A. Akins took on the Purina franchise at Barnesville, Ga., he hardly dreamed that it would grow into almost a million-dollar-a-year business in only four short years. Four years ago, Dealer Akins and his wife had only one store for selling seed, fertilizer and farm supplies. Today they have three Purina dealerships and a seed testing plant plus a 2,000-hen layer plant.

L. A. Akins moved to Barnesville, Ga., from Statesboro four years ago in the suggestion of his brother-in-law, Harold Griffin, who was serving as assistant county agent there at the time. In Barnesville, L. A. opened a small seed and fertilizer business. The Akins boys helped their father as much as they could after school hours. Because of the war, however, the boys along with the three eldest boys were called into service.

During the war, Bill, the youngest son, who was still in school, and his father kept the business going. When the war was over, Harold, Lamar and Ralph returned and joined the firm as partners with equal interest. Bill continued his education and did not join the organization until he graduated from college.

With all the sons now full-fledged partners, it was decided that the firm must expand. Late in 1949 they purchased a two-story building at The Rock, Ga., and converted it into a combination warehouse and seed processing plant. The Rock was situated on the line between Lamar and Upson counties and there a great deal of trade from both areas.

The years 1946 to '51 were great expanding years for the Barnesville trade area, processing seed and spreading limestone and fertilizers. In 1950, realizing the small building in which they had been operating was inadequate, a new $28,000 brick building was constructed.

When they moved back into this large modern store, they decided that Purina Chows would make an ideal addition to their marketing seed and fertilizer business.

The first year the Akins family sold only 8,600 bags of chows. The second year business doubled and the third year they shipped almost 20,000 bags.

Because of the increasing number of customers in Upson county, the Akinses decided late in 1950 that to better serve Upson county a retail store should be opened in the county seat of Upson, located 16 miles north of Barnesville.

Since all members of the family were living in Barnesville, it was necessary for one line and a more professional appearance, press all seams open before crossing them with any. In the latter part of 1951,

HAROLD C. STEELE

Harold C. Steele, member of the Georgia Teachers College faculty, takes his place on the list of significant Georgia authors with the release last week by Exposition Press of "I Was A Stranger," a comprehensive study of the life of William Booth and the founding of The Salvation Army.

The non-fiction volume, released March 24, is described by advance reviewers as "a great, outstanding, and unique work." It is on sale now at bookstores in Georgia and throughout the nation.

A combination biography and social analysis, the volume provides an excellently-written and powerful narrative account of the despotic but dogmatically faithful William Booth and his struggle and success at molding a new concept for modern religious practice.

National Guard gets recruits

Captain Leland Biggs, Battery A, 108th Cavalry, announced the recent enlistment of the following men: Preen David Cook, Robert K. Cooper, and Charles D. Barlow, all of Byrdwater, Georgia, and Robert H. Wynne of Brooklet. This brings the battery strength up to 67 men and officers. The battery has high hopes that the present rate of enlistments will continue and that the unit will be up to full strength by 25 July when summer camp starts.

Several weeks ago the battery started the practice of serving coffee and doughnuts every day so that many of the men would remain in the unit and get to know each other and get to know the unit. In order to obtain money for continuing such social events and for other social and training needs, the battery has bought and is raffling off a 23-inch Philco table model T.V. set. Tickets can be bought at $1.00 each from the member of Battery A. The drawing will be held on Monday night, 27 April.

The battery has recently received an SCR 584 gun-jacking radar. It is the type which can search and find area targets and can then automatically track the target while moving. F.F.A. forest project ready for judging

The Statesboro F.F.A. Chapter is ready for judging its forest project for the year ending on May 13 and 14.

The Union Bag and Paper Corporation of Savannah is sponsoring a fifty F.F.A. chapters in South Georgia. The prize of $100 to the best project in Southeast Georgia will be awarded to the best project in Southwest Georgia.

The Statesboro F.F.A. Chapter has a ten year working agreement with R. P. Mickel of the United States Forest Service. The chapter measured off an acre near the road to save for a health year and to be used as a check plot each year.

