HELPFUL HINT FOR A CHAMPION HOME TOWN

Encourage new service stores and shops

When folks can find in town the things they want to buy, they won't go to big cities to do their shopping. This keeps money circulating in town, and everybody in town benefits!

A Champion Home Town recognizes the fact that service establishments provide jobs and incomes, just as small industries do.

So check your service stores and shops—shoe repair, overnight laundries, dry cleaners, barber shops, freezer-lockers, auto repair, etc. Make sure your town offers enough of these important facilities for its size and needs.

One of the most unusual aspects of the fight to give tiny Barbara June the operation she so desperately needed was this: A goal of $1,500 to cover the bare necessities of the trip and the operation—had been set. Saturday, September 3, was set as the day to turn the money over to Mr. Smith. They planned to leave Monday, Labor Day, and the banks would be closed. At noon on Saturday the contributions totaled $1,500.10—exactly ten cents more than the goal set. No one knew until just a moment before what the total was.

The money came by mail. It said they realized she had made every sacrifice to care for Barbara June during these three trying years and now that money was available to make Barbara June well again, they wanted her to have the privilege of buying a new dress or spending the money for something "personal."

One farm veteran's training group telegraphed about a hundred dollars to the Smiths in Baltimore. A Sunday School class raised $25 to be sent to Mrs. Smith. A letter with this money said the group wanted her to feel free to use it for herself. Money is not all that is being given to the Smith family. The Farm Bureau, of which they are a member, has undertaken the task of tending the Smith farm while they are away with Barbara June. This week a group will rack the peanuts on his farm and will see that the farm animals are taken care of.

Anyone still wishing to contribute is asked to contribute directly, rather than through the Statesboro banks. A final accounting has been made of the funds contributed to this moment.

A man wrote, when sending a contribution: "I am a very poor man... trying to use an artificial leg, but you will please find enclosed five dollars of my own money, given through my church treasurer. My prayer to God for her speedy recovery."

Meet 'Miss Fashion Plate'

LET US INTRODUCE Miss Gwen West of Statesboro, who has recently been named "Miss Fashion Plate of 1949" in a nationwide contest. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. West, Gwen is senior at the University of Georgia. She was "Miss Statesboro" and "Miss Georgia" before this.

Right now she's in New York City where she's being entertained during a two-week stay. The trip, as guest of a cosmetic company, came as a result of winning this contest, conducted in more than 100 colleges and universities across the nation.

ABOVE, GWEN MODELS a black velvet poke bonnet. The veil is velvet-dotted, and a velvet cord ties under the chin.

RIGHT, A BLACK bengaline suit dress that will wear well on many occasions—a good basic dress in a dark color.

These pictures were made in Atlanta where Gwen went to shop before flying to New York. (Cuts courtesy The Atlanta Journal)

Blood Donors Are Still Badly Needed

Blood donors still are badly needed, according to Al Sutherland, chairman of the Red Cross Blood Donor Recruitment Drive in Statesboro and Bulloch county.

The first visit of the bloodmobile will be made soon and Statesboro and Bulloch county are lacking their quota of recruits. Chairman Sutherland pointed out that it was not necessary for a person to be called on, and those who have not been contacted are urged to volunteer.

Statesboro and Bulloch county are fortunate in having this blood program brought here, and the only requirement for local people is that enough citizens volunteer to donate blood. The blood recruitment program has been in progress more than two weeks and the necessary number of donors has not been signed up.

This week the Statesboro Woman's Club is setting up a booth in the downtown business section where anyone between the ages of 21 and 60, weighing 110 pounds or more, may sign up.

You are urged to sign up today.

JOE NEVILLE JOINS FATHER IN LAW PRACTICE HERE

Large Enrollment Expected With College Ready To Begin New Term

Georgia Teachers College will get its fall session underway Monday with an orientation program for incoming freshmen, Dr. Z. S. Henderson, college president, announced this week.

All freshmen, both day and boarding students, are expected to be present in the college auditorium at 9 o'clock Monday morning to receive instructions regarding the week's program. A scheduled list of activities includes conferences with faculty advisers, English and psychological tests, physical examinations, various social events, and registration on Wednesday.

Underclassmen are scheduled to report to the college on Wednesday and will register Thursday. Classes start Friday. The school's first official assembly will be on Monday, September 26, at 10 a.m.

College officials state that a definite increase in enrollment over last year is expected.

Drive for USO Underway Today

A drive for USO funds gets underway here this week, according to Mrs. Margaret Hamilton, general chairman for the drive. A quota of $1,078 has been set for Bulloch county.

Mrs. Hamilton says no door-to-door or store-to-store canvases will be made unless it becomes necessary. She is appealing to the people of the county to send unsolicited contributions for USO.

The chairman said donations may be sent to Harrison Olliff, Statesboro; Francis Trappell, Statesboro; Clarence Brack, Fort; or Gerald Brown, Silston. The drive will continue until October 10, Mrs. Hamilton said, and if the money has not been raised at that time, a canvass will be made.

Mrs. Hamilton pointed out that most of the money will be used to provide recreation and entertainment for hospitalized veterans who cannot leave their beds. She said that more than 42,000 Georgians are still in service and that 298 of these are from Bulloch county.

President Truman himself asked for the reactivation of USO.

Your Herald is larger than normal this week. The reason is, it's Soil Conservation Week and we're joining soil conservation experts in trying to "Keep Bulloch Green."

We would like to give special credit to J. E. Kelly and Jack Storey, Ogeechee District Soil Conservation supervisors. They have given much valuable time and work to this project.

The Herald Editors hope you enjoy this special edition. We hope you will "Keep Bulloch Green."

Quarterback Club To Meet October 3

The Statesboro Quarterback Club will become active again this year with their first meeting on Monday night, October 3, according to Captain Everett Williams.

Mr. Williams says a fine series of programs is being arranged. He hopes to have a noted sports writer to appear before the organization at the first meeting. In addition, a film of an important game played last year will be shown.

Other noted speakers and films are being lined up for the remainder of the season. No definite meeting place has been announced but Mr. Williams says he hopes to complete these arrangements this week. Thirteen sessions will be held, with a final party at the close of the season.

Dr. Fielding Russell is club quarterback.

BPOE Lodge 1788 Organized Here

Statesboro Lodge, No. 1788, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks was organized officially last week. Representatives from 12 of Georgia's 32 lodges attended the organizational meeting.

The lodge has opened a lodge room in the Rushing Hotel.

