Want To Continue Driving?

YOU WANT TO DRIVE your car in Georgia after July 1?

You think that a funny question to be asking a Georgia motorist?

According to Georgia's Attorney General Eugene Cook it's not a funny question at all.

For, if you wish to drive in Georgia after July 1 you had better carry automobile liability insurance or be prepared to put up from $1,000 to $11,000 in cash or securities if you have an accident.

On that date Georgia's tough financial responsibility act, described by Attorney General Cook as "almost a compulsory liability insurance law," goes into effect.

If you are carrying liability insurance of $5,000 for death or injury on one person, $10,000 for death or injury of two or more persons and $1,000 for property damage, then you are exempt from financial responsibility provisions of the act.

But if you are not carrying this insurance and you are involved in an accident, whether at fault or not, you may be required to post security in an amount to be determined by the state safety director.

And if you want to know what an accident is, here is the answer prepared by Assistant Attorney General Frank Edwards for the convention of Georgia Association of Insurance Agents:

"A collision of a vehicle with any object in which any person is killed or injured or in which the damage to the property of any persons exceeds $50"—that's an accident.

And with cars and prices what they are today, almost any accident, even just a smashed fender, will cause damage of $50.

Every driver involved in such an accident must make a report within 10 days to the director of public safety.

Winning Is a Habit

OUR Statesboro High School Blue Devils Band continues to bring honor to Statesboro and Bulloch county.

In Valdosta, May 7-9, the young musicians of our community received 22 "Superior" ratings for solo, instrumental ensembles, and group performance.

This is a state record, never equaled by a band at a state music festival.

Last Saturday in the Armed Forces Day competition in Savannah, the Statesboro band was declared the best in the group of high school bands playing in the parade. With this went a $60 cash prize.

Three years ago the Statesboro band was unorganized, consisted of inexperienced musicians, low in morale, and short of funds.

Today, under the directorship of Guyton McLendon, and sparked by the Band Mothers Club, the Blue Devils Band is one of the best high school bands in the state.

In the last two years the band has purchased 10 new instruments, valued at $1,875, which, by careful buying, were obtained for approximately $1,370.

On Tuesday night of last week the band presented its spring concert at the high school auditorium. Its performance from start to finish was professional in quality and presentation. The program was varied and displayed wonderfully the abilities of the youthful musicians.

On Sunday afternoon, May 27, at 4 o'clock, in the high school auditorium, the band will present its annual Sunday afternoon concert.

You have every reason to be proud of our band. It represents our community with distinction and dignity. It is one of Statesboro's most valued goodwill builders and, as such, in addition to its cultural and entertaining benefits, it deserves the support of every citizen in the community.

The performance Sunday will be the last public appearance of the band in this school year. Take time out Sunday afternoon and hear your community band.

The kids will appreciate it and will give you a wonderful performance.

This May Be It

WE TAKE our hat off to Editor Ed Methvin, of The Eastman Times-Journal of Dodge county.

Editor Methvin, as a private citizen, has filed a $100,000 damage suit against State Democratic Party leaders, charging Georgia's unique County Unit System discriminates against him.

It is the first time a County Unit suit has ever been filed in a state court in

Twenty days after receiving the report, if a driver does not have liability insurance, "the director (of public safety) shall determine the amount of security sufficient to satisfy any judgement or judgements that may result from such accident."

The amount fixed can be a maximum of $5,000 for death or injury of one person, $10,000 for death or injury of two or more persons, and $1,000 for property damage.

The security must be posted within 60 days if the driver has not been released from liability, finally adjudicated not liable or has signed an agreement to pay a stipulated amount in installments.

If the required security is not posted, the driver's license and car registration of the owner or operator must be revoked.

And the license cannot be re-issued until security has been posted, a year has elapsed with no action for damages started, the person involved has been released from liability or agreed to make payment.

There are some other teeth in the act. It makes revocation of drivers' licenses and registrations mandatory for manslaughter resulting from operation of a car, driving while drunk, failure to stop after an accident or three convictions or bond forfeitures on charges of serious traffic law violations.

However, in such cases, the safety director can reinstate the permits after six months if the person involved obtains an automobile liability insurance policy or a surety bond.

