You Might Guarantee A Life

GUARANTEE somebody's life. Somebody might have guaranteed yours.

Which may sound a bit far-fetched. But consider. On July 17 the Regional Bloodmobile will be back in Statesboro to collect blood to be deposited in the Regional Blood Bank.

Until recently there has been a general apathy to the Blood Bank program, and to the service it performs.

On Thursday night of last week, more than 60 citizens, representing civic and service clubs of the county, civic communities, Farm Bureaus, and churches, met at the Country Club for reorganization and revitalization of the Blood Bank Program in Bulloch county.

Led by Ike Minkovitz, new chairman, these citizens formed a county-wide committee which is now committed to the success of the program.

The committee is preparing to launch an all-out education program to inform the citizens of Bulloch of the tremendous power of blood to save lives, and of the great need of their presenting themselves and donating a pint of their blood to be stored in the Blood Bank.

The program has the full approval of the county medical society. The program is a service of the American Red Cross. The blood, when administered to a person, whose life it might save, is free to that person.

The heart of the new program is the personal contact angle.

Mr. Minkovitz has named to the committee leaders in each community, of each organization. Each prospective donor will receive a card two or three days before the Bloodmobile is scheduled to be here. Then, the day before, or on the day of its arrival, committee members will contact, in person, the prospective donor and will make arrangements to transport him (or her) to the Blood Bank collection center.

These members of the "Gray Ladies" will meet the prospective donor and make the process of contributing blood a simple one. A medical doctor will supervise the entire operation, which is described as "a breeze." In a matter of half an hour it is over, and the donor finds that he is possessed of a feeling of performing a great service to his fellowman—for the blood he has just donated might save someone's life. And an important thing, the blood someone else donates may be the blood to save the life of a donor or one of his loved ones.

The region of which Statesboro and Bulloch county are a part includes 23 counties in this section of Georgia, with the headquarters in Savannah.

The blood which is collected in each of these counties is processed in Savannah, then distributed to hospitals in the region as it is needed.

Since the program was inaugurated 11 months ago patients of the Bulloch County Hospital have been given 867 pints of the 8,335 collected.

The hospital here has used more blood than any other hospital in the region. Candler Hospital in Savannah has used 835 pints, the Oglethorpe, 543, and the St. Joseph Hospital 687.

The rate of administration of blood here has grown from 13 pints the first month (September, 1949), to 114 pints during the month of May.

Blood is now considered one of the most effective "medicines" used by our doctors.

Doctors consider it a "Godsend." Patients and their families consider it miracle-working.

When blood is administered at the hospital no charge appears on the patient's bill. By mutual agreement the doctors who administer the blood to a patient make no charge. The only charge which appears on the patient's bill is for the equipment and facilities used in its administration.

The standard price for blood in hospitals where a charge is made is $45 a pint. When several pints are used the price would make its use prohibitive for many citizens of this community.

Yet, there it is available to all for whom doctors think it necessary—and free. There is no "bookkeeping" or "debiting" and "crediting" the Bulloch County Hospital with the blood it uses and the blood our citizens donate.

It is known that the Bulloch County Hospital, which serves several communities, has used considerably more blood than citizens of this county have donated. Charges of "waste" in the use of the blood, of the promiscuous use of the blood have been made. But officials in charge of the program, together with the doctors who use it, deny these charges as unfounded.

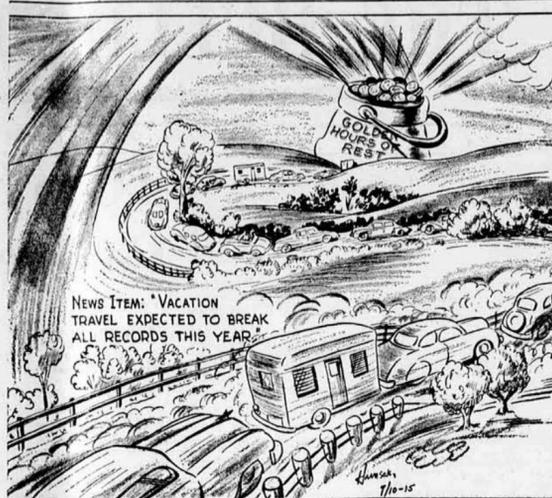

It would be no "waste" if the doctors administer it to YOU if he thinks you need it.

