SAFETY HINTS from the Red Cross

A quick way to get hurt is to select the spot directly under the diving board for your swimming. You will be badly bruised, and so, very likely, will the diver. Next to swimming with a life preserver, the most enjoyable of all.

Corn is probably the best adapted crop in Georgia for hogging-off purposes. That's what Swine Specialist Bill Hays of the Extension Service thinks.

When you cook foods to be frozen, cool them quickly. Agricultural Extension Service nutritionists advise. Baking done by setting the uncovered pan of food on ice or in ice water.

Freeze meat pies or turnovers with pastry crusts unsealed. Nutritionists advise. Baking crusts after freezing gives them a fresher flavor and makes crusts more tender and flaky.

Lime is not a substitute for Epsom salt or landplaster when growing large seeded Virginia type peas, says J. Frank McGill, Agricultural Extension Service agronomist.

The taste of flour and meal is not changed by enriching, says John Noland, corn meal enrichment specialist at the Coastal Bermuda for hay? Extension Service Agronomist Frank McGill says it's best for this purpose when around 15 to 18 inches tall.

According to a 1955 U. S. Department of Agriculture report over 50 per cent of the total milk produced in the United States was produced in the North Central States. Only about seven per cent was produced in the South Atlantic states.

Tobacco Frolic at Recreation Center to celebrate market opening July 25

The Statesboro Recreation Department today announced special plans for the first annual Tobacco Market Frolic to be held in Memorial Park on July 25, opening day of the Statesboro tobacco market.

Special plans call for activities of interest to all ages beginning at 9 a. m. and lasting until 11 p. m.

Swimming classes will continue during the morning hours with the special activities starting with a two-hour feature movie at 10 a. m.

During the afternoon there will be an inter-school tennis tournament for boys and men 15 years old and older with an individual trophy being awarded the champion.

There will be a ping pong, horseshoe and zeb ball tournament for boys 12 years of age and younger with medals going to the winners.

At 5 p. m. there will be a watermelon cutting and an old-fashioned boiling for those who take time out to celebrate the opening of the market.

A county wide swimming competition will be held with participation open to most age groups and with ribbons going to the winners.

At 8 p. m. the annual All Star game in the Men's Softball League will get underway with Cobb Vets playing the League All Stars who will be selected by the managers.

All activities will be interrupted at 8:30 p. m. for a gigantic fireworks display to be held behind the swimming pool in Memorial Park.

Following the fireworks display there will be dancing by records on the patio for all the members of Ten Time until 11 p. m. Refreshments will be served.

Make your plans now to celebrate this special day in Bulloch county. Everyone is invited to come down to join in the fun. Help make this annual affair a success by taking part in all the activities.

HERE'S HOW THE new building of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Statesboro will look when completed. The new building design is in the traditional Southern classic style. The main entrance portico will contain six fluted ionic stone columns, with stone cornices and columns will cover a drive-in teller's window. —Cut courtesy, Savannah Morning News.

Tobacco men go to meeting in Vidalia

Tobacco warehousemen from Statesboro will join warehousemen and tobacco people at Vidalia Saturday morning, July 21, for the annual meeting of the Georgia-Florida Tobacco Warehouse Association.

J. L. Bowen of Tifton, president of the association, made the announcement this week. The meeting will be held at the Vidalia County Club beginning at 10 a. m.

An attendance in excess of 100 members is expected, with members coming from every market operating in the Georgia-Florida belt. The meeting last year was held in Blackshear.

Expected to be present, and to address the meeting are Mr. Fred S. Ryster of Henderson, N. C., president of the Bright Belt Warehouse Association, and Mr. Lloyd T. Weeks of Raleigh, N. C., general manager of the Blue-Cured Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corporation, Inc.

This is the agency which handles all fire-cured tobacco placed under government loan and it is the largest cooperative in the world, with an excess of 500,000 members. At this meeting the stabilization supplies for the 1956 season will be issued.

