MR. TOBACCO GROWER

HERALD TO GO INTO 3000 HOMES

We are happy to announce that the Bulloch Herald has been selected by the Tobacco Warehousemen of Statesboro Market to go into homes of every tobacco grower within the territory surrounding the Statesboro Market. Each week during the tobacco market The Bulloch Herald will go into more than 3000 homes of people in Bulloch and the surrounding counties.

The three local warehousemen have furnished the Bulloch Herald with their list of tobacco growers and each week these tobacco growers will read full details of the market activities and the advertising managers of the local progressive merchants.

It is the aim of The Bulloch Herald to promote the Statesboro Tobacco Market as it has never been promoted before. This is in keeping with the policy of The Herald, which adopted with its first issue, and which policy has been adhered to ever since.

Teachers College Opens 2nd Term of Summer School

RECORD ENROLLMENT OF 322 FOR SECOND SESSION OF 1937

The second term of the 1937 summer session at the South Georgia Teachers College opened Monday with a record breaking enrollment of 322 students.

The first session which was concluded last Friday enrolled 744 students and the enrollment on the second session in the history of the college. Usually the second session is small in comparison to the first session and the largest ever held held was in 1935 when 284 were registered.

Last summer there were 311 enrolled and the enrollment on the first day this summer exceeded last year's enrollment by almost 100.

One of the features of the second session is the five weeks music camp under the direction of W. J. S. Deal. Fifteen musicians have enrolled for the summer camp in which there will be instruction in band and orchestra work in directing.

Another feature of the second, which was inaugurated by President Marvin S. Pittman several years ago, is an hour each day devoted to the "leisure hrs." Other features of the second session is a continuation of instruction of curriculum revision for Georgia schools.

BULLOCH 4-H BOYS IN ESSAY CONTEST

The 968 4-H club boys in Bulloch county will compete for eight purebred gilts during next week. The clubsters interested in the contest will submit to the county agent an essay of not more than 1000 words on the subject, "Value of the hog, hen, and cow program to my county." The essay will be due in the agents office not later than 6 p. m., August 10.

The papers will be judged by the committee upon knowledge and information the writer has of the subject. The clubsters can procure information for the paper from any source they desire. The judges have reserved the right to talk with the clubsters before making the awards.

Pigs will be delivered to the eight winners from Bulloch county and the several other counties around Savannah August 16.

The winners will have a chance to show their ability as a livestock farmer at a show for the 64 pigs to be held later in the fall in Savannah. The winner of the group will receive a purebred heifer, while the four winners from the county will receive 100 purebred baby chicks each.

Bulloch county clubsters entering the contest are urged to assemble their information on the subject and proceed to write the essay in their own words.

Sears, Roebuck and Company, Savannah, is giving the county grants in this section the financial backing for the project purely in an effort to increase interest among clubsters in the important part livestock plays in a balanced farm program.

WORK ON NEVILS RURAL ELECTRIC BEGUN THIS WEEK

Construction of a new rural electric line, extending 15 miles from Statesboro to Nevils was begun this week, according to an announcement by W. W. Barr, manager of the Augusta division of the Georgia Power Company. The line is expected to be completed sometime in August. Fifty six consumers, who have never had electric service in the past, are expected to be served.

The Statesboro-Nevils line is a part of the power company's statewide program which calls for the construction of more than 700 miles of new rural lines and extensions, at a cost of almost $1,000,000 during 1937.

At the present time, the power company is serving more than 36,000 rural consumers in small communities and on individual farms. Since the beginning of rural electrification in Georgia nine years ago, the company has constructed approximately 3,900 miles of rural distribution lines.

A. P. BELCHER USES MODERN METHODS IN HIS HOG FARMING

In a statement made by P. S. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Power Company, before the Georgia Public Service Commission, Monday, it was learned that since 1928 the commission has made 28 reductions in the electric rates of the power company, of which nine have applied to commercial consumers. In making this statement Mr. Arkwright declared that any further reduction in commercial electric rates would seriously impair the company's ability to finance necessary construction work, including the extension of rural lines into areas now unserved.

Hog farming is not difficult if a farmer goes into it as he does into cotton or any other system of farming, according to A. P. Belcher.

Mr. Belcher has his field arranged for his hogs just as a cotton farmer arranges his fields for cotton. The 53 head of hogs he will market during the next few weeks have moved from field to field just as the program called for.

