Financing Is OUR Business

Important Features Of The John Hancock Farm Loan

1—Low Interest Rates Interest rates are as low as safe business practices will permit. Rates must yield a satisfactory return to the investor and yet must not be an unnecessary drain on your farm's production. Your interest rate is guaranteed—it will remain the same for the life of your loan.

2—Liberal Prepayment Options The John Hancock prepayment policy is liberal. The Company is always ready to consider prepayment if its refusal should force financial hardship on the borrower.

3—Long Terms Terms are available over a long or short period of years as your needs may dictate. You select the number of years you wish.

4—No Commissions, Stock, Or Appraisal Fees There are no brokerage or appraisal fees, no stocks to buy. You do not need life insurance, either, to cover your loan. The John Hancock offers an excellent Mortgage Redemption Policy to all borrowers; you may buy or not as you see fit. You receive the full amount you borrow, except for the actual legal fees necessary to close the loan. You do not pay interest on money you never see nor do you penalize yourself by trying to carry a loan at heavy cost.

5—Flexibility The John Hancock loan is flexible. It provides the borrower with needed funds which are to be repaid according to the ability and land-use program of his farm.

6—Rush Closing Service When you need money in a hurry, the prompt closing of your loan is available through the rush closing service at no additional cost.

7—Fair, Courteous Appraisal Service Fair and experienced appraisers are thoroughly qualified to give you the full loan value of your farm. Their service is prompt, courteous, and free.

8—Confidential Handling Your Loan is handled confidentially at all times. Only loan officers know the status of your business affairs.

9—Safe, Sound Handling The John Hancock has been lending money to farmers for over 60 years. For you, this experience means unsurpassed handling of your loan—treatment that is courteous, sound, safe—for you the borrower and owner of home and farm, safe for the Company as an investor.

10—Prompt Service The John Hancock is ready to help you promptly and efficiently at all times. When a loan is closed, it is not forgotten; experienced men are always available to assist you with any problems that may arise in connection with it. Their advice is yours for the asking—another free service of the John Hancock.

Do As They Say

THE SCHOOL BOY PATROL is now on duty at the Statesboro public schools. These young traffic directors are assuming the responsibility of controlling and directing traffic at College and Grady streets, and at South Main and Grady streets.

They are there to enforce safety measures.

They are there to protect the school kids who walk to and from school, the kids who ride bicycles to and from school, and the kids who ride in cars to and from school.

They have taken on a great job.

They deserve our support and cooperation.

Obey their orders and instructions as you would Traffic Officer Tucker, or any other member of the city police force. They are acting for the Statesboro Police Department. They have received instructions in safety and know their job.

Because they are young and are still school kids don't think that you can take advantage of them.

Remember, they are there to protect your child.

Do as they say!

Let's All Toss Up Our Hats

TOMORROW NIGHT local football enthusiasts will see the 1951 Blue Devils in their first home game.

The Boys in Blue will meet Blackshear here in Memorial Park Stadium.

Many saw the hometown boys defeat Waynesboro 21 to 6 in Waynesboro last Friday night, and they liked what they saw.

There's something satisfying about seeing your hometown high school football team play a neighboring high school team.

You know every kid on your team, and many of the kids on the visiting team. You've been seeing him 'round town, at church, at the recreation center.

You took time out and went down to the stadium and watched him and his teammates working out.

You helped buy those big jackets they wear between halves.

You bought an ad on the football program.

You have an interest in the hometown player.

You've got an investment there.

You know that there on the football field is the makings of a fine man, a fine sportsman, a fine citizen.

And you hope that too much emphasis has not been put on winning every game. You hope that the proper emphasis has been put on the game to put it in the proper perspective to his school, to himself, and to his future.

To Conserve Our Human Resources

WHEN Lieutenant Governor Marvin Griffin completed his speech here on Saturday afternoon of last week dedicating the new Health Center, Bulloch county moved away ahead in our progress march.

For many years the Bulloch County Health Department has been doing a great work with inadequate facilities.

Now, with one of the most modern units in the country, the Health Center is prepared to do wonderful work in conserving this community's human resources.

We congratulate the county authorities, the health authorities, and all who had a part in bringing this great service to Bulloch county.

