A Verse For This Week

Among the many acts of gratitude we owe to God, it may be accounted one to study and contemplate the perfections and beauties of His work of creation. Every new discovery must necessarily raise in us a fresh sense of the greatness, wisdom, and power of God.
Johnathan Edwards.

According to a Pattern

The past can give us a cue to the future. The Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta holds the past up before the mirror and gives us the following picture in a recent issue of its Monthly Review. Last Sunday the Atlanta Constitution reprinted a number of clippings, with the headline and date, taken from the Monthly Review's "Do You Remember When?" Here, for the benefit of the Herald readers are the clippings reflecting the all-out optimism that prefaced the boom and bust following World War I.

HIGH PRICES HERE TO STAY
(December, 1918)

Business men think that the era of high prices is here to stay.

COST OF LIVING INCREASES
(January, 1919)

While war wages were extremely high, compared with normal times, the cost of living increased in a gradual proportion, and with the general disposition of the American people to spend money and enjoy heretofore luxuries, very little, if any, real saving or spirit of economy has grown out of the war conditions. There appears to be a disposition on the part of the wage earner who purchased Liberty Bonds now to dispose of the same, feeling that he has fulfilled his patriotic duty.

DEFLATION SETTING IN (June, 1920)

While the volume of retail trade is large, there has been quite a subsiding of the rush caused by announcement of "sales" by large stores at price reductions of from 10 to 20 and 30 percent. Prices are so high that even with these reductions they are far above normal, and there is a firm determination on the part of many to wait until further declines take place, and until prices reach a permanently lower level.

HOLDING COTTON FOR THIRTY-FIVE CENTS
(October, 1919)

Meetings have been held with a view to having farmers hold off the market every possible bale of last year's cotton until the price reaches 35 cents a pound.

REAL ESTATE TRADING ACTIVE
(October, 1919)

The volume of building, both in residences and apartment houses, continues in all of the cities of the district and no abatement is indicated in the near future, notwithstanding the high prices for lumber and labor. A large number of houses are constantly changing hands and the trade in farm lands has also been active.

RESTLESSNESS OVER COST OF LIVING GROWING
(November, 1919)

The restlessness in the public mind is principally due to the cost of living, and while the wage for individual labor has been climbing upward, the demands are for still further increases which are made as a result of the high cost of living.

FARM-LAND VALUES CONTINUE TO INCREASE
(March, 1920)

A marked increase in the value of farm lands throughout the district is indicated in the reports by Field Agents of the Department of Agriculture. Georgia land values are reported to have increased from 20 percent to 25 percent during 1919, and are much more than double those of five years ago.

CONSUMERS ORGANIZE RESISTANCE
(April, 1920)

"Overall Clubs" have been organized in various cities to combat the high and increasing price of clothing, and while the idea back of the movement is commendable, it is not probable there will be any appreciable decrease in prices of clothing or of food until the public generally becomes determined to wear the clothes they already have and to buy only what is necessary for the table.

CREDIT EXPANDED TO THE LIMIT
(May, 1920)

Credit has been expanded to the limit, and time has come when there must be a reversal and every effort made toward curbing it in all lines termed during the war as non-essential. Much unrest still prevails over the high prices.

Figures recently compiled show instances where manufacturers' net profits have increased as much as five times the increase of their sales. This condition has been referred to the middleman, the retailer and even to labor. There has apparently been a disposition on the part of everyone to make increased profits on a relatively smaller increase in sales or production.

SOME BUILDING HALTED
(June and August, 1920)

During the past two or three months... there have been a number of instances reported where buildings have been halted in course of construction because of the great and increasing expense. Apartment houses and residences in numerous cases had begun excavations and made foundations laid and in some instances production is through increased yields per acre. These yields can be increased economically," the agronomist continued.

SMALL GRAIN TEST PROJECTS WILL BE STARTED IN STATE

Georgia farmers, in cooperation with their county agricultural agents, will establish small grain production demonstration projects similar to the 1,100 corn production demonstrations carried on this year, to show how yields of small grain crops can be increased economically. E. D. Alexander, agronomist of the State Agricultural Service, disclosed this week.

"At present there is a big demand for small grain, especially for oats, wheat and barley. Small grains are needed to supplement our corn crop and provide more winter coverage for our soils," Mr. Alexander declared.

