Looking To Our School's Future

THEY'RE looking to the future of the schools of Statesboro and Bulloch county.

For in the future of our schools lies the future of our youth. When the members of the Bulloch County Board of Education, the members of the City of Statesboro Board of Education, and the Mayor and members of the City Council got together and laid the foundation for the merging of the two school systems into one they did something fine and unselfish.

Our School Boy Patrol

NOT a single school child was hurt in a traffic accident during the last two school years.

So reports Henry Anderson, city police chief.

Credit goes to the School Boy Patrol, working with Traffic Officer Tucker and Chief Anderson.

These youthful traffic officers are stationed at street intersections near the school center and prove helpful to the regular police officers.

Up Goes Our Hat!

UP GOES OUR HAT for Barney Deal and Beverly Brannen. Barney was declared the most outstanding Future Farmer of America, and Beverly was declared the most outstanding Future Homemaker of America in Bulloch county.

The award was made by Mrs. Turner E. Smith of Atlanta, known to us in Bulloch county as "Miss Leila" Bunce, the daughter of Mrs. Georgia Bunce.

Announcement of the award was made early in the year at the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce honoring Mr. and Mrs. Henry Blitch, the Master Farm Family of 1950. In a telegram, Miss Leila stated that the award was to further honor Bulloch county's Master Farm Families—seven in all.

These two young people were selected on the basis of their farm activities, their home activities, their standing with their friends, their standing in school, their achievements, their management, and their citizenship.

Their selection was not easy. For there are many young people in Bulloch county who might have been declared winners of this award. It was only by careful consideration that they were declared to be the most outstanding, and it is to their credit that they were selected in the final elimination.

And so it is that we're proud of these two young Bulloch countians—these two fine, young Americans.

And we think it fine of Miss Leila to honor our Master Farm Families by honoring our young farmers and young homemakers.

And... Probably Not

WHEN YOU looked at the top of your daily newspaper this morning and read "Cloudy and warmer. Widely scattered showers," just what does it mean?

When you pick up the weather news on your radio and the weatherman says, "Fair or partly cloudy," do you know what he promises?

We picked up from a release to Georgia weekly newspapers last week by the Agricultural Extension Service at the University of Georgia partial explanations of such terms used in weather reports.

Weather reports are as much news as what is going on in Korea. Perhaps farmers watch the weather news closer than any other news. So, L. I. Skinner, assistant director of the extension service, lists the following terms and explanations: "Fair or partly cloudy" means no rain in the area.

"Risk of showers or thundershowers" means none to 15 per cent of the area will probably get rain.

Tardiness Is a Sin... A Time Thief

BY VIRGINIA RUSSELL
TARDINESS is a sin, I'm sure. Not being too much of a scholar of the Bible, I cannot point out the scriptures, but I've had a goodly number of people in my mind that lateness is a sin. And perhaps this idea is partly due to my father's teachings. He used to say that a person who is late to a meeting or an appointment is a thief who steals other people's time. So I grew up trying to be prompt, but, alas, I have never learned to be. Therefore, I am always feeling like a thief who reaches out and steals off with somebody's time. It is almost dreadful sort of guilt sensation.

During my high school years I rode a commuters' train to Atlanta from the country town where our home was. Somehow, there was in my mind an obsession about getting to the station beforehand—but just a very short "beforehand." I figured it a waste of time to stand and wait on a train, so I grew up trying to get to the station just as the train got there. The train came from the north and I came from the east. Most of the time we got there together, but sometimes the train was already moving away, and the conductor had to reach out and pull me on. But I never missed the train. This isn't said boastfully, I am ashamed of this vice of mine. And I have struggled hard to overcome it.

I remember once that on New Year's Day I firmly resolved not to be late anymore. The resolution was kept for several days, though it had taken great strength for me to do so. Then on a Sunday we were almost ready to leave for church. There were only two little boys at our house then, two little boys who were already dressed and ready to go. We lived in an upstairs apartment, and the lady below had given the children two kittens. While I was slipping on my dress the boys asked if they might give the kittens a drink—a drink of water, I thought. Later, just a few minutes later, I discovered to my horror that the drink was Wesson oil out of a gallon can, which, once tilted, could not be righted again. Wesson oil was not only all over my kitchen floor, it was dripping onto the floor below. Needless to say, I wasn't late to church, just absent. And my intention dripped away with the oil.

