Agronomist Names Southeast Winner In Cotton Contest

A Bulloch county farmer who had to leave for the Army before his crop was harvested has been named winner in the Southeast Georgia district 1950 five-acre cotton contest, E. C. Westbrook, Extension Service agronomist, announces.

A. S. Hunicutt Jr. won the honor by producing 12,077 pounds of seed cotton on five acres. Inaugurated in 1947, the contest is sponsored by the Georgia Cottonseed Crushers Association. Its purpose, Mr. Westbrook said, is to stimulate interest in producing larger, more profitable yields of cotton.

Mr. Hunicutt planted Coker's 100 Mr. on April 13. A thousand pounds per acre of 0-12-12 was applied on March 15 before the crop was planted in 42-inch rows. At planting, 480 pounds of 4-8-8 per acre was used.

The cotton was side-dressed on June 15 with 200 pounds per acre of nitrate of soda, 100 pounds of nitrate of potash and 100 pounds of nitrate of lime. It was side-dressed again on July 7 with 200 pounds of nitrate of soda per acre and 100 pounds of 0-12-12.

Mr. Hunicutt's cotton was picked 13 times, 11 for boll weevils and two for red spider. Second prize in the district went to Clifton Smith, also from Bulloch county. Mr. Smith grew 10,698 pounds of seed cotton on five acres. He planted Coker's 100 Mr. breeder seed in 40-inch rows. Five hundred pounds of 4-8-9 was applied at seeding on March 31. The crop was side-dressed June 15 with 75 pounds of nitrate of soda per acre and 100 pounds of nitrate of potash per acre. Mr. Smith pluriated his cotton six times.

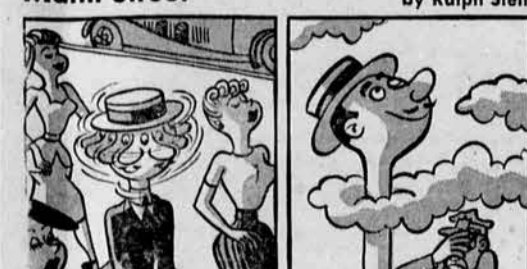

Planting from 40 to 50 acres of cotton annually, this Bulloch farmer averaged around a bale per acre for five years.

M. C. Oliver, Screven county, won third place. He grew 10,340 pounds of seed cotton on five acres.

The Wesleyan Service Guild will meet Tuesday evening, December 5, at 8 o'clock, Misses Ruth Bolton, Louise Bennett, and Ella Johnson are hostesses. Each member is requested to bring a bath towel to be sent in a Christmas package to the Vasti School.

Faith, Hope, Charity; Greatest Is Charity

And now abideth faith, hope, charity, these three; but the greatest of these is charity.—The Bible.

The plente that exist in Statesboro and Bulloch county there are some who needs exceed the desperate.

Beneath our feeling of well-being there lurks the knowledge that there are some who are suffering.

When we sit down about the festive board we'll be knowing that, while we have plenty, there are those who will have only God, Himself, and the charity of His people with them.

Tent Meeting At M. J. Bowen Store

Announcement is made this week of the tent revival now in progress on the Statesboro-Claiborne highway at M. J. Bowen's store.

Rev. Cecil Peacock, Southern Baptist evangelist, is conducting the meeting, assisted by Otis Waters, song leader.

Services are being held at 7:30 p. m. and will continue through December 18.

The tent is well heated for the comfort of the congregation. The public is invited to attend.

Cantatas Be Held At Two Churches

Two of the Statesboro churches will present Christmas cantatas this Sunday night.

Rev. John S. Lough announces that the Methodist Church choir will present "Glory to God," a cantata arranged from the music of Charles F. Smith, on Sunday evening, December 10, at 7:30. The choir will be directed by Mrs. J. O. Mooney.

Assisting the choir will be Dr. John Johnston on the violin. Mrs. J. O. Johnston will be the reader.

Rev. George Lovell, pastor of the First Baptist Church, announces that the Baptist choir, under the direction of Mrs. E. L. Barnes, will present "The Choir of Bethlehem," a short cantata. This special music program will follow the ordinance of Baptism Sunday evening.

Gene Henderson To Be Missionary

Gene Clark Henderson, son of Dr. and Mrs. Z. S. Henderson, was recommended by the Second Quarterly Conference of the Statesboro Methodist Church, Thursday evening, November 30, to the Savannah District Conference for license to preach.

After graduation from Georgia Teachers College next June young Henderson expects to go to Africa under the Church's three-year plan as a missionary teacher.

Upon completion of that tour of duty he plans to enroll in one of our seminaries for the completion of his education for full-time missionary service under the direction of the Board of Missions of the Methodist Church.

Churches to Hold Temperance Clinic

A temperance clinic, sponsored by the churches of Statesboro, will be held at the First Baptist Church on Monday night, December 18, at 7:30 o'clock.

Mr. Raymond J. Jefferys, an experienced speaker, will be here to help clarify the thinking of Christians at the home offices of the company in Atlanta December 13 and 14.

One hundred eighty managers from 11 Southern states in which the company operates will be present. Plans for 1951, when Life of Georgia will observe its 80th anniversary, will be discussed.

Mr. Helmy joined Life of Georgia in June, 1941, as an agent at Greenville, Ga. He came to Statesboro to open a new district office for the company in January, 1950. He is a Mason and a member of the Statesboro Music Club and Methodist Church.

Bulloch Farmers to Vote on PMA Committeemen, Peanut Quotas

On December 14 Bulloch County farmers will elect the committeemen who will administer the Agricultural Conservation Program, price support, acreage allotment, marketing quota, and other production programs for 1951.

Whether peanut marketing quotas will be continued for another three years depends on how peanut growers vote in the marketing quota referendum on Thursday, December 14. Quotas will continue in effect if approved by two-thirds or more of the growers who cast ballots in the referendum.

When approved by growers, the marketing quotas are used to apportion the available market for peanuts among growers, thus helping to maintain a reasonable balance between supplies and requirements. Quotas were in effect on the 1949 and 1950 crops. Nearly 90 percent of the growers who voted in the last referendum favored quotas for the three-year period beginning with 1948, but the program was suspended for the 1949 crop because of the world shortage of fats and oils.

