Miss Brown Weds William Alderman

In the presence of many friends and relatives, Miss Barbara Jean Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Brown, exchanged vows with William Michael Alderman, son of the late Dr. and Mrs. H. A. Alderman of Portial.

The ceremony was performed Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the Statesboro Primitive Baptist Church by Rev. George Lovell, pastor of the First Baptist Church. A white trellis entwined with plumosa fern interspersed with white gladioli and topped with a large arrangement of white chrysanthemums were caught with directly in front of a sunburst of white gladioli and gladioli white mums. The decorations were beautifully accented by a background of huckleberry, tree ferns and palms. Cathedral tapers in seven-branched candelabra enhanced the beauty of the bridal scene. Gladioli marked with white satin bows carried the pews.

Jack Brooker, organist, rendered a program of wedding music and Jack Averett, soloist, sang "Because" and "O Promise Me." Usher-groomsmen were Edwin Patterson, Casey King, Wynn of Portial, Kip Gamble of Valdosta, and W. A. Rogers of Claxton. Jimmy Alderman was a junior groomsmen.

Mrs. Emerson Brown was matron of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Jean Hodges of Glennville, Miss Cecile Gaykirk of Scranton, Pa. and Jennie H. Brannen, Aunt of the bride, and Miss Jean Evans. Amelia Brown, sister of the bride, was a junior bridesmaid.

The maid of honor wore a pink silk organza dress combined with marquisette in the neckline and a deep ruffle at the bottom of the skirt posed over taffeta. The organza was of a leaf design bordered with deep scallops featuring hearts. A deep hertha attached to the net yoke formed an off-shoulder effect. The skirt was worn over hoops for fullness. She wore a heart-shaped hat and her gantelets matched her costume. She carried a colonial nosegay of rose asters tied with matching ribbons. The bridesmaids' dresses were heavenly blue, identical in style to that worn by the maid of honor.

The flower girl, Lavinia Mikell, wore a lovely white dress with bodice and embroidered skirt styled like the attendants. She wore a band of flowers in her hair. The lady attendants wore single strands of pearls, gifts from the bride.

The ring bearer, Robert Owen Zetterower, wore a white suit and carried the ring on a satin pillow.

The bride, entering with her father, made a charming picture in her wedding gown of lace and marquisette. The bodice was of lace attached to a yoke of net. The long sleeves tapered to a point over the hands. The net skirt, softened with lace ruffles, was worn over hoops. Her veil of illusion fell from a Breton lace cap with orange blossoms at one side. She carried a white orchid with purple throat on a white satin prayer book, showered with Stephanotis.

The bride's mother wore a dusty rose crepe with the bodice of all over lace. Her corsage was an orchid. Mrs. W. A. Brown, grandmother of the bride, wore navy with white accessories. Her flowers were white carnations.

The bride's parents entertained with a reception in the church annex. The guests were met and introduced to the line by Mrs. E. L. Preotorius. In the line were the parents of the bride, the bride and groom, and the lady attendants.

The bride's book was kept by Mrs. Hubert Lee. Mrs. H. P. Jones, Sr., directed the guests to the bride's table. The table overlaid with an exquisite Chinese lacquer with a beautifully embossed centered wedding cake, encircled with nylon ruffles with feverfew in clusters. The front corners of the table held white chrysanthemums showered with ribbons. Three-branched candelabra, with white candles, were used at each end of the table. Large arrangements of gladioli and chrysanthemums in white standards were used near the table.

Those assisting in serving were Mrs. Darwin Bohler, Mrs. James Pennington, Miss Betty Mitchell, Miss Mae Newsome, Mrs. Joe Fletcher, Mrs. Frank Gettis, Mrs. Earl Alderman, Mrs. Thomas Newsome presided at the punch bowl.

Miss Lila Brady
Weds J. H. Brim
Sunday, June 17

Among the important weddings of June 17 was that of Miss Pearl Lila Brady, daughter of Mrs. Rufus Brady and the late Mr. Brady, to John Henry Brim of Sasser, Ga. The lovely summer wedding was performed Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the First Methodist Church with the Rev. John S. Lough officiating in the presence of a large assemblage of guests.

As a background for the lovely rainbow wedding, the chancel and choir rail were covered with white satin. The arch was outlined with Oregon fern and on the chancel rail burning tapers rose from Oregon flat fern. Branches of candelabra with cathedral tapers were entwined with plumosa fern. The candelabra on the lower tier held bouquets of Easter lilies. Palms extended the altar area. A beautiful sunburst of white chrysantheums bordered with white gladioli centered the chancel. Clusters of lilies caught with white satin streamers marked a gateway for the bride and groom.