These men are charged with the burning of the Frank Hughes home near Stillson, Lewis, Zipperer, and Dixon, who were arrested a short while after the house had burned were given a preliminary hearing, bound over to Superior Court and were released under bond. Carter could not be located and it was a few days ago that Sheriff L. M. Mallard and Solicitor Neville went to Dayton, Ohio, where Carter had been located and brought him back to Statesboro. He is in the county jail.

will be operated by J. G. Tillman, Julian Tillman, and Charlie Randolph. Joe and Julian Tillman do not need an introduction to the people of this section. For many years Joe Tillman served Bulloch county as sheriff and for many years both Joe and Julian Tillman have been active in all affairs for the progress of the county. Their partner, Charlie Randolph, married Elizabeth DeLoach, a Statesboro girl, and considers himself a Statesborian by adoption. In the past he has been on the local market as a buyer for the American Tobacco Company.

The summer of 1937 is expected to add even more history for the local market. Being the farthest most market to the north in the state and the market farthest to the east of the state, with a large acreage planted in tobacco in Bulloch and other counties in this section, and with added warehouse facilities the present season will no doubt set a record for tonnage.

Both the old houses have been repaired and put in readiness for the opening next Thursday. The new house is completed and is also ready for service. The cry of the auctioneer is only one week away and when that time arrives the Statesboro market will again be making history.

GROW TIMBER—IT PAYS!

THANKS TO THE JOURNAL

The interest being manifested in the "Battle of Muldown" is to be staged soon between Judge P. H. Preston, Sr., and Leon S. Tomlinson, can be estimated by the comments we are receiving from far and wide.

It pleased us very much that the Atlanta Journal carried, in Monday's paper, a full column editorial on the news story and editorial which appeared in July 16 issue of the Bulloch Herald. The editorial was headed "What is Muldown?"

The Journal editorial quoted in full our news story and editorial, and in commenting on the forthcoming battle asked, "Is there something going on in South Georgia of which middle and north Georgians do not know, through their provinciality and mayhap the barrenness of their natural resources and lack of culinary imagination?" The editorial ended with the statement that South Georgia is not entitled to a monopoly on all the good things of life.

(We regretted that, in writing the editorial "What is Muldown," the Journal evidently forgot that there are two newspapers in Bulloch county. The credit for the news story and editorial which prompted the Journal's comments was given to another paper. Love of land home ownership lend to stability and permanency of citizenship. No country rises in prosperity above the level of the standard set by its farmers. As the farmer prospers, so does the city. Let the farmer stop his plow and every citizen will be hungry in a few days and will starve to death if the farmer does not feed him.)

William Jennings Bryan said: "Burn down your cities and leave our farms, and your cities will spring up again as if by magic; but destroy our farms and the grass will grow in the streets of every city in the country."
Emerson said: "The first farmer was the first man, and all historic nobility rests on possession and use of the Land."

LOVE YOUR LAND, IT'S THE SOURCE OF ALL WEALTH

Last week the Herald wrote on the livability of our farm surroundings, here in Bulloch county. When we think of the word "farm" we think of land together with the home, the barn, the family, the mules and farm equipment.

But a farm is LAND. The Lavonia Georgia Times on June 25 published an editorial written by Stiles A. Martin, Statistician of the Georgia Department of Agriculture. In this editorial Mr. Martin points a graphic and correct picture of the substantial things of earth and with the opening of the Bulloch Tobacco Market we in Bulloch should give thanks to LAND for the bountiful returns that it has made for us.

With Bulloch county leading the state in livestock production, poultry production, a leader in cotton and tobacco production we have reason to know that the LAND here is the best in the state.

Believing that there is a sermon and a parable, an essay and a lesson in Mr. Martin's words which should be read and studied and remembered by every citizen of Bulloch we print the editorial below:

"LAND is the only permanent thing in the World. All other substance decomposes and returns to the Land, thus enriching the Soil, which produces the sustenance of all life. A piece of Land an acre square today will be the same size a million years from now, while all else around it will return to dust.

Every living thing, whether it be Man, animal, fowl, fish, tree or grass owes its life to Land. Every substance on earth comes from the Soil, whether it be a house built of lumber, brick or stone, put together with nails, or mortar, and furnished with beds made of wood or metal.

Every object in every building in the world, whether it be Westminster Abbey in London, the Empire building in New York, or the State Capitol in Atlanta, comes from the Soil. Every brick, every stone, every piece of wood or other material used in the construction of every building in every city in the world come from the land. All man-made structures are only collections of material from the Soil.