You can save yourself and your family a lot of headaches if you'll confer with a reputable insurance agent who handles automobile liability insurance before July 1.

Georgia. Two previous suits in recent years have been filed in Federal courts.

It is the first time a rural voter has charged that the Unit System—defended as a protector of rural voters against the big cities—favored voters in a six-unit and a four-unit county.

In his suits, filed in Meriwether Superior Court against James S. Peters, of Meriwether county, Chairman of the State Democratic Party, and Mrs. Iris Blitch, of Clinch county, former secretary, Editor Methvin asks $100 actual damages, and $100,000 punitive damages.

He charged that his votes had been "reversed" as well as diluted in the 1950 Democratic primary for governor. He said the State and Federal Constitution guarantee him the right of a "full" vote counted for and not against his candidate.

He shows in his petition that in the primary one vote in Georgia-at-large had two times the value of one vote in Dodge county; that one vote in Troup county, a six-unit county, had two and one-half times the value of a vote in Dodge; that one vote in Burke county, a four-unit county, had six times the value of one vote in Dodge; and that one vote in Chatham county, a two-unit county, had 24 times the value of one vote in Dodge.

Ed Methvin is one of the most respected newspaper editors in Georgia. He is a past president of the Georgia Press Association. He has been recognized as one of the most fearless editors in the state. He has fought all elements that would destroy the dignity and the standing of his community.

He is no johnny-jump-up, with half baked opinions and a desire to embarrass his native state.

He is sincerely interested in promoting only those things which he believes to be best for Georgia.

We admire him his stand on the County Unit System as practiced in Georgia.

He deserves the support and expressions of good wishes of all who would see Georgia free of this outworn and undemocratic election law based on county units.

Postpone Brush Burning

BULLOCH county woodlands are as dry as tinder, J. W. Roberts, ranger of the Bulloch County Forestry Unit, said on Monday of this week.

Rain is badly needed in the county, as well as in all parts of Georgia, and fire danger will remain high until rain comes.

Ranger Roberts urges farmers to postpone brush burning and other control burning until rain comes to wet the earth.

Every straggly match is a potential fire starter.

Don't start a forest fire.

A Face Can Reveal Editor's Uneasy Chair

Much of One's Life

By VIRGINIA RUSSELL

THERE IS an interesting story told about Abraham Lincoln when he was in the White House. Mrs. Lincoln, in the story goes, proposed the name of a man whom he wished to see Lincoln appoint to a cabinet post.

Lincoln, in no so doing explained: "I could never appoint that man; I don't like his face." The friend was shocked. "Mr. President," he explained, "no man should be held responsible for his face." Lincoln replied, "Every man over forty is responsible for his face."

Last week a visitor to our town and college bore out the truth of this statement of Lincoln's. The interested observer's face revealed that he had been an entertainer of pleasant, happy thoughts, and had refused refuge to the ugliness of life. The eyes that almost smiled; so that once he did smile you were not surprised, for you'd been expecting on the appearance of his face. The eyes appear all along. And the crinkles and the smile will introduce Dr. Alfred L. Crabbe of Nashville, Tenn., an informal forum. Education at Peabody College and the editor of that institution's Journal of Education, and on the side is high editor of the "Vidalia," the author of some seven novels.

The men of the Rotary Club and the students who heard him enjoyed Dr. Crabbe's talks, and he recorded a real treat for an evening gathering at which he was the center of attention. Here, during a detour of his evening and latest novel, even now in the hands of his publisher, the story of which is woven into the series of military adventures and engagements leading up to and through the Battle of Nashville during the War Between the States.

Dr. Crabbe has given a resume of the novel and some of the amusing incidents relating to its composition, the gathering turned into an informal forum. Many questions were asked Dr. Crabbe. One of these—When do you have time to write?—he answered by showing another small writing pad he carried in his pocket, a pad the like of which he carries with him everywhere he goes and on which he writes, and he recalled that the majority of us, as fellow travelers, would waste. As an example, he read to the group a story, still unpublished, in which he had composed on the train trip which had brought him to Dodge. Dr. Crabbe stated that the story would probably never be published because he had done it just for relaxation. He explained, however, that his novels were begun under the same method of composition.