Prior to the ceremony, Mrs. Roger Holland, aunt of the bride, played a medley of nuptial tunes, including the traditional wedding music. Dr. Roger Holland sang "Because," Billy and Bobby Holland sang "Thine Alone." Dr. Holland sang "The Lord's Prayer" at the conclusion of the ceremony. The vocalists were cousins of the bride.

Usher-groomsman were John F. Godbee, W. R. Legette, Ben Ray Turner, and N. M. Jordan of Statesboro. Joe Brim of Camilla was his brother's best man.

THE BULLOCH HERALD, THURSDAY, JUNE 21, 1951

Mrs. Brady, mother of the bride, wore a marquisette gown blushing three shades of green. The middle of the crushed bodice was of the deepest shade, as were the front and back panels. Other gowns of the full skirts and rich which framed the neckline in demure fashion were of lighter shades of green. She wore matching guantlets and carried an orchid fan with orchid gallellias.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. John F. Godbee, wearing aqua; Mrs. Ben Ray Turner, in American Beauty; Mrs. John E. Griffin of Athens, in yellow; and Mrs. Joe Brim, violet. Their dresses were identical in style and in three-tones. All wore orchid gallellias in their hair and carried orchid fans with similar bouquets.

Given in marriage by her brother, Edwin Brady, of Washington, D. C., the bride was radiant in her ivory satin and Renaissance lace wedding gown. Double tiered, edged with seed pearls. The close-fitting lace sleeves, tapering to a point over the hands were fastened at the wrist with tiny satin buttons. The full skirt featured lace panels in the front, the double tiered with the four-tiered circular train. Her fingertip veil of illusion, loaned to her by her cousin, Laura Margaret Godbee, fell from a lace and satin tiara in filigree design studded with seed pearls. The bride carried her white orchid showered with stephanotis on her satin prayer book. For something blue she wore a blue garter, and she carried a rosepoint lace handkerchief 42 years old. Her sixpence in her shoe came from Mamie Hall Porritt in England.

The club parlor was decorated with orchid dahlias. The bride's table, overlaid with an imported lace and madiera banquet cloth, was centered with the four-tiered embossed wedding cake with the miniature bride and groom on the top tier. Silver candelabra and burning candles flanked the central arrangement.

Reception music was furnished by Misses Betty Smith and Barbara Ann Brannen.

Then We'll Know

ON MONDAY morning of last week 18 automobile drivers paid fines or forfeited cash bonds for speeding on the streets of Statesboro. Two drivers paid fines for running through a red light, and one paid a fine for making a left turn out of Courtland street into North Main street at the courthouse.

On Monday morning of this week five drivers paid fines or forfeited cash bonds for speeding; one for running through a red light; one for running through a red light and stop sign; one for running through a red light and reckless driving; one for reckless driving; and two for

We Think It Commendable

WE'RE WONDERING if the Statesboro City Board of Education, or if the State Department of Education sent Don Coleman, Leffler Akins, and Miss Toole any extra pay for the work they did in taking 23 Statesboro High School students on a three-day trip into Florida, a week after school was out, with all their school records in and officially closed.

We're wondering if they will be given any credit on their "40-hour-week" for the days they "gave" to the children to insure them of a wonderful time and the assurance of the children's safety they gave the parents.

Whether or not these three teachers—and all the teachers who give their own free time to satisfy the insatiable desire of school children—received any additional pay or any credit on their "40-hour-week," we want them to know that we recognize their generosity in taking on such a task, just that those children might have a wonderful time.

And we think it commendable.

For Better Understanding

RECENTLY, the Bulloch County Commissioners gave the two newspapers here a statement of the county's financial operation for the first quarter of 1951.

It was not a complicated statement. It was simple.

Simple enough that anyone able to read could see how his money was being spent by the county.

We commend the commissioners on wanting the statement made public. We commend them on letting the public know that the books of the county are open at all times for the inspection of any citizen desiring a more complete picture of the county's operations.

We suggest that the city authorities make public a statement of the city's financial operations similar to the one made by the county.

It makes for a healthier state of mind of the citizens of a community—knowing what goes with their money.

He's a Good Leader

WE COMMENT the teachers of Bulloch County on their naming Max Brown as the president of the county GEA.

