Nineteen hundred and fifty-four years ago—they weren't shopping

By VIRGINIA RUSSELL

Nineteen hundred and fifty-four years ago or thereabouts the little town of Bethlehem was overflowing with people. The overflow of people weren't Christmas shoppers. They weren't winter tourists or football fans. They were taxpayers belonging to the house of David and they had come from afar and from near to pay taxes to Caesar.

These travelers hadn't come by train, or plane, or by car on good highways. They had come on foot or on mule back by way of a rough private bath or in a clean, antiseptic-smelling hospital room or even in a clean room at home with a kettle of water boiling on the fire. They were in a stable and Mary gave birth to her first-born Son and she wrapped Him in swaddling clothes and laid Him in a manger. Mary, the virgin, the mother of the Savior, and Joseph, the earthly father who had believed in that angel and had not put Mary away, were given the greatest honor any parents before or since have ever had.

The announcement of the birth of the King of the world was not made over television and radios every fifteen minutes. No newsboys stood on the street corners shouting "Christ is born." No bells rang, no guns were shot, no motorcycled cops blew their sirens. In fact the people milling about the town talking and moving about going didn't even hear the news.

But Christ's birth was made known to a group of quiet sleepers. Angels came in the still, beautiful, crisp, star-lit night and sang, "Peace on earth, good will to men." The shepherds heard and believed and hurried to find the baby.

There was a star, a new star in the sky. A bright, beautiful star that shone above the stable. There were wise men—men who spent their time studying and learning. They knew the heavens and studied the stars. They saw the new bright star. They sold their belongings and traveled a great distance to find the baby. They brought gifts and laid them at his feet.

Every since that day, people have had an opportunity to believe. It is the greatest choice man has to make. Whether to believe that Christ, the baby, Christ the man, Christ the Son of God, one and the same, is our Savior. For some it is easy, for some it is hard.

Today as almost two thousand years ago it may be the ones who have time to consider and ponder will hear the angels sing again, "Peace On Earth, Good Will to Men."

For those of us who believe that Christmas is a spiritual time, let us live as we believe. May our gifts be gifts of love. As someone asked, "If I meant to pray for a friend as a Christmas present how would I let her know?" Well, she'd know, but she'd feel good to have you write her a card saying so.

Another way to give gifts would be to begin telling every good thing you know. Tell every friend every good thing you've heard about him or her. Tell only the good things. Tell a friend you love her or him. These gifts will never be forgotten and will make the receiver rich while other gifts will soon be forgotten.

Let us be the shepherds and the wise men at this season so that we hear again the good tidings and then let us pass the news on to the baby.

August and September figures bring the total sales in the county for the first nine months of 1954 up to $13,173,108, which is $699,219 less than the same nine-month period of 1953 when sales totaled $13,872,327.

Your age tells on you the day after Christmas

By VIRGINIA RUSSELL

It's all in one's years how he feels the day after Christmas. The youngest feel an awful letdown, the old folks feel relieved, except for the arrival of the bills come January first.

"No thank you, I don't care for any," the youngest boy said. "I just don't know what's wrong but I don't want like eating." I was amazed because the turkey tasted twice as good as it had the first day.

Later the second boy said "Why do I feel so depressed? I just feel all in." he added.

I said nothing because I was a little ashamed to admit it. I was beginning to feel free, easy and just plain good. Now I could enjoy the family and there'd be no tensions.

For, preach to ourselves almost getting things done early as much as we will, it seems that in the end those last hours are crowded. At least that's the way it is at this time.

The Papa complicated things considerably here by taking to his bed for the whole week before Christmas. I consoled him at first by saying "This thing is just a twenty-four hour affair—everybody's having it." Of course, the doctor, being smart, didn't give the illness a name (He has grown sensitive I think about the joking) but he said to me because all doctors now seem to call every ailment a virus). But whatever germ was loose it seemed to take the starch out of my usually-very-healthy father.

Do all men groan and moan and take on when they're sick? I'd surely like to hide in the sick rooms of other husbands and discover how they react to sickness! I'd hate to think this man of mine was one-of-a-kind in this respect. Another, it was hard to get Christ.