Officers named for the new organization are: Exalted Ruler, Raymond Summerlin; Esteemed Leading Knight, Lonnie Young; Esteemed Loyal Knight, Ray Ellis; Esteemed Lecturing Knight, Sam Strauss; Secretary, Kermit Carr; Treasurer, Hunter M. Robertson; Inner Guard, M. E. Alderman Jr.; Tyler, Cohen Anderson; Chaplain, Logan Hagan; Trustees, W. H. Burke, B. W. Knight, and J. B. Rushing; Esquire, Eugene Martin.

'Good Season' Is Seen For SHS '49 Blue Devils

Coach James Hall, of the Statesboro High football squad, said prospects looked "good" this week for winning quite a large percentage of the ten games his team is scheduled to play this year.

Coach Hall addressed the Jaycees at their regular meeting yesterday at Forest Heights Country Club.

He told the group that he had a good many letters returning this year and that they had the average weight-gains of 15 pounds each. This will give the team an overall average of almost 165 pounds, he said.

Mr. Hall said the team had been completely outfitted this season in new equipment and new uniforms. The "Blue Devils" will take the field for their first game in outfits almost identical with those of the Duke University team.

They will wear white jerseys, white helmets, royal blue pants, and white socks. The Statesboro Quarterback Club has given the team a group of caps which will help considerably during cold and rainy football nights.

Last year the team took eight out of the ten games they played. They open this season with a game against Waynesboro, there, Friday night, September 23.

The remainder of the schedule follows: September 30, Baxley, here; October 7, open; October 14, Metter, there; October 21, Sylva, here; October 28, Vidalia, here; November 4, Miller, there; November 11, Claxton, here; November 18, Swainsboro, here; and November 24, the Thanksgiving game, E.C.I., here.

Plans Approved For Legion Home

Blueprints are now being drawn for the new American Legion clubhouse, scheduled to be built during the fall at the airport, according to Legion officials. The city has given the Dexter Allen Post No. 90 of the Legion a five-acre tract at the airport on which the clubhouse will be constructed.

The post approved tentative plans for the structure at a recent meeting and architects are now at work on the final blueprints. Legion officials hope the building will be ready for use by Christmas. This will be a permanent home and meeting place for the post. It will culminate a long campaign to raise funds for construction of such a building.

Legion Meets Tonight

The Dexter Allen Post No. 90 will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the clubroom on North Main. An important business session will be held and every member is urged to be present. Refreshments will be served and another interesting movie, obtained from the Department of the Army will be shown.

Jaycees Call For New Street Numbering Plan

A plan for complete reorganization of the city's house numbering system was given official backing yesterday by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. The group heard details of the plan from Committee Chairman Gene Curry and gave unanimous approval to the idea.

Briefly, the plan calls for a complete survey of the city, reassigning numbers in cases where numbers differ from a standard numbering plan. Each block will be numbered and houses in that block will all bear the block number as the initial numeral.

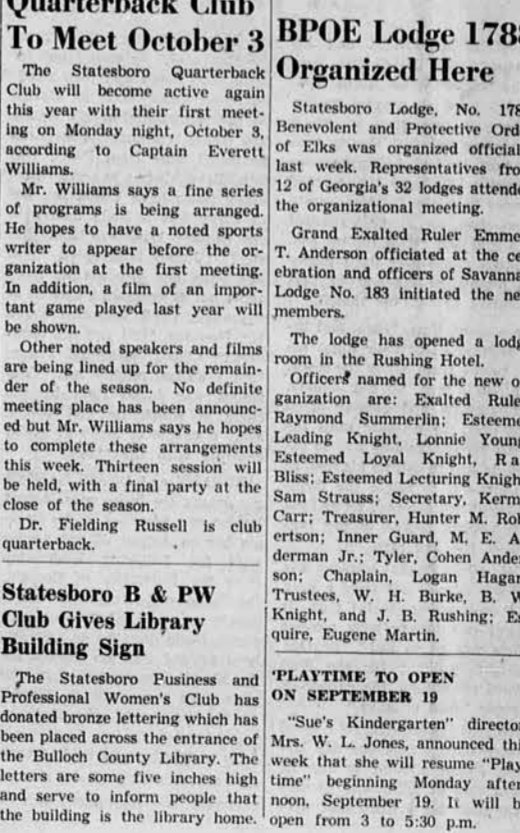

City law requires that each house have a suitable number and the Jaycees are seeking a plan whereby they can provide few metal numbers to those not having them. The numbers would be posted in a standardized position on the dwelling or business house.

The committee, in reporting to the Jaycee group, emphasized that tourists, new residents, visitors to the city, delivery boys, fire and police officials, and others had a difficult time in Statesboro locating houses that either were numbered incorrectly, or were not numbered at all.

In approving the idea, Jaycee officials pointed out that a systematic renumbering would not affect many residences or business houses but it would be a very effective means of straightening out a tangled situation.

The club hopes to get action on the project within a few weeks.

Barbara June To Come Home Oct. 1

Barbara June is doing fine! That's the latest word this week from Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, Md., where the tiny three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Josh Smith Jr., is recuperating from the "blue-baby" operation which she underwent last Thursday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith say that Barbara June's color has changed from blue to pink and that it is just "wonderful" to see how much improvement she has already made. Both Mr. and Mrs. Smith are staying with Barbara June and they expect to be home about October 1.

The "Barbara June Fund," generously given by the people of southeastern Georgia so that she might have the operation, this week reached a final total of $1,908.71.

A Challenge For Us

IN ANOTHER EDITORIAL this week we have indicated that these seven days—from Sunday, September 11, through Saturday, September 17—have been set aside as "Soil Conservation Week."

THIS WEEK is one of especial significance to every Georgian—whether he lives on the farm or in the city. It is a week of challenge. This week has been designated as "Soil Conservation Week."

Something To Think On

A STATESBORO MINISTER, from his pulpit Sunday morning, made a statement that will shock most of us. He spoke of attendance at Sunday School and church in Bulloch county.

These are but a few of the ways in which you can help yourself and your neighbors by sound conservation practices. If you have problems, or need more information, your District Soil and Grandpa and Johnny stand right over the prisoner and dispatched his son to Jeff DeLoach's to call the sheriff.

