Precision Layout Boosts Garden Yield, Saves Work

Efficiency should be the goal in planning the home vegetable garden. Efficiency means getting the most for your money and work. An efficient garden, of small area, will produce as much quality food as twice the area, carefully planned and cared for. The smaller area will take less time and less materials, and the vegetables will be fertilized and fast growing, will be tender, flavorful and nutritious. What a reward this is, for taking thought this winter when there is little to do, and planning a garden which can be quickly begun when spring comes. A good plan requires first, a well thought-out production schedule, with each crop assigned to the space required to produce the family needs, and the time for each row of short-harvest vegetables determined in advance, to keep the land producing throughout the summer. Next, the garden must be laid out in straight, short, parallel rows, far enough apart for cultivation to be done with a wheel hoe, or hand cultivator, with the furrows running in. This is the modern American way. In a well planned garden the work can be as light as housework, with no job to be done which is not done with a wheel hoe. When the rows are short, you get frequent rests, when the first crop is reached, and it is easier to

With the prospects of another large peanut crop for 1947, together with the fact that blue lupine has yielded many of the other winter legumes in the county, Mr. Ruckley thinks it would be wise for every farmer to plant a few acres of this crop for seed purposes.

A Verse For This Week

The learning and knowledge that we have is at the most but little compared with that of which we are ignorant.—Plato.

It's Our Greatest Asset

Eleven years ago in Bulloch lieve that the hospital is accu-County an experiment was begun lating vast surpluses. Quoting fig-Statesboro which today has 100-ures, and Mr. Fred Hodges, chair-rown into one of its greatest ing one of its greatest commisioners, potential assets. and Hoke S. Brunson, chairman

Born in the depths of the de-pression it took a Supreme Court decision to legalize the experi-ment. Speaking to the Statesboro Rotary Club Monday, Walter Aldred, architect and builder, reginided the business men of the city of Statesboro that the hospital is the greatest asset of the several who con-000, $15,000 a month. Mr. Aldred stated that the hos-pital, built by the county, oper-ated by the county and for the county.

He recalled that half of the county opposed the idea. Dr. R. J. Kennedy supplemented Mr. Aldred's statements, stating that leading hospital authorities in the state assured him that "you can't do it."

The present hospital was com-pleted, 32 beds for white patients and 12 beds for negro patients. That was a large hospital then and it was believed to be adequate for the needs of Statesboro and Bulloch County for many years. Yet, in eleven short years, it is today completely inadequate. Stor-ies of its overtaxed facilities are rampant in the county.

A new wing is being added by the county to provide for 18 more rooms and four semi-private rooms, which when completed, to the will by federal estimate be a half million dollar hospital and it will still be only large enough to take care of the present day overflow and does not pretend to provide for future anticipated demand.

In his talk to the Rotary Club, Mr. Aldred denied the rumors which would have the people be-

Dr. Pittman Retires

And Dr. Marvin S. Pittman re- ing the Georgia Teachers College tures. an one of the leading institutions tures.

Dr. Pittman is remembered the coliee in the early part of throughout the nation as the per-1943. He nursed it through the sonality around whom so much years when the going was furo was created in the dark heavy to its present high stand-ards of 1941. His retirement comes at that year the Georgia Board of Regents ousted him as president of the Georgia Teachers College and it is with regret that they ac-cepted the fact. But it is with relief that they look back on his record as an administrator of Statesboro and Bulloch County's cul-tural asset. It is with hope that they visualize the dreams that he holds for the future of the col-lege and happiness that he will, as president emeritus, remain here, to make available his vast and valuable experiences as an edu-cator to the State and now re-establishment and moulder of youth.

We Welcome Dr. Ward

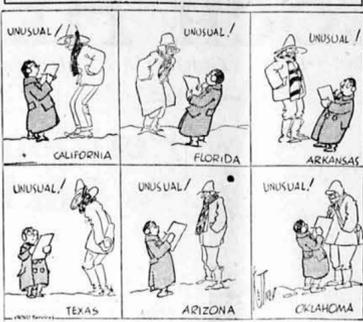

He's a young man, is the new announcement of Dr. Ward's president of Georgia Teachers College.