Government price support at the full rate provided by law—between 80 and 90 percent of parity for 1951—will also continue to be available to cooperators if quotas are approved in the coming referendum.

If quotas are not approved, price support will be limited by law to 50 percent of parity to cooperating producers.

Voting in the referendum is by secret ballot at polling place to be established in every peanut growing community. Every grower who had an interest in peanuts produced in 1950 on a farm on which more than one acre was harvested is eligible to vote.

The referendum is being conducted under supervision of the County Producing and Marketing Administration (PMA) committee. Full information is available from the county PMA office in Statesboro.

Mr. Hayes Takes Over Duties as C of C Manager

Jim Hayes, new manager of the Statesboro Chamber of Commerce, assumed his duties here on Monday of this week.

Mr. Hayes made his initial statement at the Rotary Club and pledged his wholehearted efforts to do the best job of which he is capable.

The new manager was presented to the Rotarians by Paul Franklyn, Jr., who was chairman of the committee which interviewed many candidates for the position before it agreed upon Mr. Hayes.

Mr. Franklyn warned Statesboro businessmen that Mr. Hayes could not get far in his work without the concerted cooperation of them all.

Mr. Hayes comes here from Montezuma, Ga., where he served as manager of the Chamber of Commerce. He has moved here with Mrs. Hayes and their two children.

S.H.S. Band Gives Concert Sunday

The Statesboro High School Band will present its annual Christmas concert Sunday afternoon, December 10, at 3 o'clock, according to an announcement issued this week by Guyton McLenodon, director.

The concert will be held in the high school auditorium. The public is cordially invited.

The program as announced is as follows:

Three chorales, "Jesu Joy of Man's Desiring" by Bach, "Now Let Every Tongue Adore Thee" by Bach, and "Beautiful Saviour," arranged by Christians; "The Lost Chord" by Sullivan, "The Cathedral" by Franghiser, "Trumpet Tune" by Purcell, "Largo" from the New World Symphony by Dvorak, "Ave Maria," marimba solo, featuring Don Flinders, by Schubert, and the Christmas carols, "Silent Night" and "O Holy Night."

The National Anthem will close the program.

The public is familiar with the band as it appears on the local football field and as it marches in parades on the streets of the city. The annual Christmas concert presents the band playing a different kind of music.

Planters Bought By Local Firms

The heavy tree transplanters bought by the local banks have been delivered and are now ready for use. These transplanters may be procured through the county agent's office.

The Sea Island Bank, the Bulloch County Bank, and the Farmers and Merchants Bank at Portal and Brooklet cooperated in buying the transplanters. They are loaned to farmers without charge for the planting of small pine seedlings, small pine seedlings.

The machines are the heavy trailer-type transplanters that can be used anywhere a tractor can be used in underbrush. The machines are also adapted to planting cypress, Bermuda grass and for sub-soiling work.

Who Owns Mill Street?

WE FIRST thought of the situation as being dangerous. It was, and still is. Then we thought of it as a nuisance. And it is. We now think of it as being not right. And it's not.

We know that our city officials have been considering the situation. We know that they feel that something should be done. But they do not know just what.

Mill street, between South Main and Zetterower, has ceased, as far as the public is concerned to be a public thoroughfare.

It has almost lost its identity as a public street.

It is almost private property.

Citizens who do try to drive from South Main to Zetterower or from Zetterower to South Main have learned that they do so at their own risk.

Thanksgiving afternoon, driving from the football game, we used what is called Mill street. Just as we passed under the log conveyor, which is erected over the street, the crane which lifts logs from the ground to the conveyor let a log drop. It rolled just in front of us. We waited until it was lifted.

Another citizen tells of driving on Mill street and finding it impossible and having to back out to South Main.

Citizens in the neighborhood avoid the street, going blocks out of the way.

Other citizens have ceased using it as a street.

There exists a fire hazard, for the records of the city fire department reveal that it has answered numerous calls to put out fire at the mill there between South Main and South Zetterower avenue.

Citizens need the assurance that their right to use every street in Statesboro is protected—regardless of the length of it, its location, or the degree to which it is used.

Mill street is a blot on the City of Statesboro and a discredit to its citizens. Something should be done—and now. Close it to traffic, if that's the only way.

Clarify the right-of-way and clean it up, that motorists might use it with confidence that it is safe, if that's a way.

Hold a meeting with the city council, the property owners, and the citizens of the community and citizens of Statesboro who are committed to the idea that Statesboro is the city "Where Nature Smiles and Progress Has the Right-of-Way." To work out a way to give the street back to all the citizens of the city. That's a way.

Maybe there's a better way to solve the problem.

But, at least, let's do something!

We Move Forward Again

MR. JIM HAYES assumed his duties as full-time manager of the Statesboro Chamber of Commerce on Monday of this week.

In his initial statement made at the Rotary Club Monday noon, Mr. Hayes pledged all his resources and abilities to do a good job for this community and to help make it a better one and to keep it on its road to progress.

He made it clear that his success depends as much upon the cooperation of business leaders and citizens of this community as upon his own abilities and energies.

He comes to Statesboro highly recommended. His experience is wide. His personality fits him well for the work he is to do.

Already he has become a "citizen of Statesboro." He has moved his family, Mrs. Hayes and two children, to Statesboro.

He circulated around Statesboro Monday, meeting people and making himself known.

Before he accepted the position he spent some time in Statesboro, and in his statement to the Rotarians he said he liked what he found here.

He commended the city upon its churches, its schools, its colleges, its recreation department, its community center, its people, its hospital, its library.

"You've got what it takes," he said. "And that's more than I can say of most cities your size and many much larger."

He explained that if the citizens of this community are seeking new industries, that we have much to offer, and that which means more than just dollars, and a site.

Already Statesboro is known far and wide as "The Friendly City." He commended our tourist facilities and the attitude we hold toward those who follow the sun, point out that "the word gets around."

