Gen. William Brougher Speaks In City Tuesday
Brigadier-General William E. Brougher, commanding general of Camp Gordon and hero of the Pacific, will speak in Statesboro Tuesday.
General Brougher, who has filled more than a hundred and twenty speaking engagements since his release from a Japanese prison camp, will come to Statesboro as guest of the Lions Club and will attend a luncheon at noon at the Rushing Hotel given in his honor. Heads of the Senior Chamber of Commerce, Junior Chamber, Rotary Club and other distinguished guests will join the Lions at the luncheon. At 1:45 the General will speak at the Georgia Theatre where he will be presented by Congressman Prince H. Preston. The program is open to the public and high school students of Statesboro High and Teachers College will be special guests.
General Brougher, though a native of Mississippi, calls Decatur, Georgia, his home. In 1941 he was assigned to command the 11th Division and was made a Brigadier-General. In December, 1941, the 11th Division engaged in combat with the Japanese. After the surrender of Batjan, General Brougher was taken prisoner. He spent his time by writing a book of verse, "The Long Dark Road," which is an emotional history of prison camp experience in poetic interpretation.

Age Limits For School
Bulloch county schools this year will strictly adhere to state regulations regarding ages of children entering school, W. E. McElveen, county superintendent of schools, announced this week.
In a joint statement issued with Miss Maude White, visiting teacher for Bulloch schools, the county superintendent warned parents that state regulations are printed in each school attendance register and that they would be carried out. He asked parents not to embarrass the principals or the teachers by asking special favors in letting an underage child enter school.
State regulations require that a child must become six years old before entering school or within 60 school days after the opening of the term. The regulations require teachers to accurately register the date of each child, including his or her true age.
With school opening September 8, children who become six years old after December 2, 1947, will not be eligible to enter school this term, the announcement said.
The statement pointed out that a policy had been adopted by school officials requesting that all children entering school for the first time present a birth certificate to the teacher upon parents' day. They also called upon parents to cooperate in sending children to school who are of the proper age.

Baptist Revival Begins Monday

The First Baptist Church of Statesboro, together with 20 other Baptist churches in the Ogeechee River Association, are sponsoring the series of tent-meetings as a climax to the "Ogeechee River" Association For Christ" campaign which has just been completed.
The revival is scheduled to be held in a tent located in the 300 block on Savannah Avenue. Tent meetings will be held each night at 8:00, while morning services will be held in the Baptist Church at 10:00.
There will be a choir of some 150 voices selected from choirs of churches cooperating in the revival. Mrs. E. L. Barnes has been named to head the choir committee and Mr. Cliff Bradley has been named to head the ushers and seating committee.

Burton's Ferry Highway Now Officially U. S. 301
Thirty years of working and dreaming paid off this week as the Burton's Ferry Highway Association was officially notified that the highway had been granted U. S. Number 301.
The announcement came in a letter to Hoke S. Brunson, secretary of the Burton's Ferry Highway Association.
Early in July of this year the American Association of Highway Officials approved the numbering of this route as a federal highway with the provision that the South Carolina Highway Commission approve the designation for a portion of the road which passes through that state.
Previously, all other State highway boards had approved such action but the South Carolina board withheld action pending a decision on some possible change in the route.
At a meeting held Thursday however, the group gave its stamp of approval to the project and now the highway is officially "U. S. 301." Mr. Brunson said his group was "very happy" over winning approval of the federal number and said the first step will be to get the white and black highway markers in place all along the route.
The route has its beginning at Baltimore, Md., and continues through Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, and into Georgia where the Burton's Ferry bridge near Sylvania, from Sylvania to Claxton, from Claxton to Statesboro, from Statesboro to Jesup, from Jesup to Nahunta, and on into Florida.
Mr. Brunson said civic leaders from cities along the route would meet in Statesboro at an early date and discuss plans for a celebration to be held in Statesboro to officially "open" the route.
In addition to Mr. Brunson, two other officials of the Burton's Ferry Highway Association are from Statesboro. They are Alfred Dorman, president of the group, and Fred Hodges, treasurer of the organization.

They also called upon parents to cooperate in sending children to school who are of the proper age.

