We Can't Shirk the Responsibility

The teachers of the First Congressional District took action here Monday afternoon indicating that they do not like the idea of being shoved around.

An resolution adopted here the teachers of the First District Georgia Education Association "decline and refuse" to enter classrooms of Georgia for the ensuing year.

These teachers did not arrive at their decision hastily. They discussed it thoroughly. They heard resolutions adopted by other counties and districts. Their action is not the final word. The majority of the local units of the GEA or delegate assembly sign the resolution or a similar resolution will become effective.

These teachers expressed their regrets for the drastic action taken by the teachers in one section of the state when they "recessed" for two days following the defeat of the referendum on April 5.

They are agreed that they shall fill their obligation to the schools as set up in their 1948-49 contracts. We're sure that parents of school children in Statesboro and Bulloch county don't like to think of our schools being unable to open this fall.

A lot of mothers are going to find themselves with problems on their hands if that should happen.

Children—active, with unbounded energies, and inquiring minds, at home all day during the summer vacation—can be trying.

And the prospect of their being around all day for an indefinite time must conjure up visions of shattered peaceful hours.

For decades teachers have worked under pressure. Pressure from boards of education. Pressure from all sorts of organizations.

There's More To It Than a 'Bloc'

WITH 1949 WELL into its second quarter there seems to be no stumbling rush on the part of Georgia's 136 counties to implement the state's new voter registration law.

During the last session of the General Assembly the Legislature wiped the slate clean of 1,200,000 qualified voters, including 150,000 Negroes.

The new law established an intricate process to tighten procedure for the new registration. It was the answer to Governor Herman Talmadge's campaign pledge to put a stop to "bloc voting" by Negroes.

A survey made by the Associated Press April 9 revealed that no county actually had begun listing voters under the new law. In some counties preparations for registration had begun, but in many counties there was no indication when the process would begin.

Counties are complaining that the new registration machinery is a costly affair and many counties are financially unable to bear such a burden.

The law requires completely new forms for examining and registering voters. Registrars first must decide if a citizen can read "intelligibly" or write "legibly" any section of the state or federal constitution.

If he can, then he's supposed to be automatically qualified. If a citizen can't read or write satisfactorily, then he is subjected to a further test to determine his "understanding of the duties and obligations of citizenship."

This test has 30 questions—like the names of state and federal officials, their terms of office, etc. If a voter answers any ten correctly he is qualified.

Grand Jurors in each county must nominate six men for registrars to begin the new registration. Superior Court judges select three to actually undertake the task.

Judges have made the appointments in Floyd, Richmond, and Chatham counties—all large population centers—and the registrars are about ready to begin operations. Re-registration began in Bibb county last Friday.

Six men have been nominated in Dougherty but Judge Carl Crow gives no indication when he will make the appointments. (He may have made them since this is being written.)

Last week the Grand Jurors in Emanuel and

It Seems Good Advice

He was a right nice-looking chap. And he said he was a veteran.

And maybe he said he had the Purple Heart.

And he asked me for a subscription to a magazine. I was reluctant. Or you renewed a subscription to a magazine you are already receiving.

And maybe you said a little glow of satisfaction in "helping out a veteran."

But you may never get your magazine. Because the editorial written in The Atlanta Constitution recently:

"Small communities throughout the state are being overrun or about to be overrun by a swarm of magazine agents.

"Many of these salesmen pose as veterans who say they are working their way through GI training by such selling. Instead, they are working their way through Georgia on the gullibility of sympathetic folks who sign the order blankly only to learn later that they have given something for nothing.

"As a general rule, it is a good idea to subscribe to magazines and newspapers only through reputable home-town agents whom you know and trust."

Seems like good advice.

A Verse for This Week

IF our love were but more simple,
We should take Him at His word;
And our lives would be all sunshine
In the sweetness of Our Lord.

Springtime Serenade

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

Remember when in your youth you made a line rhyme.

His beautiful language 'twas spoken to me
When naught but a child on my grandfather's knee.

His teasing ways to me were fun;
By that way this granddaughter's heart he won.

On the Sabbath day to church we went
And many hours there in we spent.

And maybe Myra Hummelut was inspired by thought of summer vacation when she wrote "Spring Rain":

The brook no longer stands so still;
By spring rain it has been filled.