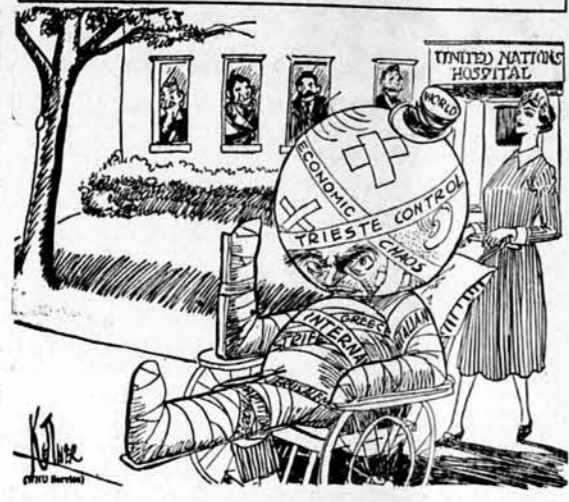

COTTON CROP LARGEST SINCE 1914; PRICE LOW

(December and January, 1921)
The final estimate by the United States Department of Agriculture, of the 1920 cotton crop show the production to be larger than that of any year since 1914, when the country's record crop was grown. Practically all of the crop has been harvested, but reports show that little is being sold the farmers in a large number of instances declining to sell at the low prices prevailing, which have been around 14.25 to 15.25 during the month.

SALES DECLINE, COLLECTIONS SLOW, FACTORIES CLOSING
(January, 1921)

Decreases are shown in net average sales during December reported by wholesale firms... both as compared to the sales during the previous month (November), and to sales during December, 1919. December collections are almost universally reported slow and in some cases very unsatisfactory. The closing down of various manufacturing, mines and mills

The Almanac Says the Weather This Week On...

TODAY, Thursday, September 12, will be rainy. Fishing, fishing no good.
FRIDAY, September 13, will be rainy. Fishing still no good.
SATURDAY, September 14, will be mostly anything from hurricanes to nice mild weather. Don't go fishing.
SUNDAY, September 15, will be the same as yesterday. Take it easy at home.
MONDAY, September 16, will be rainy. Fishing will be fair about 6 a. m.
TUESDAY, September 17, will be rainy. Fishing had again today.
WEDNESDAY, September 18, will be rainy. Stay away from the river.

... But Don't Blame Us If the Almanac Is Wrong!

Fields are always greener on the other side of the fence. Friday of last week we spent several hours in Millen at the guest of the Millen Rotary Club. We were shown the city. With about 3,500 people we were first in the county's community house—a large attractive building where young and old meet to participate in social and civic activities. We were told that the building of the community house changed the entire social pattern of the community. We believe it to be true. We were shown Magnolia Gardens, a large recreational project just out of the city—swimming pool, picnic grounds. We were shown the shirt factory employing 400 people. We were shown the new canning plant where green peas will be canned.

You Can't Fool Teacher!

And so you are back in school. You had a good summer and you hated to get back into harness. It's so regular. And there's the homework to be done. And there is "Teacher" to contend with. The very mention of the word teacher may send you into a corner with your hands up. Or your face may immediately become wreathed in smiles. Which, to put it plainly, means that you think there are two kinds of teachers in your school; those you like, and those you don't like—or well, at the moment, you don't think much of.

Probably one of the greatest points of friction between you and your teacher arises from lack of work done, or to be more specific, to get your teacher to believe the attempt to convince yourself along with you that your work has been done when it hasn't! That sentence was written in a solemn fashion deliberately. Here is the idea in words of one syllable: You can't try to bluff and succeed with your school work. You know all the old stanzas for bluffing, and some of the new ones too. Going home with a load of books is one that has been in use since way back when. Volunteering for a job for which you are about 110 percent sure you won't be chosen is another. A desperate attempt to answer in class instead of saying, "I don't know," is another. There are many more than can be added to the list. At one time or another you've tried all the well-known, and some of the less known, devices. But like all

THE CUCKOO CLOCK by Milton K. Ozaki. It looked like a murder that couldn't have happened. Monsieur Justice, owner of an exclusive beauty salon in the fashionable Gold Coast section of Chicago was found dead in his apartment with a knife wound in his back. The knife, wiped clean, was on the table beside him. Every door and window was locked from the inside and there were no fingerprints anywhere. In this first of a series of stories built around Professors Calhoun, Lieut. Phelan and Benny Brinks, you will especially enjoy breezy, quick-witted, fast-talking Benny and will want to meet him again.

AT THE FIRST SIGN OF ILLNESS—CALL YOUR DOCTOR
It's dangerous to try to diagnose an illness; only your physician is trained to do so accurately! Call him, then call us to scientifically fill his prescription.

DELTA WEDDING by Eudora Welty. Through the eyes of nine-year-old Laura, we see the Fairchild family, of Mississippi, for seven dizzying days in September, 1923—aunts, uncles, cousins, servants—preparing for Dabney's wedding.