Age Limits For School
Bulloch county schools this year will strictly adhere to state regulations regarding ages of children entering school, W. E. McElveen, county superintendent of schools, announced this week.
In a joint statement issued with Miss Maude White, visiting teacher for Bulloch schools, the county superintendent warned parents that state regulations are printed in each school attendance register and that they would be carried out. He asked parents not to embarrass the principals or the teachers by asking special favors in letting an underage child enter school.
State regulations require that a child must become six years old before entering school or within 60 school days after the opening of the term. The regulations require teachers to accurately register the date of each child, including his or her true age.
With school opening September 8, children who become six years old after December 2, 1947, will not be eligible to enter school this term, the announcement said.
The statement pointed out that a policy had been adopted by school officials requesting that all children entering school for the first time present a birth certificate to the teacher upon parents' day. They also called upon parents to cooperate in sending children to school who are of the proper age.

A Verse For This Week

"Grant but memory to us, and we can lose nothing by death."

DON'T READ THIS... unless you are willing to cooperate. Don't go one word further unless you are willing to see it applied to your children. Then stop the practice at once. Stop here if you aren't going to do your part.

Are Parents Crazy?

Sometimes we wonder. And a broken heart and pass away bit good bit of the time we wind up feeling sure that some parents ARE crazy. Take what we saw just yesterday as an example. A girl—barely fourteen years old—driving a big family-size automobile through crowded downtown streets and on the highway. A boy, just turned fifteen, piloting a group of friends about in a vehicle which carries the impact of "one hundred and twenty horses."

It was established to help curb accidents by keeping immature young people from the highways and streets of our cities. It was established to protect lives and property—yours and mine.

It has a purpose, and its purpose was not to be haphazardly disregarded by parents who carelessly and thoughtlessly allow their children to drive—in violation of the LAW—and endanger the lives of the rest of the city.

The situation of under-age children driving in Statesboro is serious. It requires immediate attention. Let's get these kids out from under the wheel of automobiles. Let's get back within the limits of the law. Let's be intelligent about the lives but the lives of others—who are innocent. Make certain YOU are not this isn't going to help heal crazy.

But this isn't going to make what they are doing right. This isn't going to make them any less guilty when one of them is involved in a serious accident which may cost not only their lives but the lives of others—who are innocent. Make certain YOU are not this isn't going to help heal crazy.

Well Done

Regretfully, this week we affix the time-worn printer's symbol, "30," signifying "the end," to the column called "Fun At Home" which has graced our editorial pages for some time now.

Written by Mrs. Margaret Charters Lyon, the column has taken readers—grown-ups and children alike—into many wondrous adventures. Through the eyes of Mrs. Lyon and her "Four Cowboys of Collegeboro," we have seen the inner workings of such mysteries of childhood as

From week to week, as we see fit and as space permits, this newspaper extends CONGRATULATIONS to individuals and groups for projects that are show of such proportions as this of such a nature as to bring dis-tinction, honor, and pride to the community.

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

The Almanac Says the Weather This Week On...

TODAY, THURSDAY, September 4, will be fair.
FRIDAY, September 5, will be hot, Dog days end today.
SATURDAY, September 6, will continue hot with showers.
SUNDAY, September 7, will be slightly cooler.
MONDAY, September 8, will be pleasant. School opens.
TUESDAY, September 9, will be warmer.
WEDNESDAY, September 10, will be rainy.

... But Don't Blame Us If the Almanac Is Wrong!

Editor's Note: This week the Uneasy Chair is being occupied by Morris McLemore, a Statesboro boy who went to the city and made good. Morris is a member of the sports staff of the Atlanta Journal and has traveled widely over the nation covering sports events for that publication.

We asked him to give us his impressions of his first vacation in twelve years, and this is the result:

This was supposed to be a vacation—the first one for me at home for twelve years. Ever since leaving for college in 1935, the intention has been in the back of my mind to come back to Statesboro and sleep and eat and catch up on some talk with the guys who remained here and still think about and make the future a dim and unhappy thing to consider.

Now I'm in the middle of a vacation, a full week the man said when he told me to take off. But this visit is a bitter disappointment.

To start an explanation, let's get the background. My family here in Statesboro consists of mother, father, sister, two aunts, one uncle and Mr. W. B. Mays, a professor at the Teachers College, who is in league with the forces against me.

This is a delightful family in many respects, considerate and generous and wholly devoted to me. My increasing girth and stolid way with mounds of food, the like of which Atlanta hasn't seen since Rhett Butler left town on the deck of a two-horse wagon.

