There's a reason for that greatness

There's a reason for the greatness of Bulloch county. There's a reason for the respect and admiration that the people of Bulloch county command all over Georgia. That reason can be found in their oneness in purpose and reliance upon one another when problems arise which are common to the county at large. Last week we published the full report of the Bulloch County Agricultural Committee for 1956 in which the problems of the farmer of this county were stated and recognized, and what may be done about them.

Thirty-five Bulloch county citizens — citizens close to the farm and its problems — are on the committee.

The committee recognized the fact that for the farmers of Bulloch county the next few years must be years of "no mistakes." The report condenses it with the statement "The increasing costs, coupled with the high cash outlay of the present system of farming, makes it more necessary than ever to plan the farm and home operations carefully."

The committee believes that it is absolutely necessary that community meetings be held each month on community levels so that every man, woman and child may be kept posted on economic conditions and methods of meeting the problems of nutrition, home industries, food preservation, landscaping, rural housing, livestock and pasture management, livestock disease control and marketing, field crops, soil maintenance, and forestry.

The committee considers it necessary that farm groups visit our state experiment stations regularly. The committee believes that there must be good public relations with the urban citizens to keep them informed on problems that bother the farmer and his family. The committee believes that the citizens of the towns and cities need to know more about risks involved in farm investment and the share of the income from farm products which finds its way back to the farm and rural homes.

We believe that the report of this committee is the proper move in the farmer's struggle for survival. It recognizes the problem, it spells out the underlying causes of the problems and heads in the direction to work out the answers.

We commend the people of this county on their hard, realistic look at what is nearest their hearts — their homes, their children, their future.

Fifteen more citizens can now vote

Today there are fifteen more citizens of Bulloch county eligible to vote in our September 12 primary and November 6 general election than there were today one week ago.

Following our editorial on "Famous last words—I forgot to register" last week Charlie Robbins of the Robbins Packing Company made a survey of his employees and found 15 who were not qualified to vote—15 Bulloch county citizens who were not registered. . . 15 Bulloch county citizens who had not yet taken advantage of their right to voice opinions at the polls.

On Friday of last week Mr. Robbins gave these 15 employees time off and provided transportation to the courthouse that they might register and become qualified voters.

We commend Mr. Robbins for the interest he has shown in reminding his employees of their responsibility to themselves, to their families, and to the community in which they live. We commend those 15 who admitted that they were not registered but were glad to accept the opportunity to place their names on the registration lists that they might exercise their right to vote in the coming elections.

Mr. Robbins made it plain that he has no ulterior motive in urging his employees to register. He made it plain that to register and to vote is one of the most important privileges a citizen of this country has and to jeopardize it is to weaken the very foundation of our greatness.

What about you and yours? Are you qualified to vote in the coming elections? If you are not sure, you

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

LAST WEEK we published the full report of the Bulloch County Agricultural Planning Committee and focused attention on the problems of our farmers.

By the time you read this issue the committee may or may not have vetoed the Farm Bill.

Our newspapers are full of it, the radio and TV airwaves are swirling with it—the business of wooing the farmer and his family's vote in the forthcoming election. Right now he is being offered a bill of goods by candidates of both parties in the hope he will buy.

With all this interest being centered on the farmer, Leo Altkman, columnist for the Atlanta Constitution, asked the question, "Who is this fellow, who suddenly has so many friends among the candidates?"

A friend of Leo's gave him a full definition. Here it is:

"To his wife, the farmer is a big eater, a heavy sleeper, and a worry. To his children, he's a physical wonder. To his neighbors, he is a friend who in need would lend his right arm to them. To his dog, he's a man with a quiet voice."

"To the merchant on the city square, he's a customer. To the grocer, he's a godsend. To the banker, he's a debtor in the spring and a depositor in the fall. To the insurance man, he's quite a risk. To the doctor, he's a physical wonder. To the minister, he's a believer in God in nature and nature in God. To the politician, he's someone

Racial tension in Chicago, Ill.

The problem of harmonious relations between the races and the question of segregation vs. integration are quite rapidly becoming matters for serious concern in communities outside the South.

There is the report of Chicago Welfare Commissioner Alva Rose that more than 75 per cent of the 48,000 persons on that city's relief rolls are Negroes and that an estimated 2,500 Negroes are migrating into Chicago each month.

