THE JESUP Merchants Council of the Jesup and Wayne County Chamber of Commerce made a move last Thursday...

At its first 1950-51 meeting, the Merchants Council at Jesup made plans to strengthen its program of solicitations control.

The solicitations control program was set up in Jesup last year to cut down on the number of solicitations made in the business section of the city and to guard the local merchants against racketeers who prey on the businessmen and take money away from the city.

Here's how the program works in Jesup: Any solicitor is required to register at the Chamber of Commerce with the manager. The manager checks credentials to determine the honesty and legitimacy of the solicitor and then reports to members of the merchants council by telephone.

If a favorable impression is obtained by the merchants council, the manager writes a notice on official Chamber of Commerce stationery, stating that the solicitor (or solicitors) has registered at the Chamber of Commerce office and has been cleared. If an unfavorable impression comes as a result of the investigation, the manager informs the solicitor that he is unable to give him a letter of introduction.

Any solicitor without this official introduction is turned away by merchants and other citizens alike. On the other hand, the letter given to those solicitors who are considered all right is not an endorsement. It merely states that the solicitor has been registered and has been found to be legitimately operating. The worth of the product is to be determined solely by the merchant or citizen.

Another phase of the solicitations control program is the Central Registry Plan for magazine solicitors. This is made available through the Chamber of Commerce's affiliation with the National Better Business Bureau.

There is on our city ordinance books an ordinance, dated May 11, 1937, which, if enforced, would handle the problem of solicitations in Statesboro. But the ordinance is a little different from the solicitations control as set up in Jesup.

The Jesup plan will bear study and we believe could be adapted to suit Statesboro to a "T."

And it would prove a boon to our businessmen and housewives.

Two Great Steps Forward

AT THE last meeting of the Statesboro Chamber of Commerce it recommended two actions which, if put into effect, will mean two great steps forward in our community's progress march.

After hearing the secretary read a report by the steering committee, the Chamber of Commerce as a body endorsed and recommended, first: The extension of the city limits; and, second, the division of the city into wards or districts.

The group of businessmen organized for the promotion of the welfare of this community were unanimous in approving these two recommendations.

Both are to be presented to the city council, carrying the endorsement and approval of the Statesboro Chamber of Commerce.

The Herald has promoted both proposals for the progress of this community. We are glad to see them receiving the endorsement and approval of the business leaders of Statesboro.

We hope the city council takes the ball and carries these proposals to conclusion. They will mean much to Statesboro.

A Dangerous Street

THERE'S ONE STREET in Statesboro which causes us to wonder.

Any citizen who uses Mill street one time is so discouraged at its condition that he goes several blocks out of the way the next time he goes in that general direction.

It could be a good traffic lane from Park avenue, connecting College boulevard, Zetterover avenue and South Main street. But the section between Zetterover avenue and South Main makes it inadvisable to use from a safety angle.

The section along Darby Lumber Co. is especially dangerous.

It presents an inconsistency in the maintenance of our city streets. If other streets are kept passable and safe, then why not Mill street?

The Yellow Curb Problem

DO THESE THINGS just happen to us? Or do they happen to other citizens who use automobiles as their principal means of locomotion?

Saturday of last week we were trapped again at the corner of North Walnut street and South Main street.

With cars parked on both sides of the street... in violation of the city ordinance regarding yellow curbs on the east side of the street, a pickup truck was coming along North Walnut street just as we made a right turn into it from West Main street. We had to back out into West Main to allow the pickup to get out of North Walnut. In the meantime, traffic from both directions on West Main and out of South Walnut into West Main began piling up.

Now we're no great shakes of a driver. But, because of our constant concern over the traffic conditions here we try to use extra discretion in observing traffic ordinances.

Because several car owners were violating the yellow curb on the east side of the street we were forced into the position of holding up traffic that the pickup might clear.

If this happens to us regularly, is it not in order to assume that it happens to other who use West Main, and South and North Walnut?

And is it not in order to assume that it also happens on other side streets in the business section of Statesboro where there is a yellow curb (no parking) on one side of the street?

A demonstration on the part of our police department indicating that they are determined to keep traffic moving freely on these streets might do the trick.

And a willingness on the part of auto drivers to observe the yellow curb ordinance might help too.

And so, operating together, the problem can be solved.

Sound Advice

IN A RECENT news release, Insurance Commissioner Zack D. Cravey, of Atlanta, warned the public against purchasing insurance from "fly-by-night" insurance companies not licensed to do business in Georgia.

He states that these "fly-by-nighters" and mail order outfits are operating without regard for the insurance laws of the State of Georgia. As a result, the people who are taken in on their schemes have no way to regulate them or require them to live up to their contracts if they have no intention of doing so.

