Santa's Visit Leaves Tornado

By VIRGINIA RUSSELL

THE AFTERMATH of Santa's visit and the unwrapping of presents caused my living room to look as if a tornado had just, jittersbigged through. In the beginning the Papa and Mama in the house acted very efficient and orderly, placing two big boxes for wrappings and ribbons at special places. But, somehow, the floor was covered instead of the boxes being filled. I tried to coax a male into using the vacuum cleaner, but he insisted, and his Daddy backed him up, that Christmas Day is no time to clean up anything. (I noticed that they didn't object to the cook, who is I, being busy in the kitchen.) So the guests who called had to shove and push and kick a path to a chair and then unlock it before sitting down.

But sitting there in the midst of disorder (near midnight) and listening to the Robert Shaw Choir, I was wrapped in a great peace. It had been a hectic time. No other year had ever caught me so unprepared as I had this one. When one's time is completely filled, I have discovered that it is wise to live day by day, just doing what has to be done. Even when school turned out Friday before Christmas, there was more to be done in two and one-half days than was humanly possible. Little was accomplished Friday afternoon. Saturday I pleaded with the man of the house to come along and help, but he had more effectively argued that he had so much work to do here at home.

When I reached home after battling with the crowds, I found the "busy" man had been to the library and taken out three stacks of books; one book was almost finished, but its reader now snoozed in his bed. Monday I had a shopping companion with me, even though he was a complaining, grouchy, and growling one. There were many things left undone and many people's names on our list unchecked that we intended sending our Christmas wishes to, but we had seen and made things right with Santa Claus, and, after all, that was the most important item.

Monday night, after the dishes had been washed and put away, we all gathered round and listened to Daddy read the Christmas story from Matthew and Luke, and then we sang Christmas carols, sometimes, I'm afraid, sounding more like the serenaders in "Pops." The stockings were then hung and the two younger ones were sent up to bed, the two older boys being allowed to remain in order to let Santa in.

Looking at the things spread out, I suffered the yearly pangs of "Is it enough?" Except that this time it looked more pitiful than ever. Yet, I knew it was enough to cause thanks and included more than had been asked for. So I tried to relax. Then the eldest son brought in his gift to the family, a radio he had built. It was in the nude, so to speak, but he insists that it will be clothed, or housed, before he returns to school. He tuned in some beautiful Christmas music, and long after midnight we enjoyed the beauty of a Christmas Eve and early Christmas morning. The mad rushing about had temporarily erased the real meaning of Christmas, and it was a joy to be taken back, in music, to the manger where the star shone so bright over the little Lord Jesus.

We shooed the elder boys upstairs and sneaked in their gifts; then the old folks went to bed. It seemed that I had hardly closed my eyes before the children were shouting "Christmas gift!", a custom begun from Daddy's side of the house. Then the Daddy slipped downstairs to light the fire and turn on the lights of the tree. On the other side of the living room door the rest of us lined up to go in according to age, the youngest first. It was fun to watch the actions of the different one, and so good to hear the youngest say, "Santa Claus brought me more than I asked for."

Sitting in the living room among all the debris and with the younger children asleep after a happy day, in some of our Christmas celebration, but aren't we thankful that we can sing out, "Joy to the world, the Lord is come!"

Eliminate Federal State inspection. The administration of the peanut program should be transferred from the Fats and Oils Branch of the U.S.D.A. Peanuts as a basic commodity should be considered an edible nut crop, much more effectively considered as a source of fats and oils. The major problem is mainly one of marketing an edible nut crop and should be administered on this basis.

After recognizing the need for some drastic changes, we are firmly convinced very little, if anything, can be accomplished in an industry-wide meeting where time will not permit a full and frank discussion of our many problems, and where it will be virtually impossible to carefully weigh the intent of the Department of Agriculture and the various needs and recommendations of the many groups represented here today. Therefore, we the state peanut committee, recommend that the president of the Community Credit Corporation ask each of the three peanut producing areas to elect representatives for a committee and such a committee be composed of equal numbers of shellers, end-users, and Farm Bureau peanut producing members, and that such committee be given the responsibility of recommending a peanut program for 1952 and subsequent years.

We believe that the Agricultural Act of 1949 provides price support for all quota peanuts and that the deductions for damaged peanuts should be made on the basis used in 1950 rather than the basis used in 1951 under which some quota peanuts became ineligible for the price support.

Mr. Wyatt stated that the state leaders are following through in an effort to get these resolutions carried out by the Department of Agriculture and that "whether we win or lose depends on how well we stick together."