Dr. Crabbe believe that everyone should try to write even though he has never intended to publish. Letter writing, he believes, should prove an excellent form of practice and should give the same opportunity for self-expression.

Some of the seven novels Dr. Crabbe has written are "Dinner at Belmont," "Breakfast at the Hermitage," "Supper at the Maxwell House," and "A Mocking Bird Sang at Chocomauga." This last novel was to have borne the title "A Wood Thrush Sang at Chocomauga" because the wood thrush is Dr. Crabbe's favorite bird and because he wanted its sweet song to symbolize the spark of faith that remains in the human soul, even in the midst of a cruelly destructive battle. When, however, a friend of his, an authority on birds, pointed out that the wood thrush does not sing in September, the month in which the Battle of Chocomauga occurred, Dr. Crabbe, although tempted to violate history by moving the battle back to the time of the thrush's singing, substituted the mocking bird.

Dr. Crabbe's latest book is being eagerly awaited by his readers. He always gives his novels a happy ending (already too much tragedy in the world, he avers), and when one has talked with him, he can easily see why. Dr. Crabbe's face reveals his attachment to the happiness to be found in life rather than the sorrow or tragedy.

Occupational Hazards

WHEN we wrote our editorials early Monday morning we had no idea that at 4:30 p. m. it would be raining so wonderful rain.

In one editorial we urged farmers to be careful of fire in the woods. In another we mentioned the danger of tobacco being damaged, and that unless it rained cotton would be in bad shape.

Well, it's raining now—a fine rain. But we're afraid to jump up and toss our hat too high into the air, for by the time we hand this to our typesetter the sun might be back out hot as a fire-popper and our rain to no avail.

This is one of the occupational hazards of the editorial writer on a weekly newspaper.

We blow our top and view with alarm on Monday, and when the Blue Devils Band presented its spring concert at the high school auditorium, Tuesday noon was the Armed Forces Day luncheon at the country club. Thursday night was "Street Scene" at the college auditorium. Friday night was the college Blue Tide band concert.

Getting home and doing an hour's work in the yard before supper and reading for "our community duty" sort of rushes a fellow.

The pressure is off a little this week. It was terrific last week. Tuesday night of last week our Blue Devils Band presented its spring concert at the high school auditorium. Tuesday noon was the Armed Forces Day luncheon at the country club. Thursday night was "Street Scene" at the college auditorium. Friday night was the college Blue Tide band concert.

Getting home and doing an hour's work in the yard before supper and reading for "our community duty" sort of rushes a fellow.

ALL'S FAIR By Jane

Graduation Days are here, wondrous days of happiness are. A time of decision—what college will it be? What will be major; what minor; what fraternity? The girls are in clouds, their thoughts are on clothes. Rush week and tents—maybe books and, certainly, beads. Will be summertime dreams of that daughter of yours. We hail them with pride. I'm speaking for Jane. Who'll follow them closely down memory's lane. Our boys, maybe preachers, teachers or farmers. Let's get ready for a piddling affair.

(It's now 4:45 Monday afternoon and it has quit raining—we only hope that by the time we get this in the hands of the typesetter it will be raining again.)

I admired the pink Georgian marble table top, Willie said. "The marvelous for folding Susan's deeds." Susan's bed had been screwed in because Sally, wanting to share her playthings with her would casually toss them into the bed. We spied a silver sugar set spoon holder of antique design, also and old time silver caster, vinegar, salt and pepper, jar sauces. An old silver syrup pitcher was lovely.

We were fascinated with numerous cabinets, bookcases, recessed cases, broom closets. Why, the carved side, leather covered around the mantle table, had a place built in for card tables. No an inch was wasted. We wished for a place to keep magazines. We visualized our bed, where we had left eight copies of the S. E. I. because we had just gotten around to reading "Who Killed Miss X?"

We asked about the Fred Lambers and the late B. E. Smith enjoyed a real get-together outing at Marsh's Pond on Mother's Day, May 13, honoring Mrs. Smith.