We believe that the Chamber of Commerce's step in adding a full-time secretary-manager to its organization is a wise move. We believe that it means an aid to greater progress in the future. We commend the city and county for their part in this venture.

As the city progresses, its citizens take on new stature.

And it is part of our assignment to help Mr. Hayes do a good job.

In his initial statement made at the Rotary Club Monday noon, Mr. Hayes pledged all his resources and abilities to do a good job for this community and to help make it a better one and to keep it on its road to progress.

He made it clear that his success depends as much upon the cooperation of business leaders and citizens of this community as upon his own abilities and energies.

He comes to Statesboro highly recommended. His experience is wide. His personality fits him well for the work he is to do.

Already he has become a "citizen of Statesboro." He has moved his family, Mrs. Hayes and two children, to Statesboro.

He circulated around Statesboro Monday, meeting people and making himself known.

Before he accepted the position he spent some time in Statesboro, and in his statement to the Rotarians he said he liked what he found here.

He commended the city upon its churches, its schools, its colleges, its recreation department, its community center, its people, its hospital, its library.

"You've got what it takes," he said. "And that's more than I can say of most cities your size and many much larger."

He explained that if the citizens of this community are seeking new industries, that we have much to offer, and that which means more than just dollars, and a site.

Already Statesboro is known far and wide as "The Friendly City." He commended our tourist facilities and the attitude we hold toward those who follow the sun, point out that "the word gets around."

We believe that the Chamber of Commerce's step in adding a full-time secretary-manager to its organization is a wise move. We believe that it means an aid to greater progress in the future. We commend the city and county for their part in this venture.

As the city progresses, its citizens take on new stature.

And it is part of our assignment to help Mr. Hayes do a good job.

Shop at Home Christmas

EXPERIENCE has proven that you can find in the shops of Statesboro pretty much the things you find in the shops of the larger cities, and oftentimes at lower prices.

Before you get in your car and drive to far-away places to do your Christmas shopping, give serious consideration to the business of shopping in your hometown stores.

Now, with 14 more shopping days before Christmas, Statesboro and Bulloch county stores are well stocked with fine merchandise—nationally advertised brands, merchandise you have learned to have confidence in, and the same merchandise in the large city stores—all suitable for Christmas gifts.

Consider the money you save on your gasoline and oil, the depreciation of your automobile—that extra money will mean an extra gift for someone.

The merchants here are your neighbors. They live on the same street, the same side of town. They help you support your church. They help our recreation program. They send their children to our schools. They form the backbone of our community.

When you spend your Christmas shopping money—or your average monthly shopping money—the greater part of it stays in the community, and the merchants with whom you spend it, in turn, spend it with others who do business here.

Before you take off for the big city, consider these things.

It'll make for a happier, merrier, and thriftier Christmas.

"And Beware Any New Infamy"

Editor's Uneasy Chair

CHRISTMAS came early this year for the boys of Georgia Tech and all their supporters.

It came in the form of a 7 to 0 victory package all wrapped up and tied with white and gold ribbons on Sanford Field last Saturday afternoon as the Yellow Jackets played the Georgia Bulldogs in their twenty-second annual game in Sanford Stadium in Athens.

It was a glorious day. Fair and warm. A wonderful crowd, all primed for a fine game of football—and a Bulldog victory.

And what happened broke the hearts of the Georgia fans. But they took it on the chin with the satisfaction that there'll be another year.

We made the trip, riding the Nancy Hanks to Tennesse, then to Athens on a bus provided by special arrangements by the Central of Georgia with the Service Coach Lines.

More than 100 of our neighbors from Savannah were aboard the Nancy and we joined 27 of them aboard Bus No. 512 at Tennesse for the trip to old Athens Town.

ALL'S FAIR

(The lines below are entitled, "ALL'S NOT FAIR.")

Look's like we're in for a cold cold again.

Keep the stove hot, coffee in the pot.

Put on a bone and soup, keep away from the door.

Listen to war news, Old Attlee and his views.

"Peace with China at any price." Old codger's afraid we'll quit being nice.

England might miss our handout and that wouldn't be nice.

Slap down the greedy Yaw Hawgs who ship to Europe's War Dogs.

Quit sending all the money in our pockets—we'll have eyes lost in their sockets.

With half a million Reds swooping down on our boys, no wonder we toss restless in our beds.

Should we use the atom bomb and stop the warring enemy—Let them know that the bomb is one among many?

WELL, enough for the war front—the home front—and pessimism. Christmas is a-coming and we'll adopt Santa Claus-ism.

Yes, the birthday of the Prince of Peace is approaching, and it is a season of rejoicing, a time for happiness for the children. No matter what happens, we believe in keeping that old chin up.

WELL, Margaret Sherman is doing pretty well on the school front, according to an account in an Atlanta paper: "Ann Rutherford, screen star, whom Andy Hardy used to pursue with a time for standable persistence, would be surprised to learn she sang to the Decatur Lions Club Tuesday night in a personal appearance. The Decatur Lions Club, in turn, will be surprised on reading this to learn she didn't. It was a gag. An Atlanta school teacher passed plating as Ann Rutherford. Undeterred by failure to obtain a real movie star as a guest, the practical-joking committee members made one up."

And that's how our Margaret Sherman came to be presented at the Lions Club. Well, not exactly. She really was invited because Ann Rutherford has, to some degree, beauty and talent, which makes her a good thing to have around. They list Maggie's street address, and add that they do not have a telephone number but are working on it. Well, little good that will do them, for on December 28 Margaret and Arnold Almond, better known as "Honey" at the U. of Ga.—Almond bars—you know Honey almonds. . . . Well, let's start over. Margaret and "Honey" already have found a lovely apartment in a brand-new apartment house in Atlanta, and it's very, very nice. And, next door to us here in Statesboro, Guido Sherman is teaching by day and, for the next few weeks, will be busy engaged at night in getting ready for a wedding with two daughters in it. It's wonderful that Mama can sew—but we forget there's no time for that. Just making plans, etc., is a full-time job when a girl marries in a church in Statesboro. And it will be a lovely wedding, a lovely bride, Margaret (a sweetheart and a princess), a lovely maid of honor—Betty Ann Sherman—and, queening over it all will be the mother of the bride. And for the dowager, there's Mrs. J. L. Martin. Yes, Grandma, and Aunt Judie, of Savannah. Have we missed anything? Well, there Papa, Sherman, who will give "son" way, and dollars to do-nuts says he'll hold his head higher than all the rest.