Know Your Banker

WHAT makes our community grow and prosper?

It's the people who live and work here...

It's the churches and schools... It's the business and banks... All working together.

And under it all is bank credit—the lifeblood of progress. Credit for merchandise and materials. Credit for tools and payrolls. Credit to finance homes, and the purchase of goods by individuals.

Under our chartered banking system, our banks make many local loans to those who can use them for constructive purposes. Banks also safeguard depositors' funds, and transfer money for depositors.

And, because each bank is part of the area it serves and grows only if that area prospers, local needs will always be paramount under our banking system.

In lands where political domination has supplanted freedom, local interest is done away with. "Socialist planners" want control of banking—not to serve better, but to dominate the nation.

In modern history every attempt to enslave a society has included early efforts to destroy individual rights to freedom in banking matters. If you value financial freedom, safeguard your right to chartered banking.

Banks over Georgia will observe "Know Your Bank Week" October 8-13. It will give you an opportunity to know your banker better.

The King's Illness Makes Us Recall His 1939 U.S. Visit

By VIRGINIA RUSSELL

THE RECENT illness of the King of England has caused me to recall the visit which he and his queen made to our country in the late spring of 1939. It happened to be our good fortune to be living in Washington at the time; so our family shared the excitement of the many preparations prior to their arrival—and, later, the actual arrival and parade of this royal couple.

We did not live far from the capitol, which was on the route of the parade, and we walked over early in order to get a good location—only to discover that hundreds of others had had the same idea. But we were fortunate in meeting a sister who had come in her car and had parked it in good position. She had a young son, and there were two of the same belonging to us. With this trio on the roof and the adults on the fenders, we watched the parade.

The parade was one never to be forgotten by children or adults. It was an all-out army day parade, with a king and queen, a president and first lady, thrown in for good measure. There was so much to take in when everything finally started—tanks, guns, marching soldiers, planes zooming overhead, and, to cap it all, lines of magnificent cavalry horses knelt and bowed as the two cars carrying the VIP's came by. It was so much that the thought suddenly came to me that the boys would hardly notice the King, even though he was in a glorious uniform, so enthralled were they with everything else. So I said, "Do you see the King?" And the elder son answered, "Yes, he's the one with the fireman's Sunday hat."

The next day the King and Queen were to make a formal visit to the House and Senate. It was my extraordinary good luck to get a seat on the capitol plaza for this occasion, and my chair was right at the end of the row and right on the aisle that the royal couple was to come down to enter their car at the conclusion of the congressional reception. Now, on our walk over to the capitol I had persuaded my younger son not to walk in puddles of water which were on the street by telling him that he must keep his shoes clean for the Queen. Well, we were finally seated, the younger son on my lap. Just as the Queen got to where we were, and was passing by (in a beautiful dress and carrying an umbrella), the younger son, in his shrill voice, wailed out, "The Queen didn't look at my shoes!" Much to my embarrassment, he caused quite a bit of laughter.

My husband did not have a reserved seat, as they were for women only, but on his return from showing us to our seat he was waved into an enclosed (roped off) place by a policeman and found himself in the section reserved for the press and decided to remain, since this place was by the steps where the King and Queen were to alight from their car and enter the capitol. He later told me how he heard one of the newsmen relate that Vice President Garner, when he saw the royal car drive up, hurried into the rotunda, shouting, "Boys, the British are coming!"

It was interesting to see the difference in a king and a president as they greeted the crowds on that occasion. President Roosevelt vigorously waved and waved, and George nodded in a most formal manner. The Queen had great poise, and I could not help wondering whether it had been born or acquired—and, if acquired, how long and tedious the discipline!

All of this came back to my mind because the King is now very ill, and I have felt a personal interest in him, even though I observed him only from afar. But I liked him even at such a distance, and hope that he will soon be fully recovered.

AN EDITORIAL

Free Press Spreads Light On Darkness of Ignorance

"YOUR NEWSPAPER lights the way of freedom." That is the theme which has been chosen for the 1951 observance of National Newspaper Week.

The choice is a fine one, for the slogan has far-reaching implications.

First of all, it suggests that where there is no light there is darkness. In this case the darkness is ignorance, "a night," someone has said, "without moon or stars."