We believe him to be a good man to lead the teachers for 1951-52.

Our opinion of him was formed when he and his faculty tackled the job of running the Portal school during the months following the fire which destroyed much of the school plant. We knew it to be a tough job, and he seems to have done it well.

We came to know him during the school year and he stacks up as worthy of the position the teachers have given him.

Beware of Hitch-Hikers

BEWARE of the hitch-hiker. This is the warning given by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, to vacation motorists. Mr. Hoover warns that even the most innocent and harmless-looking hitch-hikers may be criminals, or may be unable to resist the temptation to commit a crime afforded when a motorist obligingly provides him a golden opportunity.

No person in his right mind would entrust $1,000, $1,500 or more to a total stranger in the hope that the stranger would not steal the money. Yet, when a stranger is taken into an automobile without that amount of money, he is being offered precisely that opportunity should he care to avail himself of it. The temptation to steal the money, possessions, and car of a generous driver is even greater than the temptation to commit other crimes, since it offers a ready-made avenue of escape in the victim's own car.

The criminal does not even have to worry about such details as the ignition key, gasoline and money, and a big head start on the police. He knows that he can put hundreds of miles between himself and the scene of his crime, perhaps even before the crime is discovered.

The news daily contains accounts of crimes that result when some motorist picked up a hitch-hiker. The victims often admit that they knew better, but "made an exception" to help out some innocent-looking traveler. Criminals have been known to disguise themselves as college boys or service men in order to lure unsuspecting motorists into letting them get into the car. Once the rider is inside the car it is too late to correct the mistake, and there are criminals who will commit murder simply to enhance their own chances of escape from a lesser crime.

There is but one safe rule to follow. Make no exceptions. Never, under any circumstances, give a ride to a strange hitch-hiker.—Savannah Morning News.

They're Friendly Men

A FLORIDA NEWSPAPER editorializes that one reason its home city (St. Petersburg) is noted for friendliness and hospitality is because the men don't wear coats and ties in the summer.

We believe the editor has a point. Haven't you noticed that the free-and-easy, relaxed individual is often the fellow who wears sport shirts, and is apt to be hatless and tieless?

His informal apparel is usually set off by a friendly smile, a ready handclasp, and a kind word. If women can wear pedal-pushers, slacks, shorts, and similar garments of leisure—not to mention Bikini bathing suits—there doesn't seem to be much excuse for the masculine race to sweat out the sunny days in coats, wiled collars, bedraggled neckties and other types of formal haberdashery.

Besides, slacks and shirts are cheaper.

Maybe that's one reason the informal male is a happy fellow. He's found a way to balance the budget... at least for the summer.—Cobb County Times

Wheel of Chance

GAMBLING is very much in the news these days. Many people are saying that many other people are making suckers out of themselves and selling our country down the river to the gambling bosses.

The evidence does seem to indicate that the average American, being free, independent, ambitious, and sometimes cocky, likes to take some kinds of chances.

Maybe you are not one of the 50,000-000 Americans who is a sucker for some form of gambling. Whether you are or not, remember this:

The steering wheel is a wheel of chance. Every time you take a driving risk you bet your life, your income, your vehicle load, and your family's welfare—against what? A few seconds of time—And during the rest of your life you can't win enough to make the odds favorable.

During 1950, we injured 26,000 persons on Georgia's highways and streets, and gambled away 879 lives and over $50,000,000.

A Camping Trip Proves a Trying Experience

By VIRGINIA RUSSELL

NO MATTER how young married couples are when they start camping, the first trip is always a trying experience. For a good many days now, I have felt low, dispirited, and just plain sick. In this day of self-analysis and in an attempt to discover the source of my ailment, I began to check up on myself.

I gazed in the mirror and opened my mouth; the tongue looked normal; the gums didn't look anemic. I felt no throbbing pains in the head, no indication of high blood pressure. No sores in the chest made me discount tuberculosis and heart trouble. I was feeling the knowledge of, or skill in, tapping glands. I eliminated any trouble in these areas and gathered that my trouble wasn't physical at all.

It makes a mother sick enough just to imagine the dangers that could befall these children to whom she has devoted her life. And into whom she has put her all for so many years, but the final blow is dealt when one of them looks upon all her loving pains with disgust and tells her that other mothers never worry, why should she. Especially when she's really struggled to be melancholy about the whole matter.