WHEN CROWDS get together at weddings, teas for brides, etc., sometimes the guests do a bit of reminiscing, as was the case when Mrs. Henderson Hart, Mrs. Zary Jenkins and Mrs. Noyse Womack entertained for Mrs. Francis Fletcher, recent bride, at the home of Mrs. Wilson Hart, known by many as the Daniel Rigdon place.

Yes, Lottie Remington's Grand-ma Fletcher, Fred and Jesse Fletcher's mother, formerly Elizabeth Rigdon, lived there as a little girl.

Ninety years ago, the menfolk had gone hunting and the birds were turned over to the women to prepare. In the crow of a wild pigeon someone found an acorn. "Was then that seven-year-old Elizabeth had an idea. She took the acorn and hid it in the middle of the oak, today, stands the stately home, once a tiny acorn from the crow of a wild pigeon, planted by a small girl.

The oak really should have a bronze plaque on it as a memorial to the little girl whose small act resulted in this lovely tree.

From that they went on to relate how the home, right in the path of Sherman's army, was saved from destruction. As the Federals swept down on horseback, they shot the chickens in the yard. They butchered the hogs in the barnyard. They asked the whereabouts of the stock, the cows and horses—these had been hidden on a little island in the middle of a pond nearby. Receiving no answer, the Yankees piled up brush around the house with every intention of burning it. But a soldier happened to shoot his pistol and another of the soldiers was wounded. In the excitement they rode away from the scene and, thus, the two-story home looking down from the hilltop on the Lake View Road was preserved for the Rigdon family. The property now belongs to Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Hart.

Incidents like that will some day be read by Bulloch countians with the great relief that we all have for tales of the long ago.

As ever,

JANE.

No Dull Moments. But It's Nice . . .

By VIRGINIA RUSSELL

"LITTLE BOYS are made of snails and puppy dog tails, but little girls are made of sugar and spice and everything that's nice" is a little folk rhyme that must have been handed down to us for many generations.

After having first one, then two, and finally three boys in our home, I wondered for a good many years if they were really made of "snails and puppy dog tails." They may be, at that; nevertheless, I have discovered that they are pretty nice to have around. There are some things that one learns to accept when boys come to live with one. But these things are gradual and slip up on one so slowly that their acceptance is more or less painless. You know the kind of things I have in mind—pockets filled with everything from pieces of broken glass to dead insects. Bug bugs brought in, have strings tied to their legs, were strown about the house, model airplanes that are being built, and bearing a sign "Don't Touch!" on the table on which they are being constructed—all these things a woman can adjust herself to, for she soon learns that boys are just little men and a woman can handle them fairly well.

But "girls are made of sugar and spice and everything that's nice" and our hearts felt incomplete until some four years ago, when the little "feminine touch" was added to our household. We naturally thought that "everything nice" meant lace and frills and hair ribbons and daintiness in every respect. Well, "everything nice"; however, the lace and the frills and the ribbons and the daintiness are somewhat lacking, that is, to my noticeable degree. In fact, we haven't ever completely recovered from the shock of what our little girl is like. For she hasn't been a perpetual wave of shocks, never letting us get over one shock before she creates another. Last summer she was teaching humble bees in pint jars and honey bees in vanilla bottles. Following one fishing spree of the elder of the house she became an avid collector of earthworms, gathering along the way a centipede or two. A great big, old shaggy dog had been brought into the house in a nice cozy box. She has made innumerable toads her home companions. The little "feminine touch" is not missing from her. She is a very domestic. She helps with the cooking, the cleaning; she helps run the house in general, but it is difficult to convince her that she must not try to set the table with one hand while she holds several snails in the other hand.

For eighteen years there hasn't been a dull moment at this house. For the past four, life has really been enjoy— and there's nothing like it.

Local Firm to Use F.F.A. Calendar

(Emmitt Alford—W. J. Webb)

The National F. F. A. Foundation has designated one calendar advertising company in the U. S. to make calendars using the F. F. A. colors and emblem.

The Statesboro F. F. A. 1951 Calendar was leased to Mr. Hoke S. Brunson, Atlanta-Oakmers Tractor and Buick auto dealer for Statesboro.

The Statesboro F. F. A. Chapter wishes to express its appreciation for Mr. Brunson's using this calendar.

Stilson Future Farmers Meet On Second Wednesday Of Each Month

By CALVIN EDENFIELD, Reporter

The Future Farmers of America at Stilson held their regular meeting each month on the second Wednesday.

On month, "Green Hand" initiation brought the chapter members out 100 percent. "Green Hand" is the beginner's degree in the Future Farmers. It is a course of instruction for the degree were given certificates, signifying the degree received.

Those presented the "Green Hand" degree were: Ed. Edwards, Edwin Akins, Lavern Deal, Ronald DeLoach, Leon Fortner, James Hodges, Robert Neal, Herbert Newmans, Charles Stokes, and Thomas Cook.

At the November meeting the annual fire show was given the group at the Post, known as Brooklet. Thirty-eight of the total membership of 43 attended.

Many Fish Slated For Bulloch Ponds

Fish should soon be plentiful in Bulloch county ponds. C. C. James, director of fish hatcheries for the Game and Fish Commission, advised that the ponds are being stocked with a variety of fish which to stock ponds with any other kind of fish.

Mr. James stated that 59 of these application had been filled with 20,000 fish, and that others would be filled immediately.

Most of those asking for fish for stocking ponds are picking them up at the hatchery at Richmond Hill. Mr. James did not believe they would have fish to supply any other pond owners in the near future.

CORN CONTEST

All over the district, corn harvesting and husking has been in order for a couple of months. Some six of our members have been busy, for they entered the state F.F.A. corn contest.