Pre-Nuptial Parties For Miss Banks

Highlights Holiday Social Events

On Friday, December 21, at the lovely home of Mrs. Emil Anderson, Miss Patty Banks, bride-elect, was honored at a kitchen shower with Mrs. Bruce Akins, Mrs. Fred Hodrick Waters and Mrs. Fred Hodrick as co-hostesses with Mrs. Anderson.

The home was attractively decorated for the Christmas season and in the dining room the lace-covered table was centered with white gladioli and greenery. The mantle was banked with magnolia leaves.

Chicken salad sandwiches, salted nuts, coffee, and individual cakes in green and white made delightful party plates with wedding bells tied with white satin ribbons for favors.

In a scrambled-word contest centered around kitchen utensils Betty Mitchell won a gold pen and pencil case.

Furnishing much entertainment and a keystone for the honoree was a booklet attractively illustrated with photographs of the bride-elect and groom-elect, a calendar indicating the date of proposal and the presentation of the ring, and good wishes for Patty during each of the guests.

AFTERNOON PARTY

Betty Lovett, Nell Bowen and Mrs. Darwin Bohler entertained Saturday afternoon at the Lovett home honoring Miss Patty Banks at an informal seated tea.

Christmas decorations were used in the living room. Pecan pie topped with whipped cream was served with coffee.

In a jumbled letter contest Betty Mitchell won hot dish mats. In a contest where the prize went to the person who could give the correct title of a romantic song from which only a few lines were read, Shirley Tillman received the engaging vase. Miss Banks was given a set of ash trays.

Mrs. George Groover poured coffee.

MISS BANKS HONORED AT MORNING COFFEE

Miss Shirley Lanier entertained Monday at her home with morning coffee honoring Patty Banks whose marriage to J. T. Sheppard of Kinston, N. C., will be an event of Thursday, December 27.

The Christmas theme prevailed in the decorations.

The guest of honor received a mint dish.

Cream cheese and olive, open-face sandwiches, cheese straws, and spiced cranapples were served with coffee.

Twelve novelty gifts with verses from each of the girls present were given to Patty Banks for remembrance.

BRIDGE PARTY MONDAY

COMPLIMENTS BRIDE-ELECT

Shirley Tillman and Barbara Ann Brannan were co-hostesses Monday afternoon with a bridge party complementing Patty Banks at the Tillman home on Park Avenue.

Patty was presented a crystal hostess tray.

Boiled ham sandwiches, asparagus sandwiches tied with red ribbons, stuffed dates, olives and hot chocolate were served.

Other guests were Betty Smith, Mrs. Waldo Floyd Jr., Ginny Lee, Mrs. Sue Simmons, Mary Janette Agan, Betty Lovett, Ann Waters, and Mary Jo Zetterover. Jan Gay called for refreshments.

LUNCHEON AT KENWOOD

COMPLIMENTS BRIDE-ELECT

Mr. and Mrs. Osborne Banks and Mrs. E. S. Meadows of Dallas, Texas, were hosts Wednesday at a delightful luncheon complementing their cousin, Patty Banks, at Kenwood.

The bride's table, overlaid with white satin bordered with lace, presented a beautiful wedding scene with the altar to the altar marked by miniature green plants in green tubs. The bride, in white satin, carrying her bride's bouquet, was followed by the bridesmaids in American Beauty net gowns. The altar was formally decorated with branches of holly, holly leaves and holly berries. Beautiful pom-pom chrysanthemums were the altar flowers with an exceptionally lovely grouping of chancel windows as a background.

Luncheon was served from smaller tables where a wreath and silver bells marked the places and served as lapel bouquets. Baked ham, asparagus en casserole, Asheville salad, spiced peaches, hot rolls, coffee, and lemon chiffon were served.

The bride's table was lovely in navy tulle with small white hat with pearl trim and brown veil.

Other guests were Mrs. L. G. Banks, Marguerite Gray of Jacksonville, Lavinia Clark of Oliver, Myra Jo Zetterover, Mrs. Frank A. Brown of Tallahassee, Fla., Mrs. R. E. Shepherd, Miss Pat Shepherd of Kinston, N. C.

DEAL—CHODNICKI

Mr. and Mrs. L. Herbert Deal of Statesboro announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary Kathryn, of Washington, D. C., to John C. Chodnicki of Washington, D. C., and Durvay, Pa.

Miss Deal is a graduate of the Statesboro High School and is employed by the Department of Justice.

Mr. Chodnicki was graduated from Durvay High School. He is now attending Emerson Institute working for a degree in business administration. He is employed by the Veterans Home Administration.

The wedding will take place January 19 at St. Matthews Cathedral in Washington, D. C.

