Don't Do It Governor!

Don't do it Governor... It's a wonderful idea you have—finding Georgia's outstanding war heroes—who made the greatest contribution to the winning of World War II—but don't do it.

You want to select one man, a hero, to be honored by the State of Georgia. You are asking the people of the state, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and American Legion to help find that man.

But you don't give the specifications for our hero. You want to find out which of our servicemen has made the greatest contribution to winning the war in line of active duty as a combat serviceman.

You want to set up a committee of outstanding citizens to select Georgia's hero.

But don't do it Governor.

You figure that approximately 350,000 Georgians have served in the armed forces in World War II. Then if you set up one man and make him "Georgia's Hero" you are going to do an injustice to 349,999.

What are your specifications for Georgia's Hero?

Will he be picked for the number of days or months he served? Will he be that man who made the most assault landings on Pacific beaches?

Will our hero be that air ace who has the greatest number of enemy planes to his credit?

Will he be that General who

The Inquisitive Reporter

The Preacher Says

By T. EARL SERSON.

Pastor First Baptist Church, Statesboro, Ga., in a recent issue of the paper that "went to war," is to be rewarded because of the rarified verbiage which will assuredly not only those whose privilege it will be to be influenced by the combined minds of the ministers of our city.

Not only is this so, but we ministers feel that an unusual opportunity once served twice on Sunday, 1947, as chairman of county commissioners of roads and revenues.

Very respectfully,
FRED W. HODGES.

THREE OF HERALD'S ORIGINAL STAFF WITH "NEW" HERALD

The county correspondents of the "New" Herald picked up just where they left off. The first issue of the "new" Herald contains the news of Brooklet community sent in by Mrs. John A. Robertson, and news from the Nevis community sent in by Maude White. Both of these correspondents have been with the Herald since it was established in 1937.

Miss Ernest E. Brannen picked up just where she left off and swung right into the middle of the social happenings of Statesboro. She was with the Herald when it was established.

Miss Margaret Strickland, news correspondent from Register has been added to the Herald Staff.

County Groups Co-op With DDT

The County Farm Bureaus at West Side, Nevis and Portals are cooperating with the DDT control programs. There were some 60 present at the West Side meeting this week, 60 at Nevis and about 75 at the Portals. Those present voted to pay $1 per house per week for DDT to control flies and mosquitoes.

The West Side group set aside Friday, February 2, as "errand maintenance day" and planned to hold a demonstration at John H. Brannen's farm. Those interested are to drop by during the day anytime to see the new methods of building terraces. The Extension Service was asked to provide a man to help with farm records. Various systems of treating fence posts were discussed. Indications are a post treating machine will be worked out in the community during the next month.

Portals held ladies night. Several projects were suggested during the meeting for the group to work on. None of the projects named are far enough along to discuss publicly. C. M. Cowart, president, reported on the annual Farm Bureau federation meeting in Chicago.

Mr. Cowart stated that the farmers in other sections were just like our group and wanted to work with us, if we would cooperate with them in any way.

The Nevis group planned to finish their fence post treating plant and announced that the fence locker plant should be ready for use in a couple of months.

THE LIFE THAT WASN'T LOST

FOR THE SECOND time in the history of this Company, our employes in 1945 went through an entire year without a fatal accident in line of duty. No man among us lost his life in performance of his hazardous job.

"Safety is no accident." For many years the Georgia Power Company has practiced accident prevention. Our workers are instructed in the safe ways of doing their jobs. At frequent safety meetings they review these correct procedures. Safety is kept uppermost in their minds. And each employe is provided with the proper safety devices and equipment called for by the hazards of his work.

This constant vigilance pays off in human lives saved. In 1924, the year before an organized safety program was begun, we had 624 occupational injuries serious enough to cause loss of time from work. Six men lost their lives. Last year no life was lost, and there were only 35 lost-time injuries. That was at the rate of less than three accidents for every million hours worked by our employes.

But there is more to the story than that. Despite all our efforts, danger is always waiting for a chump to strike. So our men are carefully trained in first aid. They know how to fight death.

In July, 1945, one of our linemen came in contact with a live power line atop a pole. He slumped apparently lifeless against his safety belt. His fellow workers were quick to act. One hurried up the pole, broke the contact and immediately began applying artificial respiration. Others rushed to help. Thanks to the fact that our men had learned the pole-top method of resuscitation, precious seconds were saved. In 10 minutes the man was breathing lightly. An hour later he was breathing normally. Today that lineman is alive and working at his job.

This is the life that wasn't lost.