Consider these things. Know that the Blood Bank Program is community service. A necessary one, and one that warrants the community's completed and unstinted support.

So, if a member of the Bulloch County Committee selects you as a prospective donor, cooperate with him or her and present yourself at the Blood Bank Center at Memorial Park Recreation Center House (Woman's Club building) when you are notified.

The blood you give may save the life of someone, and the blood someone else gives may save YOUR life.

Vacationtime Vision

NEWS ITEM: "VACATION TRAVEL EXPECTED TO BREAK ALL RECORDS THIS YEAR."

Editor's Uneasy Chair

STATESBORO JUST HAS something lacking in many small cities. Notice we classify Statesboro as a small city rather than a big town, which is another thought which we will follow up later.

And, because of that something we don't know what it is—the citizens of this community are and looked upon as special people when they go out into other communities.

To illustrate our point, let us tell you of an incident told to us by Mr. T. S. Chu, who owns that fabulous establishment at Trye's corner, which we wrote last week.

A person was in Chu's store and saw something he wanted. He was in his swim trunks and didn't have enough money with him to pay for the article. He asked the clerk if he might have a check. The clerk then asked Mr. Chu about it and when Mr. Chu saw that it was written by a person from Statesboro on a Statesboro bank he said, "Sure. Anybody from Statesboro is good people."

He told us that he knows many people here and that he considers them all his friends. Other people here have had similar experiences and have learned that it's wonderful to be from Statesboro, Bulloch county.

And now about Statesboro's classification as a small city. We were walking from our office to the post office and back and could stop, speak to, and call by first name every person we met both ways.

ALL'S FAIR

We've made lemon pies and coconut too. The taters are bolin' and there's Brunswick stew. We'll soon be leaving to join the gang. For a family reunion that out of this week we can't take things in a whirl. We sit and spin yarns that are mellowed with wine. We don't get the spotlight in center of stage 'Cause we're the baby, believe it or not.

And do we rule the rest of them? MRS. GEORGE P. LEE understands all about these family reunions. On the Fourth of July she and her seven brothers all got together at Sullivan and had an old-fashioned good time. They came from all over: L. R. Bennett, Winter Garden Fla.; Morgan Bennett, Plant City, Fla.; D. D. Bennett, Willie Bennett, Buck Bennett, and Homer Bennett, of Savannah; and H. B. Bennett, of Durden down town one day of this week. He's so handsome—and a member of the faculty at Princeton University.

WE SAW Bobby Durden down town one day of this week. He's so handsome—and a member of the faculty at Princeton University. "Oh, he comes home and paints the house for Mama. We think we have a date with him some time in August. We want him to brighten up our apartment at Station WWS. We're so happy to learn that Herbert Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jones, will head the department of industrial arts at Tubman High School in Augusta. . . . We understand that Jane Averitt is converting her mother to the idea of celebrating her eleventh birthday by a trip to Washington, D. C., and back down to Natural Bridge, Virginia, to join the former Helen Collins' daughter, Kathryn Smith, in double celebrations back—there are many people we see and speak to but whose names we cannot call. And so we come to classify Statesboro as a "small city" rather than a "big town."

Statesboro is more "cited" than its 6,068 census figure would indicate. And we are a little sad about it. We like the idea of being able to know every person we meet on the streets of our home town. We like the idea of stopping and hearing, and passing on, "the latest."

Where Have the Country Folk Gone?—Fiedler

By BILL FIEDLER
The Savannah Morning News

Many observers, looking over the recent census reports, have professed great alarm at our obviously diminishing rural population.

The figures are drastic, but like figures everywhere they fail to tell the full story. They do reveal that during the last 10 years the exodus from the fields has continued at an accelerated pace.

For example, in figures just released, Apping county is one of the hardest hit. The city of Baxley has shown a slight increase; the county as a whole has taken a very definite kick in the pants as regards population.

Yet, in a recent visit to that county, I found nothing that one would ordinarily associate with a dying community. On the contrary there was noted progress. The economic status of the countryside can be pretty accurately judged by the frequency with which paint brushes have been applied, and the paint has been slapped on in Apping.

In addition, there are new residences, many of them miles from town and obviously tenanted by people whose main interests are in the land. Many of these residences would do credit to the town banker.

Everywhere there was progress. Fat cattle were in the pastures. New electric and telephone lines have been installed. Fencing is in excellent repair. Turpentine stands are well worked. If there is poverty it is well hidden.

