ATLANTA – The Georgia Southern track and field team won four events and posted 10 top-5 finishes at the Georgia Tech Invitational Friday and Saturday.

The Eagles won the 100-meter dash, 200-meter dash, 400-meter run and 4x100 relay.

GS went 1-2 in the 100-meter dash Friday night with Aris Hubbard winning the event, tying the sixth-fastest time in school history (11.77), and Camryn Mathis taking second after tying the eighth-fastest time in the school record book (11.82).

Zykeria Williams broke her own school record in the 100-meter hurdles (13.61) to finish third and won the 200-meter dash Saturday with the sixth-fastest time in school history (24.26). Hubbard took third in the 200, moving into eighth on the school's all-time list (24.33), and Scovia Ayikoru finished fourth (24.51).

Ayikoru won the 400-meter run, breaking the school record (54.48), and teamed with Williams, Mathis and Hubbard to win the 4x100 relay and move into second in school history with a time of 45.02.

Martina Takang took third in the discus (41.31m), which ranks ninth all-time at Georgia Southern, and Abbey Arnett ran the 1500 in 4:51.49 to move into ninth in the school record book. Siddeega Abdur-Rahman took fifth in the hammer (44.88).

Quotables from Coach Kelly Carter

"I'm so happy for our athletes. The Georgia Tech Invite provided a great vehicle for us to continue to perform. We had two school records go down and a lot of shuffling in the top-10 places in Georgia Southern history in various events. We also had a number of PRs in the last two days, and it's all validation that hard work pays off! We are looking forward to competing at home next week."

Up Next

The Eagles are set to host the Georgia Southern Spring Classic Saturday at Eagle Field.