But they are merciless, too. They have beaten me at least four jumps in every game of Chinker-Checks in which we have engaged—something over 300 at this writing. This game is played with marbles on a wooden board, which has a star-shaped series of holes to contain the marbles. The winner must traverse the length of the board, jumping his opponents' marbles, with all possible speed.

We have played at all hours of day and night, at midnight and mid-morning, with the same result: defeat piled upon defeat for me while the dry and sympathetic cackles of the family follow me to couch and dining hall. The worst mistake I've made yet was trying to wager on the outcome of certain contests. I'm now doing the dishes, moving the laundry, washing clothes and every manner of menial labor associated with the normal operation of a household.

But the excursions to the outside, forced upon me as I pay off Dan and Colonel Albert Deal... Ed Cartledge, Dr. Ben and Dan and Sally Zetterower and Mrs. E. A. Smith and Miss Maggie Lou Kennedy.

The list could fill these pages yearly basis as they intend, will do much to further the development of our city and our country. Congratulations, Lions.

Fun at Home

By Margaret Charters Lyon
Boys and Girls: Read this to yourselves! Try it for yourselves!
The Four Cowboys of Collegeboro were lying under a big sycamore tree on a blanket. "We have visited a number of plants in Statesboro this summer," began Mother. "Let's pretend that we are going on a picnic and can take only Statesboro-made things."

"We'd have wieners from the packing plant," said the Biggest. "We could take along bologna and meat loaf from there, too."
"Don't forget pickles from the pickle plant and peanuts from the skyscraper next door," went on the Skinny One.
"We could take beans or tomatoes from the garden," said the Littlest. "We might get some juicy worms, too!"
"What about bread?" asked Mother.

"They make bread and wieners rolls at the bakery," piped up the Fat One. "Let's have hot cream from the dairy and a bakery cake for dessert. We could drink milk, Bobs-Cola and Coca-Cola."
"Would you like some music while you eat?" wondered Mother.

MISCELLANEOUS TEA FOR MISS STRICKLAND

Highlighting the numerous parties honoring Miss Strickland, whose marriage to Jack Wynn was an event of Saturday was the miscellaneous tea given at the home of Mrs. Delmas Ruthing Wednesday afternoon, with Mrs. Floyd Nevils and Mrs. George Strickland as cohostesses. The guests were welcomed and presented to the receiving line by Mrs. Mark Wilson. In the line with the hostesses and honoree were the bride's mother, Mrs. James H. Strickland, the groom's mother and sister, Mrs. C. J. Wynn and Miss Ramona Wynn. Mrs. Julian Mikell, of Metter, directed guests to the dining room, where Miss Mamie Lee Anderson presided. Mrs. J. K. Bowen conducted guests to the bride's register book, kept by Mrs. K. K. Cook, of Metter.

Miss Mary Dean Rushing chose selections for the musical program. Assisting in the display of lovely gifts were Mrs. G. B. Bowen, Miss Jessie Wynn and Mrs. Garland Anderson.

Green and white were the colors used in the decorations and refreshments. The mirror above the mantel in the living room reflected the graceful arrangement of alibis and ivy; a similar arrangement formed a centerpiece for the table. Misses Shirley Tillman, Carolyn Bohler, Nell Bowen and Jean Williams served tea, cream and individual embossed cakes. As the guests departed they were served mint green punch from an ivory-covered table by Misses Anne Neville and Murie Godbee. Others assisting the hostesses were Mrs. W. J. Tibwell, Mrs. J. M. Strickland and Mrs. J. V. Anderson.

Eighty-five guests called during the afternoon.

REHEARSAL PARTY

Mrs. J. R. Bowen and Mrs. Julian Hodges were hostesses to the Strickland-Wynn wedding party at a rehearsal dinner on Friday night at the home of Mrs. Bowen. The rooms were decorated with interesting arrangements of pink roses.

During the evening Miss Strickland presented her attendants after dinner coffee cups and saucers. Mr. Wynn's gift to the men were silver knives with initials engraved.

All's Fair

You've spent days on the beach, nights on the hills, hurried down highways, and waded in rills. You've sipped lemonade, eaten huge bowls of ice cream; it's all been lovely—gone by like a dream.