What is it then that is steadily driving people from the farming areas? I think Albert Jenkins, level-headed editor of the Baxley News-Banner, has the answer.

The milk is just about gone from this country," he explained. "We're turning to cattle and pastures and mechanized farming. All this requires fewer hands. That's just about the answer, not only for Apping, but for all the other counties that are losing population."

As little as many of us city folk realize it, an agricultural revolution has occurred under our noses. The fact that Statesboro were largely of the Negro-and-mule variety wherein one man, by dint of endless labor, battled back the grass and the soil over a small acreage. He did it with little in the way of material return. If he could put girls and side most of the table and keep the fertilizer bill paid, he was luckier than most.

If the barn needed paint, it had to wait until next year "when times were better."

Times never got better for most of these folks. Each year they were a little further in the hole. Finally, inevitably, they left the cotton rows and the corn patches. Their humble homes tumbled the last sad steps to utter ruin or were burned.

Most of the countryside today is dotted with the chimneys that mark these former farms. The chimneys, the China berry trees and the clump of plum bushes is all that remains of that segment of our former rural economy.

It's just as well. Farming under those conditions was then and is now a losing game. It cannot attract a total of seven and one-half of our people. It cannot but be a drain on the rest of the population that must pay the tax bills for the schools, the roads, and the poor houses.

In the place of these man-and-mule farms has come something which promises eventually to revolutionize not only Georgia's rural economy, but her entire economy.

That is the farming we're doing now with machinery and know-how. That is the pasture where the grass is fertilized and supports 10 to 15 cows to the acre where it supported one before.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh
Here's a "Shining Example"

Seems like every youngster in town was down in front of the V.P.W. home last Saturday morning having fluorescent tape put on the back fender of his bicycle by Smiley Roberts, our local post commander.

"It shines in the dark," says Smiley, "When a car's headlights hit this tape at night, it reflects right back—even at distances where you wouldn't notice the bike itself. With just this little extra effort on our part, we're protecting both the drivers and youngsters in town from accidents."

I want to congratulate the vets on this example of public spirit. Community Volunteering, you might call it—for the common good. Like the way the tavern owners voluntarily co-operate with the Brewers Self-Regulation Program whereby taverns are carefully kept clean and bright and law-abiding—for the public's benefit.

From where I sit, whether it's riding a bicycle or running a tavern it pays to follow the time-tested rule of "Safety First."

THOSE WHO HELP themselves deserve the help of others.

Since the inauguration of Statesboro's recreation program it has grown steadily. Its growth is a healthy growth under the wise direction of Max Lockwood, the recreation superintendent.

However, one phase of the city-wide program has reached a turning point. From here it can become one of the most progressive developments in the city. Or from here it can become a forgotten project with the people it was designed to serve disappointed and disillusioned.

The East Side Community Center was the idea of several ladies who live along East Main street and surrounding neighborhood. The East Side Community Club was organized and interest ran high for awhile. The project was made a part of the city-wide recreation program. A community center building was started. The men in the community donated time, work, and materials. Several citizens contributed money to further the project. The Recreation Board contributed some.

But now all the money has been exhausted and the Community Center House stands unfinished.

At a meeting of the Recreation Board on Friday of last week a committee was named to determine the exact amount of money it will take to complete the building.

It is hoped that the project can be completed.

The Woodmen of the World furnished funds with which playground equipment was purchased.

The community house must be finished.

Those people must not lose their interest in the project. They must not be disappointed in their project.

The influence of the completed recreation center for a clean and happy community cannot be overestimated.

If you want a part in this project, whether you live on the East Side or not, call Max Lockwood and give him the word.

You'll be proud of your part in the project.

Verse For This Week

THE MEANING OF PRAYER
The breath of prayer in the morning
Means a day of blessing sure—
A breath of prayer in our weakness
Means a night of rest secure.
A breath of prayer in our weakness
Means the clasp of a Mighty Hand—
A breath of prayer when we're lonely
Means Someone to understand.
There's never a year nor a season
That prayer may not bless every hour
And never a soul need be helpless
When linked with God's infinite power.

Editor's Note: Our friend and fellow newspaperman, Bob Majors, former editor-publisher of The Claxton Enterprise, was recently selected Editor-of-the-Week by the Publishers' Auxiliary, which is to newspaper publishers what what the Bible is to preachers.