CANDLELIGHT CEREMONY UNITES MISS TILLMAN AND MR. HODGES

With myriads of candles furnishing the sole illumination of the First Methodist Church, Miss Betty Tillman, daughter of Mrs. E. Grant Tillman and the late Fred W. Hodges Jr. in an impressive double-ring ceremony performed by the Rev. John Lough, pastor of the church, before an assemblage of relatives and friends.

As a background for the rite, the choir rail and altar were veiled in white, studded with magnolia leaves. Cathedral candles formed pyramids on either side of the bridal area and a lineal arrangement of candles centered the chancel. White standards held white gladioli, dahlias, and pom-pon chrysanthemums. Family pews were marked with clusters of white flowers and satin ribbons.

Miss Evelyn Smith, of Macon, presented a program of nuptial music and accompanied Miss Evelyn McGarrity, of Savannah, contralto soloist, as she sang "Thine Alone," "At Dawning," and "The Lord's Prayer," the latter being used at the conclusion of the ceremony.

The groomsman were Frank Simmons Jr., Frank DeLoach Jr., Albert Howard of Sylvania, and Jimmy Connor, of Harlem. Bill Olliff served as the groom's best man.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Shirley Tillman, as maid of honor. Her bridesmaids included Miss Margaret Sherman and Miss Nona Hodges, cousin of the groom; junior bridesmaids were Barbara Brunson, a cousin, and Madelyn Waters, a niece. They were gowned alike in ice-blue satin dresses with fitted bosoms and picture necklines framed with stand-up folds of satin in the back and crushed to form a deep "V" in front caught with satin buttons. The bouffant skirts with extra fullness at the hips were worn over hoops. They were matching satin gauslets and carried bouquets of Better Times roses tied with red satin ribbon.

The bride, entering with her brother, Jack Tillman, who gave her in marriage, made a charming picture in her wedding gown, loaned for the occasion by her former roommate at Wesleyan College, Mrs. John Hendrix, of Atlanta, formerly Miss Gwen Flanagan, of Baxley. The gown, a Mendel creation of lovely satin, was designed with a yoke of illusion applied in bow-knots of satin edged with seed pearls which was scalloped to the molded bodice and fastened down the back with satin-covered buttons. The fitted sleeves tapered over the wrists. The voluminous skirt extended into a court train. The double-tiered veil of tulle fell from a tiara of seed pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of white chrysanthemums and tuberoses, centered with a white purple throated orchid. Her only ornament was a gold pendant, centered with a diamond, formerly used as a watch charm by her grandfather, the late Vandy Brunson.

Mrs. Tillman, the bride's mother, wore dusty rose crepe with a lace top. Her flowers were white rosebuds. The groom's mother, Mrs. Fred Hodges, wore cerulean crepe with a corsage of white rosebuds. Mrs. E. D. Tillman, of Roselle, N. J., paternal grandmother of the bride, wore teal blue with a corsage of pink carnations.

Later in the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Hodges left for a wedding trip to Daytona Beach, the bride traveling in a dark brown gabardine suit featuring a coachman coat. Her blouse and gloves were champagne and her off-the-face hat had a bridal effect veil falling from the back. Her gown was New Zealand suede and her shoes were lizard skin. Upon their return they will be at home in Athens, where the groom will continue his studies.

LUNCHEON CLIMAXES TILLMAN-HODGES PRE-NUPTIAL PARTIES

On Friday evening following rehearsal for the Tillman-Hodges nuptials, the wedding party, families, and visitors were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Hoke Brunson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Olliff, and Mr. and Mrs. Lannie Simmons at the Brunson home on Savannah avenue. Coral vine and white dahlias were predominant in the decorations. Assorted sandwiches, punch, ribbon ice cream and decorated cakes were served from the table which was centered with white asters and flanked with white tapers. Forty guests were present.

BRIDE'S LUNCHEON
Miss Margaret Sherman was hostess at a luncheon Saturday honoring Miss Tillman and her attendants. A color motif of yellow and white prevailed in the decorations. The table was centered with a low cutliss bowl filled with miniature yellow dahlias. A doll dressed in a bridal gown and veil marked the bride's place.

Other place cards featured a silver bride and groom. Miss Tillman presented her maid of honor and bridesmaids with demitasse spoons in the Strabourg pattern with the date of her wedding engraved on them. The pianist and soloist received rhinestone scatter pins and the junior bridesmaids were given white fans.

Covers were laid for Misses Betty Tillman, Shirley Tillman, Evelyn Smith of Macon, Evelyn McGarrity of Savannah, Nona Hodges, Margaret Sherman, Madeline Waters, and Barbara Brunson.

In addition to the male contingent of the wedding, places were laid for Frank Olliff Sr. and F. W. Hodges Sr.

Farmers Hope to Place in Contest

Top cotton growers in Bulloch county are expected to be in the running for some of the state prize money in the five-acre cotton contest.

J. R. Pressly and R. L. Forehand, extension specialists in cotton and cotton processing, were in the county Tuesday to check yields on several farms. On Wednesday E. C. Westbrook, extension cotton and tobacco specialist, and W. R. Mosley, secretary of the Cottonseed Crushers Association, who is putting up the prize money, were in the county to further check on the yields.

Fields checked belonged to A. S. Humnicutt, Alex Humnicutt, and Clive Smith. However, there is a possibility that Ivy Anderson, L. P. Joyner, and W. H. Smith will be checked for district prizes.

In preliminary counts made on these cotton fields, Bulloch county had three of the four highest yields in the 27 counties making up this Extension Service District. Bulloch county has won five of the six prizes offered for the district during the past two years. First prize for the district is $250, second place $150, and third place $100.

ARMY RECRUITS CHOOSE BETWEEN FIVE ARMS

Men without prior military service may now enlist directly into one of the five combat arms of the regular army and be guaranteed duty in the arm of their choice, according to an announcement this week by Sgt. Jack Wilson of the Statesboro Army and Air Force Recruiting Station.

A change in regulations permits non-veterans to sign up for three, four or five years in the Infantry, Field Artillery, Coast Artillery, Armored Cavalry or the Corps of Engineers. Previously, men without prior service could only enlist in the regular army, unassigned.

The new regulation gives the recruit a chance to study the five combat arms and then enlist in the one in which he would like to serve, thus eliminating any likelihood of being assigned to a branch he would not care to join.

Further information may be obtained by contacting the local recruiting station at the Courthouse in Statesboro.

Refresh... Add Zest To The Hour

Only one word fits it - Wonderful!

YOU know how it usually is—slow and steady is the rule in automotive progress. But every now and then it happens. Along comes a car that's new all over—like this one—and headlines sing the news.