Now put out your sweaters; hang 'em on a line. Cool days are coming and that suits me just fine.

WHEN BETTY BIRD FOY began her march down the aisle you'll forget every admission you've ever had about never turning your head in church, once you've seen her, a vision of loveliness in bluish pink duchess satin a crown of lace over her soft brown hair, with veil of illusion attached. You'll follow every step to the altar, where she will meet the groom. And though you'll be enthralled by her beauty, you probably will see the "something old" that Betty will be wearing a diamond bracelet over a hundred years old, handmade, and each stone selected and perfect.

Many of you have deplored the fact that all the parties planned for Betty were cancelled because of her illness—an eye infection just took its time about clearing up, and doctor's orders, etc. ... AND IT'S "Happy Birthday" to Britt Waters, handsome young son of Mr. and Mrs. Atty W. Waters. Matie, his mother, is one of your favorite people if you've ever been to the hospital and had her answer your bell. Britt was three years old Monday.

WILLIE MATTHEWS, Evelyn, Bob, Linda and Bobby found all had to go down to St. Simon's last week to get acquainted with a new nephew and cousin—Bill and Meg have adopted a son and have named him Albert Weyman Way. Willie says he's "dainty, blond, and precious—just like Meg." And those are the very adjectives we would use in describing Meg. So he must resemble the mother who picked out for her very own.

YOU KNOW HOW AMUSING incidents have a way of getting out back home after a congenial group has returned from a trip. For instance, Sara Morris on that Cuba trip kept noticing a sign, "Tome Coca-Cola." She dropped into the drug store, or whatever you call them in Cuba, and casually called for "Tome"—just as you'd say here, "make mine a coke." The attendant at her table seemed a little puzzled, but soon returned with a foaming glass of beer. "Tome," it seems, is Spanish for "drink." Now, I wouldn't know—And Emmett and Esther Barnes just naturally gravitated to a funeral home—a postman's holiday for them. This funeral home was a $250,000 edifice with a floor for the upper class and a floor for the lower class, and I forgot to ask Esther if you put the lower class on the upper floor, or vice-versa. Burial by Protocol, I suppose you'd call it. There's a cafeteria in the Home and a bar, and relatives sitting up with the deceased may be found in the cafeteria "drowning their sorrow."

ROBIN HAGIN, now with the U. S. Marines, is at the Port of Spain and attached to U. S. S. Missouri as "Captain's Boy," and as President's Truman returns from South America on the "Mighty Mo," I just betcha Robin will manage to see the Truman family—might even induce Margaret to sing for him.

NOW HERE'S THE TYPE of yarn that you howl over after the fact, but it isn't so funny when it happens. One of our pretty girls, whose wedding comes up next month, was in a Savannah shop all dressed up in a bridal frock, veil, etc., when all of a sudden she fainted. While satin was forgotten as they let her lie on the floor, put her feet on a chair and pulled off her sandals, and she lay on billows of satin and with bare feet and pink polished toe nails higher than the pearlized orange blossoms. No, it wasn't serious—just too much heat, too much excitement and, maybe, no breakfast before she left home.

"BETTER THAN A LETTER" are the movies Helen Morris receives regularly from L. I. Robert Morris, stationed in Korea. Robert has a movie camera and takes pictures and sends them to Helen, who has a projector and is enjoying lovely color films of Korea and pictures of Robert as well. This works both ways, for Helen is constantly making pictures, and sends them to her husband, who has a projector in Korea. A marvelous age, isn't it?

MRS. W. S. PHEOPIUS really tops the list of good sports. I won't venture to give her age. Measured in terms of energy, pep and appearance, she's certainly not too elderly, for she never misses a baseball game on the home field and attended most of the out-of-town games.

MRS. BROOKS SIMMONS recently returned from Atlanta where she stayed at the Biltmore and dined on the moonlit terrace, and combined business, pleasure and shopping in another person whose vivid personality is a challenge to anyone who thinks middle age is an excuse for careless posture, or mental laziness.