A mother is concerned about Boy Scout camps, but she doesn't suffer too much because she knows some adult will be along. But when the boys attain that age at which they plan their woody journeys without an adult—that is where the mother begins to chafe at the bit and foam at the mouth.

I shall never forget my first experience. The eldest son, just six, announced that he and a friend were going camping on the river. They would make a 14-mile trip on the river, carrying their tents, food, and other needed supplies on their backs. To add to the enchantment of the whole set-up, they had chosen to return to nature during the Christmas holidays and were to stay out two nights in the weather that had been about the worst in about 32 years.

They were to stay two nights. I gritted my teeth and promised myself to be calm. And to add to my enjoyment, they did not get out until late in the afternoon, making sure their having to set up camp after dark. I later learned that a man almost shot them when they entered his driveway by mistake.

Needless to say, I slept little. Men, of course, don't worry when their offspring go off like this—it is just the weaker sex who have such simple little minds. But about three o'clock of the morning following their departure, I restlessly thought that the father also wasn't sleeping. He had just waked up to get after me about worrying. When I confided in him, my fear that our son, who is subject to asthma, might have an attack and the other boy would have to go for a doctor and leave him alone in the woods, my husband comforted me by saying, "Oh, I haven't thought of asthma, but I have been thinking about what would happen if a rabid fox were to bite them."

The last day of the camping trip, before the boys had returned, the husband's minister-brother and his family dropped in for dinner (mid-day). We saw them only about once a year and the campers had been given express orders to return in time to see their relations. After waiting an hour for them to show up, we went on with the meal. During the table conversation, I voiced my fears to the uncle, fully expecting to receive a lecture on my lack of faith. And did I receive it when he said, "Why I wouldn't worry about asthma and rabid foxes, I'd worry about rattlesnakes. In this cold weather a rattlesnake would like nothing better than to find a good."

THE BULLOCH HERALD 27 West Main Street Statesboro, Ga. THURSDAY, JUNE 21, 1951

Editor's Uneasy Chair

IT WAS FAMILY NIGHT—and Papa and mama, brother and sister, uncle and aunts, grandpa and grandma were all there, in the cheering sections.

And little Mary and Junior were in their glory—scared clean white, though that cleanliness could have been soaped and ragged on.

For it was Recital Night for the pupils of Mrs. Gilbert Cone. The stage of the high school auditorium was done up like the front yard of the "Old Woman Who Lives in a Shoe." As a matter of fact, it was her front yard, and the huge shoe was right there on the stage.

Mrs. Cone played the part of the "Old Woman Who Lives in a Shoe" and her daughter, Harriett Cone, was the real Papa Brown.

Maurice Brannen reared back the proudest ever when his Betty Joe set the pace for the recital with her ballet dance and piano solo.

Ray Akins couldn't have his cigar in his mouth for he was beaming from ear to ear when his little daughter, Priscilla, as Little Bo Peep, played "Twinkle Toes," and "From a Wigwam."

And Charles Olliff (Dr. must be) dressed like Mary and with 25 years ago, as his son, Bob, looking for all the world like "Little Boy Blue," came tripping out on the stage and played three pieces.

Bing Phillips came out on the stage as an Indian and we know that Papa Phillips must have been "Shortenin' Bread."

Beverly Joiner, as "Little Red Riding Hood," made Papa Joiner mighty glad as she played her four pieces.

Jack Whelchel ducked his head in embarrassed pride as he, John, all blown up as "Ole King Cole," played his recital pieces.

Emil Lee must have said, "That doesn't look like my little girl" as Romona came out as "Old Mother Hubbard" and played.

Papa He was mighty proud of his daughter Kay as "Little Miss Muffet"—he was doubly proud, for Mama was in the hospital and couldn't be there to cheer up her daughter, Kay.

Yeah—most of the mamas were there, too. But they were just scared to death that Little Mary or Junior was going to mess up her or his piece, so they couldn't enjoy the recital too much. Anyway, they had been hearing that piece after hour, day after day, while it was really Papa's night. He was hearing his daughter or son playing a piece of piano music and it sounded hard to him, and if his son or daughter could do that he or she must be pretty good and it was worth whatever it was costing him.

Yes sir, Papa was sure proud that night.

ALL'S FAIR . . . . . By Jane

The colors of the rainbow caught in swirling net Worn by lovely maidens in a picture you'll not forget Lila Brady, the radiant bride gown in satin of lustrous ivory hue And lights from many candles revealed an enchanting view.