Take the styling of it—fresh and smart and really exciting from its non-locking bumper-guard grilles to the jet-plane look of its fenders.

Take the outward size of it—handy in traffic, easy to garage, actually more room and a sweeter ride in fewer over-all inches.

Step inside—and stretch yourself in the biggest interiors ever found in a Buick Special, with a full twelve inches added to rear-seat hiproom.

Try the power of big 110 or 120 hp high-compression Fireball engines—sample the restful levelness of a ride that sets the standard for the industry.

Check controls—and note really big news: The luxury of Dynaflo Drive—newest, simplest and smoothest of all modern transmissions—is optional equipment, available now at the lowest price level yet!

Finally, look at the price tag. Measure its figures against others—and see if any car, even in the lowest-price field, gives you so much of what you want for each dollar you invest.

Tops in style, tops in room, tops in lift and life and traveling ease, a trip to your Buick dealer will show you this is wonderful in value too!

For the biggest buy of this year—and many a year to come—better go now and get your order in!

The care and feeding of telephones

Telephones, like any other equipment, work best when properly cared for. So if you want to get more and better service from your telephone instrument, just follow these simple suggestions:

1. Always replace the receiver carefully.
2. Be sure your telephone is on a firm desk or table where it is not likely to be knocked off.
3. Be careful to keep your telephone cord straight and even. Too much twisting can damage the wire.
4. Never leave your telephone near an open window where it can be damaged by the weather.

There's an unmistakable stamp of distinction about the new Pontiac. It's a beauty from the front and from the rear! Wherever you see its "Silver Streak" styling—in city traffic, on the highway, or aloof at the curb—you know immediately that it's a Pontiac and something very special among automobiles.

Pontiac's performance is equally unmistakable—thanks to Pontiac's great power plants, the straight eight or six, and to the amazing convenience of GM Hydra-Matic Drive. And remember, Pontiac is still the lowest priced straight eight in America!

School Days Are Here Again; Youth At Work

MARGARET CORNELIUS
Yes, the school doors and windows are open once more. Through them one sees room after room filled with American youth at work. In the nursery school we see them as they toddle around somewhat uncertainly. In the kindergarten they shyly explore their new environment, while in the first grade rooms, we see them fondle and then proudly use new supplies and equipment. So on with the increasing years youth is setting forth in the big business of making a place for itself in one of the most important of our fundamental social institutions—the school.

There are those among us who sometimes fail to realize the significance of successful performance of the child in his entire school experience. We view the numerous school and individual situations. We hear comments of our feminine contemporaries somewhat such as this, "Now I can have a little peace, 'a whole day to myself.' I'll miss having the children about the house; 'I hope Janie will overcome her timidity since she has started to school.' You know how I worry about Johnny at school since he isn't strong and cannot participate in active games with other boys; 'Sue should do better this year since we bought those glasses for her. Her work was so poor last year.' 'How I wish Mary would participate in social activities at school, but she will have none of it. All she does in and out of school is to read and study.'"

The Junior Woman's Club is seeking to start a permanent children's theatre organization, with a children's story dramatization for the children of the city and county each fall and spring. Prices for the 3:30 matinee performance are: Children, 25 cents; high school and college students, 40 cents; adults, 60 cents.

MRS. ARTIE DAVIS ON BETHANY HOME STAFF
Mrs. Artie Davis, of Savannah, has taken a position as Co-Matron at the Bethany Home in Vidalia. She will assist Mrs. Ruth Wheelless in the supervision of the affairs of the old ladies of this institution.

Mrs. Davis is a former resident of Camilla and Americus, but was born and spent her life through early adulthood in Moultrie, Ga. She spent a short time with Bethesda Home for Boys in Savannah. As Co-Matron, Mrs. Davis will assume the direct supervision of the "Bethany Home Hospital," where 26 patients, mostly bed patients, are housed.

Study groups, composed of PTA and Mothers Club members, are interested in learning more in this area. They have added authentic books to the public library and set up reading lists and a shelf of books of value to the eager parent. Many mothers have taken advantage of a local college or university and the free hours during the school days to add to their understanding of this important problem by enrolling in courses for an all-round viewpoint of the child in modern society.

KEEP BULLOCH GREEN!

Make Georgia Green, Says Conservationist

SPARTA, GA., September 14—W. F. Hall, president of the Georgia Association of Soil Conservation District Supervisors, this week urged Georgia farmers to help make the state green this winter when soil conservation supervisors from all parts of the nation come to Atlanta for their annual convention.

"When we invited the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts to come to Georgia for their 1950 meeting, we emphasized the green grazing in winter that they could see in the South," said Mr. Hall. "This was just the sort of invitation many of the district officials wanted, especially those from the snow-bound Western states."

"We are asking all Southern farmers working with their soil conservation districts to plant as many acres as they can of the pastures and winter cover crops included in their complete soil conservation plans. All we want our visitors to see is green grazing and green fields and protected woodlands wherever they travel in the South next February and March."

The Georgia soil conservation leader said that many of the northern and western district officials have indicated they will visit many parts of the South in connection with their convention trip. More than 2,000 people are expected to attend, he said.

"When we show them green grazing in winter, we're doing more than impressing our visitors," he explained. "We're helping ourselves. Green grazing in winter is good for the land, the livestock and for all the people of the South. Pastures and cover crops that grow during the winter months are important parts of complete farm soil and water conservation programs."

Policy Defined On FHA Loans

When Congress appropriated funds for operating loans to farmers through the Farmers Home Administration this fiscal year, it was made unmistakably clear that the agency must administer these funds in a manner that will result in substantial improvements in the farm and home operations of borrowers, according to Hal Bosch, county supervisor for Bulloch, Effingham, and Bryan counties.

In a policy statement to State Director R. L. Vansant, Administrator Dillard B. Lasseter emphasized that the credit and supervisory services of the program must promote the kind of agriculture that should be perpetuated. State Director Vansant said that regulations have been revised to implement this policy. Fundamental adjustments such as the application of basic soil treatment, establishing improved pastures, fencing, obtaining or improving foundation livestock, using improved varieties of seed, adequate fertilization of crops and pest control measures must be practiced on borrowers' farms.

Families using the program will be encouraged to participate in and receive maximum assistance from other available agricultural programs, the state director said. Applicants for new loans, or present borrowers, unwilling to participate in other agricultural programs which are essential to their success and which have benefited other farms in the area, should not receive Farmers Home Administration assistance. The help of the Soil Conservation Service, Extension Service, Production and Marketing Administration, as well as others, is available and must be fully utilized by our borrowers, he said.