The source of every flower, every piece of fabric, every sheaf of grain, every flash of electricity that lights our homes and drives our machinery, is traced to the Soil. Every blade of grass that supports animal life that gives us the horse and the mule which are used to till the Soil and the dairy cow which supplies us with milk and butter, owes its life to the Soil. Every bit of food consumed by the human race at every meal, comes from the Soil.

Stone will crumble to dust, buildings will burn to ashes, seed time and harvest come in their season, one generation passes and another follows, and only LAND remains permanent.

If you do not own any Land, acquire some and realize the feeling of security, independence and contentment that comes when you own your own home and the Land you cultivate. Then you will come to a full realization of what Sir Walter Scott meant when he said:

"Breathes there a man with soul so dead, who never to himself hath said, 'This is my own, my native land?'"

When you stand on your own Land and gaze across your fields, remember you have the most valuable of all material things. The family with Land needs never go hungry. The factory may shut down and business firms may fail and the pay roll may stop, but the man with Land can always grow something to eat.

Land is nature's greatest gift to man. Land will support us, our children, and our children's children, if we will protect and care for it.

Love of land home ownership lend to stability and permanency of citizenship. No country rises in prosperity above the level of the standard set by its farmers. As the farmer prospers, so does the city. Let the farmer stop his plow and every citizen will be hungry in a few days and will starve to death if the farmer does not feed him.

William Jennings Bryan said: "Burn down your cities and leave our farms, and your cities will spring up again as if by magic; but destroy our farms and the grass will grow in the streets of every city in the country."

Emerson said: "The first farmer was the first man, and all historic nobility rests on possession and use of the Land."

It was the Land that saved the South following the War Between the States. The same Land that had run red with the blood of its soldiers, produced food when at the end of the conflict, the Confederate soldier returned home.

It was the love of Land that caused Scarlett in "Gone With the Wind" to offer to sacrifice her honor in order to raise money to save Tara, the family home and the farm. It was the love of Home and Land that caused Olan, the wife and the other of Pearl Buck's book, "The Good Earth," to keep her husband from selling their land during the famine, even though her children were hungry.

The love of Land is part of Nature. Children prefer to go barefooted rather than wear shoes, so they may feel the warm earth ooze between their toes. Children at play, given a sand-pile and a lot of toys will turn from the toys to play in the sand and make mud pies. The man who lives on the Land starts no wars and generally lives at peace with his neighbor and the world, loves nature and reveres God, because he sees His handi-work in every blade of grass, every lightning flash, in the sun's rays by day and the moonbeams at night.

The man who tills the soil is usually a religious man, and one who is interested in the welfare of his family, his school, his church, his community, his state and his nation.

Therefore, if you own land, protect it from erosion and washing, by terracing, by rotation of crops and by keeping as much of the water as possible on the land that falls upon it. Muddy water contains silt.

Three kinds of land do not lose soil; Grassy pastures, grain fields and woodland."

By Your Roaming Reporter

MONTREAT, N. C.—Before you finish this screed . . . if you ever begin it . . . you'll think your Roaming Reporter has been down Carlierville way, imbibing at his still well, because its mostly about one of Bulloch most prolific and prosperous families—the DeLoaches, or as sometimes (and perhaps correctly) spelled, the DeLoaches. It sometimes seems as if the lines of my life have crossed more with this DeLoach bunch than with all the other folks I know. First there was John DeLoach. If I started out with an "I remember when" I'd be almost obliged to tell you, of the time when a green, gawky country lad, not long from the torrid sand dunes of Robeson county, N. C., was sent into town by his turpentine papa to grab what of higher education he could absorb under the tutelage of this same John DeLoach and cousin Ewell Brannen, when they presided with a cart load of six foot black gums switches, at the school stand which was located Jug back of where Maggie Lou Kennedy and Uncle Sonny Donaldson and family now live. Your reporter, looking like a scared rat (as usual, chimes in the room mate) there met such eminent gentlemen as the Honorable "Fate" Fowler and his brother, Frank; beloved Cecil Brannen, than whom we never had a better friend nor knew a finer gentleman, and his ranty boss-riding brother, better known as "Shrimp" (the Reverend Harvey D. to you). There, likewise, we soon made friends with Fete Mike. Altogether with the other brother, whose name escapes me at present, Walter Riley, whose father was a Methodist preacher, who, if he hasn't been hung long ago should have been for sticking pins with his big toe into the rear apartment of a speckled faced, red-headed country gawky who was too startled to yell and too much afraid to tell Uncle Ewell, and many others. None have ever become Presidential timber and none have ever been electrocuted (Mike here interrupts to ask if they had Electric Chairs when daddy was a boy, and mother quiets him with an especially cutting answer: "Rubb Mike, if they had don't you know your pa would have sat in one." These better nine-tenths can be so comforting!..!) but I do believe they have all gone into a world that needed them and in their own way made it a better habitation for those who lives they crossed . . . even George Riley, dern him!!!!