Ernie Olson director of quality at Rockwell

E. M. (Ernie) Olson has been named as director of quality control at Rockwell Manufacturing Company, a position he has held since 1954. He has worked as an assembler, machine operator, foreman, plant superintendent, and director of quality control — his present position.

Ernie was born in North Braddock, a suburb of Pittsburgh, where he completed his education in the public and high school education. He then went to work for the American Steel and Wire Company where he learned the machinist trade. During the time he furthered his education attending night schools.

In 1929 he came to work for Rockwell in their Pittsburgh plant as an assembler. During the time of his employment he

Editorials

Want to help?

So you want to do something for the community? And so you are already doing your bit? That's fine and commendable. Then this is not for you.

This is for you who would like to do something specific for the city's Recreation Center.

Near the swimming pool is a little clump of trees and a concrete patio. Its purpose is for picnicking crowds and outdoor gatherings during the spring, summer and fall months, when outdoors can be so delightful.

If a rain comes up—and we've been blessed with rains this summer—groups using the patio and picnic area get drenched, which makes the rest of the party uncomfortable or breaks the gathering up altogether.

A movement is afoot to put a cover over the concrete patio. Several civic-minded citizens have already contributed generously to the project. It has the endorsement and support of the Statesboro and Bulloch County Chamber of Commerce.

So anyone wishing to help with this project to make our Recreation Center more usable may send his or her contribution to Max Lockwood, Recreation Department superintendent, and be assured that it will be used properly and with appreciation, by young and old alike.

Still a problem

We continue to hear complaints about the traffic problem which exists at the corner of North Main and Parrish street, where U. S. 301 comes into town.

Local people using North Main, which has the right-of-way over U. S. 301 traffic entering North Main, drive lickety-split, across Parrish street, creating consternation on the part of drivers trying to turn south on North Main street.

A stop sign on 301 and the stop light over the intersection stops 301 traffic. And for the timid and safety-conscious driver it's a problem breaking into traffic with the right of way.

A study could be made of the traffic pattern there and we believe that something could be done.

Sylvania progresses

Progress seems to be piling up on Sylvania and Screven county at the moment. Recent news stories in The Sylvania Telephone have reported such current or future developments as a $500,000 housing project and a new health center.

A new library building, a new tobacco warehouse, John Perry's new motel, paving projects on Sylvania streets and on county roads and plans for a welcome station on Highway 301 are all in progress.

Of all these important projects, none is more important in the long run than the new library. The quiet appeal and immeasurable value of books is often overshadowed by the drama and color of business development, political combat and spectator sports but books continue to be civilization's depository of all worth-while knowledge.

Screven county's library provides young people and adults alike with windows through which they can look out on the vast and varied world. Such a valuable resource deserves a fine building.

Going up on East Ogeechee street is a structure that would seem to be just that. A walk through its interior reveals it to be much more spacious than might be expected by anyone who knows how limited the funds provided are and a glance at the plans and specifications show that it is to be modern and efficient in every respect.

The credit for the ingenuity that is providing the county with 6,000 square feet of modern library building at a cost of less than $28,000 should go largely to Knapp Boddiford, county school superintendent and a member of the county library board.

Boddiford, who as school superintendent has supervised the construction of more modern school buildings than Screven countians could have dreamed of a couple of decades ago, is applying his "know-how" to the problem of providing the county with a maximum of library facilities at a minimum of cost.

Lifesaving important

Riding over Bulloch county we are impressed with the growing number of ponds. Built as part of a soil conservation program, as a source of recreation, fishing, swimming and boating, they are a fine thing for our county.

And upon viewing these wonderful addenda the question pops into our mind, "Wonder how many of the kids and adults swimming or boating or fishing in these ponds know anything about lifesaving?"

We believe that every kid, when he can, should take a course in lifesaving, such as the one offered at the Statesboro Recreation Center. To know the fundamentals of lifesaving is valuable from a personal safety angle as well as for the safety of all who go into the water.