Results have just been reported. Even though they are not named due to extreme dry weather, the greatest yield was grown by Roland Bell, a little over 68 bushels per acre, which is well over the line, the average for the county.

Donald Bell ran a close second, harvesting 62 bushels on his acre. Third place went to Clifton McKee with 58 bushels, and fourth place was won by Rabun Murray with 46 bushels. Kermit Newmans and Donald Wilson also entered the contest. All contestants planted the variety of hybrid "Dialle 18", which is recommended as producing the highest yield for this section.

BLITCH AND EDENFIELD WINNERS IN COASTAL FAIR

James Blitch and Calvin Ed- enfield won places in the Coastal Empire Fair in October. James won fourth place in F.F.A. Open Show and Calvin won third place with his sow and litter.

Leon Cook moved to Savannah with his family but the crowded conditions and lack of the outdoor life, led him to do the other part of his heart on made him persuade the folks to let him come back to Stilson where he lives with his wife, Robert Neal, on his live-in F.F.A. activities.

Statesboro Chapter Hears J. N. Baker, District Supervisor, November 16

By W. J. WEBB AND EMMETT ALFORD, Reporters

Mr. J. N. Baker, District Supervisor of the Second District F.F.A., spoke to 45 F.F.A. boys, who are members of the Statesboro chapter of the F.F.A., Thursday, November 16, 1950, in the Statesboro gymnasium.

Mr. Baker, who was a member of the evaluation committee which visited Statesboro High School, last week told the F.F.A. what other chapters were doing and how they raised money to carry on these activities.

The Statesboro chapter, which

Bulloch County Future Farmers Of America Study to be Leaders

By W. J. WEBB AND EMMETT ALFORD, Reporters

An F. F. A. Officers Leadership Training Course was held at Brooklet November 17, 1950. This course was held for all F. F. A. officers in this area.

The event began with a barbecue supper which was sponsored by the Brooklet F. F. A. chapter. Mr. L. B. Johnson, Springfield, presided.

After the supper was served the meeting began with Mr. T. D. Brown, State Executive Secretary of F. F. A. Mr. Brown introduced the first speaker, Mr. J. N. Baker, District Supervisor for the F. F. A. Mr. Baker then turned the meeting back over to Mr. E. L. Lanier, Mr. Morris, Mr. A. I. Bert Morris, F. F. A. Publicity Chairman and editor of GaFfa, state F. F. A. paper. Mr. Morris told the F. F. A. students how they could advertise their chapter and how to give the F. F. A. a desirable publicity.

The meeting was then turned back over to Mr. Brown, who led a discussion about the State F. F. A. Camp in Covington.

Green fields—rich soil, running streams, forest—a home for wild life, roads that run glistening and smooth through our great county of Bulloch—do these things bring a sort of pride to your young hearts?

Then listen. You have no doubt read the fabulous stories of "Paul Bunyan's" exploits—that fabulous giant created by the lumberjacks of pioneer days. Paul, you remember, could cut down whole forests with one stroke of his mighty ax!

In those days, when he would go out the forest. There were actually too many trees. The untouched forests of America seemed indeed inexhaustible. No one dreamed there could ever come a time when trees would be scarce.

Many, many other things of which no one dreamed have come to pass, and now young F.F.A., Paul Bunyan has another job—a job fully as great as he had in pioneer days. That job is to conserve and grow trees—trees that mean fertile soils—trees that mean water retention in the soil, a bulwark against drought and floods, an economic product that is the lifeblood of the nation, a symbol of the wealth and beauty of our country.

In your community you have an adult Farm Bureau. Talk to them about forest fires, about saving the little pines from fiery death's snare. In your school, through ignorance, will burn millions of little trees and money and mauling burning woods.

Make a resolution in your F. F. A. meeting to cooperate with your Farm Bureau in not letting this happen next spring in YOUR COMMUNITY.

Grady Johnson, State Vice President of the Georgia F. F. A., from Georgia, spoke on what F. F. A. means to him.

Mr. Baker introduced all of the F. F. A. advisors at the meeting and the advisors introduced officers who were with them.

From Bulloch county chapters the following were present: Nevada—Advisor Gordon Hendrix, President Jack McElveen, Secretary Polton Young, Brooklet—Advisor John Spence, President Horne Knight, Vice President Ronald Dornier, Secretary Charles Tucker, Treasurer Barney Deal, Reporter Billy Tyson, Sentinel Billy Bennett, Silson—Advisor George Bennett, President Avant Edmond, Vice President, Kermit Newmans, Secretary Dudley Hayes, Treasurer Brooks Akins, Reporter Calvin Edfield, Port—Advisor Gene Meadows, Stateboro—Advisor Lettler Akins, President Ed Hochkiss, Vice President Emmitt Alford, Secretary W. J. Webb, Treasurer Danny Lingo, Reporter Charles Youngblood, Lab—Mr. Folde.

Other chapters represented in this section were Millen, Sylvania, Claxton, Pembroke, Springfield, and Guyton.

Mr. Hoke Griffen, principal of Brooklet schools; Mr. Craig Marsh, assistant principal; Mr. R. E. Taney, principal of Guyton; Mr. L. W. Linwood McElveen, Veterans agriculture teacher, were others who were guests at this important meeting.

Greetings to Bulloch County F.F.A.

BRIDGE GUILD MEETS

WITH MRS. MERVIN ELLIS
Last Tuesday morning Mrs. Henry Ellis was hostess to the Bridge Guild at her home on Kennedy avenue. The attractive home was decorated with narcissus and pyroantha berries. Assorted sandwiches, potato chips, and brownies were served with coffee. For high score Mrs. Walter Aldred received a crystal bon bon dish. A crystal ash tray, cut pipe, went to Mrs. Lennie Simmons. Mrs. Louis Ellis, with low score, received a crystal vase.

HOSTESSES AT BRIDGE

The Daniel home was the scene Wednesday afternoon of a delightful bridge party as Mrs. Bird Daniel and Mrs. Nath Holleman entertained with a even tables of bridge. Chrysanthemums and gladioli were used in the decorations, with red berries adding a hint of holiday ahead. A salad plate was served. A musical powder box went to Mrs. Lehman Franklin for high score, a bath set to Mrs. Elinor Morris for cut, a novelty rooster to Mrs. Frank Mikell as floating prize, and a linen hot foot cover was won by Mrs. Howell Sewell for low score.