Dr. Judson P. Ward. He comes well prepared to fol- low Dr. Pittman. It is his background him Dr. Ward, or to think of him as president of one of this sec- tion's finest schools when he is known as plain "Jack" to so many of his friends.

Leaders of Statesboro were giv- ing a preview of what he is when he addressed a meeting of the Ro- tary Club Monday a week ago. In the spite of his youthful appearance, they were impressed by his straight thinking and mature pre- sentation of the subject upon which he talked.

No stranger to many here, his selection as president of the Georgia Teachers College was just as great a surprise as the announcement of the retirement of Dr. Pittman. But like the announcement of Dr. Pittman's future with the college, so much to us.

Kilkenny Island oysters, from the waters of the coast of Georgia. Friday night it popped up in the following fashion: A shiek-he said he was from Saudi Arabia, but members pretty well penetrated his disguise and he just came out to read the following petition: "Whereas having succeeded at long last in separating the territory of Georgia from the rest of the United States, we have established a new kingdom and hereby apply for recognition from the United States."

"By means of new decrees promulgated by the privy council, formerly known as the Georgia General Assembly, we can henceforth guarantee a stable government free from the difficulties occasionally encountered by democracies. "We do not understand much about the United Nations, but we have heard so much talk about it we feel sure recognition by your group would be helpful to our cause. Thus far, we have been recognized by two judges of the Superior Court and we feel that a "croker" sack full of oysters would clinch our case.

"Respectfully submitted, "His Excellency HUMMON, I. "Per the Prime Minister, Roy Halberstam." Yelled one member, "Russia votes no."

Others there shared my enthusiasm. However, some liked them roasted, some liked them on the half-shell without benefit of heat. There was Gilbert Cone (with all the dignity of "Hizzoner" completely covered in a large plaid jacket) who wanted his oysters baked almost hard. Pat Brannon was there with pliers and screwdriver, revelling in the lusciousness of the oysters from the Henry Ford place at Richmond Hill. Barney Averitt, Arthur Howard, E. L. Barnes, DeVaughn Watson, Cecil Waters, Bill Franklin, Cecil Futch, L. L. Davis, Herbert Deal, John Olliff, Percy Averitt, Jack Gross, Eli Hodges, E. B. Rushing, Dean's father, and several others. Lester Parrish, gentleman of color, who has been with Eli Hodges as fish, oyster, and chicken expert for 12 years, officiated at the oyster and saw to it that every man present had his fill of the oysters.

Dean told us that he had managed to get these oysters because he has a friend down at Kilkenny Island. The oysters there have not been hatched since before the war and so had had a chance to grow to the large size of those we had Wednesday night.

Nobody accused Dean of having the oysters to promote his new trucking and freighting business. "I just wanted you people to eat some of the finest oysters I've ever known about," he said. He did confess that if any of us wanted some more that Eli Hodges could get them.

As I See It

WORTH McDUGGALD
The action of Bulloch County teachers in announcing their unwillingness to continue working if the present state salary schedule is reduced has created more than local interest.

This decision is not one to be taken lightly. It is not one to be condoned. The facts behind the decision are important. Here are the facts: During the Fall of last year former Governor Ellis Arnall authorized an increase of 50 per cent in salaries of school teachers throughout the State. The increase was made for two reasons, the first being that teachers for many years have been underpaid, as compared with salaries of persons engaged in employment within the same social level. The second reason was that costs of living, been such that such high levels made salaries of teachers insufficient to adequately meet their economic needs.

Funds for this increase were used up on December 31 and developments at the State Capitol delayed legislative action on the issue of additional money. The school department and State Auditor B. E. Thrasher decided to pay the salary increases until April 1 from the $15,000,000 set aside for operation of the schools through June 30. Payment of the $15,000,000, however, has drained this fund to such a point that if additional funds are not appropriated, only $1,150,000 will be left after April 1.

This amount will not be enough to operate schools a full term until the same time, pay the teachers the increased salaries. Legislative movements during the period since Dec. 31 have been such that very little action has been taken on the increase. Primarily, the lawmakers have spent the majority of their time arguing the "white primary" bill rather than correcting this deficiency in the budget.

The House has appropriated $16,000,000 for the increase but the appropriations has been made contingent upon the adoption of revenue measures to provide the money. The Senate has not acted upon the appropriation bill nor has the Senate passed any revenue measure which will supply the money.