HERE'S AT TIP, if you want to see lovely homes you don't have to go to Natchez, Hollywood, or New England. I've just been up to call on Mary and Emmitt Atkins and I could write volumes about the beauty, exquisite taste, distinctive furnishings, good old solid comforts and miscelanea of convenience to be found in the new home, but Emmitt strictly forbade me write one word about it. But who could help mentioning the living room with canyars robin's egg blue, drapes of wavy yellow. Drum and coffee tables styled by Baker and lamps by Hank Hanson. Striped seat cushions flanking the fireplace and, oh yes, there's that gorgeous chandelier from Czechoslovakia, its myriad prisms gleaming and sparkling on the handsome dining room suite. And I could eat breakfast in that pretty yellow room and maybe forget about the piece, or, I should say, the absence of bacon. The kitchen made me want to grab my checked apron and whip up some breaded. Then I wouldn't be doing right by the family if I overlooked the fact that the overhead ceiling in the cypress paneled dining room has a hand-carved oak medallion which was used in the old Allen home and from which hung the parlor chandelier. The mantel here was the one used in the girls' room at the Allen home. There, too, are those odd-looking pieces Lowell bought in Denmark. And, certainly, I must mention that Lowell's room, walls done in Wedgewood blue with color accent draped with white mahogany, because this room followed the specifications sent by Lowell while he was still overseas. And I mustn't show partiality. Bucky's room has natural paneled walls and light furniture, Mexican drapes add interest.

There's the guest room, gay with canopied four-poster in colorful chintz, the master bedroom, the library and baths simply out of this world, but I really must refrain for, after all, I promised Emmitt. As I started to leave, Mary said a wee bit wistfully: "You know, I catch myself thinking, 'I must go home.'" After all, living twenty-one years in a home does make it home, doesn't it?

As ever, JANE.

STRICKLAND—WYNN

Bridal gown and white furnished the background for the beautiful home wedding of Miss Margaret Strickland, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Strickland, of Register, to Clarence J. Wynn, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Wynn, of Portia, on Saturday evening at 6 o'clock.

The open fireplace in the living room was used as a background for the altar of magnolia and fern interspersed with tall standards of white gladioli and white carnations holding white candles.

Elder J. Walter Hendricks, of Savannah, officiated before an assemblage of friends and relatives.

The bride was lovely in her gown of white slipper satin fashioned with becoming square neckline, leg-o-mutton sleeves, and full skirt with a slight train. Her blonde beauty was enhanced by her fingertip veil of illusion caught to a tiara of seed pearls and orange blossoms. She wore a white glove watch, a gift of the groom. She carried a bouquet of white asters, centered with a white orchid and showered with staphanotis.

Miss Beth Stanfield, of Glennville, served as maid of honor and Misses Margaret Bunn, of Midville, and Ramona Wynn, sister of the groom, were bridesmaids. Their frocks were of apple green marquisette fashioned with square necklines, full skirts with ruffled pleppus attached to muffed waists. Marquisette ruffles in ruching effect was used across the hair in the back and their bouquets were old fashioned nosegays. Joy Cook, cousin of the bride, attended in white suit, carried the rings.

Edwin Wynn, brother of the groom, served as best man, while Edgar Wynn and Jim Woods, of Savannah, lighted the candles.

Mrs. E. L. Barnes, pianist, played the traditional wedding march and Miss Melrose Kennedy sang "Through the Years" and "Because." Soft strains of "Perfect Day" were heard during the ceremony.

The bride's mother was gowned in a powder blue crepe with a sweetheart neckline and draped skirt. Mrs. Wynn was attired in a black gown which featured a lace yoke. Their flowers were pink asters.

The dining table, which was covered with a hand-crocheted lace cloth, was centered with the three-tiered wedding cake which was topped with a miniature cake with candles. Balloons and candies were given as favors and ice cream, cake and punch were served to about thirty-five boys and girls, who had a merry time on slides, swings and sandpiles.

Mrs. Cohen Anderson and Mrs. Ralph Call assisted in entertaining and serving.

GROOVER—BRANNEN

Mr. and Mrs. Water Grady Groover announce the engagement of their daughter, Edith Imogene, to Dock Andrew Brannen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wade Hampton Brannen, the wedding to take place the latter part of October at the First Baptist Church.

The bride-elect was graduated from Statesboro High School and attended Georgia Teachers College for three years.

Mr. Brannen is a graduate of Statesboro High School and served eighteen months in the U. S. Navy, fifteen months of which was in the Pacific area on the U.S.S. J. Franklin Bell. He received his discharge March 3, 1946.