Annual loans will be made only to those eligible applicants who are conducting family-type farm operations.

1500 Farmers Cooperating In Ogeechee Conservation District

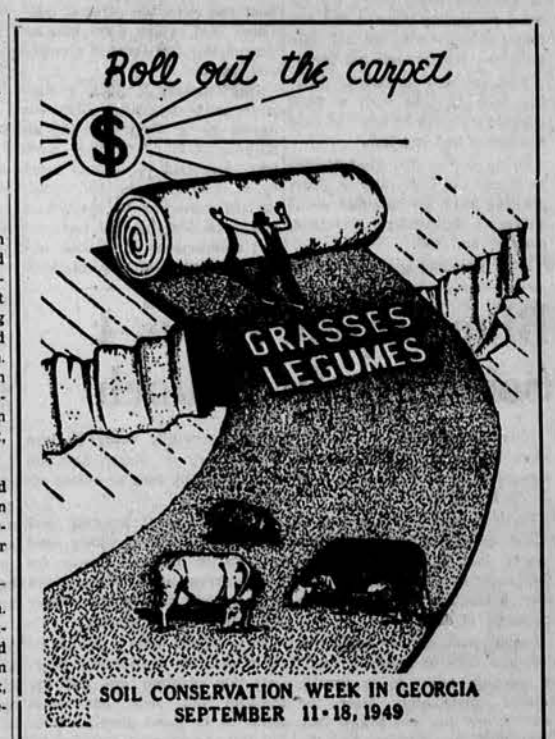

Nearly 1,500 farmers in the Ogeechee River Soil Conservation District are taking an active part in the conservation of their soil under the direction of the district which they helped to organize in 1940.

W. R. Anderson, Registrar, Ga., is chairman of the Board of Supervisors who direct the activities in the entire district. Other members of the Board of Supervisors are: E. L. Womack, Bulloch county; C. A. Meads, Screven county; Reginald Lanier, Camden county; A. N. Olliff, Evans county; Lester Morgan, Effingham county.

The district is composed of the above six counties and is comprised of 1,756,800 acres. The supervisors work hand in hand with a number of agricultural agencies and organizations in assisting farmers to apply complete soil conservation plans on their farm which include 21 different conservation practices.

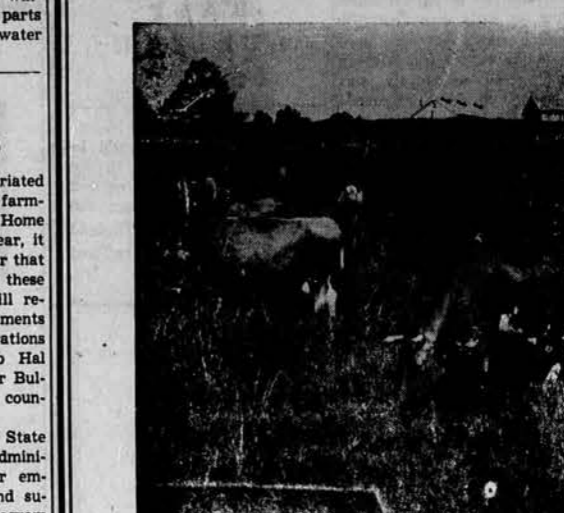

Conservation survey maps have been prepared on all the farms in Bulloch county, and these maps are used to assist farmers in developing conservation plans for their farms. These surveys show the farmer the kind of soil, the slope of the land and the amount of erosion that has taken place on each field of his farm. In each county of the district is placed a work unit technician who carries out and assisting in applying the practices that are listed in the 21 practices listed in the terracing program, farm ponds, pasture improvement work, cover crops, woodland management and wildlife development.

The assistance of the district is available to any farmer or land owner in the district by making an application to his local supervisor, Soil Conservationist or the County agent.

KEEP BULLOCH GREEN

HERE IS WHAT A "GREEN BULLOCH COUNTY" CAN MEAN

There can be no separation of man from the land—his whole existence is tied to the soil—from the beginning of his days to the time his body is laid to rest in the arms of the earth. From the busiest corner in the modern city to the wind-blown country fields, human livelihood is a product of the land.

THE BULLOCH COUNTY BANK is dedicated to the principal that conservation of souls and the conservation of soil are inseparable—what is good for the land is food for man.

THE FUTURE of Bulloch county lies in sound soil conservation programs. With controls and allotments of row crops, we must look to our grasslands for year-round pastures for livestock to maintain a high-level steady income.

Conservation Practiced On Fred Blich's Farm

Georgia farmers have found soil conservation farming profitable. Wise land use and the application of soil-conserving practices have increased their production and brought them higher incomes. By putting all their land to its best use they have diversified their farming and found new sources of income.

Fred Blich, a leading farmer in the Westside Community, Bulloch County, is doing an outstanding job of conservation farming. He is reaping and will continue to reap for many years the reward for having planned and followed through with his soil conservation program on his farm.

Fred got his first taste of farming back in 1931 with a $2500 mule on 30 acres of land his father had left him.

In the fall of 1937 Fred decided to attend the University of Georgia and learn all he could about animal husbandry, surveying, poultry, and soil.

After spending one term at the University, Fred came back home, bought more land and started putting into practice some of the things he had learned.

Fred now owns 625 acres of land and rents 500 acres of additional land, which gives him approximately 500 acres of cropland and pasture.

On February 2, 1944, a complete soil conservation plan was drawn up by Fred with the assistance of W. T. Smalley, work unit technician of Bulloch county, at that time. The plan included 150 acres to be planted in kudu, 16 acres of new terracing and maintenance of existing terraces, 315 acres of crop rotations, for grazing. These particular oats are not too plentiful for planting this year.

Very little land preparation seems to be necessary for lupine. Drilling these seed in on land where peanuts were harvested seems to be adequate, but ample seed should be used. Most local farmers prefer 100 pounds of seed per acre and about twice the amount of inoculation that is recommended is used. Lupine responds to acid phosphates, but the balanced fertilizer seems to be of little value.

Oats for grazing need lots of fertilizer, as well as lots of seed. Most oats for grazing are seeded at the rate of some three to four bushels per acre and some 300 to 500 pounds of a good complete fertilizer is used. Where vetch is added, inoculation is recommended at about twice the normal rate.