This influx from the South has brought with it problems of its own because the older Chicago Negro residents do not welcome the newcomers.

These racial tensions in Chicago, now being intensified, already have exploded on various occasions in the recent past, particularly in the Trumbull Park housing project where the first Negro family moved in August 1953. At the height of the disorders which followed, 1,100 policemen, or one-seventh of the Chicago force, were assigned to the 462-family project.

The important point is, of course, that expressions of opposition be kept within the bounds of established law and order. Mob action is not within those bounds.

Disorders in one region by no means justify disorders in another. Rather, they emphasize that it is the entire nation, not solely the South or any other single region, which is confronted with the necessity for mutually amicable relations between the races.

It Seems to me

By Max Lockwood

IN A FEW short weeks now politics will be full swing in the South and over the rest of the nation. Here in Georgia everyone is thinking in terms of Talmadge versus George Senate contest. During these next few months many promises will be made. Some of these promises will be made in good faith and some will not.

Everyone who discusses the possibility of a George and Talmadge contest for the Senate says that the contest will certainly come. Many Georgians will have a tough decision to make. Some will vote their honest convictions, some will vote as their friends vote and some will vote because of personal prejudices involving names.

The candidate who you decide to support as a Georgian should be the candidate who you are convinced will mean the most to the people of Georgia. Each state in these United States has representatives in the House and Senate for an expressed purpose. The elected representatives of each state is honor bound to represent the people of that section in the Congress of the United States. There are times when his decision may not be the decision he would make if he were alone, but when he speaks to the nation he does not represent just his personal views, but also the views of his constituents.

OF COURSE there are many who will not agree with this kind of reasoning. They would say that we elect our representatives in government and we expect them to study the issues involved and to vote their personal convictions as to what the best decision they can make as the best for the people back home.

IT'S BEEN 4:30 for a long time. The clock in front of Grimes Jewelry Store has stopped. It's been showing 4:30 for more than a week. And we miss checking it for the correct time. . .

THE U. S. NAVY presented us with a "Certificate of Appreciation" one day last week for "your public-spirited cooperation with the Navy Recruiting Service. . . in furthering the excellent relations between the United States Navy and the people of your community." We appreciate the certificate. It indicates that there are those who do understand our desire to serve the community.

Thru the Ps of Virginia Russell

IT IS a subject being discussed everywhere—that is good manners or the lack of good manners.

One hears teacher talk about the necessity for opening doors with caution or being sure to step aside lest she or he or they be knocked down by students.

A missionary to Brazil was a recent visitor to Statesboro. He told from the pulpit of one of the churches how very polite the Brazilians (children and adults) are. He later, in a conversation, told an inquirer about this politeness. Regardless of the humbleness or poverty or richness of the family the children were taught courtesy and niceties.

THE COUNTY PAPERS recently carried a news article about Bulloch county school that had made good manners a school-wide project. (Perhaps that was not the exact subject but it was synonymous with good manners.)

One of the terms used in educational circles is "evaluation." If we will ask to consider this subject of good manners in children we may be able to throw some light in the right direction. To begin with, our missionary visitor said all Brazilians were very polite.

IF ONE OBSERVES closely he will find that adults are becoming very careless in being courteous. Do you ever whisper when a speaker is speaking? Do you ever interrupt a person who is talking? Do you ever gulp your food down? Do you ever step in front of persons who are in line to get to the cashier at a store? You are up quite a bit before such a failure to say "thank you" when

In the Spring . . . Ah . . . A Young Man Gets Fanciful

By HEYWARD GNANN

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is a column written by Heyward Gnann, an outstanding senior at Georgia Teachers College, who is named in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities in terms of anatomy of earth. Man and nature begin to destroy the furnishings that winter required and seek to replace them with new upholstery that brightens the eye. The bulk of winter vaporizes as the sun increases its strength. The waters of spring gush with urgent enthusiasm.

It is sweet content to drink the lukewarm waters of spring. The continuing warmth does not creep down but seems spontaneous. With a sudden impact it pierces obstructions and barriers and penetrates to such a depth that tiny rumbles beneath all surfaces begin seeking outlet, as a bubble from the surface. Some of these tiny but definite activations may reach the surface, explode, and simply vanish with no after effects. Still others, the dangerous kind, may contain some recessive genetic trait and upon explosion may present a character which must be dealt with or it may get out of control.

