Dedicated to the Progress of Statesboro and Bulloch County.

Keeping the good earth good

If a thief in the middle of the night were to enter the gate of a Bulloch county farmer and steal his tractor, and burn down his barn, the whole community would be enraged and would join our farmer in search for the criminal.

Yet this farmer may be doing even worse than that to himself. He may be neglecting his farm by failure to use good conservation methods so as to do damage far worse than any human thief could do.

Next week has been set aside by the governor of Georgia as "Soil Conservation Week."

There is a familiar story in the Bible about a "Promised Land." It was a wonderfully rich country which God has promised His chosen people.

It's no easy job to raise a champion

It was youth week in Bulloch again last week as Wade Chester and Joe Bowen took high honors at Bulloch county's first Fat Barrow Show held here last Thursday.

Wade Chester, a Future Farmer of America belonging to the Laboratory High School chapter, exhibited the champion barrow to win the show with his Duroc-Spotted Poland China cross.

Statesboro does it again

Statesboro does it again. Statesboro's sales of 17,062,422 pounds brought a total of $6,733,204, as compared with 20,277,938 pounds for $9,415,782 in 1953.

Total sales in the belt hit 188,432,627 pounds for $87,377,330. We commend the warehousemen and the buyers who operate on our market here.

We commend the people who, through the years, have worked hard at making the market here the best in the state.

Two people killed per hour is just too many

By VIRGINIA RUSSELL

Before the Labor Day holidays were over the radios were announcing the good news that fewer people were being killed than had been expected.

Two people an hour is too many. We all wonder what causes the wrecks. Invariably, as we ride along someone will pass us and we will exclaim, "Look at that Moran!"

There are so many factors to consider. One is the pay-off. The other is the driver's attitude. The third is the weather.

It is a plain fact that we cannot live the good life without good land. Apart from water and air, all the real necessities of human life come from the soil.

Then to the other extreme there is the forty-mile-an-hour man. Although he drives a good car he plays safe by keeping his speed to forty.

There is the man who forgets that it is very unsafe to pass. Yet, any one of us can count many people who never pay any attention to yellow lines, curves and so on.

There is the man who mixes a drink with his cocktail. He causes many wrecks. North Carolina is trying a new scheme to help cut down accidents on the highway.

For these two young people we throw our hat high into the air. To raise hogs to a championship status is no easy job and so to Wade and Joe we say, "Well Done!"

PLAN YOUR FARM

I Remember... Leslie Williams

HIGH AND DRY During these recent weeks I have heard much about the lack of rain and the dry conditions in this section.

normal this was. Here, a man with intelligence which God provided and which the fellow was born, a mental inclination, he had made himself so by his own choice and decision.

Then I saw a friend who was mentally sick. He was not in any hospital. He was reaping the rewards of worry, tensions, wrong living. The trouble quickly crept upon him and before his closest friends realized it, the problem was there.

High and dry! a boat out of the water! a person without his full strength!

A Proclamation

BY THE GOVERNOR: WHEREAS: one of the basic elements of security and prosperity is the production of wood, clothing, and other agricultural products, and WHEREAS: It is essential that soil conservation be emphasized and practiced if we are to continue to make available these goods in sufficient quantities to meet human needs, and WHEREAS: This can be accomplished only by the cooperation of all those engaged in the production of crops, timber and livestock,

WHEREFORE, I, Herman E. Talmadge, Governor of Georgia, do hereby proclaim the week of September 12 through 19, 1954, as SOIL CONSERVATION WEEK, a period when our citizens should emphasize the saving of our soil.

Farm Bureau

Lewis and Kay Ann Hendrix, Bulloch county and first district Farm Bureau talent winners, provided the entertainment for the Brooklet Farm Bureau meeting Wednesday night. They were the Brooklet winners first before winning the contest.

Lewis sang "Side by Side," Kay Ann sang "Walking My Baby Back Home," then Lewis came back with his favorite, "Chattanooga Shoe Shine Boy," and the two leaned up on "Five Baked Apples."

Water Lee was at the piano. Miss Mary Ansley told of her trip to Cornell University as the guest of the Cotton Producers' Association, along with Mrs. Jim Hinton, her FHA teacher, Miss Ansley appeared on a panel to discuss ways young people might help with cooperative work. Her paper was the basis for a major part of the discussion.

O. R. Gay outlined the program he is starting in the Brooklet community with the younger farmers from some 17 to 20 years of age. He stated that the group would have some group work and individual supervision with their agricultural problems.

Proposed telephone lines and areas assigned to the two cooperatives in the community were discussed freely and plans made to procure some definite agreement on the routes. James E. Davis, the community president, stated that the meeting would be on second Friday night, October 8, instead of the usual time and that a musical and talent program would be worked up.