We reprint here, in part, what the Publishers' Auxiliary has to say about Mr. Majors: "AFTER 54 YEARS of weekly newspaper work—with time out for a taste of daily newspaper work at the American (Ga.) Times, Editor—Robert E. Lee Majors, editor and everything of the Loudon (Tenn.) County Herald, has decided to make it his life work."

"I reached this conclusion after much deliberate thought," Majors said, "even though I had sold the paper I had built up in Georgia with the idea of retiring, only to find I didn't have enough hair left to stay retired."

"Majors who is named for the famous Confederate general, was but seven years old when he learned to set type by hand at his father's paper, the Carroll County (Ga.) Times.

"At the age of 16 the former child printing prodigy took over the Villa Rica (Ga.) Star and successfully set that star over the horizon of 'Usterbe.'

Blood Bank—

Miss Johnson briefly told of the good done by the program. Dr. Baxter Deal cited several cases where the use of blood meant the difference between life and death for patients.

Mr. Henry McCormack, manager of the Bulloch County Hospital, explained that the hospital does not charge for the blood, saying that it is free to all patients for whom the doctors prescribe it.

H. V. Franklin Jr., president of Register Farm Bureau, stated that many of his friends in Register were under the impression that the hospital did charge for the blood. Mr. McCormack then explained that a rubber stamp is being used to print on the bill of blood that it was contributed by the Red Cross.

Farm Bureau Middle Ground Farm Bureau Holds Its Annual Ladies' Night Meeting

The Middle Ground Farm Bureau held its annual ladies night last Thursday. As in the past, ample fresh water fish were available to serve the entire group. At that meeting the Brownies will begin their craft program, selecting Indian beadwork and basketry to begin the program.

The entire meeting was devoted to a social hour of good fellowship and the eating of the abundance of fish. R. P. Mikell, county president, was the only "outsider" present at the annual affair.

Members of the Home Demonstration Club in the community always invite the men in to a supper in December.

Middle Ground still has men only at its regular Farm Bureau meetings.

The Ivanhoe Farm Bureau met last Friday night. Following the basket supper, the evening was spent watching it rain. The community had not had a good rain in so long that the slow rain, the kind that wets the soil, was ample entertainment.

Sixty-seven cents worth of pasture will produce as much milk as $2.32 worth of oats and $1.33 worth of clover and timothy hay.

Shell Aldrin (Compound 118) The powerful insecticide that controls weevils inside the squares!

Now available from leading formulators in dust and spray form, Aldrin not only kills adult weevils on the plants at the time of application and those that reach the plant after application... but also paralyzes weevils within the squares. This prevents their emerging and goes far toward reducing the development of successive broods.

Shell Aldrin acts fast... begins killing within an hour. This rapid action gives you a big advantage in showery weather... it saves repeat applications following rain.

Shell Aldrin is highly concentrated... effective at very low dosages... is very economical to use.

3-way kill... as a stomach poison, on contact, and as a vapor fumigant. Shell Aldrin in recommended dosage does not injure the cotton plant or other crop foliage... does not leave harmful residue in the soil... is safe to use where root crops follow the cotton... is compatible with other insecticides.

Use Aldrin dust or sprays also to control thrips, tarnished plant bugs, rapid plant bugs, cotton fleahoppers and grasshoppers.

Ask your dealer for information or mail the coupon for free copies of the new bulletin on Aldrin.

Miss Sadie Maude Moore Writes Home Of Leaving S. Korea

EDITOR'S NOTE: This week, Miss Nellie Lee received a letter from Miss Sadie Maude Moore, who was in Korea, a missionary who the North Korean Revolution. South Korea. She called members of her family from Japan, saying that she was safe. Now comes this letter, which gives an intimate picture of what war can do to people we know. The names Miss Moore mentions in her letter are those of her friends with whom she worked and lived in Korea.)

Camp Hakata, Fukuoka, Japan, Sun., July 2, 1950.

My dear Family:

I don't know what you have heard, read and thought and feared and hoped about us these days, but I do hope and trust you haven't been too alarmed and that the radiograms I've sent have reached you, assuring you that I am well and safe in Japan. This past week has been filled with varied experiences, there has been anxiety, and trying time, but many humorous experiences too, and through it all things have worked out so wonderfully for us, we have been taken care of so graciously all along, and we feel that we have so much to be thankful for. Of course our great concern is for poor Korea, and what she is having to go through, and our dear friends there—they were so brave and fine in getting us out of danger, but we don't know what dangers they are encountering.

