What are the Dollar Signs Saying?

MAYBE you've noticed that dollars don't seem to talk as loud as they used to in a lot of places.

But you ought to hear what they say about this Buick.

They say—here's the big thrill—big mileage—big power of a valve-in-head Fireball Engine—eight-cylinder performance at the price you'll pay for most sizes.

They say—here are size and room and comfort that are hard to match at anywhere near the price tag this Buick SPECIAL is wearing.

They say—here are such things as an oil filter, air cleaner, vacuum booster, built-in summer ventilation—not as "extras" but yours at no extra charge.

They say that "smart buy's Buick"—by a wide measure.

But a smart buyer will also let this dashing

County Commissioners Adopt 9-Point Program

The Bulloch County Commissioners were host to the First District County Commissioners Association here Tuesday when they met for their quarterly session.

The principal theme of the meeting was county roads and how to finance and improve them, and protect them. The secondary theme, sounded by state officials, guests of the commissioners, was a strong call for strengthening of government on the city and county levels, as a means of combating the growth tendencies toward centralized government in Washington.

Better Give Them The Word

WE LET THEM ride blithely up and down the street, and from school, to the Recreation Center and back home.

You see them squeezing between a car and the curb while the car is waiting for a green light, merrily turning on a red light.

There are the handlebar riders. There are the truck-hitchers—those who, astride their bikes, foolishly attach themselves to the rear of speeding trucks for a "free ride."

And they're all young. They are the youth of our community. We put extreme emphasis on our recreation program . . . and then we see our youth flirting with disaster every day.

We sing the song, "Youth, our investment in the future," and then see our "future" submitting itself to risks which an investment banker would shudder to think of if it were his money.

Boys and girls who ride bicycles should have safety training. In the home? In the school? Either, or both. But let there be some sort of training and education program for these children who are a constant hazard to themselves and others.

The National Safety Council is campaigning for bicycle safety, with the following suggestions:

Traffic violations of young bicycle riders can be brought to the attention of the riders and their parents by having our local police departments give tickets to kids violating traffic laws and regulations. The youngster is required to bring the ticket to his parents for signature, and then return it to the police department.

In some communities where this is being tried, a policeman visits the homes of those parents whose children did not return the ticket given for traffic violation by the young bicycle rider.

It is better to keep this sort of safety program on a voluntary basis.

Well, somebody had better give the word to these kids who don't know the meaning of safety on a bicycle.

Are Women Really The Weaker Sex?

By VIRGINIA RUSSELL

If men and women could swap places for a while, there'd be a deeper understanding of each other's trials and tribulations.

This has been so vividly clear at our house of late. Never before has my husband anticipated the end of a vacation and the beginning of a new school year. In fact, all during his vacation he has found it necessary to spend a great deal of time in his office away from home.

One day I came in after lunch way over, having left home at 6:30 that morning. Before I arrived, I had felt a little bedraggled, but, once at home, I put on a very cheerful smile of greeting for my husband. His face was drenched with perspiration, and he was laboring with a huge basket of clean clothes which he was bringing in from the line.

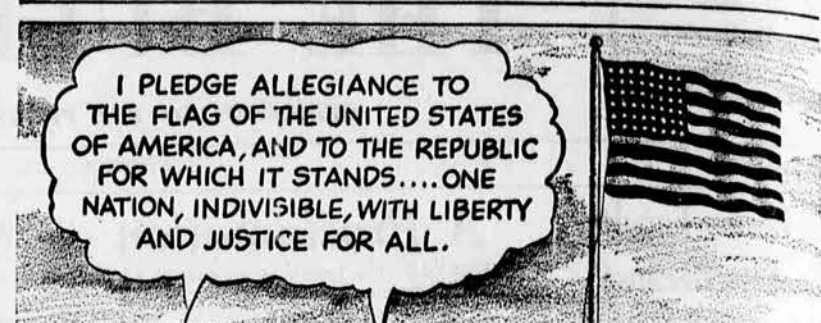

"You look sweet, darling," I greeted him, remembering that he always used a similar term when our roles are reversed.