Congratulations

Our fellow newspaper publisher and editor, Shields Kenan of the Bulloch Times, has been named on the Board of Managers of the Georgia Press Association to represent the First Congressional District.

We commend our new Georgia Press president, R. E. Ledford of Vidalia, upon his appointment of Mr. Kenan. It is a compliment to the abilities of Mr. Kenan and to Statesboro and Bulloch county. He's bound to do the Georgia Press a good job.

We were pleased with the response we received to our editorial last week in which we suggested that our City Fathers strip the police cars of all identifying marks as a means of slowing down the race-track drivers who use the streets of Statesboro.

THE SHRINKING CRIPPLER...

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

SOMETHING NICE happened to us on a Friday night last week. Jimmy Gunter, immediate past president of the Lions Club, invited us to attend the club's annual Ladies' Night Party at which new officers were to be installed. We accepted with pleasure, glowing in the anticipation of getting a fine dinner and being with our friends. We arrived at the Recreation Center in style. We were given a party hat to wear—which did find our own looks—and told to find our place at one of the tables. We did so. We got steeled, the meal was served and came time for the installation ceremonies in which 100 per cent attendees were recognized.

And then it happened. All these years we have been so used to rocking along doing as good a job as we could with our own talents and abilities we have upon which to draw, week after week, getting out the Bulloch Herald. Some weeks 'twas tough, other weeks 'twas just a breeze. But every week getting along.

And last Tuesday night, it caught up on me. Jimmy Gunter asked us to come forward in front of all those gathered at the Recreation Center, and presented us with a little plaque on which is inscribed the emblem of the Lions International Mrs. Edna Mae (Little Chick's Edna Mae) Jones, the then immediate past president of the Junior Women's Club, presented us with a certificate which said about the same thing.

Things like these keep our feet to the fire. . . .

NEXT WEDNESDAY, July 25, marks the opening of the 29th tobacco auction season on the Statesboro market. This event means a great deal to the economy of our community. All of us have a stake in it. The tobacco crop for this year will be better, if nothing happens to it between now and the days of the market.

DEAR GREAT-GREAT-GREAT GRANDCHILDREN: As I sit in the yard early this morning and listen to the birds and enjoy the blessed coolness of the early morning hours my thoughts somehow turned to you.

This "modern" age, as our age is called, moves so fast that I wonder what your age will be doing.

The other day I heard a preacher say that he had heard a scientist say that if the next 40 years were as scientifically progressive as the last 40 years had been, that a man would be able to throw a grain of corn out his door in the morning as he went to work and when he came home in the evening he'd have corn for dinner. This preacher said that expectant mothers would just run by the schools and stay a few hours and leave the teachers with a new charge.

TO TELL YOU the truth we haven't quite perfected everything yet. For instance, there's "air conditioning" as we call it. It is quite an accomplishment

SAFETY HINTS from the Red Cross: Aching joints, and maybe heat prostrations, will be the harvest of your energetic gait. Whatever you age, don't overdo the strenuous life when out in the open. Stay within your physical limitations.

There are, however, a few simple rules of thumb which should be followed by the leaders of a community seeking new industry.

MOST community leaders when they study the practical, measurable factors which industry considers in plant location, they know they must conduct a thorough survey and appraisal of community assets in terms of these factors.

Or it is possible that you may be living in caves. I do pray that my generation won't get so progressive in their scientific thinking that they will forget about your souls, and their well-being.

Meditation for This Week

PEACE AND VICTORY

TEXT: "These things I have spoken unto you, that in me ye might have peace. In the world ye shall have tribulation; but of good cheer; I have overcome the world." John 16:33.

In Christ's farewell message he revealed some precious secrets to his disciples. One was the secret of communion, "abode in me." Another was the secret of joy, "These things I have spoken unto you, that your joy might be full." Another was the secret of steadfastness, "These things I have spoken unto you, that ye should not be offended."