How can all of this happen in one week? Last Sunday (June 25) was quite a normal day for us in the quiet little country area of Wonjo. That morning one of the American advisors, who had been coming up to see Mary Jane quite often came by to see her and said he was off to ChoonChun, in a hurry, and that "War," "Real War," was breaking out on the border. We didn't take that too seriously for last Sunday, but after that we had been fighting on the border, and it quieted down later. But about eight in the evening another of the American advisors came up and said the situation was really serious, and advised that we prepare to get out of Wonjo. Esther and Mary Jane began packing immediately. I couldn't get too excited about rushing out, so I said I wasn't packing till we got further word, and I went to bed, hoping to get some rest and be ready for what might happen on the morning. But we didn't wait till the morning. About 2:30 in the night, Olin came calling and said the American advisor was up again, saying the American Ambassador was preparing to evacuate all Americans from Korea, so we began packing immediately. We got our servants up and they helped us get our things ready for the morning. As we came other came up and helped, some friends made American flags to put on our cars, we got to the bank and took out our money and left it for servants and helpers, etc. We thought we would leave for Seoul about 10. But then just as we were nearly ready to leave the American Ambassador came up again saying a message had come saying for us to proceed by train to Fusan rather than going to Seoul—that meant a trip of nearly 300 miles by jeep rather than a trip of 90 miles. It also meant that I must drive rather than taking the chauffeur to Seoul, as I had planned. But there was no turning back at that stage—so we started out. The Stokes and Burkholders were getting ready too, but we got ready first, and they said for us to start ahead. Esther and Mary Jane had their things packed in Esther's station wagon, and mine were in my jeep. We took turns driving, that is, Mary Jane helped me some and I helped Esther some. Of course I've driven a car for years in America, but I had driven this jeep hardly 10 miles in all and to start out on this trip on these roads would have been an "impossibility" under ordinary circumstances, but here I started ahead. To do but do it—and I did (with some help) and we got along wonderfully well. Esther had two flat tires on the road, but I didn't have any and she had spares, so didn't take long getting fixed up. The Stokes and Burkholders never did overtake us, they left late, and had to stop for the bag, and they took things more leisurely. We did not stop to eat, just drank some fruit juice and ate sandwiches along and kept going. We drove till about 11 Monday night (June 26), getting to Taegu and decided we had better get some sleep before going on. We went up to a Presbyterian compound there—all of the missionaries of their group had gone to Taichun for their mission meeting, and the services and help were greatly appreciated when we took them that we had this message to evacuate. They told us too that the news of the day was that though North Koreans had started fighting they were being driven back, that McArthur was sending help from Japan, and that surely there was no need for us to leave. What they said sounded so assuring and the fact that the Stokes and Burkholders hadn't overtaken us, made us wonder if they hadn't gotten further messages and hadn't come out at all. Also the fact that the Presbyterian mission seemed to be still in Taichun, made us feel that perhaps our flight was too hasty, so we went to bed in Taegu thinking it possible that we might go back home, rather than proceeding to Fusan the next A. M. (Tuesday, June 27).

But again we found that only wishful thinking, for when we got in touch with the American Military Advisors in Taegu, they said they themselves were being ordered to evacuate, so of course we knew we would go on to Fusan. We were told that it would take us about 5 hours to get to Fusan, and leaving about 10:30 we should have gotten to Fusan about 3:30, but it wasn't that easy. Esther got terribly sick on the way, she had eaten a tin of condensed milk the morning before, and being so tired out and a highly nervous person anyway, she got a bad case of food poisoning, we stopped 8 or 10 times for her to vomit, and finally she got so sick and weak and faint, we had to put her in a Korean house and work with her. She got cold and clammy. The Korean woman covered her with heavy covers, gave her hot water to drink, bathed her feet in hot water, etc., and I went scouting for a doctor. When I finally found a doctor she was feeling better, he said her pulse was steady, and would be able to go on. Then just as we were getting ready to start a jeep came along. Mr. Scherbacher, an American we knew, who had been with the welfare Dept. of the American Advisory Group in Seoul, hopped out and said he would join our party. He had been told in Taegu that there were possible Communist invasions on the south coast about 30 miles from Fusan, and he knew we would be going very near that area. Anyway he urged us to hurry, and said he would drive my jeep and his chauffeur could go along in his jeep. So we started out again. Esther stretched out on top of baggage in the back of our station wagon and Mary Jane drove. After a few miles we came upon this group of people by the road, Mr. Scherbacher feared it was Communist trouble, but on investigation we found that it was an American Jeep overturned, and a Korean chauffeur hurt. Esther hopped up and gave him first aid, found his pulse good, etc. So told him to be quiet for a while and left him with the others in the jeep (we heard later that he was picked up and brought to Fusan, and was not seriously hurt).