The National Newspaper Week theme presumes the right to pierce that darkness with the light of information and it presumes at the same time the right to keep that light burning in the face of all odds.

For free man has a right to know. If there is a right to know, there must be a right to tell.

The man who made this nation considered the right to tell so important that they wrote it into the No. 1 Amendment to our Federal Constitution: "Congress shall make no law... abridging freedom of speech and freedom of the press."

But the right to tell is more than a privilege, it is a duty. Elijah Lovejoy, abolitionist editor at Alton, Ill., believed in his right to carry the lamp of the free press and he knew his duty to light it and keep it burning. Three times mobs destroyed his presses. While he was protecting his fourth press, Lovejoy was shot to death.

Don Mellett, the Canton, Ohio, publisher, kept the spotlight of publicity focused on the racketeers of his community until they ambushed him and shot him at his own doorstep.

Racketeers, international or smalltime, know the power of the press. That is why they must control that power, why they must black out the light of public information if they are to attain and maintain a grip on the people.

That is why half the population of the world is under some form of censorship today.

That is why Gen. George C. Marshall, Secretary of Defense, said "Americans should keep constantly in mind that no people have lost their liberties so long as their press remained free."

That is why in the interest of world understanding—and hence in the interest of peace—our nation seeks actively to spread throughout the world the freedom of the people to learn the truth.

A free press—a free people.

"Your newspaper lights the way to freedom."

The vital truth of that message is the one thing National Newspaper Week has to sell.

TRAFFIC OFFICER TUCKER says he's still having trouble being in more than one place at a time.

THEY'RE TELLING this one 'round town.

A girl was driving her new car when something went wrong with the engine. The traffic light changed from green to red and back to green and still she could not get the car to budge. The traffic officer came up.

"What's the matter, Miss," he inquired, "aint we got colors you like?"

And here's another one we heard someone say:

Two friends, well in their cups, were cruising down the highway when the car swerved toward the railing of a bridge. This had the effect of awakening somewhat the driver's friend.

"Shay, buddy," he said, "wash out 'ere. You'll get us killed!"

"Who—ME? Heck, I thought you 'as drivin'," the buddy replied.

SHE ASKED for it. And Mayor Gilbert Cone let her have it.

A Negro woman was brought before Mayor Cone during his Monday morning court, this week. She was charged with disorderly conduct and being drunk. When asked what kind of work she was doing, she told his Honor that she was picking cotton.

"You a good picker?"

"Yes, suh!"

"How much can you pick a day?"

"Bout 300 pounds, I reckon. Gets $4 hundred."

"Well, I fine you 300 pounds of cotton," said Mayor Cone.

NOT a single case of speeding or drunken driving in Mayor Cone's court Monday.

IF YOUR NOSE is close enough to the grindstone rough, and you hold it there long enough, in time you'll say there are no such things as brooks that bubble and birds that sing. These three things will your world compose—just YOU, the STONE, and your darned old NOSE!—Author Unknown.

ALL'S FAIR... By Jane

CISSY TILLMAN (Mrs. Grant Sr.) was cruising down the road Tuesday from Macon, where she had gone to visit her daughter, Shirley to Wesleyan.

She had spent four days with Shirley, who had gone early to be on hand to meet the freshmen students. Shirley is a social chairman of the Student Council and was responsible for the lovely tea given for the freshmen. She presided at the beautiful silver service, and here mother enjoyed every minute of her visit.

But, coming back home alone, she was dressing getting to Statesboro in the late afternoon and going into an empty house. Before she drove to her home though she decided to stop by to see Betty and Fred Hodges, Jr., who had been on a vacation in Florida. As soon as she got there she was greeted by her grandsons, Grant II and Little David. Their mommie was at the hospital, and they were going to spend the night with her, and the words tumbled out all in one breath, "and if it's a boy you can have him." It was not a boy—she was Marian Kristin. So Cissy had her hands full. Sometime during the night Bud came in.