All through the years the same resolution would be made and kept for a few days, and then just as I would be ready to leave the house and with not a minute to spare, the phone would ring, the dog would be hit by a car, or a child would get caught in the chimney. And the resolution would go the way of all the others.

But to make life even more complicated, I am married to a slowpoke. Had he only had the virtue of promptness, maybe he could have pulled me from my entanglement of time and up to his level, but, alas, he is a snail of a fiver. It isn't that either of us sits around and wastes a lot of time before getting ready, it's just that we try to do too many things before we get ready. Being late spoils everything for we start off in a tizzy and are usually at each other's throat, probably because we both feel guilty.

There is no virtue in being late. If any good can be found anywhere in it, perhaps it could be that the Lord works through latecomers to discipline His prompt children and keep them from becoming too proud and to teach them tolerance of their sinful, tardy brethren.

We hope our Board of Regents will hear the plea of these 94 graduates and that of the alumni association.

WE JOIN the 94 members of the 1951 graduating class of Georgia Teachers College and members of the T.C. Alumni Association in their efforts to enlarge the college here to offer graduate study in education.

Nearly all reputable teachers colleges offer graduate work, but in Georgia no such study is available at a state supported institution south of Athens, or any college south of Macon.

There is an increasing demand for graduate teaching degrees. The college here has a steady, healthy growth, and has every right to request graduate study for both high school and elementary teachers.

Humility Is Safer!
It may surprise you to learn that experience can be dangerous—even deadly. Statistics compiled by the Travelers Insurance Companies show that 97 per cent of last year's traffic accidents were caused by drivers with a least one year's experience.

Learning to drive is relatively easy. The mechanics of driving become second nature soon after a student "soaks."

At this critical point, attitudes begin to take over. The super caution of the beginner is replaced by an over-increasing confidence based on experience. With too many drivers, caution is ultimately replaced by indifference, sometimes get you out of trouble on the highway. But chances are over-confidence, indifference, get you into trouble in the first place. The moral is clear and urgent. Those of us who are experienced drivers must also be humble drivers.

Mr. Motorist, do you "open her up" when you drive? A heavy foot may mean heavy hearts. Slow down!

People should know better than to drive their cars at dangerous speeds. But some of them seem to forget or just don't care. Remember—a little carelessness can save lots of trouble.

Speeders lose! Speeders frequently lose control and lose their lives!

Boys and girls, if you want to own and drive a car when you grow up, why not start learning now about driving safely? Why not remind your dad on your summertime trips that speeding is dangerous—and an accident spoils fun and lives, too!

When you drive, drive slow! Remember: "Speeders Lose" is today the State Patrol warning.

Editor's Uneasy Chair

WE SAW "Tuck" over on our side of town Friday afternoon.

We were driving at a 20-to-25-miles per hour rate—we're being very careful about observing our speed limit—for we've had so much to say about the racetrack drivers of Statesboro and the city authorities paying more attention to the parking meters than to the speeders, that we feel we would be forfeiting our right to criticize if we should be guilty of violating our traffic laws. As we started out to say, we saw "Tuck."

He was cruising along Zetterwever with a weather eye out for the racetrack boys.

We commend "Tuck." He confided to us that he finds it hard to be in more places than one but he suggests that the city authorities have printed a booklet on safety, on the happiness which is the right of all children, on the responsibility of us adults who we drive a high-powered automobile. He even suggests that the booklet might include some nice things about Statesboro and Bulloch county.

Dr. John has an idea that we would like to see working here. He suggests that the city authorities have printed a booklet on safety, on the happiness which is the right of all children, on the responsibility of us adults who we drive a high-powered automobile. He even suggests that the booklet might include some nice things about Statesboro and Bulloch county.

It is important, then, that it is important enough that the driver leave earlier so that speeding does not become necessary for him to arrive at his destination on time.

Sure, we know that many of our citizens would scream their heads off if "Tuck" should stop them and hand them a booklet to read about Statesboro and Bulloch county.

But if it takes that to show us down—then we're for it.

He would have "Tuck" and the other police officers stop every citizen and every tourist crossing the city's speed limit. When the driver has parked his car at the street curb, let the officer hand the driver and all the other occupants a copy of the booklet and see that they read it before they are allowed to proceed.