IVANHOE

Those present at the Ivanhoe meeting Friday night grouped their order for seed oats and asked C. M. Graham to procure prices on them.

R. F. Mikeli, county president, talked with the men prior to the joint meeting relative to the need for a large Farm Bureau membership. He cited the many instances where the proposed sliding scale had not helped reduce the cost of living but the cost of producing a crop. The only answer to getting a mandatory support program back into effect is an adequate membership in the Farm Bureau, where the agricultural policies could be rewritten, he stated.

Milk has an important place in reducing diets, its proteins, minerals, and vitamins more than offset its caloric content.

It's still pond building time

By E. T. "Red" Mullis Soil Conservation Service

It's still pond-building time in Bulloch county. Co-operators of the Ogeechee River Soil Conservation District are working the county ASC office before digging and surveying suitable locations for ponds.

Mr. Roscoe Anderson of Register, one time district supervisor of the Ogeechee River Soil Conservation District, has built a good pond on his farm west of Register. Mr. Anderson didn't want to take any chances on the pond not being built right so he hired the bulldozer operator by the hour to do what he told him to do.

Mr. Julian Tillman has built another pond on his farm southwest of Register. Mr. Tillman is making arrangements to hold the water that falls around his farm during rainy weather and resuspend the water back on the land during dry periods. A neat little trick I would say.

It is estimated that, by the year 1975, the industrial water needs of the U. S. may rise from 80 billion gallons a day to 215 billion gallons a day—an increase of 170 per cent.

Estimates indicate that it now takes 1,000 gallons of water to produce a pound of rayon, 300 gallons of water to produce a barrel of beer, and 10 gallons of water to produce a gallon of gasoline.

Water is a necessity in nation's every day economy statistics say

Every cutting of alfalfa requires some 325,800 gallons of water per acre to grow it. An acre of cotton needs 800,000 gallons of water to mature the one annual crop.

Each U. S. citizen uses an estimated 1.30 gallons of water each day. (Personal and household cleanliness plus industrial utilization of water for manufacture of personal belongings.)

When an airplane engine is tested, from 50,000 to 125,000 gallons of water are needed for cooling.

A ton of cotton good requires 60,000 gallons of water for bleaching, and 80,000 gallons in the drying process.

One inch of rain is equal to about 100 tons of water per acre. One-half gallon of water per square foot. About 14,000,000 gallons per square mile.

Despite the drought in Georgia and several other states,

Erosion robs land of feed

By ALEX WRIGHT

Soil Scientist, Opechee River Soil Conservation District

Loss of top soil through erosion means the loss of valuable nutrients and organic matter. Analysis of soil washed from slopes by rainfall shows that a farmer is not always feeding his own crops when he applies commercial feeding of fertilizer to his fields.

Soil Conservation Service experiments have shown that top soil washed from sloping fields contained more organic matter, nitrogen, potassium, phosphorus, calcium, and magnesium than the soil left behind. Over twenty the USDA Marketing Service reports another big crop year can be expected in 1954.

Charles R. O'Kelly, Agricultural Extension Service economist, said this week. The estimate is for a crop practically as large as in 1952 and '53, but about three per cent less than the 1948 record.

times as much plant food is lost through erosion as through normal crop consumption, and much more plant food is lost through erosion than through leaching. Therefore, in order for the commercial fertilizers applied the erosion of the top soil must be controlled.

The more organic matter the soil contains, the more water holding capacity it has. By holding the maximum amount of water in the fields through Packing silage should be a continuous process as the field is filled, according to F. Fitch, dairyman for the Georgia Agricultural Extension Service.

THE HOLY EARTH

By L. H. BAILEY

From the Book, "Conserving Soil Resources" In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth. Man did not make the earth; therefore, it is divine. We are here as part of the great plan of creation. We cannot escape. We are under obligation to take part and to do our best, living with each other and with all creatures. We may not know the full plan, but that does not alter the relation.

When once we set ourselves to the pleasure of our dominion, reverently and hopefully, we shall have a new hold on life. If God created the earth, the earth is hallowed; and if it is hallowed, so must we deal with it devotedly, and with care that we do not despoil it, and mindfully of our relations to all beings that live on it.

The sacredness to us of the earth is inherent. It lies in our necessary relationship and in the duty imposed upon us to have dominion. We may not waste that which is ours. To live in sincere relations with the company of created things and with conscious regard for the support of all men now and yet to come, must be the essence of righteousness.

Let us never forget that the conservation of land is the most important labor of man. Confer with your soil conservation experts that you might keep faith with your heritage in the soil.