AND, speaking of beauty—done slowly by the home of the late Whelchel. I did more than that. I walked up the curved flagstone walk. I liked the saped flower beds, irregular borders. In fact, Willie was at home with Sally and Susan. In fact, she was at her two homes. We admired the plan, the convenience, the turquoise tile in the children's bath, the yellow and white bath for the master bedroom, the spacious living room with curved picture window made by G. C. himself. The temporary window will later be replaced by thermo-pane. California redwood was used for the walls in the den, and beside the lovely paneled door at the entrance. I was equally delighted with their home which they will still use for guests and the huge screened porch where the children have their toys and an indoors set-in sandpile.

"I Bin Thinkin"

By LEHMANN FRANKLIN

This is a rosy time for summer vacationists... and maybe the best time. It's the anticipation stage... when the family gets all excited about the idea and ignores the possibility of rain, poison ivy, sunburn, mosquitoes and assorted discomforts. It's fun to spread all those travel folders out and to be dazzled by Yosemite, Key West, Catalina, the North Woods, Vail, lowstone, the High Sierras or the Grand Canyon. And if you can't manage to get away, there's no law against sitting on your front porch with a batch of folders. Nothing'll take you farther or faster than a good imagination.

DENMARK SEWING CLUB MEETING

The Denmark Sewing Club held its regular meeting Tuesday, April 24, at the home of Mrs. Bule NeSmith with Mrs. Roscoe Roberts and Mrs. J. C. Bue as co-hostesses.

After the business meeting, during which Mrs. Roberts led the devotional, everybody served quilt scraps, and some of the members exchanged pie feed sacks. Then everyone enjoyed bingo until the refreshments were served. Dainty plates of cake and congealed fruit salad with whipped cream was really a treat for everyone.

The next meeting will be held on Wednesday, May 30, at the home of Mrs. Astor Proctor, with Mrs. T. J. Waters and Mrs. Mary Proctor as co-hostesses. All members are asked to bring things.

Agronomists recommend cultivating peanuts from the time the plants begin to come up until they cover a good portion of the ground.

Cultivation of sweet potatoes should be often enough to control weeds or grass. Two or three are usually sufficient.

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

By J. R. KELLY

Forty-five ponds in Bulloch were stocked with from 300 to 500 bass last week. The bass were furnished by the United States Department of Interior Fish and Wild Life Service.

Mr. W. W. Hull, Mr. J. A. Gibbs, Mr. J. N. Burns, and Mr. W. C. Huggins, representatives of the Soil Conservation Service, recently conducted a woodland planning school for the Soil Conservation personnel of the Ogeechee River Soil Conservation District.

On Friday afternoon, Mrs. Bruce Olliff was hostess at a delightful tea honoring her son's bride, Mrs. Dight Olliff.

Magnolia leaves banded the mantle in the living room. An exceptionally beautiful arrangement of yellow gladioli and a Queen Anne's lace formed a background for the hostess, the bride and her mother, Mrs. H. D. Lanier.

THE BULLOCH HERALD, THURSDAY, MAY 24, 1951

The tea table, overlaid with a linen network and lace cover, was flanked by tall white tapered silver holders. Red roses and other summer flowers were used in the sun room.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Frank Simmons and Mrs. Jason Morgan of Savannah. Mrs. W. H. Ellis poured coffee and Mrs. J. P. Foy served cake. Chicken salad sandwiches, cheese cookies, and party minis were served from silver trays and completed. Assisting in serving and entertaining were Mrs. Inman Foy Sr., Mrs. Frank Olliff, Mrs. Lamar Smith, Mrs. Jake Smith, Mrs. Loron Durden, Mr. and Mrs. Ben R. Beaver and children, June and Bobby, of Charlotte, N. C., were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Beaver. They were accompanied to Statesboro by Mr. Beaver's mother, Mrs. L. D. Beaver, is remaining for a long, or visit.

Mr. Harnsberger thinks the United States has lost ground materially by not having a definite foreign policy of a fair nature. Giving money and food to those people, as well as those in Europe who are in the United States. Those people are like all others, they do not appreciate a "hand out".

Robert Cole, the Nevils president stated that Miss Laphane Warnock would be their queen contestant.

ESLA VOTES FOR PARTY

ESLA voted to not have supper in June but to have an ice cream party. They used two motion pictures for their program Tuesday night.

The farmer's share of the national income, as per the secretary of agriculture's vision, was discussed at length at Register by the President, H. V. Franklin. Mr. Franklin urged all Farm Bureau members to make certain that others know that the increased cost of living was not going in the farmer's pocket.