Crimson clover has been used some in the county and is being planted more extensively this year than ever. Some 20 pounds of seed are used per acre on well prepared land. The seed should be planted around mid-November and then given a light top dressing around Christmas. These seed again need inoculating heavy. Probably the best bet would be to use about three times the recommended amount of material

Leading Truck Crops	Value of Scalding Vegetables	Fruit Industry Leader
Watermelons led truck crop values in Georgia with $4,400,000. Following, in order of value, were cabbage, tomatoes, pimiento peppers, snap beans, and cantaloupes. On a value per acre basis, lettuce led all other crops and was followed by onions and tomatoes.	Scalding vegetables before freezing slows the action of enzymes that cause food to lose vitamins as well as flavor and color after the food reaches maturity. It also brightens color and softens the vegetables, making them easier to pack.	Peach growing is the largest single fruit industry in Georgia, representing over 700 individual growers in 27 counties. Due to cold weather the 1948 crop was smaller than the 1947 crop, but the quality of the 1948 crop was better than in the two previous years.

Farm Ponds Important To Bulloch Farmers

Farm ponds are becoming more important to the farmers of Bulloch county for watering livestock, and for recreation and fishing.

FHA Borrowers And SCS Cooperate

The Farmers Home Administration, through its Farm Ownership program, has purchased 104 farms in Bulloch county since the inception of the program. These farms were purchased for tenants and sharecroppers who were unable to make a down payment on a farm and home. At the present 35 of these loans have been paid in full. Hal Roach, county supervisor, says that a borrower must agree to carry out a soil conservation plan developed by the Soil Conservation Service before the loan can be made. While every borrower does have a plan, all of them are not being carried out fully. It is no trouble to pick out these farms by merely riding by. They are not as well kept from all standpoints as the one who keeps up his terraces, plants blue lupine and other cover crops recommended by the Soil Conservation Service. Corn yields on these farms have been more than doubled by green cover crops, better seed, rotation and planting on the contour. These good corn crops have paid off heavily to these farmers in the production of livestock during the high price years we have had. It is quite evident that this section must devote more of its cultivated acres to pastures and the production of livestock if it is to keep its present economic status. Farmers Home Administration borrowers are beginning to realize this and are depending on the advice and help of the Soil Conservation Service in putting this land to good use.

Some people still do not fertilize sufficiently. The idea is new to them. They ask, "How much fertilizer do I need?" The answer is: You need fertility enough to grow microscopic plants enough to feed enough insect life—to feed about five hundred pounds of fish per acre. You have that level of fertility when the microscopic plants are numerous enough to hide a bright object from your sight when you submerge the object twelve inches beneath the pond's surface. So put out one hundred pounds of 8-4-4 fertilizer in your pond EVERY WEEK (when you begin in the spring) until the twelve-inch measure shows you have reached sufficient fertility. Then fertilize only when the object can be seen beyond this one-foot depth.

Livestock produced on farm-grown feeds, utilize farm wastes and require little cash outlay. Grasses and legumes in the rotation feed livestock, conserve and rebuild the soil.

The farm ponds that have been constructed in this county have more possibilities for fish production if they are properly managed and fertilized.

In order to manage fish right, the pond water must be manageable. This means pond built on soils that will hold water well. It means sites selected where floods and silt cannot shorten the life of the pond or interfere with efficient fertilization.

Also significant are features of pond construction—safe dams, brood spillways, and vegetative protection. The elimination of shallow water areas saves a lot of trouble with marsh weeds and grasses which grow naturally in unwanted abundance if you leave the areas of water less than 2 or 3 feet deep. Ponds designed and constructed according to specifications of the Soil Conservation Service have less trouble with water weeds.

The most important cropland soils include the Tifton and Norfolk sandy loams that are on flat to gently sloping topography with little to no erosion. Approximately 39 percent of Bulloch county would fall under this category. The Tifton soil, locally called pebbly land, are perhaps the most important, agriculturally, in the county. These soils are distinguished by the presence of a large quantity of small rounded or smoothly angular brown or almost black concretions. The sub-surface soil is predominately a brownish gray and is underlain by a yellowish brown firm but friable sandy clay. The Norfolk sandy loams are similar to the Tifton but are characterized by their few pebbles and a lighter color, both in the surface soil and sub-soil.

The soils most used for pasture in the county are the wetter soils falling into the Lynchburg and Plummer types. They occur in large flat areas and along streams and are characterized by the dark gray to almost black surface soil underlain by a mottled subsoil. About 15 percent of the soils of this county fall under this class.

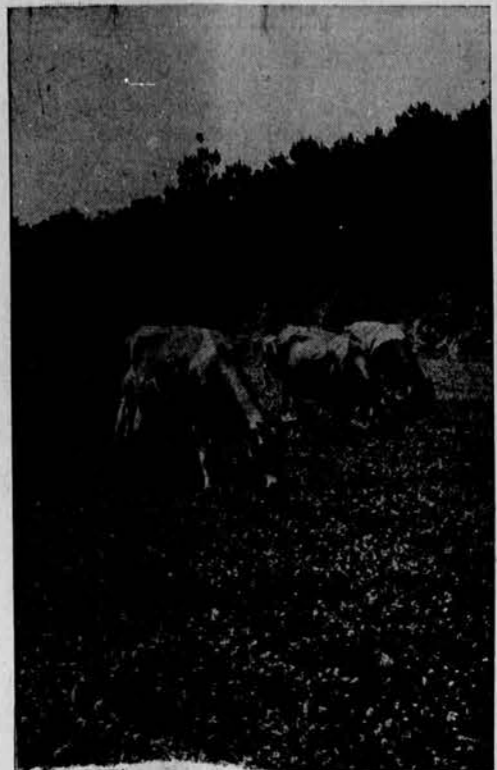

Beef can be "finished" and ready for market on good grass with little, if any, concentrated feeding. It's surprising, the amount of beef that can be produced on a few acres of well managed pasture. Good pasture management pays well and protects the soil, too.

A Green Bulloch County Means a Prosperous County.
A Green Bulloch County Means Well-Planned Farming.
A Green Bulloch County Means Year-round income.

Soil Conservation Week Is Highlighted By Special Program Series This Week

This week, September 11-17 has been officially set aside as "Soil Conservation Week." The main purpose of this week is to remind all Georgians of the stake they have in conserving the resources of the state.