As we got nearly to Fusan—we arrived about 6:30—we met Charles. He told us that they had stopped to feed the baby many times, to eat, to rest, etc., but they had kept going all night and had reached Fusan about 5:30. He was on his way back out to get some of the luggage they had left by the roadside when the trailer they had had tacked to one of their jeeps, broke down. That was a great reunion for us, and we were glad to get together. We were directed out to the American Military compound near Fusan—there are about 60 American homes there, with big office and club houses, etc. We were given supper and told to wait for orders about sailing. At first we thought we would get to a boat right away, but it finally worked out that we were asked us to stay in his house—his wife and children had been evacuated by the house with all the government furniture was there, and we put up a few extra cots, so our Wunjo group stayed with Mr. Spooner for the night. What to do with our cars and jeeps was a question. See "SADIE MOORE WRITES"

Car Registration Is Short by 320

Only 691 citizens of Statesboro have complied with the city ordinance requiring automobile owners to register their cars and display a city tag.

According to the city auto registration records, 1,041 cars were registered during 1949. On July 17 of last year, 1,011 cars were registered. On the same date this year the registration was 320 short of that figure.

The Statesboro market will operate with two full sets of buyers, with every major tobacco company having buyers here.

When the sales begin Monday it will mark the twenty-second season on the Statesboro market. Olin times recall that during the first years of operation the markets were small. Each day that year more tobacco was sold than was sold during the entire season in the early days of the market.

The crop this year in this section has improved considerably since the recent rains. Warehousemen who have traveled the territory say that the crop will cure out good. They have given the farmers assurance that the market here will remain open until all tobacco in this territory is sold and have urged the growers not to rush their curing.

Superior Court To Meet Monday

The July term of Bulloch Superior Court will convene Monday, July 24, at 10 o'clock. Jurors as follows have been drawn to serve:

C. of C. to Hire Full-Time Secty.

The Statesboro Chamber of Commerce is now accepting applications for a full-time secretary. Dr. John Mooney, president of the civic organization, announced at the regular meeting on Tuesday that the Chamber of Commerce had voted to employ a full-time paid secretary and that the committee, of which Paul Franklin is chairman, is now accepting applications for the position.

Dr. Mooney stated that the action on the part of the Chamber of Commerce will assure proper representation for Statesboro with industry. He stated that a full-time secretary will be selected to represent Statesboro properly to industry which is looking for desirable communities in which to locate.

Byron Dyer has been serving as secretary for many years, devoting only part time to the assignment.

W. H. Aldred Gets Health Center Job

Mr. Fred Hodges, chairman of the Bulloch County Commissioners, announced Tuesday that the contract to build the new Bulloch County Health Center had been awarded to Walter Aldred of Statesboro. He said the low bid was approximately $49,308.

Other bidders were: Construction Co., Savannah, $51,484; E. & L. Powers, Jessup, $56,714; Knox, Thompson, $61,062; A. B. Newton, Vidalia, $56,300; and Arley Company, Savannah, $61,175.

Mr. Aldred stated he expects to begin work in about 10 days. "The building will be located on North College street at Proctor.

U. S. 301 ASSOCIATION TO MEET IN GLENVILLE
The U. S. 301 Association will meet today in Glenville, Fred W. Hodges of Statesboro is a national director of the association. The meeting will be held at the Glenview Hotel at 1 o'clock.

109 Donors Give To Blood Bank

Mr. Minkovitz, chairman of the Bulloch County Blood Bank Committee, announced this week that 109 donors contributed blood to the regional Blood Bank when the Bloodmobile was here on Monday night.

Mr. Minkovitz stated that of the 150 who pledged to contribute blood 122 presented themselves at the Community Center during the afternoon.

Mr. Minkovitz states that the committee is pleased with the response to the request for donors to the Blood Bank program. He expressed his personal thanks and the thanks of committee members for the renewed interest in the program.