Rev. T. L. Harnsberger Talks to Members of Nevils Farm Bureau

Mr. Harnsberger pointed out that the farm-er was getting a smaller percentage of the national income today than it has in any year the various groups engaged in this campaign could name.

Very few people not actually engaged in farming seem to appreciate the increased cost of making a crop that farmers have to face today, Mr. Harnsberger pointed out.

ESLA, Nevils and Register all discussed the various insecticides available to cotton and tobacco growers this year, especially the new ones being sold on the local market. The proven insecticides were recommended. For cotton, Dieldrin and Chlordane were not recommended, although they are good probably, but not tried long enough for definite proof.

Parathion will remove red spiders and lice on cotton.

The tobacco list included the usual products plus DDD (Rothane), a new insecticide.

All three of the Farm Bureaus served a fried chicken supper last week.

Register went in for a new kind of entertainment for their social hour, a couple of outstanding buck dancers were put on the stage for several dances. These Negro men live in the community but few knew they were excellent dancers.

Here's something Special in Spaciousness

LOT of folks like the two-door idea, because they feel that tiny tots are safer in the back seat.

But that's no reason why back-seat head-room should be dimensioned for midgets only.

So Buick engineers have done something about it, in the Buick SPECIAL 2-door Sedan pictured here.

They've kept the compactness of over-all length that's important in modern garages.

But they've arched that sturdy steel top to give you he-man headroom—headroom in back as well as headroom in front—that makes a six-footer feel at home.

And they've designed a trunk that has "room for tourists."

Don't ask us how they did it. Come see for yourself.

Slip into those spacious seats—and while you're there, find out why this compact honey is one of the hottest numbers we've seen in years.

Find out how that F-263 valve-in-head Fireball Engine pours out the power and stretches the miles per gallon.

Find out how Buick's exclusive combination of torque-tube drive and coil springs on all four wheels puts big-car steadiness and stability into this nimble performer.

Find out how Dynaflow Drive* takes the strain out of traffic driving—and brings you relaxed to the end of a long day's cross-country driving.

And above all find out how much comfort and luxury and convenience you get for the prices you see featured here. The sooner you see your Buick dealer—the better off you'll be.

Salute TO GEORGIA COUNTIES

Troup County

Blending of Old and New

FOUNDED 1826

COUNTY SEAT, LA GRANGE

Today a thriving center of manufacturing, chiefly textiles, Troup has retained the Old South charm of beautiful plantations and luxuriant gardens. Former home of Benjamin H. Hill, who became Georgia's first U. S. Senator after Reconstruction, it was the scene of both military and political action during the War Between the States and to the brave townswomen who defied the invaders with muskets and successfully pleaded that the town be spared.

In this and other Georgia counties, the United States Brewers Foundation works constantly to maintain wholesome conditions where beer and ale are sold. Close attention is given areas near camps of the Armed Forces, and both military officials and Georgia law enforcement officers have commended the Foundation's self-regulation program. Retailer educational meetings offer sound suggestions for continued education in the community's interest.

Forestry Notes

By J. W. ROBERTS, Ranger

There's a place for forestry in your farm planning.

The Bulloch County Forestry Unit, which contends that the more persons who realize the value of their woodlands, the less wild fires there will be, plans during the coming months to give increasing emphasis to forestry's part in farm operation.

Good farming, to Bulloch countians, means the proper management of each acre. It means properly utilizing each acre. It means profit for the woodlots is available at no charge.

Unit personnel also will order 16-millimeter forestry films in color from the Georgia Forestry Commission. These are available for groups, clubs, and civic organizations interested in the value of their woodlands.

Army, Air Force Lower Tests

The U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station here in Statesboro has announced that mental qualification for enlistment in the U. S. Air Force have been lowered. This change was made due to the expansion of the Air Force. The score on the classification test now being given is the same as U. S. Army score. Further information concerning an enlistment in either the U. S. Army or U. S. Air Force may be obtained by calling at your U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station, which is located on the second floor of the courthouse here in Statesboro, or by contacting Sgt. Wilson, your Recruiting Representative for this area.