We think it a good idea. Absolutely nothing that is worth the risk of killing, maiming, or crippling for weeks or months, destroying property, that goes along with speeding on the streets and highways of our community.

It is important, then, that it is important enough that the driver leave earlier so that speeding does not become necessary for him to arrive at his destination on time.

Sure, we know that many of our citizens would scream their heads off if "Tuck" should stop them and hand them a booklet to read about Statesboro and Bulloch county.

Farm Bureau News

Bulloch County Farm Bureaus Do Do Good Job Promoting Rural Phones

The Farm Bureau has done a good job in lining up those who want rural telephones. Bulloch County REA stated at the Brooklet and Middleground meetings last week.

With the working out of a few more problems on the application filed by some 440 farmers of the county, service can be made available now, though not too much delay now, Mr. Britt advised these groups.

Last week saw some changes in the REA regulations, which makes it possible now to eliminate considerable delay in getting service to rural people who want to borrow money from REA.

Indications are that more than 1,000 rural homes will be federated into a telephone system in the county if the present program can be satisfactorily worked out. Lines already owned by farmers and some system of working in Brooklet and Portal create a problem for these cooperators as getting makes it necessary for the new organization and the existing organizations to work out some agreement before REA can make a loan.

A. H. Schreder, a representative of the loan division of REA, from Washington, was also present at these Farm Bureau meetings and supported Mr. Britt's statements on the chances of local farmers having a good telephone system in the near future.

Kennedy-Bondurant

Of cordial interest to friends here was the marriage Saturday of Mrs. Mamie Lou Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Howard, to R. S. Bondurant of Winston-Salem, N. C. The ceremony was performed by Rev. John Lough, pastor of the First Methodist Church, in his study. The bride was becomingly attired in a navy suit with white trim, and worn with navy accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations. Mr. and Mrs. Bondurant left immediately after the ceremony for a trip through the mountains of North Carolina and Tennessee. Mrs. Kennedy has held a responsible position with Howard Lumber Company.

Miss Brown Weds William Alderman

In the presence of many friends and relatives, Miss Barbara Jean Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Brown, exchanged vows with William Michael Alderman, son of the late Dr. and Mrs. H. A. Alderman of Portial.

The ceremony was performed Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the Statesboro Primitive Baptist Church by Rev. George Lovell, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

A white tulle train with white gladioli and topped with a large arrangement of white chrysanthemums were caught with directly in front of a sunburst of white gladioli and gladioli white mums. The decorations were beautifully accented by a background of huckleberry, tree ferns and palms. Cathedral tapers in seven-embroidered candleholders enhanced the beauty of the bridal scene. Gladioli marked with white satin bows carried the pews.

Jack Brooker, organist, rendered a program of wedding music and Jack Averett, soloist, sang "Because" and "O Promise Me."

Usher-groomsmen were Edwin Wynn of Portial, Casey King of Patterson, Kip Gamble of Valdosta, and W. A. Rogers of Claxton. Jimmy Alderman was a junior groomsmen.

Mrs. Emerson Brown was matron of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Jean Hodges of Glennville, Miss Cecile Gaykirk of Scranton, Pa. and Jennie H. Brannen, Aunt of the bride, and Miss Jean Evans. Amelia Brown, sister of the bride, was a junior bridesmaid.

The maid of honor wore a pink silk organza dress combined with marquisette in the neckline and a deep ruffle at the bottom of the skirt posed over taffeta. The organza was of a leaf design bordered with deep scallops featuring hearts. A deep hertha attached to the net yoke formed an off-shoulder effect. The skirt was worn over hoops for fullness. She wore a heart-shaped hat and her gantelets matched her costume. She carried a colonial nosegay of rose asters tied with matching ribbons. The bridesmaids' dresses were heavenly blue, identical in style to that worn by the maid of honor.

The flower girl, Lavinia Mikell, wore a lovely white dress with bodice and embroidered skirt styled like the attendants. She wore a band of flowers in her hair. The lady attendants wore single strands of pearls, gifts from the bride.

The ring bearer, Robert Owen Zetterower, wore a white suit and carried the ring on a satin pillow.

The bride, entering with her father, made a charming picture in her wedding gown of lace and marquisette. The bodice was of lace attached to a yoke of net. The long sleeves tapered to a point over the hands. The net skirt, softened by marquisette, was worn over hoops. Her veil of illusion fell from a Breton lace cap with orange blossoms at one side. She carried a white orchid with purple throat on a white satin prayer book, showered with Stephanotis.