"It makes Bulloch county look good," he said. "It also indicates that our citizens are becoming more and more conscious of the need of having blood available at our local hospital and at other hospitals in this region."

Local Draft Board To Call 15 Men Next Week

Ida Matz, clerk of the local Selective Service Board, announced late yesterday afternoon that the local board had been instructed to call up 15 men for pre-induction physical examination next week. They will go to Columbus, Ga., for the examination.

The local board is made up of Hubert Smith, acting chairman, and Dr. Hugh Arundel, Edgar Wynn, former chairman, has resigned from the board. Another will be selected to fill out the 5-man board.

Final Rites For Lt. R. D. Warnock

Miss Estler Warnock and Miss Janis Warnock and Mr. Phis D. Warnock, of Statesboro, will leave here Monday, July 24, for Louisville, Ky., to attend final rites for Lt. Roland Warnock, son of Mr. Phis D. Warnock. Burial will be in the Zachary Taylor National Cemetery, RFD 6, Louisville, Ky.

Lt. Warnock was killed when the B-24 bomber of which he was pilot, was shot down in the vicinity of Brussels, Belgium, on February 24, 1944. He was flying a mission over Gotha, Germany, in a free dance and beauty revue Monday night, July 24. There will be a free street dance with two orchestras furnishing square dance and round dance music.

The American Graves Registration recovered the unidentified remains of five bodies which were believed to be those of the five men who went down with the plane. All other bodies found in that area have been identified.

According to a letter from Captain J. F. Vogt, G.M.C. Memorial Division, U. S. Army, they are satisfied that these bodies are those of the five men who went down with Lt. Warnock's plane. These bodies have now been recovered in the U. S. for final burial. Because they were unable to identify the individual bodies of the five airmen, they will be buried in the national cemetery as a group.

Lt. Warnock graduated from Georgia Teachers College in 1938. He was teaching in Charleston, S. C., when he volunteered for the Air Force in February, 1942.

Street Dance For Tobacco Queen

With the singing star of the tobacco auction still in their ears and money in their pockets from the first checks tobacco growers and their families will join citizens of Statesboro and Bulloch County and surrounding sections in a free dance and beauty revue Monday night, July 24. There will be a free street dance with two orchestras furnishing square dance and round dance music.

A platform will be erected where the queen will be crowned. Colored lights will be strung over Seabald and Courtland streets which will be roped off for the street dance. The pavement will be sprinkled with a preparation to make it slick for the dancers.

Those in charge of the street dance indicate that this affair will be just a preview of what might be expected next year when plans for a real Tobacco Festival will be made.

Local Board Sets New Office Hours

Ida S. Matz, clerk of the Bulloch County Selective Service Board No. 16, announced this week the new schedule of hours of the local board. She states that the office, located in the County court house, will be open Thursdays and Fridays from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Chamber Of Commerce Hears Three Point Program For City Progress

In a brief talk before the Statesboro Chamber of Commerce on Tuesday of this week, Alfred Dorman advocated a three-point program for the progress of Statesboro.

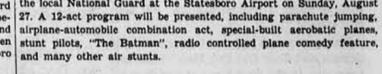

Before stating his program he commented on the apathy of the citizens of Statesboro to what is going on. He stated that there seems to be little interest in what the community progresses or not. He cited returns of the 1948 and 1949 elections as examples of the lack of interest in the affairs of the community.

"The records of the city office reveal," said Mr. Dorman, "that of all the citizens in Statesboro in 1948 only 1,056 were registered.

Of that number only 463 took part in the city election and voted. In 1949 the registration list showed 1,100. In the 1949 elections only 463 citizens voted."

He suggested a three-point program to include a division of the city into wards or districts that each section of the city might have equal representation on the city council. He stated he believed such a plan would stimulate interest of the citizens in all sections of the city. His second point was to extend the city limits to include the outlying residential areas. He cited the benefits they enjoy at the expense of citizens within the city limits. His third Phay Daughtrey, of Thrasher Brothers Air Show, is shown waving to a crowd as he flies his plane up down 25 feet from the ground. Daughtrey will take part in the annual air show sponsored by the National Guard at the Statesboro Airport on Sunday, August 27. A 12-act program will be presented, including parachute jumping, airplane-automobile combination act, special-built aerobatic planes, stunt pilots, "The Batman", radio controlled plane comedy feature, and many other attractions.