The commencement sermon will feature the services at the Statesboro Primitive Baptist Church Sunday morning, June 3, when Elder V. F. Agan will address members of the 1951 graduating class of Statesboro High School at the regular church hour, 11:30.

Dr. Howard P. Giddens, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Atlanta, will deliver the commencement sermon at the college in the college auditorium at 11:30 Sunday morning.

The Presbyterian Church and Methodist Church have announced that they have cancelled their morning services to join in the worship at the Primitive Baptist Church.

Graduation exercises will be held in the high school auditorium on Monday evening, May 4, at 8 o'clock, with Roy Harris, member of the University Board of Regents, delivering the address.

Dr. Jake Ward will deliver the graduation address at the college on Monday morning, June 4, at 10:30 in the college auditorium.

Miss Brannen especially urges all old and new officers of the 12 clubs to present a major item of business will be the naming of county council officers for next year. These officers, however, will be installed until September.

Officers for the clubs have already been named. Mrs. Carter Deal, an advisor from Westside, invited the council to meet at the landing to fish, swim and eat supper. The clubsters will be expected to bring their own fishing tackle, bathing suit, and picnic lunch. Parents of these clubsters are also invited.

The county agents will have their office at 2:30 p. m. and can carry those who do not have transportation to the landing site.

Middleground Primitive Baptist Church Regular services will be held Saturday and Sunday mornings, June 2 and 3, at 11 o'clock. Bible and regular worship services at 8 o'clock Sunday evening.

Dr. Jake Deal and Ann Rushing will be baptized in the church pool Sunday immediately after morning services.

"The theme chosen for this year was 'Security.' Our September program was on home and community safety, and was very effectively presented by the Boy Scouts. They had decorated the club room for the occasion, and the close of the program Sergeant Thomas of the State Highway Patrol spoke briefly on highway safety.

"In February we secured slides showing self-interest examination, which was most instructive. Journalism, radio, and television in the world today was discussed. Mrs. Lillie Deal was the guest speaker. April was the guest speaker. This was the speaker for that day. This made its report, and new officers were to be installed in May.

"Club Home Used by Youth Club Home is still being used as a recreation center for the youth of our town. The swimming pool will open the 23rd of this month, and club members are asked to buy season tickets. Mr. Max Lockwood is still doing a wonderful job and he has excellent help to carry on this great work, of which we are very proud.

Continued From Page 1. with one charging less, five the same and 14 more. The local for a minor operation is $7.50 with the average $10.50, with one charging less, two the same and 17 more.

The local hospital charges $5 for a blood transfusion while the average is $7.50, with one charging less, five the same and 14 more. Mr. McCormack explained here that the hospital does not charge for the actual blood when a transfusion is given. The blood is drawn from the Regional Blood Bank in Savannah into which communities like Bulloch contribute through blood donors who give their blood through the local Blood Bank Program.

Still talking from his blackboard, Mr. McCormack made a comparative statement of charges made for drugs. He explained that the charges as they appear on a patient's bill, not only include the actual cost of the drug itself, but all the various factors attached to administering it.

Some examples are: 100,000 units of penicillin cost 75 cents at Bulloch County Hospital as compared with the average of 84 cents at the 20 hospitals studied. Six charged less, one the same, and 13 more. 400,000 units of penicillin procaine cost $3.00, with the average $3.65, and three charging less, three the same, and two more. 50cc of amigen cost $3.50 at the Bulloch County Hospital, while the average is $5.65. One gram of streptomycin cost $5 at Bulloch County Hospital, while the average of the 20 hospitals is $2.62. One quarter gram of aureomycin cost $7.75 as compared with the $1.14 average of the 20 hospitals. Glucose here is $2.50 per quart, as compared with the average of $2.73.

basic metabolism test costs $10 here while the average is $6.88. Fourteen of the hospitals charges less and six the same. A complete blood count here costs $5 as compared with the average of $4.17, with nine charging less and nine charging the same. An x-ray for the gall bladder cost $20 here as compared with the average of $10. $4 x-ray of the skull is $15 as compared with the average of $18.57. In closing, Mr. McCormack set up a typical operation with the patient in a private room for 10 days. In the Bulloch County Hospital the cost was $218.25. The same operation, with the patient in the same services, the average of the 20 hospitals studied, would have been $236.38.