County School Superintendent Reviews Schools of War-Time

By Earl McEwen, County School Superintendent

Since Pearl Harbor the schools of Bulloch County have been operating on a wartime basis. Several of our teachers left the profession to enter the Armed Forces, while others left for higher paying jobs. It was necessary to reduce the qualification of teachers from a minimum of two years of college to a county license, in order to have someone in the classroom with students.

The teachers of Bulloch County receive pay on the basis of their State Certificate. This ranges from $45.00 for a county license teacher, to $110.00 for a teacher holding a Master's Degree. For colored children have entered school, some having been out for several years. The importance of the Compulsory School Attendance Law is now being realized in Bulloch County.

The transportation of our children under wartime conditions has been a tremendous problem. It was impossible to raise salaries of individual school bus drivers, therefore, in order to continue a system of school bus transportation the county had to take over most of the trucks. In 1941 there were forty-eight school buses in our county. Under the War Emergency regulations, mileage was reduced and trucks eliminated, and Bulloch County is operating forty-two school buses. There has been fifteen old buses replaced with new modern equipment. These buses costing $2,500 each amounts to a considerable capital outlay. There is still a need for about twenty more new buses to replace the old worn out trucks without the cooperation of school bus operators, principals, teachers, and patrons.

There has been much improvement made in our school building program even though the war has been going on. Local groups are to be commended for their fine work in the building of their fine school buildings.

The program of the Visiting Teacher, Miss Maude White, revealed some important facts. Many

John Johnston Wins Bronze Star

Lt. (sg) John W. Johnston, USNR, 836 Virginia Avenue, Virginia Heights, Roanoke, Virginia, son of the late John Thane Johnston, has been awarded the Bronze Star medal, and has been promoted to his present rank while on terminal leave.

The Bronze Star was awarded for "meritorious achievement in connection with operations against the enemy while serving as forty millimeter gun control officer on board the USS Pickering during a highly coordinated suicide attack by two enemy planes.

By exercising cool and deliberate control over the batteries for which he was responsible, the guns were enabled to deliver accurate and effective fire against the attacking planes which resulted in their destruction before their attack was completed, thereby saving his ship from certain extensive damage."

Johnston was in the Navy for three and a half years, and served for two years in the Pacific on the destroyer Pickering, which in helping bombard the Northern Kuriles was the first ship to bombard the Japanese homeland.

He was graduated in 1937 from Duke University, where he was outstanding in football and track as he was at Jefferson High School in Roanoke, Va. In 1933, he set the State track record of 22 seconds for the 220-yard dash, which has since been tied once, but which still stands.

Before entering the Navy, he was affiliated with the Coca-Cola Company, working out of Atlanta.

Hal Macon of the Georgia and State Theatres announced this week that Hal Macon, Jr., will be the manager of the State Theatre. The new manager states that the policy of the State is to bring back to Statesboro all the big pictures that the people of Statesboro wish to see. A new screen is being installed and general renovation of the theatre is being made.

He invites suggestions from the patrons of the State.

Better School Attendance Means Better Trained Children
By MAUDE WHITE

Today, there is nothing in the world more essential than working for the welfare of childhood and youth, so when peace is established, we shall have a fine sturdy generation to carry on. You may be a parent with a boy or girl of your own or you may be a teacher with many children in your direct charge, or if you are just a citizen of the community, you know that this work some day will need new leaders; leaders who will be recruited from among the youngsters of today. Therefore better training is greatly in demand. We want to do something practical and most of us have a more or less urgent desire to make the world a little bit better. We can make the world better by rearing a better trained generation of children.

To have better trained children we must have better school attendance records. We recognize that the purposes of the public schools are not fulfilled, and the efforts of the teachers are impaired, and that the school funds are uneconomically utilized if children fail to use the opportunity for learning which is provided in school. In many instances in the State of Georgia and in Bulloch county, the people are not taking advantage of these opportunities. They have a very irregular school attendance record.

The General Assembly of the State of Georgia in its regular 1945 session enacted a new compulsory attendance law. It was felt that the laws of compulsion alone were not sufficient to keep children in school, and that a more specialized and professional service was needed than we had. It was felt that an effective compulsory school attendance must be concerned with the removal of the causes of non-attendance and improve the condition favorable to the child's normal development and regular attendance. Therefore the law provides that County Boards of Education may employ a Visiting Teacher to help with this great problem.

According to the Bulloch County Annual Report submitted to the State last year, the enrollment in all of the white schools was 3,597. The average attendance in all white schools was 2,785. This shows that 810 white children were out of school on an average each day during the school term. The percentage of attendance was 77.48 for all white schools.