He caught on in a hurry and came back with, "I haven't had a chance to sit down since you left."

It was funny, though somewhat of a shock to hear my words of many times before coming back to me.

He continued with his humor: "My legs ache like needles were sticking in them—I've got to get off them—This catch in my back is taking my breath away." And with this parting shot he retired to his bed to rest from his labors.

Editor's Uneasy Chair

ALL THE fall bulb and flower catalogs are in and we are having a hard time choosing from the fine artwork, the expert printing, the intriguing descriptions. There are the iris—"exotic oriental iris, the loveliest of all for your garden... order now." . . . stately Dutch iris, easy to grow, very inexpensive, looks like orchids . . .

Oh oh — we just remembered. That's a bare spot under the bird bath. And then John Darley brought us a long piece of grape vine, heavy with black "bullies" (We are not sure about the spelling of that word—but they are the black grapes that are so fine to eat, and for making jellies, and for special-tying machines. We called a break in the office and all gathered 'round and picked grapes off the vine there in the shadow of the press and the typewriting machine.

ALL'S FAIR . . . By Jane

RECENTLY, we visited a home which impressed us deeply because that beautiful home reflected so perfectly the individual tastes and hobbies of a happy family. It was evening when we paid our call on the Loy Waters. The lawn was lit by a lamp on a post, a relic of the Old Lamp Lighter's time. This particular light was one of the old kerosene street lamps used first in Savannah. Ruth Waters said that it was first used in this county at a first Negro church in the county.

Mathews' Golden Wedding Marked With Beauty and Graciousness

The beautiful Mathews home on North Main street was the scene of the season's loveliest social events as Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Mathews entertained with open house Sunday afternoon, September 16, observing their fiftieth wedding anniversary.

The home was ensuited for the occasion and was decorated with exceptionally beautiful flowers in the entrance hall where Mr. and Mrs. Mathews and their four daughters, Mrs. Henry Blitch, Mrs. Fred Blitch, Mrs. Walter Aldred, and Mrs. Talmadge Ramsey, received the guests, bransched chrysanthemums used with the reverse side of magnolia leaves gold glitter, were used on the mantel. On a chest was a large arrangement of golden rapture roses in a tall brass pillow vase.

The guests were met by Mrs. C. P. Olliff Sr. Mrs. Frank Grimes introduced them to the receiving line, Mrs. A. O. C. Mathews, Mrs. E. Cane and Mrs. C. B. Mathews directed the guests to the parlor where they were met by Mrs. M. S. Pittman and Mrs. W. W. Edge. Here an arrangement of white and pink paradise with yellow pom pom chrysanthemums was on the secretary. Opposite these, on the other side of the room, were large white baskets of giant yellow mums with Oregon fern trees in the background. Mrs. Cecil Brannen was at the dining room door. The bride's table was overlaid with a linen cloth which imported from Madeira Islands with the blue and white pattern. Embroidered at one end of the table there were two five-branched brass candles holding gold glitter candles. Four nosegays of golden rapture roses with swirls of yellow net edged with gold lace in graduated sizes led from the middle and base of the candleabra to the three-tiered wedding cake at the opposite end of the table. Gold streamers in fan shape extended from each nosegay. The cake, embossed in yellow roses, was topped with golden wedding bells with tiny bouquets of yellow roses.

Portal Library Shows Recovery From Fire Two Years Ago; Has 1,300 Books

While it took a few of the outstanding facts about our Portal school library.

The library is just in the making of course, since the burn-out two years ago. We now have a collection of more than 1,300 books, consisting of four full sets of reference books, one complete set of geography, history, fiction, biography, science, literature, holiday books, fine arts, folklore, and magazines and Bible-myths.

The Georgia Teachers College group, under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Sorrier, set up the books and catalogued the entire library, and Mrs. Gordon Wilson, librarian, deserves credit for keeping it in such an attractive and efficient manner.

We are indeed grateful for those who contributed and cooperated in making this library possible.