Such is spring fever, it may be just called a fever, not a total breakdown, but an impediment, which, having carried a recessive trait that utilized itself without permission, brings about a slowing of the pace. It acts funny indeed.

But no! The intoxication from the hibernation of the lush waters of spring has a sinistery grip. The dregs from the solar and fluid substance have themselves from the bottom and there have acted as irritants. Some do not dissolve. A lot depends upon the nature of the solvent and to a degree, the extent of the hardness of the water. Whatever the case may be, any resistance to the dregs creates greater unpleasantness and the situation becomes one of co-existence.

Yes, . . . And I the while, the sole unhappy thing . . . have spring fever!

This Week's Meditation to bring comfort, peace

By The Rev. J. W. Grooms

SAY SO, TEXT: "Let the redeemed of the Lord say so." Psalm 107:2.

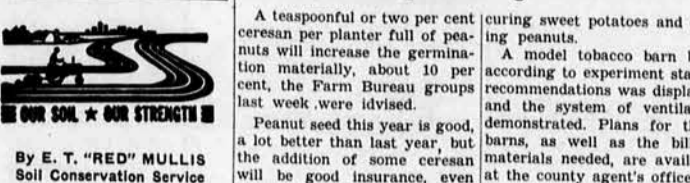

This exhortation is to tell what we are or what we have done, but we must first know the answer to the questions involved better than anyone else and having this knowledge he thus has the responsibility to cast his ballot for the people.

THERE WAS a great man in government who once said that Government must be secreted to be government. He was of, by and for the people. There are times in a man's life when he runs the risk of forgetting these principles of government. He is proud of it. This duty of letting others know we are redeemed we also owe to others. The secret disciple wins very few, but the one who is proud of it. This duty of letting people know we are redeemed we owe, above all else, to God. We owe it to him as a matter of obedience. He commands it. "Let the redeemed of the Lord say so." That is the supreme business of the redeemed. Let your light so shine that others seeing your good works may glorify your father, which is in heaven." These are the words of Jesus and they are saying the same thing that the Psalmist said in the text.

WE OWE IT to God as a matter of gratitude. If a person is not "redeemed," he has so little to be thankful for, for redemption is the only thing that counts in life, Jesus says. "If you gain the whole world and lose yourself you are perishing." These are the words of Jesus and they are saying the same thing that the Psalmist said in the text.

THE REDEEMED of the Lord should "say so" by our words—not only by the words of mouth and pen but by our "good works." What we do is that we are. Do not tell the world that you are redeemed by the words of your mouth. The gospel lived is more powerful than the gospel preached. Hard will be the day for those "redeemed" people who do not "say so" in every way possible. This is all that God has ever asked you to do. There is such a duty most for this. The spiritual life of our community is so very low. How sad! May the Lord bless you so much this week.

THE BULLOCH HERALD

Soil Conservation Service

More interest is being shown this year in pond fertilization by Ogeechee River Soil Conservation District cooperators in Bulloch county.

Our farmers are wide awake and take up new ideas and methods quickly. As a result of this, Bulloch county is, and will remain, the leading farming county in the State and nation.

One important aspect of pond fertilization has recently come to my attention which needs clarifying. Our ponds usually have a lot of decaying leaves, trash, etc. in them which makes the water acid. It is in some cases that fish will not grow in them. Numerous reports of fish dying in the summer when decay is at its peak, but in winter, when the water is cold, fish are not dying. This is because the acid in the water is not so active in the cold. The decaying material in the pond is still there, but it is not so active. It is in the spring, when the water begins to warm, that the acid in the water begins to react with the oxygen in the water and the result is a gas called nitrate. This gas is very poisonous to fish. It is in the summer, when the water is warm, that the nitrate in the water begins to react with the oxygen in the water and the result is a gas called nitrate. This gas is very poisonous to fish.

Farm Bureau Farm Bureau group advised how to increase peanut germination

A teaspoonful or two per cent cereasan per planter full of peanuts will increase the germination materially, about 10 per cent, the Farm Bureau group last week were advised.

Peanut seed this year is good, a lot better than last year, but the addition of some cereasan to the seed will be good insurance, even though the peanuts have been treated when shelled.

Memberships not turned in already will have to be reported to the Georgia Farm Bureau by April 30 to count on this year's enrollment. The groups were advised.