Citizens of Bulloch county are joining in the observance of this special week in the following ways:

1. A special radio salute on the "Farm and Home Hour" over WWSN at 12:15, Saturday, September 10.
2. A special edition of the Bulloch Herald.
3. A program of conservation at the Rotary Club meeting Monday, September 12, and at the Lions Club meeting the following day.
4. A special conservation program at meetings of the Ogeechee Farm Bureau Tuesday night and at the Warnock Farm Bureau meeting Wednesday night.
5. A conservation tour of the A. P. Murphy farm, with veterans taking "on-the-farm" training, and their instructors. Date: Friday, September 16.
6. Approximately 50 ponds in the county will be stocked with Bluegill Bream on September 15.

Farm Bureau Drive for Members Underway

Farm Bureau memberships are now being renewed in Bulloch county. C. M. Cowart, secretary of the County Farm Bureau, stated at the Brooklet community meeting Wednesday night. Membership cards for all that were members this year have been prepared and given to the community officers and will be handled at the regular community meetings.

The Brooklet meeting was the big one last week. H. L. Wingate, president of the Georgia Farm Bureau, and Congressman Prince H. Preston were the speakers. Mr. Wingate gave numerous reasons why the Farm Bureau had to continue to grow, not only in Georgia but the nation. A farm program is going to be written by this Congress, he thinks, and if the farmers don't write it, some other group will write it for them.

The group mostly strongly organized will dictate the contents of such legislation. Congressman Preston told of the powers of the Farm Bureau and gave, as an example, the fight the Farm Bureau won of the national administration and some of the most highly respected members of Congress when the Branzen Bill was killed. He thought joining the Farm Bureau was essential for those from agricultural regions, whether farming or not. He urged everyone in the First District to make a special effort to increase their membership in the Farm Bureau.

There were some 400 at the Brooklet meeting for the barbecue supper and program, which was broadcast over WWSN.

The Farm Bureau community presidents and county officers were guests of the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday and individually told of the activities of the organization in their own communities. The group praised the cooperation the Farm Bureau is receiving from the business and professional men in Statesboro. They demonstrated their willingness to cooperate with the local businessmen when they voted to help finance the fight to retain the Georgia and Florida railroad in the community.

ing operations of a satisfactory nature, and who need annual credit to continue their operations this year.

Annual loan assistance will no longer be extended to those who are carrying on the type of farming that will likely require a continuation of such loans year after year, instead of developing the farm so that it will become self-sustaining. State Director Vansant said. Many borrowers who have received annual loans in previous years will not qualify under this policy.

Veterans will again be given preference and they will be provided the best credit and supervisory assistance possible, the county supervisor stated.

Farmers Find Good Soil Conservation Profitable

By T. L. ASBURY
State Conservationist

Georgia farmers have found soil conservation farming profitable farming. Wise land use and the application of soil-conserving practices have increased their production and brought them higher incomes. By putting all their land to its best use they have diversified their farming and found new sources of income.

Farmers have learned that their soil conservation district can help them know their own soils better. Through districts they can get a conservation survey of their farm. The survey shows the kind of soil, the slope of the land, and the erosion. The soil scientist, working in the district, provides interested farmers with a map showing the best use for each field. This is called a land capability map. It is so-called because it shows how the soil of each field is capable of being profitably farmed. With the land capability map to guide the farmer he is able to plan wisely his farming operations.

By the end of August, 1949, soil conservation districts had helped 53,259 Georgia farmers to prepare soil conservation farm plans. The plans covered 10,565,684 acres.

There are 25 soil conservation districts in Georgia covering all of the state except six counties. These districts were organized under a Georgia law enacted in 1937. The supervisors study the soil and water conservation problems of the farmers of their district. They then help interested farmers get all the help they can in solving those problems.

The Soil Conservation Service of the United States Department of Agriculture uses all of its field forces to help farmers in districts conserve and use wisely their soil and water resources. Since 1937 it has been working through districts to help farmers plan and apply the soil conservation practices needed on their land. The soil conservationists in each county of the districts spend their time helping farmers conserve and put to the best use the soil and water resources.

In applying the planned soil conserving practices farmers have used funds available through the Production and Marketing Administration to purchase lime, fertilizer, and seed, and to get terraces and drainage ditches built, or other soil-conserving practices. This assistance has enabled farmers to greatly speed up the application of the planned practices.

Farmers look to their district supervisors to get help in all phases of soil conservation. The supervisors look to the Soil Conservation Service for technical assistance in inventorying soil and water resources, preparing soil conservation farm plans, and in applying planned soil conservation practices.

KEEP BULLOCH GREEN!

The Good Earth

LET US NEVER FORGET that the cultivation of the earth is the most important labor of man. Man may be civilized in some degree without great progress in manufactures and with little commerce with his distant neighbors. But without the cultivation of the earth, he is, in all countries, a savage. Until he gives up the chase, and fixes himself in some place, he is a roaming barbarian. When tillage begins, other arts follow. The farmers, therefore, are the founders of civilization.— DANIEL WEBSTER.

WE ARE NOW in times when less emphasis is being placed on commodities likely to produce surpluses.

MORE AND MORE attention is being directed to practices designed to sustain the productivity of our soils.

OUR LAND resources will be better used when we can turn more to grass and livestock in Bulloch county.

WE JOIN the farmers of BULLOCH COUNTY in observing CONSERVATION WEEK. PLAN FOR THE FUTURE—See your local soil conservationist—he is here to help you.

Brunson Is 25 Delegate

Hoke S. Brunson was named Statesboro's delegate on the U.S. 25 Highway Association at a meeting held in Brunswick last week.

Mr. Brunson, for a long time, has been a leader in promoting tourist travel through this section.

Jim Gould of Brunswick was named president of the association. Porter Carwell, Waynesboro, was named a vice president, and Chauncey Lever, of Jesup, secretary-treasurer.

Representing Statesboro at the meeting in Brunswick were Alfred Dorman, Mr. Brunson, J. L. Renfro, Harry Cone, Horace McDougald, Fred W. Hodges, Walter Aldred and C. B. McAllister.

The Statesboro Chamber of Commerce has been putting some $200 a year in the promotion of U.S. 25. This year this was upped to $510. The advertising will promote the route on up to Detroit and Bay City, Michigan.

U.S. 25 terminates, as far as advertising and markers are concerned, about four miles north of Brunswick. Mr. Dorman suggested that Brunswick, with its resort attractions, should take part in the promotion program "telling tourist of the attractive points on the route." Brunswick agreed and is now interested in the association.