I wonder if any of you have felt down right sorry for the social reporters who are up against the colossal task of writing accounts of these lovely weddings and the parties that follow. Priscilla, as Little Bo Peep, played "Twinkle Toes," and "From a Wigwam."

And Charles Olliff (Dr. must be) dressed like Mary and with 25 years ago, as his son, Bob, looking for all the world like "Little Boy Blue," came tripping out on the stage and played three pieces.

This afternoon (Thursday) the local squad will journey to Savannah to play the state champions of last season for their first game. The squad will be up to the final number, sixteen players, this week.

EVERYONE is reminded that the next swimming classes begin next Tuesday, June 26. All youths who are planning to participate must register before that date. Classes begin every two weeks for the young people and no one is allowed to enter classes between starting dates. Adult activity classes are held Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 9 until 10 and adults may be up to the final number, sixteen players, this week.

After playing bingo and answering riddles, everyone's favorite dessert, ice cream, cake, and roasted nuts, with punch, was served. The next meeting will be held Wednesday, June 27, at 3 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Amanda Simmons with Mrs. T. C. Simmons and Mrs. Frarie Waters serving as co-hostesses.

From the wonderful fragrance of lilacs to a sardine packed car that holds rank odors and all sorts of dead things, we believe is just going too far. Jackie Proctor fouled up his brother's car pretty bad, while others were indiscriminately chalking up "Just Married" on suspected cars. Jackie got to the right one. Elaine and John Proctor were followed a long time by cars that gave up because they saw that they would soon be out of gas. But Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Powell were following the car with a purpose. Mrs. Powell, the tall attractive blonde and sister of the groom were also going on a vacation trip to Florida and they wanted to select a meeting place for Sunday.

Finally they caught up with the bride and groom at Pembroke and they found them in tears from the fearful and unappetizing odors that clung to the car. The meeting was arranged and Mr. and Mrs. John Proctor Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Powell had dinner together Sunday in Plant City, Florida.

As ever, You came into our home always welcome, Miss Louise. Jane.

HENRY'S

Your sincerity and warm love for mama never failed to please. And for that we love you dearly, Miss Louise.

Now that you are here, and Mama is up yonder, Somehow we all grow fonder of her lifelong friend, Miss Louise. And when God leads you on gently as a summer breeze, When Miss Janie greets you gladly, Miss Louise.

From the wonderful fragrance of lilacs to a sardine packed car that holds rank odors and all sorts of dead things, we believe is just going too far. Jackie Proctor fouled up his brother's car pretty bad, while others were indiscriminately chalking up "Just Married" on suspected cars.

Jackie got to the right one. Elaine and John Proctor were followed a long time by cars that gave up because they saw that they would soon be out of gas. But Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Powell were following the car with a purpose.

Mrs. Powell, the tall attractive blonde and sister of the groom were also going on a vacation trip to Florida and they wanted to select a meeting place for Sunday.

Finally they caught up with the bride and groom at Pembroke and they found them in tears from the fearful and unappetizing odors that clung to the car. The meeting was arranged and Mr. and Mrs. John Proctor Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Powell had dinner together Sunday in Plant City, Florida.

As ever, You came into our home always welcome, Miss Louise. Jane.

A shortage of building materials is no handicap to a town determined to be a Champion!

If you can't build a gleaming swimming pool, perhaps you can fix up a "swimmin' hole" in a nearby creek or lake... or if that new theatre has to wait awhile, perhaps you can show movies in a schoolroom.

Yes, there are many ways to keep a town in the championship class—priorities are not needed for such things as marking scenic and historic sites, cleaning store windows, encouraging religious, educational and recreational activities, eliminating junk piles.

A Champion Home Town knows there are plenty of prize-winning projects that require only vision, enthusiasm and good ol' fashioned elbow grease!

Accident and sickness insurance is now being offered by the New York Life Insurance Company...

The company's new accident and sickness program, Mr. Conley said, is being launched simultaneously today through the Savannah Branch Office and 150 other Company branches across the United States and Canada.

Mr. H. D. Anderson, Special Agent, represents the New York Life in Statesboro and vicinity and will be prepared to serve the public on this field of coverage, as well as on life insurance contract problems.

New York Life, one of the world's largest life insurance companies, is offering coverage in these related insurance fields for the first time in its 107-year history, he stated.

Purpose of the Company's move, he added, is to make available a more complete program of personal and family protection than has been previously offered.

"There has been a growing recognition of the need to provide against financial loss of earnings arising from accident and sickness," Mr. Conley said.