Insurance Commissioner Cravey's warning seems sound advice to us. Insurance is one of life's most intangible products. It is merely a scrap of paper, until a loss occurs. It is then that the scrap of paper becomes the salvation to individuals, homes and businesses. It is then that the person or business who suffers a loss, needs most the advice and counsel of his insurance company's local agent to effect a prompt and just settlement. It cannot be done as effectively by mail.

Your community prospers through its buying power. If everyone acquired his needs by mail or in another community, our entire local economy would suffer. A local insurance agent is in business to serve the public. He and his companies pay local and state taxes proportionate to the business they place with him.

Insuring in "fly-by-night" or non-admitted companies may save you from ten to twenty per cent in the premium, partly made up in taxes they avoid, but we will wager you will suffer heavily when you need your insurance most—at the time of a loss.

As many people have found out, it pays to "consult your local insurance agent as you would your doctor or lawyer.

IT'LL TAKE A SQUAD TO GET US BACK IN THE MARINES

The Marines are working us over. On Friday of last week and on Friday of the week before a Marine was in to see us about re-enlisting in the Marines.

On Friday we got a copy of the "Leatherneck," the Marine Corps magazine, and we read it with a great deal of interest.

Last week when we visited the National Guard we were amazed at the strength of the indoctrination given us when we were a "boot" at Parris Island in 1942.

As we were ushered into Colonel Henry J. Ellis' office we felt a terrific urge to come up to a short stop, click our heels together, give him a snappy salute, and sound off with "Sergeant Coleman, reporting sir!"

We remembered just in time that we were just plain Ledell Coleman on a friendly visit, with Henry Ellis and so we said sort of casually, "Hi, Henry," and sat down.

We talked for a few minutes then made a leisurely inspection of the camp. As we stepped into the kitchen the sergeant in charge shouted, "ATTENTION," and all the men in the kitchen stiffened. . . . there it was again. It was all we could do to keep ourselves from snapping into the shoulders back, belly in, chin up, eyes ahead stance. But before we could make it Henry gently ordered, "Carry On," and we all relaxed.

Eight years have rolled by since we were given that boot camp training. Eight years including several months of state-wide duty in recruiting and public relations duty in Georgia and South Carolina. . . . 24 months in combat in the Pacific, and six months duty in New Orleans. . . . then our discharge in November, 1945. Then came nearly five years at our duties in our Uneasy Chair.

And then boom. . . the mere atmosphere of the Armed Forces revealed in front of each tent a tin can from which glowed a good flame. Imagine our amazement when we learned from a Scout that their good light came from sand that had been saturated with kerosene.

Besides the fun and fellowship that comes from these outings and all this campfire, the boys acquire reading numbers. . . . They must plan all their menus, figure out the cost per person, buy the food and then prepare their tables and be graded. L. C. Bodford, veteran instructor, led the cotton discussion.

The boys weren't the only ones enjoying this fellowship. The parents were in a strong position on some of their visiting. So the Camporee served still another purpose.

Everywhere we saw the Scout men and the supporters but the Scout Leader that touched our hearts most was John Groover who has unselfishly given himself to the program for years. John leaves us this fall to take up his first teaching duties. Someone else's gain but our loss.

We parents shall miss him as well as the boys. He reminds us of a verse, (the author can't be recalled) for John has not only fulfilled it for his mother but has helped many a boy try to live it.

"Tender as God,
Strong as the sea;
So do I want my son to be—
My son to be—
Clean as the dawn
Eager as the dove,
Let him be good
Let him be brave.

Scout Camporee—Time of Learning, Fun and Frolic

By VIRGINIA RUSSELL
The Boy Scout Camporee was too good to miss. No matter what prompted you to go, whether it was your boy or your neighbor's boy or just your interest in Boy Scouting you felt fully repaid for the trip out to the air port where several troops were camping from Thursday through Monday morning.

Upon arrival at the camp the noisiness was filled with the glorious aroma of camp fire. Had there been time to reminisce some good stories could have been recalled but there stood a Scout to greet you and guide you by flashlight to the different campsites. It was almost miraculous how soon these boys had set up their tents. Refrigerators had been built in the ground and were well covered. Fires for cooking were burning and showers were being used. A stoves had already been put to use. A stoves had already been put to use. A stoves had already been put to use.

Methods of building pastures such as found on R. L. Roberts' farm were discussed at the meeting of the Nevils Farm Bureau on Wednesday night of last week. Mr. Roberts has all the adapted grasses and legumes recommended for this area in his pasture and is keeping his cattle fat on them. This is the point that those wanting to build pastures are interested in.

The Nevils group also asked that every cotton and tobacco farmer in the area destroy stalks from the two crops just as soon as the crops are harvested to prevent all hibernation possible of boll weevils and other insects.

H. L. Wingate, president of the Georgia Farm Bureau, will be the Ladies' Night speaker at the Register Farm Bureau meeting September 21. H. V. Franklin, local president, announced to the group last Thursday night. Mr. Franklin stated that community and county officers of Bulloch County would also be invited to the meeting.