On newly-planted Coastal Bermuda, about 15 to 20 pounds of available nitrogen should be applied along the row when runners are six to eight inches long.

Wind and sand storms plague farmers in Stilson community

The high winds during the last few days have done much to damage the farmers crops. The sand has covered corn and some tobacco to the extent that the tobacco will have to be set through the tobacco to help in the drying process, and according to the experiment station demonstrated. Plans for these barns, as well as the bill of materials needed, are available at the county agent's office.

The barn demonstration is mounted on a trailer, which is large enough for several people to get in and see the features desired in a modern barn. These barns aid in the flow of air through the tobacco to help in the drying process, and according to the experiment station a better quality. The air flow by the tobacco helps up the moisture and carries it out. The experiment stations have found that this new type barn cuts time in curing, lowers costs, retains more weight, and yields better grades.

Miss Carol Jean Patten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hall Patten of Statesboro and J. D. Nesmith, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Nesmith of Statesboro, were married in a service marked by simplicity and beauty, Saturday evening, March 24, at Baptist Temple in Jacksonville, Fla. The Rev. Robert Witte, pastor of the church officiated in a double ceremony before an altar decorated with a sunburst arrangement of white gladioli and white chrysanthemums and pom poms.

The bride entering with her father, who gave her in marriage, was lovely in her wedding dress of white lace over pale blue taffeta fashioned in princess lines with the round neckline of lace motifs bound in blue satin. Rhinestones flecked the bodice. She carried a nosegay of white fringed carnations interwoven with seed pearls on a white ribbon which was an award received while she was a school girl.

The groom's best man, Mrs. Morgan Lee, matron of honor, wore an aqua taffeta costume dress and a corsage of pink carnations.

Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Nesmith left for a tour of Southern Florida.

They stopped over in Statesboro before going on to Jacksonville, Fla. The bride and groom are now living in Statesboro where Mr. Nesmith is employed with the Bulloch Tree and Supply Company on North Walnut street. MISS GLORIA ANN AVERITT IS MARRIED TO MR. DONALD BRYAN GINN
The Millen Baptist Church was the setting of the marriage of Miss Gloria Ann Averitt to Donald Bryan Ginn Sunday, April 8. The Rev. Earle F. Stirewalt performed the ceremony before a background of Woodwardia fern, jade and emerald foliage and seven-branched candelabra. Mass arrangements of gladioli, pom-poms, carnations and lilies formed the floral arrangements. Mrs. S. C. Parker, organist, and Dr. Jack N. Averitt of Statesboro, soloist, presented the program of wedding music.

Mrs. Ginn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wallace Averitt of Millen and Mr. Ginn is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elijah M. Ginn of Morgan.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of Chantilly lace and tulle. The fitted bodice of lace was fashioned with a deep portrait neckline edged with rose applique, and long sleeves which ended in points over the hands. The bouffant skirt had ruffles of tulle which extended into a cathedral train. Her fingerless veil of imported illusion was attached to half-bonnet of matching lace edged in seed pearls. Her bouquet was of white carnations and tuberoses and was showered with small carnations and ribbons.

Mrs. Julian Hinesley of Warren, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Miss Lenora Tillman of Claxton was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Mary Jo Weekly of Jacksonville, Fla., Miss Jane Averitt and Miss Frances Rackley of Statesboro, Mrs. James Hambrick of Macon, Mrs. Arthur Balk Jr. of Augusta, Mrs. James Blount of Waynesboro, Mrs. Aaron Swain of Morgan, Miss Debra Gay was flower girl. The attendants were dressed identically in floor-length dresses of soft spring green net over taffeta. The fitted strapless bodices were designed with draped folds at the neckline. The full skirts of net were fashioned with draped aprons of taffeta caught at intervals with bowknots of matching net. They carried bouquets of light green carnations caught to fans of green velvet tubing and net.

Joe Bryan of Damascus was best man. Ushers were Tom Perry of Savannah, Aubrey Lee of Nichols, Julian Hinesley of Warren, Jack Thurston of Albany, Jack Thurston of Albany, Bobby Sears of Sasser, James Suddrith and Tenuil Dunn of Morgan, Hal Hinesley, nephew of the bride was ring-bearer.