OLD DOC by Elizabeth Seifert. Sam Lowry, the Old Doc, decided to retire after forty years in the city hospital, but he forgot that a family man can never quit his responsibilities. Here's a young doctor yarn, with a tangle of love and duty, family problems, and so on in the author's accustomed pattern.

POSSESS ME NOT by Fan Nichols. Erik Norgard, successful New York artist, marries Mary Vallant, a midwest girl, after a whirlwind courtship. Mary is dissatisfied with his unconventional way of life and soon has him living in the country according to her pattern. Harassed by domesticity and Mary's possessiveness, Erik's painting suffers and before long he has a mental breakdown.

ILL ALWAYS BE WITH YOU by Eric Baume. It is the odyssey of a beautiful and strangely unstable woman and Eric Baume has told it with that same candor and brilliance that made his Yankee Woman one of the most striking novels of last year. From the first paragraph you will be caught and held by this extraordinary story; in Merula Wade, his heroine you will meet a woman you will never forget. "I love you," she said, "I love you very much, I'll always be with you..." These were the words she used to her husband in leaving him and transferring her affections to the California specialist she had casually met on shipboard.

REPORT ON CHICKENS

Supplies of chickens for the next few months will be slightly smaller than last year, according to a report from the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Fewer chickens will be produced but there has been a sharp reduction in the quantity taken by the Army so civilian supplies will not be seriously affected. The average in this country at 25 lbs. per chicken in 1945.

PATENTED VENTILATED AWNINGS

It is now expected that cash receipts from farm marketings in 1946 may total as much as 10 percent more than the 20,781 million dollars received last year. Gross farm income will probably show a similar gain, but with larger expenditures for feed, labor and other production items, operators' net income is likely to show a slightly smaller relative increase.

Since farm production for sale and home consumption in 1946 is expected to total about the same as in 1945, the increase in farm income this year is largely a reflection of higher average prices.

SLEEP FOR CHILDREN
An adequate amount of sleep and rest is so necessary for child growth that families and school administrators should provide for the essential needs in planning the child's daily program, specialists of the Agricultural Extension Service declare.

HODGES-BANKS

Miss Mary Geneva Hodges, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell B. Hodges, and Henry W. Banks, son of Elder David C. Banks and the late Mrs. Banks, were married at a lovely double-ring ceremony in the presence of the immediate family on Saturday morning at ten o'clock at the home of the bride. Against a background of magnolia, ivy, and tall standards of white gladioli, the ceremony was performed by Elder David C. Banks, the father of the groom. The bride was given in marriage by her father, Russell B. Hodges. She wore a grey gardenia suit with a matching grey hat and a blouse of dawn pink with black hand-painted buttons. Her other accessories were black. She wore a corsage of white tuberoses. The wedding music was furnished by Mrs. Dorothy Hodges Phillips, who played, "I love you truly," "The sweetest story ever told," and "Lohengrin's Wedding March on the xylophone. An informal reception was held at the bride's home immediately following the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with a lace cloth and the three-tiered cake was the centerpiece with tall tapers at each end. The bride and groom left immediately for a short wedding trip, after which they will be at home in Statesboro.

Mrs. Ruth Sewall visited in Highlands, N. C. for several days last week. Mrs. Grady Simmons and Mrs. Dan Weather spent Thursday in Savannah. Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Murray left Thursday for Atlanta where they will spend several days. Mrs. Ann Murray visited her grandmother, Mrs. E. A. Murray in Louisville last week. Mrs. Homer Melton and Mrs. DeWitt Thackston were visitors in Savannah Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Percy Averitt and daughter, Jane, spent Saturday in Savannah and Savannah Beach. Mr. John Daniel DeWitt visited his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Ben DeWitt several days last week. Lowell Atkins had as his guest last week, Bob Dunlop of Athens.