Then my present to this particular man was to be a re-decorated study. I was so excited over this gift but I had undertaken a hard one, I know. I finished both walls of book cases and had put all the books back on the shelves. There were only two walls to go. I started off on them with a great determination. The telephone rang several times, the front door had to be answered and the sick had to be tended. I forgot to stir the paint after each interruption and the result is moderate in the extreme with streaks of pale green, light green and dark green. Now that Christmas is over the gift will have to be retouched or repainted. But what can an amateur expect?

The preacher son fixed the toilet seat for his gift to the family. It had been broken for a year and one could never be sure whether it stay on the bowl or slide off. After he had secured the part to fit the seat he decided that a paint job was in order here, too, so he removed the whole affair and took it to the back yard. Several accidents resulted from the missing toilet seat. It is amazing what habit does to people.

Then the youngest one changed her mind about what Santa Claus should bring. She had written him for a record player and a Mister Potato Head. About three days before Christmas she added a pogo stick to her list. Her father, feeling stern from his bed said children shouldn't get everything they had to pay for and disappointments were helpful, etc. But her mother remembered that eight-year-olds grow sophisticated too soon in this age wanted to please her. If possible, Santa Claus was contacted and after much searching in many locations and localities the old fellow found one last pogo stick.

These were only a few of the happenings in an average American family. Is it any wonder that parents begin to enjoy Christmas on December 26?

New edition of Postal rules is now available

Postmaster Arthur Turner of Statesboro today called to the attention of mail users major new postal regulations which were issued effective December 1, which will provide important changes and simplifications in the use of the mails.

The Post Office Department is issuing a final edition of a history-making new postal manual which contains these changes in simple form. The new manual will bring together in less than 300 pages public-interest postal regulations formerly scattered through 4,000 pages of dense print. Postmaster Turner explained.

New cattle ration is announced

This week Gerald Groover of the East Georgia Peanut Company announced a new fattening ration for cattle.

According to Mr. Groover the Federal Food and Drug Administration of Dicyclostilbrol for use in cattle fattening rations has caused a lot of lively discussion among cattlemen. Now that it will be included in some cattle supplements, they want to know just what it is, how it may be fed, and what it can be expected to do for them.

OUR YOUTH... Kemp Mabry

The high pitched notes of the international Morse code came as music to our ears the other night as we sat before a friendly amateur radio "rig" with the headphones clamped tightly around our ears.

A large and a small war had been fought, a high school diploma and a college shepkin have been won, and what seems like ages have passed since we worked until 3 o'clock one morning trying to "raise" our first contact on the short wave amateur radio band using a one tube radio transmitter and operating under our newly acquired call letters of WGLE.

We had been the youngest "ham" in Georgia in those days when we took parts from discarded radios and assembled a receiver and transmitter in order to join the international fraternity of amateur radio operators.

Our first contact, which was back in high school days, was with the radio club at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. The previous night had netted us not one single QSO or amateur contact and it was mid-afternoon of the following day before we had corrected the error in the little transmitter and had made our general call of CQ the other night. Then there was a fellow in Seattle, Ohio in Burbank, California, who wanted to talk. A Cuban came through for a few minutes of QSO in broken English, apologizing for his inability to use much more English than the abbreviations known to the amateur radio operators the world over as the international "Q" signals. Nevertheless, we concluded the contact successfully.

There are 70,000 or more amateurs in the United States. We have more hams in this country than all of the other countries in the world. There is a minimum of regulation in the U. S. and most of it is self-imposed by the amateurs themselves and through the American Radio Relay League, which a vast majority of hams support.

There is a democratic tendency among hams to freeze out the sloppy operator and the one who knowingly violates FCC and international regulations by refusing to talk to him on the air. Then the Federal Communications Commission has monitoring stations, just in case.

We have a bit of nostalgia for the good old days when everybody built their own equipment. Nowadays, you can buy the entire amateur station, ready to operate. It costs more money this way and you lose the pride of achievement in constructing the equipment with your own hands.

Teenage boys around the country make use of their stations in a wonderful way in "networks" which handle "traffic" in the form of messages from distant points. The law prohibits any amateur from accepting any form of payment for services in handling messages.

In times of disaster the radio ham is oftentimes the only contact an entire community has with the outside world. If one boy can get his station on the air, using storage batteries or other emergency power, there are hundreds more in the amateur network ready to take his messages and maintain contact around the clock with the isolated community.