The water in the pond is clear,
And all are wishing that summer were here.

In the budding trees the birds sing,
And after them will come the sun.

These two, working hand in hand,
Can make a garden of our land.

And Ann Evans, daughter of Mrs. Virginia Evans, bears laughter and singing in "Sunshine":

The sunshine is a beautiful thing.
It makes you want to laugh and sing.
As it dances and plays among the trees
It seems to whisper sweet melodies.

To Phil Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thad Morris, "Trees" seem to sing:

Our course heavenward is something like the plan of the zealous pilgrims to Jerusalem of old, who for every three steps forward took one backward. —Richter.

When home is ruled according to God's word, angels might be asked to stay a night with us, and they would not find themselves out of their element. —C. H. Spurgeon.

A man does no wonder at what he sees frequently, even though he be ignorant of the reason. If anything happens which he has not seen before, he calls it a prodigy. —Cicero.

Men of courage, men of sense, and men of letters are frequent; but a true gentleman is what an seldom sees. —Steele.

This Is Your County

(Editor's Note: This is another in the series, "This is Your County," written from facts compiled in the survey made last August by the Georgia Power Company for Bulloch County. Last week we presented a comparative study of industrial establishments in the county in 1939-40 and 1948, and showing a largely increased employment in manufacture and services. This week we present several farm facts.)

In 1940 there were 2,942 farms in operation, with 2,103 operated by white farmers and 739 by Negro farmers.

In 1940 there were 335,335 acres of land in farms of which 280,615 belong to white farmers and 54,720 acres to Negroes. In 1945 the number of acres in farms had increased to 353,892 of which the white farms increased to 275,752 acres and the Negro farms to 78,140 acres.

All farm products sold $2,209,896 $3,502,433

Total value farm production $2,806,655 $6,256,127

Average per farm $968 $2,028

Conclusions drawn from a survey of the above figures would indicate that there is considerable increase in idle cropland and decrease in cropland harvested without a corresponding increase in cropland pasture, neither of which spells progress.

It is also indicated that there is a great decrease in the volume of farm products used on the farm. The comparatively small increase in value for 1945 at inflated currency means that in 1945 quantities reserved for farm use were much lower than in 1940 and this, despite the fact that, according to the "Augusta Handbook," there are ten community canning plants in operation in the county.

A COMFORTING COUNTY ASSET

In a recent survey made by the Public Health Department, Bulloch County Hospital rated fourth in the state on the basis of meeting the need in the area which it serves. I visited the hospital last week and want to take you on a quick tour through the building where sick people get care and treatment.

I waited for the manager, Mr. Henry McCormick, in his office while he was paged on the public address system which reaches the nurses' stations on the three floors, the X-ray room, the lab, emergency room, kitchen and the colored ward.

His office is filled with filing cabinets, three chairs and a desk. The desk held, among other things, a pipe, a huge can of Prince Albert crimp cut tobacco and a large volume on Hospital Management.

Henry McCormick is quietly efficient. (Perhaps you'll remember him as the man who so convincingly portrayed the blustering "Uncle Chris" in the college presentation of "I Remember Mama.")

We took the elevator to the second floor. Outside the operating room are lockers for the doctors' clothes and a scrub room—then a room full of machines used for sterilizing instruments. There are two operating rooms—one for minors (small table) and one for adults: A lighted panel in the wall holds the X-ray to which the doctor can refer while operating. A Boyle unit and gas machines are also handy, and there is an emergency light for use in case of a power failure.

The delivery room and nursery are also on this floor. That day, Baby Lamb was with the only boarder and was sleeping comfortably in the incubator.

Mr. McCormick proudly showed me the two refrigerators which the hospital had received at Christmas from donors who wished to remain anonymous. He also told me that the Alpha Class of the First Baptist Church sponsors the first floor ward. Class members help the patients pass the time by bringing ice cream and visiting.

Part of the basement was remodeled about four months ago and a new ramp facilitates delivery of emergency ambulance cases. The emergency ward is equipped with beds for four patients and a light therapy machine.