"It has been estimated that in the United States there are more than 10,000,000 injuries annually due to accidents, and at least 16 disabling illnesses lasting a week or longer for every death from all causes."

"New York Life believes it can help make a significant social need by making available voluntary insurance protection in this important field." (Advertisement)

"I Bin Thinkin'"

By LEHMAN FRANKLIN

With schools out and vacations beckoning there are bound to be differences of opinion as to where the family ought to go. With the possibilities of mountains, deserts, lakes, ocean or river resorts, the family is apt to be as divided as a picnic pie. But whatever you like to do, at least it gets your mind off the day's troubles while you consider it. And that's not bad. Of course, there are some people who never take vacations. It isn't that they don't think the business can go on without them, it's just that they don't want anyone to find out. But it isn't relaxing.

Weddings, weddings, weddings. There have been a lot of them this month. But they are what keeps the world going 'round. We congratulate all the couples who have said "I do" this month. Good luck and may happiness be yours.

Ground Broken For First Baptist's New Sanctuary

H. L. (Pat) Brannen, chairman of the building committee of the First Baptist Church, moved the first shovel of dirt in the special groundbreaking ceremonies last Sunday morning on the site of the new sanctuary.

The Rev. George Lovell, pastor of the church, reminded those present at the ceremonies that "unless the Lord buildeth a house, they labor in vain who build it."

Father Smith To Be Transferred

Announcement is made this week that Father Ed Smith, pastor of St. Mathews Church, will leave Statesboro late in July to assume a position as field representative at large and to teach post graduate subjects at Glen Mary Father's Major Seminary at Cleveland, Ohio.

Father Smith explained that the seminary offers four years of theological work for men with A. B. and M. A. degrees.

"I regret to leave Statesboro," he said in making the announcement. "Seven years in a community like Statesboro means more to me than I can put in words."

Father Smith came here in 1944 and helped establish the Catholic mission which was then located on South Main Street on the site now occupied by Stiles Motel.

When fire destroyed the building the mission moved to Savannah Avenue. In February of last year the new church was formerly dedicated.

The announcement of Father Smith's successor will be made later.

It Was Good Corn Whiskey to Burn With Blue Flame, Says Sheriff Deal

"It was good corn whiskey" allowed Sheriff Stothard Deal, who poured a batch on the sidewalk and struck a match to it. "It burned like Charles Olliff's blue flame gas."

Sheriff Deal was talking about the 120 gallons of moonshine whiskey poured out of 240 half-gallon fruit jars into the sewer on the northeast corner of the court house on Monday of this week.

The big haul of untaxed whiskey was brought in by County Police Chief Edgar Hart, Moore Sowell, and J. D. Taylor and J. M. Griffin of the state revenue department.

The site of a big still was located on Saturday when the officers found an 800 gallon vat near Gene Ruchling's pond. Evidence indicated that the still itself had been moved two or three weeks.

Birth Certificate Is A Must To Enter School

To avoid delay, parents should obtain necessary birth certificates as soon as possible for children entering school next September. State Health Department officials have announced.

School systems in most counties require that all children entering school for the first time base present birth certificates on the day of registration. For health department officials to be able to issue certificates before the school opens, applications must be filed with the health department.

The certificates issued for school use are "Notifications of Registration," and are issued free of charge. A charge of one dollar ($1.00) is necessary for certified copies of birth certificates, they explained.

In explaining the need for registration in obtaining certificates of health authorities revealed, the Bureau of Vital Statistics revealed ten minutes are required in completing the form on application.

Petition Ready Asking Vote On School Merger

The first step toward merging of the city school system with the Bulloch county school system was made this week when a petition was drawn up and made ready for circulation asking the mayor of Statesboro to call an election in which citizens of the city might vote on the merger.

Plans for the merger were worked out at a joint meeting of the city and county school boards Tuesday of this week.

The petition reads: "We, the undersigned, citizens of the city of Statesboro, Georgia, pursuant to section 32-2101 of the 1933 code of the state of Georgia, do hereby petition the mayor of the city of Statesboro to call an election to determine if it is the desire of the citizens of the city of Statesboro to amend the special school law creating an independent school system for the city of Statesboro and to determine whether or not the city schools shall merge with and become a part of the county school system."

According to Mayor Cone the petition will need about 300 names to authorize him to call the election. According to the law the petition must be signed by 25 percent of the approximately 1,200 registered voters in Statesboro.