When you see the tall antenna swinging from the rear bumper of an automobile, it may be the State Patrol or the county sheriff, but more than likely it is a ham on wheels, operating a mobile amateur station for his own personal enjoyment, yet ready to help in emergency.

There are two principal types of amateur radio transmission. One is by use of the international Morse code. The other is radio telephone operation. When a boy has developed a good "fist," his own self esteem is heightened because he knows that any amateur in the world can understand what he is saying as he "pounds brass" by use of the conventional telegraph key. Anybody can talk into a microphone for radiotelephone operation.

Amateurs send cards to each other to confirm their contacts. The walls of many a ham's room, including our own, are covered with these "QSL cards" which testify to friendly contacts around the world. The most prized QSL card is probably the one from a Central American station with the call letters HP1A. HP1A is the only ham in that country.

We hope some boy around here will get to work and pass the license examination for amateurs. We'd like to borrow the station once in a while.

BULLOCH FARMERS VOTE IN FAVOR OF COTTON QUOTAS

In the cotton referendum held on December 14, 1954, Bulloch farmers voted in favor of cotton quotas for 1955. The vote was 479 in favor of the quota and 56 against it. This means that acreage allotments and price support of 83 and one-half per cent will be in effect for 1955.

If any farmer, who does not intend to plant his cotton allotment in 1955 will come by the Bulloch County ASC office, he can release his allotment to be distributed to other farmers. Any farmer that releases his cotton allotment will be given credit for planting for 1955.

Improving wood lands claim farm attention now

By E. T. "RED" MULLIS
Cooperators of the Ogeechee River Soil Conservation District in Bulloch county are turning their attention to improving their wood lands at this time of year. They are making improvement cutting, thinning and planting trees in open spaces. Many are obtaining trees from the Georgia Forestry Commission through the Soil Conservation Service and Union Bag and Paper Corporation of Savannah. Union Bag is paying for the trees.

Farmers planting trees recently under the above arrangement are: L. N. Woodruff and W. S. Woodruff; Mrs. Willis Cobb, W. P. Hill Jr. and Ed Olliff of Statesboro; Frank Simmons, Frank Simmons Jr., and Louis Foy Simmons of Register; Foy Wilson of Statesboro; W. A. Bowen of Statesboro, whose farm is in the Westside community; Mrs. Ruby Anderson and Walter Colson out Westside way; J. W. Morton of Leefield, and John W. Bishop of Ogeechee.

The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service Hatchery at Millen is stocking some ponds in the county with bluegill brook. They are now delivering fish to pond owners who had applications before September 1. Two delivery trips have been made stocking 40 ponds of district cooperators. There are over 100 applications for fish in from Bulloch county, but they hope to stock a majority of them before giving out of fish.

Here's wishing you all a very Merry Christmas and a Happy and Prosperous New Year!

Music Festival is set to attract 3,500 visitors here

The annual Region Five Music Festival, expected to attract 3,500 students, has been scheduled at Georgia Teachers' College March 3-5, according to announcement today by Jack W. Brucsek, general festival chairman.

Mr. Brucsek, who is associate professor of music at the college explained that the festival program this year will be similar to previous ones in which students, in groups and solo, have competed for music honors. The festival includes contests among bands, orchestras, choruses, instrumental solos and ensembles, vocal solos and ensembles, elementary folk dancing, and baton twirling.

Competing at Georgia Teachers' College during the three-day event will be representatives from the elementary and high schools of Region Five which includes schools of the first and sixth Congressional districts.

A general program chairman is yet to be named. Mr. Brucsek pointed out. Dr. Ronald J. Neil, chairman of the division of music, and Dana M. King, and Daniel Hookey, of the music faculty, are assisting in the arrangements.

The festival, sponsored by the Georgia Music Education Association, annually attracts thousands of school children in Georgia. The Emmitt Alford and Jappy Atkins spent the week at the fair caring for the animals.

Soil Conservation

By E. T. MULLIS
Building so many ponds in Bulloch county, this year, farmers have a problem of preventing erosion on those dams this winter and next spring when the heavy rains are expected to fall. Not many farmers at the present time seem concerned about this problem, because of the drought and hoping

A Bright New Year To YOU!
The Magnolia Shop

they do get enough rain to wash the dam somewhat. Yet, the dam building right to begin with, so if you want to prevent costly repairs to your good dam not.