Another was the secret of prayer, "Hitherto ye have asked nothing in my name; Ask, and ye shall receive, that your joy may be full." Another secret was the secret of peace and victory, "These things have I spoken unto you, that in me ye might have peace. In the world ye shall have tribulation; but of good cheer; I have overcome the world."

THE BELIEVER'S PEACE: It is spiritual peace. This is plain from the fact that it can be enjoyed in the midst of tribulation. Christ said that the world his followers would have tribulation. Yet at the same time they are to have peace. The Rev. Charles G. Finny gave a good representation of the believer's peace in a little incident from his own experience. He said: "In crossing the Atlantic some years ago we were overtaken by a gale of wind. The spray from the crest of the waves blew upon the face with almost enough force to blister it. The noise of the waves howling and roaring and foaming was almost deafening. But when I stepped into the engine room everything was quiet. The mighty engine was moving with quietness and stillness. It reminded me of the peace that can reign in the soul of man while storms and tempest are raging without."

This peace is a peace peculiar to the friends of Jesus. "In me ye shall have peace." It is speaking to his friends only. Those who are not Christ's friends are strangers to this peace. "There is no peace, saith God, to the wicked."

THE BELIEVER'S VICTORY: Those who share in Christ's peace are also to share in his victory. "In the world ye shall have tribulation; but of good cheer; I have overcome the world." This means far more than if one, conscious of having attained the mastery, should turn to a friend still struggling against difficulties and say to him, "Be of good courage, see what I have done." It means far more than when one man has solved a problem, turns to his friend and says, "I have solved the problem, and you may also." It means that one who has solved a problem, turns to his friend and says, "I have solved the problem, and you may also." It is a promise from God of resurrection. It is a promise of final victory. Bless God!

As a matter of fact Christ did overcome the world, in his life, in his death, in his resurrection. Through participating with him Christians share with him this victory. Through faith in him and by the help Christ gives them to overcome the world. It is necessary to put on extra clothing.

The men in this age run the churches. They don't get hot on Sunday morning because they sit around before church hours. Then they adorn themselves in suits that go to the ankles. So the 68 degree churches, suits them. (In winter they wear them. In winter they wear 75 degrees for comfort. Then we will have on warmer clothes.)

There is some psychology behind this. I just can't figure it out. Whether the men think it is a good thing to have the church very, very cool so the preacher could preach a sermon on hell—well, as I say I can't figure it out. Or whether the arthritic pains that result from this cooling process tend to lead people into a more righteous state, I just don't know.

BUT GREAT-GREAT great grandchildren, I got to thinking of you this morning. I thought that it wouldn't be too surprising if you don't have the planet Mercury air conditioned!

Or it is possible that you may be living in caves. I do pray that my generation won't get so progressive in their scientific thinking that they will forget about your souls, and their well-being.

It Seems to Me...

IN JUST a few days now Congress will wind up its business for this session and our district will be saying "Welcome Home" Mr. Preston. One might well add, "Thank you for a good job Mr. Congressman."

In all of the First District young and old alike know our representative simply as "Prince." We find in that friendly name a man with conviction and a man of strength of character. With the congressional campaign only a few short weeks away a man of lesser stature would have given up the political battle in Washington to spend more time at home on the political scene to protect his personal interests. This week in Washington our congressman will take part in the political debate in the House over the Civil Rights Bill. Every person in the First District knows how Prince Preston feels about that particular piece of legislation.

Prince has just undergone a complete physical examination and 47 doctors tell him that he is at the height of his mental and physical vigor. This is no news for his friends for those who are interested have taken the trouble and made the effort to watch his very excellent record in the Congress.

AS CHAIRMAN of one of the most important Sub-Committees on Appropriations, Mr. Preston is in a position in the House to protect the best interests of the taxpayers in his district and just recently saved us millions of dollars by trimming one of the major appropriation bills before the Congress.

The Democratic Party has recognized his leadership ability and has selected him to serve as the assistant whip. This is an important party post and makes the congressman responsible for seeing that party members are kept fully aware of the vote on all issues of vital concern to the nation.