The men were guests of the ladies Thursday night of last week for a novelty and talent program featuring acrobatic dancing by Miss Jan Gray and several musical and reading numbers. . . . Following this program the men made a study of methods of marketing cotton and the need for asking that their cotton be graded and graded. L. C. Bodford, veteran instructor, led the cotton discussion.

Mr. Franklin pointed out to the group that there is a strong possibility that there would be a shortage of nitrogen next spring if the farmers can plant lupine this fall to help offset this loss.

It scares us a little. Or should we be proud of it? We don't want to go to war again. None of us do. None of those who are going for their first time want to go.

But when the chips are down and it comes we'll be ready. But until then, we told the Marines, it'll take a squad to get us back in right now.

Esla Group Doesn't Like Having Power Off Due to Trees on Lines

Pulpwood cutters will discontinue cutting trees across power lines if the Esla Farm Bureau can stop it.

Power service has been interrupted several times recently in the Esla community, according to reports at their Farm Bureau meeting Tuesday night of last week. The people depending on this electrical service do not like it, and the power company says it is very expensive to them.

The Farm Bureau passed a resolution condemning those who thoughtlessly cut timber across the lines.

Business Leader With Great War Record Tells How Hadaool Has Rebuilt Him Physically

Was run-down, weak, after service in South Pacific due to deficiencies of Vitamins B, B₁, Iron, and Nicotin

Mr. Donald Hedburg, who resides at 1812 Parker in the fashionable Riverside District of Wichita, Kansas, has been an up-and-coming executive member of the staff of the great Wichita Eagle newspaper for over four years.

Mr. Hedburg has an enviable record of combat with the U. S. Army in the South Pacific in World War II. He is very active in civic affairs. And just as he was anxious to pitch in and do a job during the war—he now wants to help his fellow citizens who (like he was once), are physically run-down and weak due to lack of Vitamins B, B₁, Iron, and Nicotin in their systems.

Here is Donald W. Hedburg's witnessed statement: "When I returned from service, I faced the problem of rebuilding myself physically. I was in a general run-down condition.

"In my present capacity of advertising salesman for Kansas' greatest newspaper, The Wichita Eagle, it's absolutely necessary that I have plenty of vitality—'get up and go.' I had real cause to worry. Nothing seemed to re-build me constitutionally. Then a friend of mine on the national staff told me about HADACOL—He asked me to try at least five bottles. I'm on my fourth bottle and already I feel like my old self. I look forward to a day's work and go home—play with the children—work in the yard—fish until midnight! Thanks again to HADACOL, energy and vitality once again course through every fiber of my body. You bet, I too, am a missionary for this great new HADACOL!"

Get That Wonderful HADACOL Feeling Everyone is Talking About

HADACOL gives such wonderful results because it not only supplies deficient, weak run-down systems with more than their daily needs of important vitamins B, B₁, Iron, and Nicotin—but also helpful amounts of Precious Calcium, Phosphorus and long-acting Vitamin C. So vital to help maintain good health and physical fitness.

If you are a victim of nervous pain, certain stomach and neurotic disturbances, constipation, insomnia or a weak, run-down condition due to such deficiencies, HADACOL will start you on the road to feeling better often within a few days. Thousands upon thousands of records of grateful men, women and children prove this.

Many Doctors Recommend It
HADACOL is recommended by many doctors not only to their patients—but to members of their own families who have such deficiencies. Before giving up hope—before you try to yourself to get HADACOL, a chance to help you. Why keep dragging yourself around feeling "half-alive" when it's so easy to have that wonderful HADACOL feeling that everyone is talking about? Trial-size bottles only $1.25. Large family or hospital size, $3.50. Refuse substitutes.

Soil Conservation News

By J. R. Kelly
E. L. Womack, A. P. Murphy, P. C. Parker, and J. R. Kelly, co-operating with the Ogeechee River Soil Conservation District, have recently purchased a coastal Bermuda grass planter. This planter will put out fertilizer and plant the grass uniformly all in one operation.

Thursday afternoon Henry Blitch carried the some 250 fellows who met at his place on a tour of the 190 acres he has in pastures and er, planted on fertile land and highly fertilized were recommended. Sericea lespedeza and kudzu were also recommended for some lands, the sericea on the hard or firm soils and the kudzu on the thinner soils.

Mr. Blitch had fescue on high and lowland, where it was fertilized highly; sericea on some land that had washed pretty badly; Coastal Bermuda on the other high land, along with Dixie Crimson clover and lespedeza, and then his old pasture is growing Dallis grass, lespedeza, and white clover. His pastures are fertilized every fall with 500 pounds of 8-13 fertilizer. He uses lime and phosphate when tests indicate they are needed.

More than 500 fellows attended these schools and a lecture meeting at Brooklet.