Our thanks go to the following: Mrs. T. A. for tabling books; Miss Bookcase; Junior Red Cross for their liberal contribution of books; table for reference books; catalog and card desk; map table; and Mrs. Elizabeth Sorrier for setting up our books so efficiently. Special thanks to Miss Isabel Sorrier for her cooperation; Mr. Womack, Mrs. Wynn and Mr. Parrish for their interest through the book department; and Mr. Max Bunn for his wholehearted interest and support.

'Orphan's Home Day' To Be Observed At Methodist Church On September 16

The third Sunday in September observed each year in the Methodist Sunday Schools as "Orphan's Home Day." On this day, during the Sunday School hour, free-will offerings are made to be sent to the orphans home in Macon.

This orphans home is supported entirely by gifts and offerings. Last Sunday at the Brooklet Methodist Sunday School, with an attendance of 90, the sum of $91.98 was donated. This, no doubt, will be increased to $100 by some of the members who were not present Sunday. The money will be sent to the orphanage in Macon.

Mrs. W. B. Parrish spent last week in Macon attending a missionary conference.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Robertson, of Beaufort, S. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Kirk Balance, of Columbia, S. C.; Herbie Simmons, of Albany; and Mrs. Fred T. Lanier Sr., of Statesboro, were guests at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Rushing Sunday.

Mrs. W. D. Lee spent last week-end in Savannah with her aunt who is ill.

Miss Betty Parrish left Wednesday for Georgia Teachers College, where she will be a junior.

Miss Donna McElveen, of Savannah, spent last weekend here with Miss Louise McElveen.

Friday afternoon, Mrs. S. W. Harrison entertained members of her Sunday School Class of the Baptist Church. Following a business session, a social hour was enjoyed during which the hostess served refreshments.

Jesse Grooms returned home last Friday from Savannah following an operation at Oglethorpe Hospital. He is now improving.

Mrs. J. N. Newton, of Richmond Hill, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. John Shuman.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Perkins, Mrs. Brazell and Miss Gloria Jean Perkins, all of Craddock, Va., are spending several days here with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. John Shearouse and little daughter, Nancy, of Atlanta, were recent guests of Mrs. J. N. Shearouse.

Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Lee Sr., Ref. Lee and Bobbie Lee spent last Sunday in Savannah as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Beasley.

Mrs. N. L. Horne, of Savannah, formerly of Brooklet, was the guest of Mrs. J. L. Durden several days last week.

Mrs. J. N. Rushing, who underwent an operation in the Bulloch County Hospital, is now convalescing at her home.

Jackie Mallard, of Augusta, has enrolled in the eleventh grade of Brooklet High School. He is staying with his grandmother, Mrs. George P. Grooms.

Mrs. Joe Ingram entertained the Canasta Club at her home Wednesday night. After the games the hostess served refreshments.

Dr. and Mrs. Aubrey Waters, of Augusta, formerly of Brooklet, announce the birth of a son in the University Hospital on September 15. Before her marriage, Mrs. Water

J. A. Brannen At Tractor Meet

J. A. Brannen, of the Olliff-Brannen Tractor Company, attended a farm equipment dealer's meeting in Jackson, Fla., recently to see the new Ferguson "30" tractor. This tractor, according to Mr. Brannen, is the latest development in the farm equipment field.

Mr. Brannen states that the Ferguson "30" has a greatly improved "live-in-head" engine which generates 20 percent greater horsepower than the previous model. He added that this increase in horsepower increases but very little the dead weight of the tractor. "It still maintains the ease of operation and low fuel consumption for which Ferguson is famous," he said.

Mr. Brannen also said numerous improvements in the final drive, air fuel system, and lubrication system insure longer life and increased efficiency despite greater engine power, because the tractor is still essentially a lightweight machine.

The Ferguson line includes 63 Ferguson System implements, as well as the tractor.

Georgia's estimated per acre cotton yield for 1951 is 309 pounds of lint per acre, the highest in history.

HD Club Enjoys All-Day Meeting

Members of the Warnock Home Demonstration Club enjoyed an all-day meeting at the Warnock school September 13. At this time table painting and Dekolli painting was done.