COUSINS CELEBRATE BIRTHDAYS TOGETHER

Little Marcia Ann Shealey, four years old, and Patricia Ann Harvey, seven, were honored on their birthdays Wednesday evening, November 22, by their mothers, Mrs. LeRoy Shealey and Mrs. H. V. Harvey Jr., with a marshmallow and Weiner roast at the Shealey home. Those enjoying the evening of fun with the honorees were Kay Beasley, Helen Waters, Billy and Jimmy Seacore, Sonny Biser, Geraldine Biser, Patricia Griner, Judy Smith, Sally Smith, Gay Wheeler, Marie Dyer, Ann Diane Wad, Carol Donaldson, Benecia Kelley, Harry Johnson Jr., Wayne Fordham, and Jerry Fordham.

DINNER-BRIDGE PARTY

Dr. and Mrs. Paul Franklin Sr. were hosts last Tuesday evening honoring Mr. and Mrs. Paul Franklin Jr., with a delicious turkey dinner, followed by bridge, at their home on Savannah avenue. Yellow pom-pom chrysanthemums and autumn leaves were used in the decorations. After the dinner, with turkey the piece de resistance, on through orange cups with potato souffle to ambrosia and fruit cake, the guests played bridge.

MISS GRACE GRAY WON DUSTING POWDER FOR LADIES' HIGH

Men's high, a tie, was won by Roy Hitt. Mrs. Frank Hook won a double deck of cards as floating prize. Dinner guests were Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Groover, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Braswell, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Zack Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hitt, Miss Grace Gray, Horace McDougald, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hook, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Franklin Jr.

MISS JO FRANCIS HODGES WEDS MAX ALVIN BOWERS

On Thanksgiving afternoon, November 23, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dorris Cason was the scene of the marriage of Mrs. Cason's sister, Miss Jo Francis Hodges, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe G. Hodges, of Bulloch county, to Max Alvin Bowers, of Canton and Atlanta, son of Mr. and Mrs. Orin Bowers, of Canton.

Rev. George Atkins, of Savannah, cousin of the bride, performed the ceremony before the fireplace in the living room. The mantel had for its central decoration a massive arrangement of white snapdragons and large white chrysanthemums. The fireplace was bank-

Miss Jill Bryan, December Bride-Elect. Honoree at Luncheon Last Saturday

By MRS. JOHN A. ROBERTSON

Miss Jill Bryan, a bride-elect of December, was the honoree Saturday at a luncheon given at the Pink House in Savannah by her sister, Mrs. Robert Beall of Savannah, and Mrs. M. L. Preston of Douglas.

Guests were Miss Bryan, Mrs. T. R. Bryan, Mrs. J. P. Bobo, Mrs. E. C. Watkins and Mrs. F. W. Hughes, all of Brooklet; Mrs. Margaret Cox and Mrs. Langley Irvin of Atlanta; Mrs. F. W. Hughes, Mrs. E. C. Watkins, Mrs. F. W. Hughes, Mrs. H. G. Parrish Sr., Mrs. F. C. Rostler, Mrs. Felix Parrish, Mrs. W. D. Lee, and Misses Ann Akina, Jo Ann Denmark, Betty Snyder, Sara Hinton, June McCormick, and others.

The school chapel program last Friday was conducted by some of the boys in the ninth grade, directed by their home room teacher, J. S. Mikell. The devotional was given by Charles Williams and D. W. Lee. A playlet, "In Dr. Rimcutt's Office," was given by Gene Mikell, Jimmie DeLoach, and Fred Sanders.

At the meeting of the Brooklet Kiwanis Club last Thursday night in the Community House, out-of-town speaker was Everett Williams, of Statesboro. Other guests were F. W. Hodges, chairman of Bulloch county commissioners; Elder Henry Waters, pastor of the Brooklet Primitive Baptist Church; and the Rev. Carl Cassidy, pastor of the Brooklet Baptist Church. Joe Ingram arranged the program and W. D. Lee, the president, conducted the meeting. A turkey supper was served during the evening.

Sergeant Hall, of the Georgia State Patrol, visited the Brooklet school last week and held a meeting with the 12 boys and girls who serve as school patrol on the six buses that transport school children to the school. Each member of the patrol was presented a certificate and badge of honor by Sergeant Hall.

Next Wednesday night, December 12, members of the Primitive Baptist Church and Black Creek Primitive Baptist Church will have a Christmas gathering at the Community House. Elder Henry Waters is pastor of both churches. Plans are being made by Mrs. Felix Parrish, Mrs. Otis Howard, and Miss Mamie Lou Anderson.

Last Wednesday morning Georgia Teachers College band of 30 instruments gave a concert in the school gymnasium, with the student body and faculty members of Brooklet and Leefield schools as audience. D. M. King is band director, and Don Johnson was master of ceremonies.

Mrs. Grad Nasworthy entertained seph's Hospital in Savannah, who has been named Thomas Randall, IV, and will be called Handy. Before her marriage Mrs. Bryan was Miss Bernice Cowart.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wyatt, Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Mikell, and Miss Henrietta Hall will leave tomorrow (Friday) for Dallas, Texas, to attend the National Farm Bureau Convention.

The Rev. Carl Cassidy, Mrs. Cassidy, and Miss Jane Cassidy have moved here from Marietta and are occupying the parsonage. Rev. Cassidy has accepted the pastorate of the Brooklet and Lee-field Baptist churches.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamp Smith, Mrs. W. D. Lee, and Mrs. John A. Robertson were in Savannah Friday afternoon.

Miss Mamie Lou Anderson was the guest of her sister in Savannah last week end.

131 Teenage Youth Turn Up For Drag-On-Inn Club's Second Party

One hundred and thirty-one teenagers turned up for the second party of the Drag On Inn Club at the Community Center last Friday night.