An adjoining acre is being used this year for its project. All the hardwoods have been divided into two equal parts. One half the acre has been cleared and the other half has been planted. The pines on both plots have been measured and the difference in growth rate of the thinned and unthinned plots.

One area has been marked off and the hardwoods cut and the roots were treated with Ammate to prevent them from sprouting. Large hardwood trees were also treated with Ammate to kill them.

The seedlings were planted in all areas where the pines were not cut enough.

Local merchants will sponsor the opening game of the 1954 season for the Statesboro Pilots in the Tuesday, April 27.

The show will begin at 7:45 according to Mrs. Dorothy Rustin, principal of the school. "Talent production" already includes a rhythm band from the first and second grades, tap dancing by Gloria Henderson, a vocal solo by Rochelle Clifton, song and tap dancing by Dale Anderson, folk dancing by the third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades, trumpet solo by Douglas Carter, group singing by the seventh and eighth grades, vocal solo by James Blain, accompanied by Billy West on the guitar and a duet by Gary Barnes and James Blain.

There will be several types of dancing as done by Gladys Edmonfield, Niki Hendrix, Betty Brannen, Patricia Austin, Linda Sue Parrish and Martha Fay Hodges, and Ann Holloway.

Piano numbers will include those by Jane and Annette Beasley, Marie Sue Smith, Patricia Harvey and Marie Dyer.

The Portal Trio with Annie Jo Brown, Julia Ann Hendrix and Martha Sue Parrish will be a duet by Helen Smith and Linda Black.

Recitations will include those by Jane Smith, Jane Beasley, Roy Rustin and Patsy Jones.

Tree growers in this section have an opportunity of seeing the first portable mobile forestry display every constructed Monday, April 19.

During the morning the display will be seen at the gymnasium of the Statesboro College. During the afternoon it will be at the Statesboro High School, and on Monday night it may be seen at the county courthouse.

In order to make it convenient for the people to view a realistic miniature forest, the Southern Forestry Conservation Association constructed a series of scale-model displays, complete with midge pits, inch-long power saws and even mechanical tree planters. Then all the exhibits were assembled on a specially constructed trailer.

G. H. Malsberger of Atlanta, general manager of the sponsoring association said "The purpose of this display is to show landowners how to increase their growth and wood three to four times through fire protection, reforestation and proper harvesting practices."

The Bulloch County Future Farmers of America are sponsoring the exhibit here.

Rites held for Dan W. Davis

Dan W. Davis, 72, died at his home Monday. Although he had been in ill health for the three and one-half years his death came unexpectedly. He was buried in the New community for the past 43 years and was well known throughout the county.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Nellie Hodges Davis; one daughter, Mrs. Jack Crosby and three grandchildren, all of Groveland, Georgia.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at DeLoach Primitive Baptist Church by Elder Wiley Lynn. Burial will be in the church cemetery. Barnes Funeral Home was in charge of the arrangements.

Work begins on the wading pool for the small fry at the Recreation Center.

Methodists to begin meeting

Statesboro Methodist Church announces plans for spring convocation on spiritual enrichment with a series of evangelistic services beginning Sunday evening, Rev. John H. Wilson, pastor of the St. Paul Methodist Church, Columbus, Georgia, will be the visiting preacher.

Rev. Wilson is the brother of the Statesboro Methodist Church, and has served pastorates in Georgia in Midville, Superior, Americus, Tifton, and now at Columbus church. He is a vigorous preacher and his sermons have been a source of inspiration to those who worship in the services.

Daily services will be held at ten each morning and evening each evening. On Friday night, April 23, because of the Boys' Choir Concert at the College, the service will begin at seven o'clock. All are asked to remember this change for the last night of the special services.

The church nursery will be open for both morning and evening services under the direction of Mrs. Cecil Waters Jr. and parents of pre-school children are urged to use this service in order to enable them to attend meetings in the auditorium.

Congregational singing will be held at the church, under the direction of the pastor, Frederick Wilson, ably assisted by the church choir and special youth groups.

The community is invited to worship with the Methodist church on Easter Sunday night.