Whether or not the legislature will, in the near future get down to work on this matter, is debatable. The teachers' action seems to have thrown the problem squarely into the legislators laps. This movement is only the first indication of unrest and concern with conditions which have been existent for years. We are, as a nation, spending some $7,000,000,000 for liquor and $3,000,000,000 for tobacco. Yet we are reluctant to spend even the latter sum for education. During the depression we spent more of our income for education than we do now. Lack greatly lower our prestige among our state that will be hard to erase. In spite of the seriousness of the effects, the condemnation of a move should not and will not be placed upon the teachers. Rather it will be squarely placed upon the shoulders of those who are to blame—the cliques and factious individuals who have assumed the responsibilities ahead of representatives of the people who elected them.

ALL'S FAIR

That month in which we can tell anyone who disagrees with us to "go fly a kite" must have been the calendar wrong and not the wind, unmindful of Eva Brannen's (Mrs. Jim) very correct and dignified manner, unceremoniously merrily her hat off and led her a merry chase before she ran it down in Loney Donaldson's front yard.

Ran into Carmen and Myrtle Cowart in the drug store Saturday morning. Carmen was jubilant over the news that her speech pupil, John F. Brannen, Jr., had won first place in the State in the oratorical contest sponsored by the American Legion. The State finals were held in Atlanta Friday afternoon. When John F. Brannen's opponent, a girl, had uttered only two words when he turned to Carmen and said, "I can beat her." It is our sincere hope that John F.'s confidence will take him triumphantly through both the Regional and National contests. Son, we Brannens are as proud as Punch of your success, and we want the Atlanta papers to learn how to spell such an important name.

"All is not gold that glitters," (unquote) or diamonds shouldn't wash a broom. Rubbed my eyes and looked the second time to assure myself that it was really Annie Belle Grimes wrapped in a fur coat sweeping off the sidewalk in front of her jewelry store. Annie Belle was having difficulties. A freezing cold day, a broken grate, no heat, Callie

Miss Virginia Rushing and Lamar Trappell spent Saturday in Savannah.

Ask Lane Johnston where he keeps Charlie Trippi. Lane is a young man of intense loyalties—and supreme on his list of colleges is Georgia Tech. Pictures of Tech men, Tech banners, etc., trail over the mantel, walls and down the closet door in his room. If the occasion arises, you MAY find Trippi...

Margaret Brown Hamilton, having built and sold one house, is up to her neck in plans for another. In fact, the foundation is already underway. I talked to her downtown as we both were hunting needlework patterns. "This will really be my dream house," she told me. She plans a huge living room with a latticed-off dining nook at one end. The kitchen will extend the width of the house in the back and will have a fireplace—introducing a sort of den or comfy spot with house-planting. The bathroom will be easily be called a woman's workshop. A guest room will be down with a bedroom and nursery on the second floor.

You boys and girls look out. I'm afraid you're going to have everything in the book thrown up on you during that 12th year at SHS—Fosco Sherman and Board Members, Bonnie Morris, Everett Williams, and Horace Smith visited Jessup and Waycross last week to study the set-up in those schools.

Mary Beth Jones tells this one on herself: She and Chick visited Aunt Minnie Smith recently at her home in Conyers. Aunt Minnie is a homely, but Mary Beth prevailed on her to go on to Atlanta with them for a day. Aunt dressed for the trip—wanting to be a credit to Aunt Minnie. Mary Beth was unusually painstaking with her own attire. Imagine her chagrin when, as she started to wear her bedroom slippers, Aunt insisted that she buy a pair of shoes, but Mary Beth ignored the suggestion and shopped all day in her comfortable house shoes.

Jane actually blundered in on a "Lady Tea" Saturday P. M. and believe me, the sophisticated remarks, the haughty stares, and elegant frocks left me speechless. I felt like a garden flower (no, make it a weed) in the midst of a bouquet of orchids. My Jan Johnson ushered me into the store. Annie Belle was having difficulties. A group of our boys and girls, students at the University in Athens, visited the E. B. Rushings, Jr., at their home in Athens and were so enthusiastic over little Ernie's good looks that they are scouring the county for a baby contest to enter the baby in. Now, I've ended a sentence with a preposition, but it is too cold to carefully write. I purposely split the infinitive to keep the score even.