"Tater" is proud of his wife. The doctor said she was 100 percent O. K., according to "Tater". Consequently, when she received an invitation from her son, Lt. Commander A. J. Rucker, stationed at a Naval Base at Washington, D. C., to come up for a visit, she left here on Sept. 5 with her grandson, Thomas Rucker, who is a student at Gallaudet College for the Deaf, located in Washington, Mr. Rucker had a telegram last week from his son saying his mother was leaving by plane Sunday for Atlanta where she will visit another son, Horton Rucker. Tater gleefully announced, "I'm goner write to all of her people living in and around Atlanta to meet her at the Air Port."

to drop dead." It wasn't funny to her.

A - once - in - a - life - time: Ray Hughes on way to the radio station on Rt. 80 suddenly realized he was driving behind a car with a Mississippi license plate. Then he really sat up as he recognized the driver as one of his best buddies back home. He blew the horn and tried to catch up and received very little attention to the driver. As Ray turned in at W.W.N.S., the gentleman, Charles Suddath or "Chuck", as Ray called him, remembered that Ray was working at a radio station in Georgia. Twice then that he realized the significance of the horn blowing behind him, so he backed up and by the time I reached the station these young fellows were slapping one another on the back, and a happy reunion it was.

I was amazed, I never dreamed that such wonderful facilities were housed in that beautiful building to safeguard the welfare and the health of the citizens in Bulloch County.

Mrs. Caroline Hendrix started me off on my visit and introduced me to state department workers. I was in the information center and her assistant is Miss Audrey Williams. They are so happy and proud of their new office.

The waiting rooms are bright and comfortable. There were people in both colored and white waiting rooms. I asked Mrs. Suddath's clerk in the information center and her assistant is Miss Audrey Williams. They are so happy and proud of their new office.

With the football season starting, we notice more than 50 big college coaches have switched schools. It's musical chairs played to the tune of boxoffice coins. In September all the coaches view the future through smoke-colored glasses—and every interview they give sounds as though it came from a fellow playing with matches in a dynamic storage dump. To hear the sideline generals tell it, they'll be lucky if they can field 11 men who can stand without support. It must be a big surprise to them when a small army of giants roars out to battle for them just before the kickoff.

TEACHERS ORGANIZE CHILD STUDY GROUP

Thirteen teachers of the Portal School faculty met Monday afternoon in the school library to organize and participate in a child study group.

Mrs. Catherine Kirkland, Bulloch county supervisor, led the group in its opening discussion and planning. She suggested the basic assumptions that a child study group should keep in mind: that every human being is worthy, and so has a right to be accepted and respected; that behavior is multiple.

The study group plans to meet twice monthly during the school year and to study children at all school levels. Members of the group are looking forward to the planning so that they may become better psychiatrists, but better psychologists another year.

Teachers making up this group are: Mrs. Aubrey Brown, Mrs. A. D. Milford, Mrs. Nina Sturgis, Mrs. Dan Blitch, Miss Alberta Scarborough, Mrs. Max Lockwood, Mrs. Emerson Brown, Mrs. Thomas Alexander, Mrs. H. C. Bland, Mrs. Gordon Franklin, Mrs. Fronita Roach, Miss Allene Smith and Mrs. W. L. Blackburn.

British cabinet and military officers have been planning measures to protect British lives in Iran.

Forestry News
 Your Bulloch county bankers know that trees are a good investment. Such is the assurance which comes this week from the Bulloch County Forestry Unit, which, in its current drive to prevent wildfire, has been drawing attention to the manner in which nearly every phase of community life fits in with good forestry.

Forestry News
 The unit points out that for many years bankers have regarded land as a potential media for growing produce. Today, more and more bankers are realizing that such land is better for growing trees as a crop.

Forestry News
 Tree growing and forest fire prevention are being encouraged by bankers throughout Georgia. Here in Bulloch county, where 127,000 forest seedlings were set during the past planting season, the banks in Bulloch county have made available for public use two tree planting machines. These machines will play a large part in turning poorly stocked terrain into land producing profitable "green gold."

Forestry News
 Bankers in Bulloch county know that growing trees, either as a full-time project or as a means to supplement farm income, is good business. They know that growing trees can be a sound investment.

Forestry News
 Trees, however, like every other crop in Bulloch county, need protection. Fire is one of their greatest enemies. You can help your community become strong through forestry by growing trees and by keeping fire out of the woods.