Next morning, everything is calm, and the children wander out to explore. All are afraid of Little One. She finds Mamud unconscious from a blow on the head. When he recovers he has lost his mind and has the mentality of a small child.

They manage to live quite well on the stores from the ship, and build themselves a small hut. Mamud's strength is valuable to them and he is accepted as one of them.

These continue this way two or three years when Gil, adolescent, becomes moody and rebellious. He finds some old clothes on the ship and plans to get away

Vets Office Is Assured

Veterans in Bulloch and surrounding counties will not be left without a local veterans office when the Veterans Administration office here closes this month. J. Brantley Johnson, representative to the State Legislature, announced this week that he had been assured by the State Department of Veterans Service that a Veterans Service Office will be established here by the state.

In a letter to the State Veterans Service Department officials Mr. Johnson pointed out the great need for a veterans office in this locality. He cited the work done by the Veterans Administration office which has been operated by the Federal government for some time since the end of the war.

In replying to Mr. Johnson's letter, C. Arthur Cheatham, director of the Dept. of Veterans Service for the state, authorized the legislator to begin organizing a Veterans Affairs Committee. This committee will be composed of some 25 leading citizens and will advise and cooperate with the local office and with the state department.

No definite date or location has been established for opening the new office here.

S. H. S. and T. C. Get Link Flying Trainers

Statesboro High School and Teachers College are two institutions in the state which have applied to the State Department of Education for use of a Link flying trainer during the coming school year.

Some 20 schools in the state have applied for the trainers, which will be used to teach elementary aviation and to be used in demonstrating problems in physics, geometry, and other courses of study.

The trainers will be moved to the schools from naval bases throughout the state, where they were used to train pilots. The trainers have all the elements usually included in the cockpit of a plane and by moving the body of the trainer actual flying conditions are simulated.

General Says Paving Contract Let By Council

Brig-Gen. William E. Brougher, commanding general of Camp Gordon and hero of the Pacific, was a guest of the Lions Club Tuesday and spoke to an estimated 450 persons Tuesday afternoon.

Following a luncheon given in his honor, which was attended by local civic leaders and county officials, the General spoke in the Georgia Theatre and told his audience that "false economy by U. S. resulted in World War II."

He warned that preparedness was all-important to the nation and said days of appeasement were over. General Brougher called for adequate expenditures for the country and said friendship and love not backed up by force carried no weight in the world of today.

He told of his experiences as a Japanese prisoner of war by quoting poems from his recently published book. The poetry was written while the General was imprisoned.

Kermit Carr, of the Lions Club, introduced Congressman Prince H. Preston, Jr., who in turn introduced the General.

Mrs. Cohen Anderson Bids "Ginie's" Cafe

Henry's Announces Opening of New Shoe Department

An announcement of interest to shoppers in Statesboro is that made this week by Henry Moses in announcing the opening of a newly remodeled shoe department in his store on East Main.

The department has been completely refurnished, Mr. Moses said, and the use of a careful color scheme, takes its place among the most modern and most attractive shoe departments in the city. A new deep rug contrasts pleasantly with the light blue leather upholstered chairs. Fluorescent lighting has also been installed.

Group Plans For Memorial

There will be a meeting of all persons interested in a memorial to the late Eugene Talmadge, former governor of Georgia, at the courthouse in Statesboro on Saturday, September 20, at 3:30 p. m., according to W. G. Neville.

Mr. Neville said a quota has been set for Bulloch county and that this amount will be raised at the rally. A prominent speaker has been secured for the occasion, he said, and each contributor will give a memorial certificate bearing a picture of the late governor.

Congressman Prince H. Preston, Jr., will be present and guest speaker for the occasion. An invitation is extended to county officers and local community presidents throughout the county, according to announcement made by R. G. Dekle, president of the Register chapter.

Ladies Night At Register

Ladies' Night will be observed at the next regular meeting of the Register Farm Bureau scheduled to be held Thursday night, Sept. 18, at 8:30.

Acreage Allotment For Peanuts to Be Hard to Figure

The establishing of peanut allotments for 1948 on all farms in Bulloch county, as required under the recent proclamation of peanut marketing quotas for the 1948 peanut crop, will be rather a difficult job, according to Mr. J. A. Barkley, Chairman of the County AAA Committee. The job will be more difficult because of the lapse of some four years without accurate and complete records of acreage production of this commodity on farms in the county.