Mrs. Averitt, mother of the bride, chose a street-length dress of muted rose lace and chiffon designed with a close fitting bodice of lace and a full skirt of chiffon for her daughter's wedding. Her accessories were matching. She wore a white orchid corsage. Mrs. Ginn, the groom's mother, wore an ice blue dress of lace and her accessories were matching. Her corsage was an orchid.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The reception hall and parlors were decorated with arrangements of gladioli, stock, carnations and snapdragons in shades of pink and rose. The bride's table was covered with a floor-length tulle with double ruffles and white net. The tiered wedding cake centered the table and was flanked in white and green with white bisque figurines of musical nymphs. Candelabra flanked the cake.

For a wedding trip to Florida, Mrs. Ginn wore a linen suit of toast brown color. Her accessories were white and brown. The orchid from her bouquet formed her corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Ginn will make their home in Douglas where Mr. Ginn is a member of the Coffee County High School faculty.

FTA Group to Present Skit At Douglas GEA Thursday

Seven members from the Georgia Teachers College FTA chapter will present a program for the Coffee county GEA in Douglas, Thursday, April 19.

The group will present a skit, "At Saint Peter's Gate," intended to portray in humorous manner the negligence of some teachers to participate in programs aimed at promoting the teaching profession.

Five teachers who have passed on, appear at Saint Peter's gate requesting a crown which they think is their just reward.

Saint Peter, in reading from his "Doom's Day Book," points out by the many instances where they failed to keep in stride with improved educational methods and failed to take an active part in furthering teaching as a profession.

Billy Jackson, Ed Abercrombie, Mary Jane Harper, Joyce Jackson, Carreen Hatcher, Clarence Miller, and Albert Correll are the seven members taking part in the skit.

The seven and FTA faculty adviser Shelby Monroe will take the skit to the FTA convention in Atlanta, April 19-20, and 21.

The local chapter will pay half the trip expenses and the representatives will pay the other half.

No Parent's Day For This Year

An official announcement from Dr. Zach S. Henderson discloses this week that "Parents' Day," held here for the two past years, will not be held this year.

Because of so many activities being programmed for this quarter, the administration felt that sufficient time and effort could not be spent to insure success of the event.

According to Dr. Henderson, the plan worked well in its initial year, but got less response the second year. School officials believe this may indicate a tendency for parents to have less interest in such a program after once being formally introduced to the college.

"Parents' Day," for this reason, the administration is considering plans to hold that special day once every two years instead of every year.

EXTRA GOOD because it's NATURAL

CHILEAN NITRATE—WORLD'S ONLY NATURAL NITRATE

Whatever the crop—corn, cotton, tobacco, pastures, small grains, fruits, vegetables—Chilean Soda top dressings and side-dressings give the best results, lowest costs, largest net profits.

Natural Chilean works fast. Corn responds beautifully at rates up to 500 pounds per acre or more, 40 to 50 days after planting. The nitrogen in Chilean is 100 per cent fast-acting nitrate—available at the critical stage of crop development.

Natural Chilean boasts yields. On cotton, side-dressings of 300 pounds or more, 35 to 40 days after planting, produce heavy yielding, early-maturing plants. On pastures, too, it's a more efficient summer fertilizer than ammonia forms of nitrogen.

Make sure you get the NATCHEL kind!

Natural Chilean contains sodium. Ammonia nitrogen is acid-forming and must be changed to the nitrate form in the soil, but every ton of Chilean contains sodium equivalent to 650 pounds of commercial limestone for destroying soil acidity.

Natural Chilean benefits crop and soil. It corrects acidity, improves potassium, phosphate, calcium, magnesium and minor element availabilities. Chilean is one of the most efficient and economical nitrogen fertilizers for side-dressing summer crops. Ask for Bulldog Soda. Look for the Bulldog on the bag.

Junior Womans Club

The Statesboro Junior Womans Club met Thursday afternoon at the Recreation Center with Mrs. H. P. Jones Jr., president, presiding.