At noon a delicious picnic lunch was enjoyed. After lunch, Mrs. Jesse Akins presided over a short business session. Mrs. Hubert Mitchell gave a report from the nominating committee.

Mrs. Irma Lee talked about the chrysanthemum show and bazaar which will be held in the fall.

Mrs. Wilson Brienstein and son, Marshall, were visitors.

CORN YIELDS

Union and Towns county farmers have been among leaders in Georgia in increasing the per acre corn yields in recent years. Sixty Union farmers were made members of the Georgia 100-Bushel Corn Club in 1950, and 66 Towns county growers were honored by this organization.

PEACH TREE CARE

Whether a person has one peach tree or a thousand he should treat these trees for the control of peach tree borers. Extension Service horticulturists point out. Borers multiply easily, each female laying 500 to 600 eggs in a season.

HOME FREEZER

The initial cost of a home freezer varies with the size, model, and make, but as a general rule, a freezer costs from $30 to $35 per cubic foot of space. As the size goes up the price per cubic foot goes down.

COTTON INCOME

Despite the reduction of cotton acreage and the introduction of other cash crops and livestock enterprises, many Georgia farmers still lean heavily on cotton as a source of cash income.

CALVES FOR SALE

Outstanding bull calves from the University of Georgia College of Agriculture dairy herd are to be available for sale to Georgia dairymen during the next few months. Applications should be sent to the dairy department.

Agriculture Revolution In the State of Georgia

By GUS BERND
Historical Asst.
Office Georgia's
Sec'y. of State

Since the Utopian visions of the Trustees of 1732, who planned for Georgia to become a Garden of Eden, the trend to diversified agriculture has brought to the state's agricultural economy as many or more varieties as were then hoped for. The Georgia garden of today surpasses the most far-fetched dreams entertained by the original Trustees.

Georgia has a well-balanced annual output from field and forest. The failure of the silkworm to get much farther into Georgia than to get its picture on the first Great Seal of Georgia is more than compensated for by the successful production within the state of more than a score of major agricultural products that General Oglethorpe's settlers never heard of.

The state leads the nation in the production of peanuts, pimientos, better varieties of peaches, watermelons, and nutmegs. Georgia ranks near the top in production of peaches, tobacco, sweet potatoes, chickpeas, pulpot, and broiler chickens. Governor Talmadge has pointed out that the state is one of the last frontiers for livestock and that it is rapidly moving ahead in that field.

Henry W. Grady was a prophet and enthusiast of a diversified agricultural economy. When he prophesied the present picture in a general way in his speeches, the popular "Goober" better known as peanut, had not been given much attention; the growing of peaches was still in an experimental stage; and the better varieties of peaches were yet to be introduced into Georgia. Present soil conservation systems were rarely used, and much of the presently used mechanized farm machinery was not even in the blueprint stage.

Various programs sponsored by the Federal Government have helped Georgia agriculture, especially the Rural Electrification program and the Soil Conservation Service. However, the Georgia farmer has done most of it through educating himself and his children and by experimentation and hard work. Just as the City of Atlanta grew greater from the ashes left by Sherman in 1864, when the boll weevil laid its deadly self upon the cotton of Georgia and the South in the early 1920s, a greater Dixie agriculture arose from temporary ruin. Cotton had to surrender its crown. The Agricultural Revolution which had already begun was assured success.

As a result of scientific soil conservation in two dimensions: (1) keeping the soil on the land; and (2) keeping it fertile, much Georgia farmland is in better shape than it was a generation ago, despite almost constant use. The checking of much costly erosion

Forestry News

By J. W. ROBERTS

Bulloch county has 284,083 acres of land which need protection from wildfire.

The Bulloch County Forestry Unit has the personnel, the equipment, and the skill to lead a heavy attack against wildfire when it does strike this area. Those factors, however, are useless unless the public does its part in backing the unit with 100 percent cooperation.