The bride's mother wore a dusty rose crepe with the bodice of all over lace. Her corsage was an orchid. Mrs. W. A. Brown, grandmother of the bride, wore navy with white accessories. Her flowers were white carnations.

The bride's parents entertained with a reception in the church annex. The guests were met and introduced to the line by Mrs. E. L. Preotorius. In the line were the parents of the bride, the bride and groom, and the lady attendants.

The bride's book was kept by Mrs. Hubert Lee. Mrs. H. P. Jones, Sr., directed the guests to the bride's table. The table overlaid with an exquisite Chinese lace with a beautifully embossed centered wedding cake, encircled with nylon ruffles with feverfew in clusters. The front corners of the table held white chrysanthemums showered with ribbons. Three-branched candelabra, with white candles, were used at each end of the table. Large arrangements of gladioli and chrysanthemums in white standards were used near the table.

Those assisting in serving were Mrs. Darwin Bohler, Mrs. James Pennington, Miss Betty Mitchell, Miss Mae Newsome, Mrs. Joe Fletcher, Mrs. Frank Gettis, Mrs. Earl Alderman, Mrs. Thomas Newsome presided at the punch bowl.

Misses Annette Lee and Jerrie Alderman, niece of the groom passed out the napkins.

Music for the reception was furnished by Mrs. Emma Kelly.

Recent rains have done wonders in Bulloch county's 5,500 acres of tobacco, according to Byron Dyer, county agent. He says that the overall tobacco picture for 1951 is very good.

Very little tobacco is being cured this week but by this time next week the curing process will be general over the county.

It is still a little early to forecast accurately how the 1951 finest tobacco crop will compare for acre with last year's crop of 141,000,000 pounds.

Plant beds did well and farmers started with the best stand of tobacco in the memory of the cured growers. It was extremely dry in May and early June. Consequently, the crop suffered. Cropping, or harvesting, is generally underway across the lower tier of Georgia counties. If the rains continue, the tobacco probably will catch up some of the shortage. But not all of it can be caught up, because so much of the crop has reached maturity.

Nevertheless, the tobacco men figure the total poundage will equal or exceed slightly the 1950 total. Acreage allotment was up 15 percent this year and the Georgia Extension Service says the indicated average March 1 was up 12 percent from the 1950 harvested acreage.

The government has increased its support prices, proposing the average guaranteed figure to around $50 a hundred pounds. With a $5 differential for unbleached tobacco, this means about $45 in the Georgia-Florida Belt. Growers in 1950 received an average price of $48 for their leaf.

Tobacco men differ in their opinions on the over-all quality of the crop. The official decision will be written on the warehouse sales sheets.

But it is apparent that—if the average quality is in line with last year's—more than $47,000,000 worth of the belt is going to be broken in 1951. (All 1950 figures given in this article are based on the official U. S. Department of Agriculture report on growers' harvest season report on growers' (Georgia-Florida sales at 155,000,000 pounds, for a $40.12 average price.)

At strong demand is seen for cigarette tobacco, says the Extension Service. Anticipated domestic use is the largest ever. Americans are expected to smoke 410,000,000,000 cigarettes this year—27,000,000,000 more than last year.

Farmers are having to pay slightly more for the labor they hire this year.

Still to be determined is the date when the 19 Georgia and three Florida sales centers will begin moving the tobacco under the glibberish chant of the auctioneer. Each year the Bright Belt Warehouse Association board of governors meets in Raleigh, N. C., and decides opening dates for the several flue-cured belts. This year the meeting is June 29.

Warehousemen and buyers alike are predicting a heavier than usual influx of Carolina leaf into Georgia markets this season. Many growers prefer to market their tobacco united, despite the usual price differential of about four cents for tobacco tied in hands as required in all flue-cured belts except the Georgia-Florida.

STATESBORO MARKET LED GA.-FLA. IN 1950
 Statesboro led Georgia-Florida markets in tonnage in 1950, handling more than 12,000,000 pounds. Douglas was second with 11 million pounds, plus. Moultrie and Tifton came next with nearly 11 million pounds each. Valdosta, Vidalia, Nashville and Blackshear were in the million pound bracket. Other Georgia markets are Adel, Baxley, Claxton, Fitzgerald, Hahira, Hazlehurst, Metter, Pelham, Quitman, Sylvester and Waycross.