Square dancing, round dancing, bump dancing, blackout dancing, and games were enjoyed by the boys and girls. Potato chips and Coca-Cola were served, following which the crowd went outside for a marshmallow roast and singing.

Most of the members have paid their 50-cents-a-month dues. Plans for the Christmas "formal" are now being made.

Members of the adult committee present last Friday night were Mrs. W. W. Woodcock and Mrs. Glenn Jennings.

The club will meet this Friday night from 8:30 to 9:30 p. m.

KIDS ENJOY GORILLA SHOW

All the kids who saw the gorilla show had a wonderful time. They want to say thanks to the merchants who sponsored them. More than 800 kids were sponsored by various business houses and they really had the time of their lives.

BROWNIES PLANNING CHRISTMAS PARTY

The Brownies are making big plans for their Christmas party. At the last meeting they did work on their plaques and they really look good. The plaques are made by pasting pieces of vegetable and oddities of nature on pieces of plywood. The Brownies plan to place their work on display in town soon.

GIRL SCOUT ACTIVITIES

Along with the announcement last week that the Brownies were forced to close membership because of lack of volunteer leaders comes announcement of this year it is hoped to have the basketball area lighted so a greater number of teams can be allowed and more games played. Following the regular season a playoff will be held in each league at the high school gym. Plans were made last year to increase available facilities for basketball, but fell through when appropriations had to be salvaged because a fund drive fell short of its quota.

FAMILY DINNER SUNDAY

Mrs. Homer Cason and Mrs. Wilbur Cason were joint hostesses at a family dinner, which usually takes place at Christmas. The date was moved up because all the members would not be together during the holidays.

Those present with their parents were: Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Cason, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Stringer, of Augusta; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Deal and family, Sgt. Durward Deal from an army camp in Kentucky; Carolyn and Wynman Deal, and Johnny Deal, of Savannah; Robert Allen, of Collegeboro; and Homer and Wilbur Cason.

DINNER GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Parker had as Sunday dinner guests Mr. and Mrs. Zeke Holland and Mrs. W. H. Sasser, of Vidalia. Mrs. Sasser remained for a longer visit.

Roy Harris Tells G.E.A., F.B. To Not Forget Local Problems During Crisis

Roy Harris, former Speaker of the House of Representatives of the State of Georgia, told members of the Bulloch county unit of the Georgia Educational Association at Brooklet on Wednesday night of last week that we must not forget our local problems, the education and training of our youth, the raising of the standards of our living, even in the present struggle for survival against the constant pressure of Communism to dominate the world.

Mr. Harris addressed the Brooklet Farm Bureau immediately after his talk to the county teachers. He was presented to both groups by F. Everett Williams, senator-elect from the 49th senatorial district.

Lester Akins, president of the teachers' organization, presided at the meeting held in the Brooklet Community House, and presented Mr. Williams. Others at the speaker's table were H. W. Pomack, county school superintendent; J. H. Griffith, principal of Brooklet schools; Sam Graham, representative from Richmond county; Norman Lawrence, of the Georgia Power Co.; Augusta; A. J. Trapp, Bulloch county representative; Rev. Cassidy, and Lesdel Coleman.

Using figures compiled by Jesse D. Jewell, of Gainesville, president of the Georgia State Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Harris told the more than 150 Bulloch county school teachers that it is good business to invest in education. He pointed out that in 1948 the average per capita income in the United States was $1,410. In Georgia, the per capita income was $971. He added, "If each person in Georgia had received the United States average income, it would have amounted to $439 more per capita. This would be a total annual increase of $1,317,000,000 in the income of citizens of the state."

He deplored the fact that Georgia spends only $112 per pupil (based on average daily attendance), while New York State pays $212 per pupil in average daily attendance, with other states spending from $200 to $300.

He placed the blame for our low per capita income on these figures, for "our per capita income is in direct proportion to the amount we spend on public education (to control red spenders)."

Mr. Harris then reviewed the story of the Minimum Foundation program for education. He related how it was conceived, how Dr. C. Aderhold made the survey and conducted the study of the idea, and how it was adopted and written into the law in 1949. "But it has never yet been financed," he said.

Mr. Harris is all for the Minimum Foundation program. He believes in it wholeheartedly. He emphasized the need for better school plants, for expanded programs of vocational training, and for providing better salaries for teachers. "We must make this investment in the education of the youth of our state," he said.

Mr. Harris told the teachers that Negroes in one-third of the counties of Georgia have filed petitions asking for school facilities equal to those in the white schools. "We are trying to uphold the doctrine of equal but separate facilities," he explained. "And unless we go into the courts with an intelligent plan, and show that we intend to provide equal facilities, separate, we'll see segregation done away with now."

It was then that he said that it is going to take every man and woman in Georgia paying their equal share, according to their ability—and he said part of the answer is a sales tax.

He revealed that 90 percent of the taxes in the state are paid by 50 percent of the families of the state. The Negroes, constituting one third of the state's population, pay less than three percent of the taxes.

In closing, he said that improving the school situation in Georgia will take many years and a great deal of effort.

In his informal talk to members of the Brooklet Farm Bureau, he again stressed the points made before the teachers' organization.

Abandoned school buildings can still be the hub of community activities, if the action by various groups in the Ogeechee, Denmark, and Esala communities can be taken as a guide and pattern.

Generally, the school in any community is a point of common interest and is the one community activity in which everyone is interested. Community life, more or less, revolves around the school because of the common feeling everyone has for the school. Generally, the type community that exists in any given area can be fairly well predicted by seeing the school and the activities around the school.

When enrollment dropped at Ogeechee, Denmark, and Esala, county with other conditions, and forced the communities to give up the schools, other groups moved into the buildings and made them into community centers. Community life is still centered around the school buildings.

The Home Demonstration Club, Farm Bureau, and Associated Women all cooperated in the Ogeechee and Denmark program. The Farm Bureau took the lead at Esala. Ogeechee now has a modern lunchroom, with two large dining halls, an assembly hall, and a gymnasium. The old lunchroom is a meeting place for the Home Demonstration Club. Rugs and Curtains, along with appropriate decorations, have been used to make the rooms more attractive. Denmark has renovated the lunchroom to take care of large crowds at the Farm Bureau meetings. Play rooms have been set up for the youngsters so that they can be out of the regular meetings. Esala has developed their school building along the same line as Denmark.