What can you, a citizen, do to cooperate with your forestry unit? Many paths lie open. The Bulloch county citizen can help prevent wildfire by being careful with fire in or near woods at all times. He can crush his cigarette, break his match in two, make sure all cigarettes, matches, and campfires are "dead out" when he leaves a wooded area.

The Bulloch county citizen can solicit the cooperations of his neighbors, his family, his business and club associates in "thinking" forestry, in carrying on an active program of better woodlot management and forest fire protection activity.

Finally, when wildfire does strike our woodland acres, the Bulloch county citizen can insure that the flames are extinguished in the shortest possible time by telephoning forestry unit headquarters. Fires spotted early are easier to control; those which burn for long periods of time become long reported are those which bring waste and devastation to Bulloch county.

Know your forestry unit's telephone number, and call when you spot wildfire or woods smoke from wildfire. The number is 501-L.

Farm Bureau News

Cotton Situation Shows Farmers Need To Build Stronger Farm Organization

The 1951 cotton situation means just one thing—farmers need to build their farm organization stronger than ever—J. A. Hart stated at the meeting of the Ogeechee Farm Bureau meeting Tuesday night.

Mr. Hart attended the state meeting on the cotton situation and got the feeling that if there were more members in the Farm Bureau, such conditions as the present cotton crop is facing would not be any problem. He expressed the belief that the support price would have been raised to where it was expected to be. However, under present conditions, he could see no reason to expect any help from any sources, except for the cotton farmers to hold this crop off the market until the price did advance.

Mr. W. A. Hodges acted as chairman of a committee to line up neighbors who wanted their crops tested for bongs.

R. P. Mikell, county Farm Bureau president, attended the Ogeechee meeting Tuesday night and telephoning forestry unit headquarters. Fires spotted early are easier to control; those which burn for long periods of time become long reported are those which bring waste and devastation to Bulloch county.

Mr. Mikell stated that from 90 to 95 percent of the cotton in Bulloch county is being held off the market, most of it going into the loan program. He praised the willingness of cotton farmers to stick together and predicted success in any project as long as farmers worked with each other in this way.

Ben H. Smith, Warnock Farm Bureau president, asked Otis Groover, Grady Lee and Randolph Deal to serve as nominating committee and to report a slate of officers at the October meeting.

Membership cards for renewing Farm Bureau memberships in the 44th were distributed by Hudson Godbee at the Sinkhole Farm Bureau meeting Thursday night.

For Us Here In America Money Is Dollars

For us here in America money is dollars. The dollar is the basic unit of our money system, and we have several kinds of dollars. We have a gold dollar, but we need not be much concerned with that, however, since most of the gold America owns is kept in storage by the Federal Government. That gold is the base for all of our dollars, even though right now it is against the law for anyone to own gold dollars.

Of real concern to us, though, are the "active" dollars—the coins and paper money that are our currency. We use a lot of it. In recent years from 25 to 30 billion dollars in currency has been in circulation any one time. This represents a tremendous volume of business activity. But, strange as it may seem, it does not account for anywhere nearly all of our money transactions. Something like 90 percent of our business and trade is all its forms is conducted by the use of another kind of money—something we might call our "checkbook" dollars.

Important Features Of The John Hancock Farm Loan

- 1—Low Interest Rates Interest rates are as low as safe business practices will permit. Rates must yield a satisfactory return to the investor and yet must not be an unnecessary drain on your farm's production.

- 2—Liberal Prepayment Options The John Hancock prepayment policy is liberal. The Company is always ready to consider prepayment if its refusal should force financial hardship on the borrower.

- 3—Long Terms Terms are available on a long or short period of years as your needs may dictate. You select the number of years you wish.

- 4—No Commissions, Stock, Or Appraisal Fees There are no brokerage or appraisal fees, no stocks to buy. You do not need life insurance, either, to cover your loan.

- 5—Flexibility The John Hancock loan is flexible. It provides the borrower with needed funds which are to be repaid according to the ability and land-use program of his farm.

- 6—Rush Closing Service When you need money in a hurry, the prompt closing of your loan is available through the rush closing service at no additional cost.