According to the same report the total in the Negro schools was 2,951 pupils. The average daily attendance in all the Negro schools 1,692. This shows an average of 899 Negro pupils out of school each day of 63.30 per cent of attendance for the year.

Suppose this absenteeism on the part of the pupils could be cut down to just one half. This would mean 405 more white in school and result in the allotment of thirteen or fourteen more additional teachers from the State. It would amount to at least $15,000 from the State for white schools. An increase of 450 Negro pupils would mean the addition of fifteen teachers. This would mean an additional $7,000 or $8,000 of State funds.

Although the financial part is of importance, the consideration is that of public welfare. If Bulloch county is to increase its average educational level for all of the people, the parents and teachers must see to it that all children stay in school for a longer number of years. Irregular attendance is the cause of a great many children to fail their grades. Once a child fails one or two of his grades he has less interest in school, and is apt to drop out at the first opportunity.

The staff of each school should know at all times who is out of school and why.

Bulloch Farmers Now Making Crop-Feed Loans

Mr. Henry B. Burned, field supervisor for the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Office, stated that farmers of Bulloch county are now applying for loans to finance the production of their 1946 crops. Applications for loans are now being written in Mr. Burned's office, 2nd floor Bulloch County Bank building, Statesboro. He stated that in addition to financing the production of the crops regularly grown in this vicinity, loans were also being made for the production of these crops so vitally needed because of the worldwide food shortage this year. Plans for 1946 call for increased production of many food crops. The production of such crops as the Extension Service considers can be successfully planted and grown in Bulloch county should be encouraged, wherever needed, so that no farm family will be denied the opportunity to make its maximum contribution to the food production program.

Emergency crop loans are available to farmers either owners or tenants, who own or can make arrangements for land to farm; who own or have the use of necessary work stock and equipment with which to farm, and who can give as security a first lien on the crops to be financed. These loans will be made to farmers who are unable to obtain loans sufficient to meet their needs on available terms from other sources. Loans are also available for the purchase or production of feed for livestock whose products will be marketed for livestock to be fed for the market, or for breeding animals with the increase to be marketed, but, as security, a first lien on such livestock is required. Mr. Burned emphasized that these loans are not restricted to selected applicants but are available to all farmers who can establish eligibility.

S. H. S. Defeats Portal Five 34-31

S. H. S. Blue Devils Sport News

By MIKE McDUGALD

Friday night's cage game really kept the boys and girls on the edge of their seats. "Close" is hardly the word for it. The boys from Portal cooled off the Blue Devils for the first three quarters, but with the final frame the Devils got hot as a freerooper. When the boys retired for the last quarter rest the man with the score-book figured the Portal lads had 27 points and the boys in blue 23 . . . and many a game is one on a three point lead at this point in the game.

With only four minutes to play the score stood at 28-all. The Blue Devils began velling for the crowd began velling for blood. And the Blue Devils finished out in front 34 to 31.

The local fans were satisfied. The lady Blue Devils breezed through a 40 to 18 victory over the ladies from Portal.

It was not enough that the score-keeper had trouble in keeping up with the fast change in the scoring . . . a Jassie from Portal fell through a 40 to 18 victory over the ladies from Portal.

Javcees Hear GM Side of Strike

Mr. R. H. Norton, zone manager of the Chevrolet Motors Company, Atlanta, presented to the members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce at its regular meeting held last Thursday, a brief statement of the issues involved in the UAW-GM strike against General Motors, using a slide projector.

Mr. Norton stated that a number of labor bills are being considered by Congress. However, he pointed out that new legislation affecting management-labor relations will not settle a thing if it does not establish clearly, the principle that management-labor relations should be settled by arbitration. The issue is not the financial status of the company involved—but whether the principle is sound that any employer should be forced to pay higher than competitive wages on the basis of management-labor relations. It also involves the question of how much more inflation our country wants and when.

"Whether the legislation, new or old, will permit labor and management to reach lasting settlement of their differences," he said. "We all must learn that we have to work for the things we would like to have. National wealth, improved standards of living—these come only as a result of producing, making and creating things that are useful. Things can be produced, made and created only by efficient work."

In commenting on the issues involved in the present UAW-GM strike against General Motors, Mr. Norton said that the union's desire to "look at our books" is a clever catch phrase intended on an opening wedge whereby hope to pry their way into the whole field of management. "The fact is the union is reaching for power and has gone beyond its rights under the law," he said.

He closed with the statement that the final results of this strike could mean that it would eventually reach down into the management of the smallest business. "Like you have here at your home."

Lehman Franklin had charge of the program and introduced Mr. Norton to the club.