The main issue in which the voters of the first district are interested is the record and not the man. Mr. Preston can certainly take great pride in standing on that record. HE HAS WORKED tirelessly to assure drought loans for our distressed farmers. He has worked to gain the needed funds for the development of the Clark Hill dam which has meant so much to the Savannah River valley. He has worked to secure funds for the Hartwell dam, for forest fire control, for our school program or a better vocational training program and has spearheaded the drive which has led to the major development of the harbor facilities at Savannah. This harbor development has meant much more to the entire First District than most of the citizens living in the district have been led to believe.

In Washington Mr. Preston is a representative well known and respected. His record is supporting legislation which has been enacted into law which has given our farmers and has obtained for them a position of leadership which he regards as a sacred trust.

JUST RECENTLY our congressman has joined the successful battle to designate Camp Stewart as a fort, thereby making it a permanent military installation. He has fought the winning battle for the development of a turning basin in Savannah harbor, lined up votes to pass the 90 per cent of parity for our farmers and has obtained much needed funds for the development of our municipal airports. Much of this legislation was carried through to successful adoption over the very stiff opposition of the Republican Party.

Yes, Mr. Preston is interested in the welfare of the people in the First District. One has but to look at the record to know that the congressman responsible for seeing that party members are kept fully aware of the vote on all issues of vital concern to the nation.

And so I would like to add my handshake to the many hundreds of others as our Mr. Preston returns home to the first district and take the opportunity to say "Welcome Home Prince, and thanks for a job well done."

How communities can attract industry told by Rockwell official

By LLOYD A. DIXON JR., Vice President in Charge of Meter and Valve Division Rockwell Manufacturing Co.

Our company has built five major new plants in five different states in the past five years. Yet we could not suggest any universal community formula for "industrial appeal." Too many variables are involved. Moreover, our ability to speak as "authorities" on this subject may be limited by the fact that we rely on a professional factory locating service to help us select plant sites. They screen and check locations for us as they are in the process of singling out the ones that seem to meet our advance specifications. Then we collaborate in proving out the final choice, with the Rockwell people involved making the decision.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This article appeared in the June issue of Public Works, an engineering publication with national circulation for cities, counties and state. Mr. Dixon was present here when Dan Morris, president of the Bulloch Development Corporation turned the keys of the new Rockwell building over to W. F. Rockwell Jr., president of the company, in a special ceremony at the Country Club on Monday evening, January 23. Also present was N. W. Rowland, vice president in charge of the Statesboro Rockwell Corporation.

There are, however, a few simple rules of thumb which should be followed by the leaders of a community seeking new industry.

MOST community leaders when they study the practical, measurable factors which industry considers in plant location, they know they must conduct a thorough survey and appraisal of community assets in terms of these factors.

Another aspect of our screening standards is community "Personality and Policy." For example, we like to feel reasonably sure that a community isn't bringing industry wholesale without regard to the effect each new plant may have on the others, or on the community as a whole. Some of our operating divisions require a high proportion of skilled employees. If the availability of skilled workers in a community is limited or even averages, we want to make certain our employee force will be stable and can be maintained with fairness to all.

How to attract industry...

There are any other industries in town we talk at some length with the management of each to ascertain community attitudes, sense of responsibility and similar characteristics, as fellow industrialists view them.

We depend, too, on our own powers of observation. We walk the streets of the community, we look at the homes, the lawns, the churches, the parks, the schools, the water works.

These little things reveal so much about a community and its residents. Do householders show personal pride in the appearance of their lawns and homes? Do they keep up their schools and churches and parks? Are there enough of these, and other important institutions and facilities to meet the requirements of the population? If not, are the citizens actively and realistically trying to meet the need of the community?

Civic pride and the personal pride of residents are important District than most of the citizens living in the district have been led to believe.

supervisors are hard to come by, and their morale is important to us. There are other problems, also. One community, for example, has a high percentage of negroes, sense of responsibility and similar characteristics, as fellow industrialists view them.