MARY ANN HODGES CELEBRATES HER SEVENTH BIRTHDAY

MR. AND MRS. MORRIS MCLEMORE MAKE PLANE TRIP ON HOLIDAYS

Mr. and Mrs. Morris McLemore left by plane for a wedding trip to New Orleans, following their marriage, which was an event of Wednesday morning of last week. The double ring ceremony was performed by Dr. William V. Gardner in the pastor's study of the First Presbyterian Church in Atlanta. The bride, the former Miss Margaret Peavy, who was given in marriage by Mercer Poole, was gowned in a model of pale-green crepe fashioned along drapery lines. She wore a large brown picture hat, and her accessories were brown. A cluster of deep purple orchids completed her costume. Mrs. Mercer Poole, the bride's mother, wore a dress of periwinkle crepe with black accessories and a corsage of purple orchids. Mrs. O. L. McLemore, mother of the bridegroom, was dressed in a black ensemble which featured an aqua sequin blouse. Her accessories were black and she wore an orchid corsage. Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Poole entertained at a wedding breakfast at their home on West Wesley Road, Mrs. Stanton Patterson of Natchez, Miss., kept the bride's book. The guests included only the immediate families. For traveling, Mrs. McLemore wore a rose wool suit with brown accessories and an orchid corsage. Upon returning from their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. McLemore will be charming additions to Atlanta's young married social contingent. Among the out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. O. L. McLemore, Miss Betty McLemore, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Kelley, and Miss Mary Lou Carmichael, all of Statesboro.

Farm Bureau Week

Action of the Board of Directors of the Georgia Farm Bureau Federation in designating the week of September 23-28 as Farm Bureau Week throughout the state has provoked widespread comment from state officials, senators and congressmen. H. R. Yandle, director of public relations announced this week.

Endorsing the movement and urging farmers of the state to affiliate with the Farm Bureau in the respective counties, statements have been issued by Governor Arnall, Governor-nominee Eugene Talmadge, Senator George, Senator Russell, the state's delegation in the U. S. House of Representatives, Lieut.-Gov.-Nominee M. E. Thompson, Tom Linder, Commissioner of Agriculture, and others prominent in the life of the state and nation, the state Farm Bureau office in Macon revealed.

A special Farm Bureau edition of the Georgia Farm Bureau News will be issued this month carrying the complete statements of public officials setting forth the importance of a strong organization of farmers and how it will contribute to the economic welfare of the people of Georgia.

Many counties of the state have already completed membership drives for this year, but special effort will be made during Farm Bureau Week to contact the remaining non-member farmers and officials of the state organization.

Much interest is being manifested by the newspapers in the state in Farm Bureau Week. Yandle said, and he expressed the appreciation of the state organization for this splendid spirit of cooperation which has contributed much toward the success of the Farm Bureau in Georgia.

Plans for the membership drive in Bulloch county are being formulated and will be announced soon, according to Bob Mitchell, president of the local chapter of the Farm Bureau.

super-phosphate on his farm since 1942 when he became a unit test demonstration farmer in the program carried out in cooperation with the Extension Service and the Tennessee Valley Authority, County Agent Mercer revealed today.

"Use of lime and phosphate has made this country," Mr. Walker declared. "I had land that would not grow corn. I limed the land and now grow good corn."

"When I came here 23 years ago this land wouldn't produce," he said. "I now make as much corn on two acres as I did then on ten. I keep my land covered with crimson clover in winter."

On a high, rocky ridge of the Walker farm a good pasture of white Dutch clover, blue grass and annual lespedeza furnishes plenty of grazing for a small herd of registered white-face cattle. Mr. Walker has a registered white-face bull that is being used to improve the breeding of cattle in his community.

Since the farmers of Nontootha community have seen the results of lime and phosphate on the Walker farm and other test demonstration farms, they are organizing a community demonstration where all farms will use these minerals in establishing better pastures and more cover crops to obtain higher yields and a higher standard of living. County Agent Mercer reported.

FARMERS AND GINNERS WARNED OF FIRE HAZARDS

The monthly garden map fold-combined fire losses of cotton and property were well over $12,000,000 during the 1945-46 marketing season, Georgia Extension Service specialists pointed out this week in urging farmers, ginners and warehouse men to be especially careful during the ginning season. According to available data, loss from cotton fires in 1945-46 reached an all-time high of approximately 100,000 bales. This represents the production of about 200,000 acres of land and an economic loss of more than $10,000,000. More than a million dollars worth of gin property was destroyed by fire. In addition, 500 warehouses were damaged or destroyed.

which are available for distribution, prepared by Elmo Ragadale, horticulturist of the Extension Service, are published to provide Georgia gardeners with information which will enable them to obtain the best yields from their farm and home gardens.

In addition to the lists of vegetables recommended for planting during the month, the September garden map folder gives information on fumigating seeds for use of carbonyl disulphide and heat treatment, and suggestions on fertilizing the fall garden.

Vegetables recommended for planting during September are: North Georgia — Beets, cabbage, kohlrabi, lettuce, kale or rape, radishes, spinach and turnips.

Middle Georgia — Beets, cabbage, carrots, collards, kale or rape, lettuce, mustard, onion sets, radishes, spinach and turnips.

South Georgia — Beets, broccoli, bush beans, cabbage, carrots, collards, kale or rape, lettuce, mustard, onions, radishes, spinach, squash and turnips.