JEAN MARTIN attended her cousin's coming out party in Savannah, December 28. Patricia Overstreet, whose mother, Mrs. John Overstreet, was formerly Nell Martin of Statesboro, entertained for her daughter and other debutantes as Patricia made her bow to Savannah society. The debutantes have enjoyed a succession of lovely parties and Jean has had the thrill of attending a few of the parties along with Patricia.

ALL'S FAIR

By JANE

INSTEAD of my own bit of rhyme I quote from Patty Banks' bride's book she received at the kitchen shower given for her at the home of Mrs. E. J. Anderson with Mrs. Fred Hodrick, Mrs. Bruce Akins and Mrs. Fred Kennedy as hostesses. Mae Waters wrote:

"Dear Patty, The future holds so much in store For happy folks like you; Starting out together now To make your dreams come true, That anyone who knows you Can easily foresee How very, very happy You're always going to be."

FATHER'S LITTLE EXEMPTION — When little Merry Joy Johnston joined the Babysteps on Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Frank Richardson. Fourteen girls at school drew names and thus made up the list for the party. After supper they went to the Skat-R-Bowl and back again later to Jane's home where they were served cookies and cakes. The party was Linda Bean, Sandra Martin, Ann Preston, Mary Jo Hodges, Evelyn Jones, Willette Woodcock, Carolyn Hart, Betty Lee Rogers, Lucy Melton, Ann Lamb, Pat Alderman, Sylvia Zetterover, Betty Rowell of Savannah, Rachel Anderson and hostesses Jane Richardson and Ann Cason.

AN ANNUAL EVENT was the Euzelans Class supper held as usual at the home of their teacher, Mrs. E. A. Smith. Elaborate and lavish Christmas decorations were in evidence throughout the lovely home. A turkey dinner with sauce, salads, cakes and pies—everything appetizing and eye-catching was served. The Euzelans presented their teacher with a beautiful three-branched silver candelabrum. Mrs. Smith received her guests in a lovely rose crepe dinner dress. There were 75 members present.

SUNDAY NIGHT was open house at the Kermit Carrs with an ethereal atmosphere throughout the home resulting from a myriad of blue lights flooding white flowers, while Christmas trees in a sort of fairyland of delicacy that was most effective. Numerous cake plates offered a variety of individual cakes, and from a candy tree you took your choice of delicious candies and nuts, and you poured your own coffee. Lovely Christmas music was furnished by Mrs. Cleon Mobley of Glenville, accompanied by Emma Kelly.

GEORGE P. LEE JR. entertained with a buffet supper Friday night at the home of his parents on Broad street. His guests were Mr. and Mrs. James P. Collins, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brannen, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Mikell, Jet Leggett, Dent Newton, Bill Jones, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Harvey, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Shealy, Bennett Lee and Mr. and Mrs. George P. Lee Sr.

THE WEDDING of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith, shopping in Savannah before Christmas, observed that cars were double-parked all along Broughton street, and decided she would try it, too. So she eased close up to the next car in line and darted into a shop. As she started out of the store she saw her car, front end being raised and about to be towed out into the street. She was horrified at the thought of someone stealing her car in plain open daylight, and didn't feel too relieved when she discovered that the police were pulling it in.

WELL, here's wishing for one and all A HAPPY NEW YEAR.

APPLICATION FOR LEAVE TO SELL LAND

THIS is to notify all persons concerned that Mrs. J. F. Stewart, administratrix of the estate of the late Mrs. F. I. Williams, Ordinary, (12-27-41c-180)

CITATION

GEORGIA, Bulloch County. This is to notify all persons concerned that Julian Groover, administrator of the estate of Mrs. Ida R. Brannen, deceased, has filed with me an application for leave to sell the lands belonging to said estate for the purpose of paying debts and for distribution to heirs; and that I will pass upon said application in my office in Statesboro, Georgia, at the January Term, 1952, of my Court.

THIS WOULD'N'T have happened here: Lucile (Mrs. Fred) Smith, shopping in Savannah before Christmas, observed that cars were double-parked all along Broughton street, and decided she would try it, too. So she eased close up to the next car in line and darted into a shop. As she started out of the store she saw her car, front end being raised and about to be towed out into the street. She was horrified at the thought of someone stealing her car in plain open daylight, and didn't feel too relieved when she discovered that the police were pulling it in.

WARNOCK NEWS

The Warnock Home Demonstration Club's annual Christmas dinner was held at the home of Mrs. Lester Martin with Mrs. Gordon Rushing, Mrs. Willie Hodges, Mrs. Colton Rushing and Mrs. Harry Brumson as joint hostesses. Christmas decorations were used in every room. A beautiful lighted Christmas tree in the living room had many packages under it. Mrs. Otis Groover presided over a short business session. Mrs. Harry Brumson gave the devotional with Mrs. Lester Martin closing the devotional with a beautiful prayer. The group sang, "Bless This House."