I think Terrell Beasley has the answer to the problem in his plans for his new pond southeast of Statesboro. He is topsoiling his newly constructed broadcasting a complete fertilizer over the entire dam, harrowing it in, and then broadcast, rye grass on it, and then running back over it with a seeder or other instrument to scratch the seed in. This will furnish protection for the dam during the winter and spring. Next spring, February or March, he intends overseeding the rye grass with penecola bahia for summer protection. The bahia, being a perennial, will provide year around protection from then on.

One of the best ways to get a sod on your dam is to bring sod and topsoil together and spread on the dam. This is what Paul Nesmith did out Westside way. He brought coastal bermuda grass and topsoil together and spread over his dam. Common bermuda is just as good, so you can get rid of it where you don't want it by transplanting it on your dam.

W. L. and L. E. Brown of Statesboro and Cito have found cover it up with sod—but quick. The rains will come and you want to be prepared. Also don't forget to sod your runaround.

Your Family -- And God

By REV. CLIFFORD DAVIS
CHILDREN—GIFTS FROM GOD
We have already pointed out that the first marriage began with God. "The Lord God said, It is not good that man should dwell alone; I will make him a helpmeet for him." But God didn't stop there. For apparently, not only did he find it "not good" that man should dwell alone, and therefore made woman, but He also found it "not best" that man and woman should dwell alone. And so He gave them children.

Indeed, although men and women today marry for many reasons from the beginning it was not so. God had only two reasons for performing the first marriage: (1) Fellowship—"It was not good for man to dwell alone." (2) Procreation—"Be fruitful and multiply, and replenish the earth." And by the beginning it has ever been God's plan for man to seek a wife; for these two to become one flesh, cleaving one another out, cleaving to their parents; and then for this couple to reproduce themselves by bearing and rearing little ones.

Although the anxiety of these first parents-to-be must have been great during the nine months that Eve carried their first child, how much greater must the joys have been when Dad Adam held Mother Eve in his arms, while against her breast their nestled their first born child. What artist's brush could possibly describe the beauty of the scene, or what poet's pen could explain the tenderness of their emotions as their mother looked into her husband's face and exclaimed "The Lord has given us a boy," and as they realized that they had just become "heirs together of the grace of life."

And although the miracle of birth has been repeated countless millions of times since the first Dad held the first Mother and together they loved the first baby, it is still less subject to description today than it was then. For never is a woman more beautiful than in those first few hours after she has traveled in the pangs that have brought forth the child of her union with the man of her life. And never is a man more humble than when he first looks upon his own flesh and blood, more completely in love than when he has anxiously stood watch while she has gone into the valley of death to bring forth the product of their love.

What can penetrate the soul of a parent and there more than the deep, than their own little baby? This amazing little creature it is—this thing called "baby." Chemically it is just a few elements worth a few cents. Physically it is just a few pounds of cooing, laughing, crying matter. Socially just an appetizing little in another family unit. So little. So small. So utterly helpless. So completely dependent. And yet one grip of its little hand will make weak the strongest of men. A twinkle from its little eyes will make a Ph. D. talk like an infant. Its night cry will be a call to arms. Just a little chuckle will cause a burdened mother's heart to run over with joy. Its very presence in a home will unite the hearts of its parents, when all else has failed.

Do you wonder that the Bible speaks of these little ones as GIFTS FROM GOD—"Children which the Lord hath graciously given"? Is it any wonder that the Bible says that "Children are an heritage of the Lord; and the fruit of the womb is his reward"? Pity the husband who has never walked the floor waiting the birth of his child—when he might have pity the woman who has never felt the pangs of birth, or has never cradled her baby against her breast—when she might have never held one another arm in arm and looked at their baby and realized that it has made them "heirs together of the grace of life"—when they might have. But on the other hand, "Blessed—happy—is the home and parents who have many of them."

Statesboro High Gymnasium New Floor is Fast Nearing Completion

By SID DODD
Statesboro High School's new gymnasium floor is fast nearing completion. The floor is constructed of the finest maple hardwood flooring and when the final polish is put on Statesboro students will have gym facilities that can compare with the finest in the state.

The gym seats will be more accessible to late comers because of the construction of a stair well in the center of the east stands which will provide for more convenient seating arrangements.