Florida markets are Lake City, Live Oak and Jasper.

The Flue-Cured Tobacco Stabilization Corporation administers the government loan program, drawing funds from the Commodity Credit Corporation. Its headquarters are at Valdosta. Last year only a small percentage of the leaf went to this co-operative, as prices generally were above loan floors. Tobacco men say this should be the case again this year.

Each of the 62 members of the class was contacted before the reunion except Randolph Peebles. No one knows of his whereabouts.

Brooks Sorrier, chairman of the 1956 reunion, asks that anyone knowing Mr. Peebles address notify him at Statesboro.

Rains Do Wonders For Tobacco In Bulloch County; Picture Brightens

Recent rains have done wonders in Bulloch county's 5,500 acres of tobacco, according to Byron Dyer, county agent. He says that the overall tobacco picture for 1951 is very good.

Very little tobacco is being cured this week but by this time next week the curing process will be general over the county.

It is still a little early to forecast accurately how the 1951 finest tobacco crop will compare for acre with last year's crop of 141,000,000 pounds.

Plant beds did well and farmers started with the best stand of tobacco in the memory of the cured growers. It was extremely dry in May and early June. Consequently, the crop suffered. Cropping, or harvesting, is generally underway across the lower tier of Georgia counties. If the rains continue, the tobacco probably will catch up some of the shortage. But not all of it can be caught up, because so much of the crop has reached maturity.

Nevertheless, the tobacco men figure the total poundage will equal or exceed slightly the 1950 total. Acreage allotment was up 15 percent this year and the Georgia Extension Service says the indicated average March 1 was up 12 percent from the 1950 harvested acreage.

The government has increased its support prices, proposing the average guaranteed figure to around $50 a hundred pounds. With a $5 differential for unbleached tobacco, this means about $45 in the Georgia-Florida Belt. Growers in 1950 received an average price of $48 for their leaf.

Tobacco men differ in their opinions on the over-all quality of the crop. The official decision will be written on the warehouse sales sheets.

But it is apparent that—if the average quality is in line with last year's—more than $47,000,000 worth of the belt is going to be broken in 1951. (All 1950 figures given in this article are based on the official U. S. Department of Agriculture report on growers' harvest season report on growers' (Georgia-Florida sales at 155,000,000 pounds, for a $40.12 average price.)

At strong demand is seen for cigarette tobacco, says the Extension Service. Anticipated domestic use is the largest ever. Americans are expected to smoke 410,000,000,000 cigarettes this year—27,000,000,000 more than last year.

Farmers are having to pay slightly more for the labor they hire this year.

Still to be determined is the date when the 19 Georgia and three Florida sales centers will begin moving the tobacco under the glibberish chant of the auctioneer. Each year the Bright Belt Warehouse Association board of governors meets in Raleigh, N. C., and decides opening dates for the several flue-cured belts. This year the meeting is June 29.

Warehousemen and buyers alike are predicting a heavier than usual influx of Carolina leaf into Georgia markets this season. Many growers prefer to market their tobacco united, despite the usual price differential of about four cents for tobacco tied in hands as required in all flue-cured belts except the Georgia-Florida.

STATESBORO MARKET LED GA.-FLA. IN 1950
 Statesboro led Georgia-Florida markets in tonnage in 1950, handling more than 12,000,000 pounds. Douglas was second with 11 million pounds, plus. Moultrie and Tifton came next with nearly 11 million pounds each. Valdosta, Vidalia, Nashville and Blackshear were in the million pound bracket. Other Georgia markets are Adel, Baxley, Claxton, Fitzgerald, Hahira, Hazlehurst, Metter, Pelham, Quitman, Sylvester and Waycross.

Florida markets are Lake City, Live Oak and Jasper.

The Flue-Cured Tobacco Stabilization Corporation administers the government loan program, drawing funds from the Commodity Credit Corporation. Its headquarters are at Valdosta. Last year only a small percentage of the leaf went to this co-operative, as prices generally were above loan floors. Tobacco men say this should be the case again this year.

Each of the 62 members of the class was contacted before the reunion except Randolph Peebles. No one knows of his whereabouts.

Brooks Sorrier, chairman of the 1956 reunion, asks that anyone knowing Mr. Peebles address notify him at Statesboro.