Mrs. C. W. Lee and Mrs. Whitehead directed several Christmas games which were enjoyed by all. Mrs. Groover then distributed the gifts which revealed our Secret Sister's names. The hostess served chicken salad, cookies and coffee.

SS Explained For Self-employed

"If you work for yourself and are planning to include your name on the quarterly social security tax return you will file in January for your employees—don't." So says C. A. Hamilton, manager of the Savannah social security office.

Mr. Hamilton says that many self-employed businessmen who were brought under social security by the 1950 amendments are under the impression that they should report their net income quarterly in the same manner that they their employees are reported. That isn't correct. Self-employed people report their own net earnings for social security purposes only once a year, at the end of the year when they make their individual income tax returns.

Everyone who has net earnings of $400 or more in a year from trade or business must make the annual self-employment return and pay the self-employment tax. A form for making the return will be included with the income tax forms.

Although self-employed people do not make returns until early in 1952, Mr. Hamilton stated that they will receive social security credit for their 1951 earnings just as do employees whose wages are reported quarterly by their employers.

A booklet, "Do You Work For Yourself," explaining old-age and survivors insurance as it applies to people who are self-employed, may be obtained free at the Savannah social security office.

A representative of the Social Security Administration will be at the office of the Statesboro and Bulloch County Chamber of Commerce on Thursday, January 3.

Army Needs WW2 Combat Veterans

It was announced today by the local Army and Air Force Recruiting Station that a great many combat wounded World War II veterans can be utilized by the United States Army in useful occupations.

According to Major Jack P. Glenn, commanding officer of the Atlanta Recruiting Main Station, those veterans who are trainable, or possess certain critically needed skills are being sought. Combat wounded are acceptable for enlistment under conditions where it is found that they meet the regular requirements with the exception of their specific combat-incurred disability and are capable of caring, unaided, for their own personal needs.

The physical condition of the applicant, with full consideration of his combat-incurred disability, must be such that further hospitalization or time loss from duty because of combat-incurred disability may not be expected.

Any man under this category who is interested will be interviewed and given any help possible. Their experience and know-how can help the Army in this time of need.

The Recruiting Station is located at the Bulloch county courthouse in Statesboro.

Faith That Sings

even fuss and fight or play or sing, but after three months they do all these with a vengeance. They sang for one of the chaplains who was taking tape recordings to send to America for broadcasting. Their selections were "Onward Christian Soldiers," "Jesus Loves Me" and "Silent Night."

Songs of faith arise from Methodist institutions refugeeing in Pusan, and carrying on bravely in crowded and temporary quarters. Pete Spitzkeit told of attending seminary commencement last August. He said, "The service was climaxed with the majestic singing of 'A Mighty Fortress Is Our God.'" Recently, sacred music for the seminary and church choirs has been requested from Korea—the volume of faith is increasing, not diminishing, under war conditions. During the recent visit of Bishop Moore and Miss Billingsley to Korea, the General Conference welcomed them and honored their newly elected Bishop Hyungki Lew with a lovely musical program, which Miss Billingsley said was wonderful. The conference closed on a high note. Preachers, appointed to their charges and going out to difficult and colossal tasks, stood and sang "Jesus, I My Cross Have Taken, All to Leave and Follow Thee." This is their consecration, and their song of faith, for they know they go not alone.

Ewah University music groups have brought cheer to army groups, enriched services of worship and helped keep up courage in many places. Ewah, housed in thirteen huts of board walls, tent tops and dirt floors, on a terraced hillside in Pusan, daily demonstrated faith that sings. Bishop

Moore, writing of the service he held at Ewah, says, "On a muddy, windswept piece of ground 700 girls stood singing, 'Out of My Bondage, Sorrow and Night, Jesus I Come!' The place was in South Korea and the singers the lovely Korean girls who compose the Ewah student body. Driven by a brutal and unwarranted invasion from their campus in Seoul, the capital city, there they stood in exile, but still singing. Refugees every one of them, bearing burdens that would crush a less heroic people, they gallantly carry on classes in tents without floors and meet for chapel in the out-of-doors, because, in this city of nearly a million refugees, there is no building available. Dr. Helen Kim, interpreted my message. The students stood shoulder to shoulder in a light mist or rain, listening eagerly, and then sang triumphantly, 'Jesus, I Come to Thee.' I have witnessed many moving sights as I have gone up and down the world, but the sight of those heroic girls singing in the rain will never fade from my sight. You simply cannot defeat nor dismiss a people of such heroic mold."