Another long needed improvement is the construction of two doors on either side of the stage which will allow officials or players to pass beneath the stands to reach the dressing rooms during tournaments or at other times when the gym is crowded. This will cut down on confusion during tournament games.

While the gym floor was under construction the Statesboro Blue Devil basketball teams practiced under great disadvantages. The unused elementary school auditorium was converted into a court for the girls' practice, while the boys team traveled 10 miles each night to use the Register gymnasium. In spite of this fact the teams made a good showing in their first game.

Statesboro School appreciates the hospitality of their neighbors in Register in permitting them to use their Register gymnasium for practice.

Officers of the Southeastern YMCA district met with representatives of the Statesboro Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y Clubs recently for the purpose of planning the Christian Life Conference to be held in Statesboro in March.

The district officers attending the meeting were Sberill Hamilton, Baxley; Jean Laird, Hazelhurst; Mrs. Evelyn Melton, Victoria; and Harvey Saunders of McRae-Helena.

Upon arriving in Statesboro the officers and Statesboro representatives, along with Mrs. Kemp Mabry, the district secretary for the southeast district, were served a delicious meal at the home of Mrs. Evelyn Melton, Statesboro, Tri-Hi-Y advisor.

After the meal the group attended the Little Theatre production of "Ramshackle Inn" given at the Georgia Teachers' College auditorium.

Following the play the group was entertained at the home of Lucy Melton, president of the Statesboro Tri-Hi-Y. Refreshments were served.

Saturday morning the representatives met with Mrs. Evelyn Melton and Mr. Kemp Mabry at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Leslie S. Williams for a four hour planning conference. Various matters were discussed and many details concerning the conference were discussed. The group appreciated the hospitality of Mrs. Williams in serving refreshments during the meeting.

Following the morning session the group dined at Mrs. Bryan's Kitchen to eliminate the meeting. Representing Statesboro at the conference for the Tri-Hi-Y were Lucy Melton, Victoria; Wilson, and Judy Williams. The Hi-Y representatives were Jim Franklin, Sid Dodd, and Pete Johnson.

SERIES OF FAMILY DINNERS

The daughters of the late Judge and Mrs. John F. Brannen Jr. were hostesses to family dinners during the holiday season. On Christmas Day, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Hanner entertained at their home on College street. Christmas lights and decorations in the living room and dining room featured a color scheme of silver and blue. The dining table was beautiful with its center of candles and colored balls on a styrofoam base, bordered by feathery greenery. Colorful place cards contained Christmas wishes. A delicious turkey dinner was served. After the dinner, each guest received from the Christmas tree a number of presents.

On Sunday, December 26, Mrs. Fred Brinson and Mr. and Mrs. John R. Godlee entertained at dinner at Mrs. Bryon's kitchen. The dining table was centered with an arrangement of Christmas bells and Santas. Place cards carried the Christmas motif. A four course dinner was served.

On Monday evening, December 27, Mrs. Ouida Peacock was hostess at her suburban home. On the mantel and windows in the living room and music room were arrangements of colored balls, greenery and candles. The dining table had a large red candle for its center surrounded by multi-colored balls and Chinese gaily. Place cards were in red and green. A turkey dinner was served, after which the guests enjoyed contents and organ music.

SHOWER TEA FOR MISS ATTAWAY
On Wednesday, December 22, from 2:30 to 5:30, the home of Mrs. Doy Atkins was the scene of a lovely miscellaneous shower honoring Miss Josephine Attaway, whose marriage to Paul Atkins was an event of Sunday. Co-hostesses with Mrs. Atkins were Mrs. Max Edenfield, Mrs. Pete Cannon and Mrs. George Mallard.

MORNING COFFEE FETES BETTY LOVETT AND BETTY SHERMAN
On Wednesday morning Mrs. Earl Swicord was hostess at morning coffee for Miss Betty Lovett, bride-elect of Sunday, December 26, and Miss Betty Sherman, whose marriage to Jim Koppitz will be an event of Wednesday, December 29.

Christmas arrangements brought holiday beauty to the home. Cinnamon strips, toasted cheese on eye rounds, ham biscuit, assorted Christmas cookies and coffee were served.

Potted plants were given to the hostesses.