Many happy returns to Frederick Shearouse, who had a birthday Friday and, unless my memory is slipping, Mr. Sam Moore and Frederick have the same birthday.

Good Books Are True Friends

In the best books great men talk to us, give us their most precious thoughts, and pour their souls into ours—Channing.

By Mrs. F. F. Baker

DRIFTWOOD VALLEY—by Theodora and John Stanwell-Fletcher.

Did you ever dream about getting away from it all? Long to leave so-called civilization behind you and find some isolated, beautiful spot where you could live a primitive life? The many are the times that you find yourself thinking of a life of uninterupted quiet, do your chosen work, and enjoy the companionship of the person who meant most to you? (I have) Well, that's what the Stanwell-Fletchers did.

Theodora (who wrote the book) and John (who did the illustrations) went to Driftwood Valley, in British Columbia to collect specimens of native small fauna for a museum.

In all, they spent three years up there, taking a trip out occasionally, and having supplies flown in. These were their only contacts with white civilization, if you except a few trips to the nearest Hudson Bay Post, and a visit Theodora's parents paid them, one summer.

It was a rugged life, Theodora having to carry all the water she used from the lake, even in the dead of winter. Miraculously, the spring-fed lake never froze over entirely. During the coldest weather, it was necessary to cut at least three good-sized trees to keep the cabin warm. The temperature? Oh, only 30 to 40 degrees below zero! Several times the cabin was entirely snowed under, which, curiously, provided a certain amount of insulation against the cold.

They had intended to live largely on an available game but this failed them frequently, when the snow got deep, and they were forced to live on what supplies they brought with them, or what they could get the Indians to haul by dog-sled from the Hudson Bay Post.

The whole book is so fascinating and so unforgettable that it is hard to choose any one part that is better than the rest. I think I shall remember her description of the eerie "singing" of the wolves.

The coming of the war ended all this. During the war, John entered the U. S. Air Force, and became Director of Operations for the U. S. Forces in Canada. He was awarded the D. F. C. for rescue operations in Arctic areas.

MY EYES HAVE A COLD NOSE—by Hector Chevigny.

This whimsical title is Mr. Chevigny's way of telling us, before we read his book, that he is not the adult blind, and depends largely on his Seeing Eye dog to get around. He says at the very beginning of the book that he is "inspirational," so we won't be just any very, very interesting. The best part of the story deals with the training given both prospective master and dog, at the Seeing Eye Foundation at Whappany, N. J. Each dog is trained to the individual requirements of his future owner, and

It's Time to Plant

Lespedeza in Bulloch Says Specialist

Lespedeza should be planted in Bulloch County during the next few days, E. D. Alexander, extension agronomist, pointed out.

Mr. Alexander stated that perhaps the best varieties for local livestockmen to use are Kobe and Korean. These varieties can probably be planted best on green oats henceforth must be, literally, a "one-man" dog.

He makes one statement which I think would not apply to all blind people. It would depend largely on the individual. His argument is that the blind are "helped" too much. The institutes for the blind in large cities have a tendency to shut them up in work-shops, teach them to make brooms and baskets, shield them against contacts with the outside world, and destroy their self-confidence and independence.

Mr. Chevigny believes that they should receive some training (typing, etc.) so that they can take their places in a competitive world as normal people, and earn their own living.

The Seeing Eye and the American Foundation for the Blind both take steps in this direction. I know, from experience with a member of our family, that children are taught typing, piano-playing, etc., in Florida, at least. Mr. Chevigny, himself, has gone back to his former work, writing for the radio and movies, and is just as successful as he was when he had his sight.

MYSTERY OF THE WEEK
We picked "Sing It Shiny" by Edwin Lanham. The title is newspaper slang for "Headline It Murder," and as you might expect, the book takes place in a newspaper office.

The owner and publisher quarrels with almost everybody on the night he is killed, so it isn't surprising when someone shoots him. It takes a good deal of digging into his past to find the killer, and I must admit it was a surprise to me. So nice to find one prospective master and dog, at that baffles you all the way through, usually the murder in Whappany, N. J. Each dog is trained to the individual requirements of his future owner, and