Miss Judy Nesmith and Penny Sue Trappell, Buddy Anderson, John Thomas Hodges, Alwyn Burnsed, Jackie Anderson, all are spending this week at the 4-H Camp Fulton near Atlanta.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Lewis and Mrs. Gordon Lewis and daughter, Sheila Jean, were among those to attend the birthday dinner Sunday of Mrs. Dan Beasley near Claxton.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Hodges and daughter of Savannah were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wilton Rowe.

Mrs. Julia Nevis spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Grady Flake in Brooklet.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Sanders and little daughter, Patricia Ann of Statesboro, and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Rowe were Saturday din-work in covered employment. They apply to those who died in service as well as to those who die after discharge.

Military service wage credits may be used for determining eligibility for benefits and for figuring amounts of benefits payable.

Effective September 1, 1954, many survivors of deceased veterans became eligible for benefits for the first time.

IMPORTANT CHANGE
Another important change brought about by the 1954 amendments is that the work requirements for entitlement to benefits have been liberalized in cases where the veteran died between June 1940 and September 1950. Survivors of many deceased servicemen and veterans who died within this period were originally denied social security benefits.

Effective September 1, 1954, many survivors of deceased veterans became eligible for benefits for the first time. The new law requires only 6 quarter years of coverage for an insured status for those who died between June 1940 and September 1950.

Claims and inquiries on any phase of the social security law should be made at the nearest district office of the Social Security Administration.

CEMETERY CLEANING AT RED HILL PRIMITIVE BAPTIST CHURCH
There will be a cemetery cleaning at Red Hill Primitive Baptist Church, Saturday, July 21. All interested persons are urged to come and help with the work.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Morgan, of the old Dublin Road (turn left on Pambrake Road below Denmark, on new road just paved-look for big sign) invites Teen-agers to their place to have birthday parties, church parties, fish suppers, or just clean wholesome parties. Just make appointment in advance. We will furnish the chaperones, or those desiring a party may furnish their own chaperones. But they must be good clean parties. Positively no drinking! No intoxicants permitted.

Mr. Campbell pointed out that actually farm people could live better on the farm during a "low priced depression" than during a period when the things farmers have to buy cost so much more than the things he has to sell brought accordingly.

At least, Mr. Campbell stated he had a good living on his farm during the last "low priced" depression, even if he did not have any money to spend.

Mr. Campbell urged the large delegation present to make a special effort to solve more of their own problems and to depend on legislation and others less. "Farmers can by working together handle some 70 percent of their own problems," he stated. "Farm planning and management will go a long way toward solving many farm problems."

Mr. Terrell Beasley can see the benefits of nitrogen fertilizer on his bahia pasture just southeast of Statesboro. His nitrogen gave out before getting over the area and a good seed crop is being made where the nitrogen was applied, but very few seeds where no nitrogen was put. He said his cows also liked the fertilized area better than the unfertilized.

Mr. Joe Hart reports mighty good grazing results from his bahia pasture east of Statesboro in the Ogeechee Community. He says that his cows are having a hard time keeping it grazed enough. On the area right next to the highway and beyond the church where he had coastal bermuda and bahia mixed on sandy land, the bahia looks better than the coastal.

Mr. Denver Lanier above Portal is doing an outstanding job of pond fertilization on his jam-up pond near the home-stand. He reports using over a ton already this year in the three-acre pond. The insect life found on the bottom and the dark green color testified to that. He said the fish were fat and plump also.

Fred W. Hodges, Ogeechee president, announced that their queen and talent show would be held in September with Mrs. J. R. Kelly, Mrs. Rex Hart, and Mrs. George H. Miller in charge. Miles Frank Deal, county ASC officer, advised the group that

Mr. J. W. Brannen, a co-operator of the Ogeechee River Soil Conservation District south of Statesboro, reports good results from his plantings of 3 acres of coastal bermuda and 11 acres of pensacola bahia grass recently. Good rains came just after planting and he says a good stand is in prospect on both pastures.