Scouts and Cubs To Get New Charters At Church Sunday

Members of Boy Scout Troop 40 will receive their new charter in formal ceremonies at the First Baptist Church Sunday night, September 25, during the evening services. John Groover is troop scoutmaster.

Members of Cub Pack 32 will receive their new charter in formal ceremonies at the Methodist Church Sunday morning, September 25, during the morning services. James W. Cone is submaster.

John Gee is commissioner of the Bulloch County Scout Council and will make the presentation of the charters.

East Side Womens Club Elect Mrs. John Hulst As New President

The East Side Women's Club met at the home of Mrs. Alice Turner on Wednesday last week with Mrs. Albert Turner as co-hostess.

Minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. John Hulst, secretary, and Mrs. Edwin Mikell made the treasurer's report. Mrs. Olin Brown is president, and Mrs. Elmer Webb, vice president.

The club's county fair exhibit, "Dairying," was discussed at the meeting.

The new officers to take office in November are Mrs. John Hulst, president; Mrs. Alice Turner, vice president; Miss Mary Edna Creech, secretary; Mrs. Olin Brown, treasurer; Mrs. Edwin Mikell, reporter.

The next meeting will be held on Wednesday, September 28, at the home of Mrs. Elmer Webb.

Jaycees Ask For Street Numbers

A committee of Jaycees presented a uniform system of numbering the homes in Statesboro to the city council at their meeting Tuesday morning of this week.

G. M. Curry, A. B. Anderson, Inman Dekle and Emory Ellen, members of the committee, made a survey of the city and together with James Bland, city engineer, they mapped out a system of numbering which they proposed to the council adopt.

According to Mr. Curry, chairman of the committee, the traffic light will be the "zero" point. The numbering would begin there. In the business section, the first floor offices and businesses would carry the whole number and the upstairs offices would carry one-half numbers. The first part of the numeral would indicate the block with the other numeral indicating the position in the block.

Homes centered on two building lots would be assigned a number by the city engineer. The system makes allowances for dead-end streets, and isolated sections. It provides for a maximum of uniformity, to make it easy for persons to find home and business locations.

In presenting the proposed plan to the city fathers, Mr. Curry called attention to the publication date of the city telephone directory suggesting that early action would assure the new directory having the homes and business under the new system.

It is estimated that the project could be completed in two to three months with two people doing all the work.

Bloodmobile To Be Here September 27

The first visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile in Bulloch county's blood program to Statesboro will be Tuesday, September 27, at which time blood donors have been requested to report.

The Community Center building has been approved as the site for the Bulloch Chapter's blood center. Red Cross officials explained that the space will, in effect, contain all the facilities of the larger fixed centers to be used during the visit of the mobile unit to Statesboro.

Those who have volunteered their services to assist in the operation of the center were given a full day's schooling here this week. They were given a special orientation to their duties, which will consist of non-technical tasks during the visit of the mobile unit from Savannah. These will include the reception of donors at the center, their registration, the serving of light refreshments in the canteen and helping with clerical work. Forty women took the training given this week.

Donors have been advised of the first visit of the bloodmobile, which is September 27 by a double postcard. Al Southland, chairman of the Recruitment Committee, urges all who have received cards to return them at once.

ALFRED DORMAN SHOWS FOOD DISTRIBUTION

Alfred Dorman in a brief talk to the members of the Statesboro Rotary Club Monday, told them that the business of packing and distribution of foods involves the greatest number of people than any other business except farming.

He presented a film showing all the steps from the producer to the consumer.

Stilson Home Club Wins Blue Ribbon At '49 Fair

A complete story of how to grow plenty of fruit for a family, the many kinds of fruit that can be produced, including citrus fruit, the care of fruit trees, and how to use the fruit produced, was told by the member of the Stilson Home Demonstration Club with such cleverness that the judges declared it the first prize winner at the 1949 County Fair now in progress at the airport.

The Register club was a close second with a "Child Development and Family Relationship" exhibit. It consisted of a complete modern home and community built on a miniature scale.

Miss Charlotte Ketchum, Georgia Power Company home economist, Mrs. J. B. Smith, Mississippi State home economist, and Mrs. Reppard DeLoach, former Georgia Power home economist, were the judges.

Honorable mention went to the Jimps club with its poultry display, to Leafield on its school story, East Side Woman's Club on its dairying exhibit, Warnock on nutrition and food preparation, West Side on landscaping, Middle Ground on gardening, New Castle on 4-H Club work, Arcola on handicraft, Nevis on library, Popular Springs on clothing, Denmark on home improvement, and Ogechee on marketing.

With a complete community agricultural story told in miniature the Willow Hill School won top honors in the Negro county-wide exhibit. Pope's Academy was declared second prize winner.

Honorable mention went to the Stilson Home Club, which was sponsored by the Garden Committee of the Statesboro Women's Club. The show is free and all interested in rose culture are invited to attend.

Stilson Farmers Visit Jenkins Farms

Ten members of the Stilson Farm Bureau and Future Farmers of America, with Mr. George A. Chance Jr., teacher of agriculture at Stilson, were guests of E. W. Graham at Miller for a conducted tour of several pastures of ladino clover and fescue in Jenkins county last weekend.

Mr. Graham is teacher of agriculture at Miller.

Some of the best plots of ladino and fescue were shown on areas where, during ordinary seasons, the water stood or was too plentiful to grow row crops. But since the areas were planted in pasture the heaviest rainfall is now absorbed.

Mr. Graham explained how they were successful in the development of pastures in Jenkins county, and in the face of discouragement.

Those making the trip were C. M. Graham, S. A. Driggers, Henry Brooks Burnsed, M. P. Martin, Mr. Chance, Julian Frost, Calvin Edenfield, Calvin Driggers, Billy Findley, and Dudley Hays.

First Rule For Picnics

First rule for picnic meals is to remember that they do not have to be expensive, indigestible or difficult to prepare. They should, and can, provide all the protective foods needed by every one in the family.

This week the Herald presents a new kind of advertising. We call it "Capsule Advertising" because it comes in small doses—52 "capsules" over a 52-week period.

On the inside back page under the heading, "Be a Good Neighbor—Trade at Home," are many short messages of business firms in Statesboro—told briefly and to the point . . . classified alphabetically.

Each week the page will change to keep it attractive and readable. Investigation will reveal that it is the year's best advertising bargain. We'll be seeing you about yours soon!