These three community schools are still active, even though school is not taught there any more.

Max Lockwood Tells Rotarians Of Needs Of Statesboro, Nation's Youth

In a talk to the Statesboro Rotarians on Monday of this week, Max Lockwood, director of the city's recreation program, painted a word picture of the needs of the youth of Statesboro and the state and nation.

"Using figures, he emphasized the need of providing proper recreation facilities for young people and adults.

His picture of the local situation looked good compared to other sections. The entire text of Mr. Lockwood's talk follows:

"Most of us are aware of the program we have for our youth in Statesboro and Bulloch county. I would like to take this opportunity to discuss our needs on a broader level and to look at the needs of the youth and adults on a state and national level, and to make comparison where possible.

"In this day and time, it is easier to attract the attention of a group of businessmen when you begin to talk to them through their pocketbook. I would like to take just a minute to show you the cost of delinquency to the citizens of our state for both youth and adults for the period of only 12 months.

"The latest figures we have are for 1947, which we might call one of our best years as far as our economy is concerned. In that year, Georgia spent $2,500,000 on crime delinquency. In the same year, Fulton county and the City of Atlanta alone spent over $3,000,000 on this same problem. It is easy to see that the total cost to the state in dollars and cents would run into many times this amount. This does not consider the loss to the state in potential contributors to the state welfare or the moral breakdown in our communities, or the anguish to individuals of the community, or the adverse influence on the whole community.

"The fact is that delinquency, in its various forms, costs our state in the increase all over the United States.

"In 1948, the Georgia Citizens Council released a report compiled with the cooperation of the Attorney General and the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and the Georgia Working Together. We Can Remove the Causes of Juvenile Delinquency, Crime." If we look at the problem only from an economic view, without considering the human element, we can see that it would be well worth our while to do something about the problem facing us. I believe that as Georgians we will survey this situation and will do something about it. It is not a question of whether it can be done; rather, it is a question of whether we will take the trouble to do it.

"This report shows in plain figures that 76 percent of all the juvenile delinquency cases reported in 1947 belonged to any supervised playground or youth organization, such as Scouts, Y's, 4-H Clubs or other character-building organizations. This, of course, brings to mind the question of how many of Georgia's boys and girls belong to any of these character-building organizations. Continued on Page 3.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
Morning services at 11:15 a. m. Sunday, Sunday School at 10 a. m. Evening service will be at 7:30 p. m.

Rev. John S. Lough, pastor of the Methodist Church, announces that his sermon Sunday morning at 11 o'clock will be "The Magic of Christmas." Youth Fellowship meets at 8:30 Sunday evening.

At the 7:30 evening worship hour the Statesboro Music Club will present its annual Christmas cantata.

They... worshipped him

Even as the wise men and shepherds followed the Star to the Manger in Bethlehem, so should we attend Church on Christmas and renew our vows of Christianity. His teachings light the way in a world of darkness. His principles, lead the way to eternal peace.

New Church Is Named Calvary Baptist Church

The new church now being built on West Main street will be known as "The Calvary Baptist Church." The formal organization program of the church was held on Sunday afternoon of last week when the advisory council, made up of pastors and deacons from the churches of the Ogeechee River Association, met and reported to the congregation of the new church, and pledged the full moral and spiritual support of all the churches in the association.

H. H. Olliff, moderator, extended recognition to the charter members asking for the organization. After reading the church covenant and adopting the Articles of Faith, Rev. Grover Tyner, of Metter, gave the charge to the new church.

Rev. R. S. New, of Statesboro, made the prayer for the success of the venture and reviewed the history of New Testament church.

Officers of the new Calvary Baptist Church are: Rev. Carl H. Anderson, pastor; Ray McMichael, clerk; Charles Grimes, treasurer; L. B. Taylor, Sunday School superintendent; Mrs. Janie Etheridge, pianist; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Holland, church caretakers; H. M. Cleary, Roy Aldred, Mrs. Frank Meek, Mrs. John Denmark, Mrs. Roy Aldred, Mrs. Carl Anderson, church grounds custodians; Mrs. Ray McMichael, Mrs. John Denmark, and Mrs. Charles Grimes, publicity.

(andel, TOP the, IG-tO-n-Dv se sece Greetings to the new church were extended by Paul Carroll, Harry Brunson, and M. O. Lawrence. C. B. McAllister pronounced the benediction.

In closing, Rev. George Lovell, pastor of the First Baptist Church, said: "We praise God for this victory; we ask the support of all Christians in making this count in the Kingdom's work."

Other officers elected are: Wm. H. Alderman, King; Joe Woodcock, Scribe; John W. Bishop, Captain of Host; Raymond R. Darden, Principal; S. J. O'Brien; Charles A. Mooney, Royal Arch Captain; Hugh Strickland, Master of the Third Veil; Harry L. Vause, Master of Second Veil; Bernice C. Waters, Master of First Veil; Bob Akins, Sentinel; and Josh T. Nesmith, secretary-treasurer.

Companion W. J. Mobley, Past High Priest, Georgia Chapter 3 of Savannah, assisted by Companion T. R. Hicks, High Priest of Georgia Chapter 4 in Waynesboro, installed the newly elected officers.

Companion Mobley was guest speaker of the evening. A turkey supper was served.

How can you pass up prices like these?

AS we've been saying for quite a spell - "Whatever your price range - Better Buy Buick."

But maybe we'd better get down to brass tacks, as to just what this suggestion means.

In the lower-price field, this has been happening:

Four out of ten Buick SPECIALS - bought by people with a car to trade in - have been bought by folks who formerly drove one of the so-called "low-priced threes." They found they could afford a Buick!

In the fine-car field, something even more impressive has happened:

Four out of five people who looked at a ROADMASTER and another very distinguished automobile decided in favor of ROADMASTER!

Better come in today - and see what can be done about getting quick delivery.