The guests were Misses Lovett and Sherman; Mrs. Bucky Atkins, Mrs. Billy Olliff, Miss Barbara Ann Brannen, Miss Genevieve Quarvia, Mrs. Charles Sims, Miss Sally Serson, Miss Donell Thompson, Mrs. Arnold Almond, Miss Frances Armstrong, Mrs. Vaughn Dyer, and Miss Peggy Jo Burke.

MAD HATTERS CHRISTMAS PARTY
Members of the Mad Hatter Bridge Club entertained their husbands at a buffet supper at the home of Mrs. Ernest Cannon on Saturday night.

Red and white carnations were used in the living room. The Christmas colors prevailed in the decorations.

Members and husbands present were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brunson, Mr. and Mrs. John Strickland, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Redding, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kahers, Mr. and Mrs. J. Brantley Johnson, and Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Wall. Games furnished entertainment.

MR. AND MRS. AKINS ENTERTAIN FOR BRIDE-ELECT
On Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Bucky Atkins entertained for Miss Betty Lovett, bride-elect, and her fiancé, Mr. Charles Rockett of Vidalia, with a dinner party at the home of Mrs. Atkins' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Jones on Church street.

There were Christmas decorations, including the Christmas tree, throughout the house lending Yuletide spirit which tied in with the color scheme of pink and

IT SEEMS TO ME... Max Lockwood

In just two days now we begin the New Year. With it comes the world new hope and new dreams of peace and happiness. What a wonderful year it would be in our memory and in history if this year we could see about the people of all nations that security of all nations that the world has so long sought.

Will it be a wonderful year for you? Will you take advantage of this chance to begin anew things that you really felt that you should have done last year but just didn't have the time.

What will head the list of your New Year's Resolutions? What are some of the things that you could have done last year that you would have made your loved ones happy? What are some of the things that you could have done that would have made you feel that you were a better person?

Yes, this is a wonderful time of the year. This is a wonderful time to take the opportunity to

IT'S INVENTORY TIME!

This is the time of year when wise folks "take stock." They look back to see where they've been—and peer into the future to see where they're going.

We're happy to say that 1954 has been another year of steady progress for this member-owned, non-profit, electric utility. We now serve over 90 per cent of all potential consumers in our area. This compares with only 3 per cent in 1935—when Rural Electrification got its start. We are adding new consumers as fast as they apply for service. But our big problem today is one of "having-up" existing lines. Neither we—nor our members—had any idea how much electric energy they would need for farm and home use. We are constantly building to meet this tremendous demand. While city folks have doubted their need for electric power every ten years—rural lines are required to double their capacity EVERY FOUR!

To keep up with this great demand in 1955—and on into the future—is our joy and privilege. This we pledge to do. And we will never relax in our efforts to bring electric power to our consumers at lowest possible rates.

It's time to greet a brand New Year
May 1955 be the best year ever known

By MRS. W. H. MORRIS

Well it is time to greet a brand new year. So let's hope that 1955 will be the best year we have ever known. Let's hope that everyone will resolve to be in their church every Sunday through 1955 and work at whatever befalls them to the glory of God. Whatever our task may be—a door-keeper or teacher, or just someone to say "I'm glad you came" to visit. If it is said sincerely it will be to the glory of God. In that way we will be using the gift of God in a way that will be pleasing to him.

Remember: "For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." (John 3:16.)

If God so loved us we should love one another, for if we can't love one another how can we love God, whom we have never seen.

On Sundays I see places in church that should be filled. They could be filled if everyone would fill the seat they should. I know it can be done if we really try hard enough. I speak this from experience. There are five in my family. Dad, Mom, and three children. We have not missed a Sunday being in church for about four years. We are present at all our church activities. But in the beginning, I too thought I just could not be in church every Sunday, and now I find it is much harder to miss going to church. So each Sunday we fill our places in our church. Won't you try to go to church and Sunday school for one full year without missing a single Sunday.

In addition to its human stars, Bing Crosby, Danny Kaye, Revere-mary Clooney and Vera Ellen, Paramount's lavishly produced presentation of Irvin Berlin's "White Christmas," which is due to open Sunday, January 9, at the Georgia Theatre, has a fifth star—VistaVision.

This is the name given to the revolutionary new filming process which, when projected in the theatre screen, gives such a clear image that even the background shots look as if they were only a few feet away from the viewer. The first such film to be photographed in VistaVision, "White Christmas," is also in color by Technicolor.