Mr. Arthur James Riggs, also a co-operator south of Statesboro, is getting a good coverage of pensacola bahia and sorghum in combination on some of his sander soils. His earlier planted alone in early spring had most got wiped out by the high winds and resulting sand soon after it came up.

Mr. Terrell Beasley can see the benefits of nitrogen fertilizer on his bahia pasture just southeast of Statesboro. His nitrogen gave out before getting over the area and a good seed crop is being made where the nitrogen was applied, but very few seeds where no nitrogen was put. He said his cows also liked the fertilized area better than the unfertilized.

Mr. Joe Hart reports mighty good grazing results from his bahia pasture east of Statesboro in the Ogeechee Community. He says that his cows are having a hard time keeping it grazed enough. On the area right next to the highway and beyond the church where he had coastal bermuda and bahia mixed on sandy land, the bahia looks better than the coastal.

Mr. Denver Lanier above Portal is doing an outstanding job of pond fertilization on his jam-up pond near the home-stand. He reports using over a ton already this year in the three-acre pond. The insect life found on the bottom and the dark green color testified to that. He said the fish were fat and plump also.

Fred W. Hodges, Ogeechee president, announced that their queen and talent show would be held in September with Mrs. J. R. Kelly, Mrs. Rex Hart, and Mrs. George H. Miller in charge. Miles Frank Deal, county ASC officer, advised the group that

Mr. Campbell pointed out that actually farm people could live better on the farm during a "low priced depression" than during a period when the things farmers have to buy cost so much more than the things he has to sell brought accordingly.

At least, Mr. Campbell stated he had a good living on his farm during the last "low priced" depression, even if he did not have any money to spend.

Mr. Campbell urged the large delegation present to make a special effort to solve more of their own problems and to depend on legislation and others less. "Farmers can by working together handle some 70 percent of their own problems," he stated. "Farm planning and management will go a long way toward solving many farm problems."

Phil Campbell spells out problems created by 'high priced depression'

The problems created by the "high priced depression" for farmers were enumerated by Phil Campbell, commissioner of agriculture, at the district Farm Bureau meeting for Negroes here Monday, July 9.

Mr. Campbell pointed out that actually farm people could live better on the farm during a "low priced depression" than during a period when the things farmers have to buy cost so much more than the things he has to sell brought accordingly.

Why are the Methodist people being lulled to sleep? The good people of the Methodist Church are being lulled to sleep on the segregation issue by some high-up authority and the NAACP.

How many of you know that the NAACP is being housed in the Wesleyan Memorial Building in Atlanta, Ga.?

I wonder if there are any figures on the amount of money the NAACP has donated to the Methodist supported Negro colleges in Georgia?

I wonder if there is any NAACP activity in these colleges in Georgia?

Have you loyal Methodists?

M/SGT. ROBERT DENMARK BACK IN U. S. FROM ALASKA
M/Sgt. Robert D. Denmark, son of Mrs. Margaret Denmark, 208 W. Main St., Statesboro, Ga., is scheduled to arrive at Fort Lewis, Wash., this month from Alaska as part of Operation Gyroscope, the Army's unit rotation plan.

Sergeant Denmark is a member of the 71st Infantry Division, which is replacing the 2nd Infantry Division at Fort Lewis. A communications chief in Headquarters Battery of the division's 274th Field Artillery Battalion, the sergeant arrived for duty in Alaska in August 1952.

Remember, you have heard it said from time to time, that the days of Noah. God saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth and that every imagination of the thoughts of his heart was only evil continually and it repented the Lord that he had made man on the earth and it grieved Him at His heart.

And the Lord said "I will destroy man whom I have created from the face of the earth. If man grows to his wickedness."

Nowhere in the lids of the Bible is there a certain percentage taught in starting interpretation. Arise thou that sleepest and search the Scriptures to assure yourself on this issue.

The nine judges did not make up their decision from the United States, nor did they select any Scripture from the Bible in pinning down their decision.