Charlie Tatum, pre-med student at GTC, was on duty in the laboratory and he typed my blood in no time. I saw the large refrigerator which was donated by the Lions Club for storing blood. Also Stanfield and Mrs. Robert Helmuth also work in the lab which is covered from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. and they are on call the rest of the time.

Bert James, X-ray technician, is on duty from 8 to 10 and works with the latest equipment. The special table moves electrically and Mr. James operates the machine from behind a lead wall which protects him from the rays. I noticed some huge gloves which Mr. Mac said also contained lead. And of course, there's a dark room handy.

From there we went to the kitchen and mooched a tasty cinnamon bun from a large pan. Re-continued on page 4.

FORESTRY NOTES
By J. W. ROBERTS

Thirty-seven wood fires were suppressed by the Bulloch County Protection Unit during March. Most of these fires were put out before as much as ten acres burned.

Only three fires were in the "25-acre or over" class. Twenty-two were from one to ten acres; five 1-acre or less, and seven burned from 10 to 25 acres.

The fact that the majority of these fires were very small proves the advantage of good equipment, the cooperation of our landowners and the efficiency of our towermen and suppression crews. We have three towers for locating fires. Two-way radios for quick and efficient communication, and four fire suppression trucks.

The only other item of equipment that we have a great need for is a transport trailer for moving our crawler-type tractor. This is the tractor that we use to construct and maintain firebreaks for landowners. A transport for moving the tractor and plow would make firebreak construction much more practical and economical in this large county.

Another advantage of a trailer is that the tractor and plow could be used to suppress large fires. Such a unit would make it possible to do in an hour what it might take a lot of men several hours to do.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

How's Your Listening Time?

Buck Howell and I were in Haleville last week. Dropped in at Bob's diner where some friends were sitting around talking about whether to sell hogs now or wait.

Buck plunges right into the discussion. He's lecturing away when suddenly they all stand up and start stomping their feet like it was an Indian war dance.

I'm flabbergasted. But Buck only looked sheepish and explains, "Guess I was talking again, when I should've been listening. When a person's talking time gets out of line with his listening time around here, the gang reminds him by standing up and stomping."

From where I sit, that's a good system. Everyone has a right to his opinions—but others have a right to theirs, too—whether it's deciding between to sell or not to sell, apple pie or cherry pie, or a glass of mellow beer or cider. Life's more interesting that way, and hang it if you don't sometimes learn something!

REAL VALUE FOR YOUR DOLLAR!

DODGE "Job-Rated" TRUCKS ARE LOW PRICED!

Dodge value is at its highest peak in 20 years. Study the interesting chart at the left.

Dodge maintenance costs are at an all-time low... due to a wealth of engineering features and advancements.

In addition to features listed in the chart, consider these Dodge engineering advancements that are yours today... not one of which was available 20 years ago.

Connecting rod bearings are removable. Oil screen is of the floating, not fixed, type; a rotor oil pump replaces the old gear design. A water distributing tube increases engine efficiency.

Valve seat inserts substantially prolong engine life, increase gas economy, and reduce frequency of valve-grinding jobs. Vast improvements have been made in piston design; top piston rings are now chrome-plated, insuring better compression, longer cylinder wall life.

Famed Amola steel replaces alloy steels in springs and axle shafts. Hypoid rear axles replace the spiral bevel type, and rear axle shafts are shot-peened.

There are 7 frame crossmembers (including a channel-type bumper) instead of 4. Added features include voltage-control regulators, stepped hydraulic brake cylinders, and 35 instead of 20-ampere capacity generators.

VALUE features in the new "Pilot-House" cabs... not present in '29 models... include 7-step seat adjustment on famed "Air-O-Ride" seats; slanted "V"-type windshield; safety glass; 4-point rubber, instead of rigid mounting; 57 1/2" seat width as against 45 1/2"; outside gas tank filler, instead of under seat, and many more.

So... if you're using worn-out or "high-mileage" equipment, stop and think! Consider your present costly maintenance expense, in the light of the savings you would make with modern, advance-design Dodge "Job-Rated" trucks.

Remember, Dodge "Job-Rated" trucks... in every weight class... are priced with the lowest. Take advantage of current low prices, and switch to Dodge "Job-Rated" trucks... now!

Come in! We'll show you a truck "Job-Rated" to fit your job... save you money... last longer!