The Rev. William J. Erwin, pastor of the local Methodist Church, was guest speaker. The topic of his discussion was "Spiritual Values in Home Living," and was related to the well known statement "Families that pray together stay together." According to Erwin, and proven by figures taken from a survey of home life cases where either husband or wife participated in church life in the higher bracket for divorce rates and active church workers presented a lower divorce rate, commented Rev. Erwin. Basic acts of civilization and fall in proportion with quality of home life. He explained to us the extent that the Hebrew people emphasize the value of home life. They observe the feast of the Passover. He continued by stating that the nation of Israel was primarily the outgrowth of spiritual life for our forefathers, which in turn meant a great deal to American civilization, therefore, our thoughts go back to people with ideas and hardships to establish churches, strive to abide in peace and gather around family altars in pioneer homes, which presented spiritual elements. Their trust and faith in God gave them determination to push forward, from their places, which were carved out in the wilderness. Rev. Erwin declared that spiritual devotion is one of the first elements of a person's life and should be a must in the home. If not taught in the home, it is almost impossible for a child or grown-up to obtain proper and fulfilled training elsewhere. The schools are not equipped well enough for this type training, and if not Savannah's second Million Dollar Days sale, to be held Friday and Saturday, April 20-21, will be one of the greatest shopping events in the history of the city, Sam G. Adler Jr., president of the Downtown Merchants Association, sponsor of the event, declared today.

Thousands of items will be placed on sale during the two-day event with special emphasis to be given at least two items by every participating store.

In the latter group the two items cannot be priced at more than 10 per cent above actual invoice cost. A special committee of outstanding citizens has been appointed to enforce this rule.

The two items will be carried in special boxes on cover pages on Thursday's Savannah Evening News and Friday's Savannah Morning News and Friday's Evening Press.

Additionally, when Million Dollar Day shoppers buy merchandise during these two days, they will have the assurance that the merchandise is all new, fresh, and a true value... nothing may be offered as a "clearance item," Mr. Adler emphasized.

Reading Clinics Show Johnny Can Be Taught

So Johnny can't read! Well, it isn't his fault, for he certainly wants to read; and if he really can't read, something can and should be done about it.

That's the last word on the subject from one who ought to know—Miss Marian Kerns, reading consultant with the national textbook publishing house. She has spent the week on the GTC campus conducting special reading clinics at Pittman and other local elementary schools.

Miss Kerns, a native of Copperhill, Tenn., will admit with certain reservations that Johnny perhaps cannot read as well as he should, but add emphatically that he can be taught to read well.

Demonstrations To prove what she says, she has kept a daily schedule of reading demonstrations with groups of Pittman elementary pupils, illustrating to teachers, practice teachers and education classes what she defines as characteristics of "a good reading program."

The reading specialist, who has a background of elementary, high school, and college teaching, points to a number of factors contributing to Johnny's reading delinquencies, but mainly she says, it's all because the teacher fails in presenting a lesson. She hastily adds, however, that social problems, crowded classrooms, schedule restrictions on reading classes, and the fact that in some classes the theory is so far advanced for practice, sometimes make it impossible for the teacher.

Miss Kerns highly recommended the "readness program" now used in most schools. She said, however, that the mental age of a child rather than his chronological age should determine when he is ready to begin reading.

Teach Meaning A good reading program, she pointed out, is one which teaches word meaning, identification and recognition, phonetics and structural analysis, and the use of context to cope with meaning. Further, a good program works with reading and study skills in different types of reading, thereby helping the student learn to evaluate and organize the subject matter. A good reading program also emphasizes the recreational approach to reading. Miss Kerns declared. Finally, a good program includes oral reading lessons in which the children learn to share reading experiences, to interpret punctuation, and to help each other with reading problems.

Power pow-wow at local tractor dealer April 24

An outdoor "Power Pow-Wow" to demonstrate new applications of Ford farming power will be staged Tuesday night, April 24, starting at 7:30 p. m. at Standard Tractor and Equipment Company, Inc., according to Mr. L. E. Tyson, Ford tractor and implement dealer in Statesboro.

"All farmers and those interested in farming, as well as those who use tractors and equipment for industrial work are cordially invited to our Power Pow-Wow and open house, Mr. Tyson said. "Refreshments will be served and there will be plenty for everyone to see and do." A young steer will be given away plus many other prizes.

Mr. Tyson said several new Ford tractors and implements will be demonstrated doing actual work during the Power Pow-Wow, and those interested in operating the equipment will be given the opportunity to do so right in the field.

"We have planned this Power Pow-Wow to show everyone in this area the dozens of new Ford tractors and implements that have been developed in the last year to handle the many new jobs made necessary by the recent rapid advancements in farming," Mr. Tyson said.