But I strayed off from the DeLoaches. Later I went to college WITH that same John, who seems to have gotten more for his money than your reporter, even if the well of knowledge was there, free to all. After John came a session with the Honorable Clayton, when he was an Ice Impresario, selling and delivering ice at a little home-made saw-dust and rough lumber ice house standing about where the rear of the Barnes Funeral Home and the back of Olliff & Smith's store would meet. Clate was putting out groceries for Olliff & Smith, and your most humble servant was his general manager and ice cutter, working just in the rear, trying to improve the financial estate of Clate (and incidentally dragging off small chunks of salary for himself). And then came a lull of college life, a few years spent in trying to show the A. B. & C. Railroad how to build a better railroad, and then a time when father J. A. decided his roaming son had done enough roaming for one lad (having been all the way to Atlanta, Athens and Anniston) and called him home, where he was destined to become a junior partner in the ancient and esteemed turpentine business. There it was we met and became a part of a family of DeLoaches that we learned to love almost as much as we did our own, A. L. or better known as "Finny" DeLoach who taught us what little we ever knew about turpentine, and whose family has always seemed especially near and dear to us. LeGrand, now a prosperous jeweler in Savannah, Clara Leck, the beautiful wife of Pat Paschall, Eugene, always one of my favorites, now Mrs. S. M. Trammell at McIntyre, and Harry, who holds a highly responsible position with Sears Roebuck & Co., officiating over all the stores in the Southern States.

About that time we noticed a country lad named DeLoach "shooting" sodas across the counter at Ellis Drug Store, who later became known from Miami to Maine (almost) whom you all know as Eugene. It was Eugene who married Annie Mae Olliff, who later bought and operated (and still does) the Keely cure at Columbia, where so many of my pals have were disappointed that Doll, J. P. & Betty Bird had gone home, taking Annie & Edna with them, but we had a great visit with Eugene & Co. We selected this country mountain road because it isn't the established route and we thought we would enjoy some real mountain road that hadn't been changed by the engineers . . . and we weren't disappointed. It was real mountain road, all right, eighteen miles as nature and the cows coming home/made it, more crooked than a black snake trail, but beautiful, lovely beyond the powers of description. About nine tenths of the roads were crooked we couldn't see the radiator of our car and spent most of the time praying we wouldn't meet some other fool coming the other way. It's a powerful strain on the one driving but the magnificent gorge, the towering peaks, the bare little huts on the hillside, the old time mountaineers you read about, make it the most worthwhile journey we have taken. The boys and their ma spent their time exclaiming at the wonders and at one special high point Mike asked Worth if we couldn't see Clito from here. Worth vowed he could mean Horace doing this evening? Worth said "I think I see him in the front yard in the swing. It's either him or Enoch Dixon." (Just a mere matter of 300 miles, if you please.)

Eugene was gracious as always, and he almost hid the key of our car and made us spend the night. (And that's a great heart because he hasn't seen those Indians & their "New and Paw eat). But its no wonder, these folks up here think Eugene is the man who hung the moon in the sky and look on him as the eighth wonder of the world. They've never known true southern hospitality. But they know it now and they like it!!!!

So yesterday afternoon we went over Sugar Loaf mountain alongside Chimney Rock, thru Hendersonville, to Saluda and returned their call. We

Among those we know, that seems to be a characteristic of the whole DeLoach family, FRIENDLESS. No matter where you meet them, no matter the circumstance, whether talking bird-love with John, trying to Cool Cawn with "Finny" or eating a sandwich with Nell & Liz at the Teapot . . . they're all friendly, and its from the heart too. No putting on the ritz with that crowd; if they like you they're going to show it, and if they don't . . . well I never knew of anyone they didn't like. They just like folks, and folks like them . . . and that's THAT.

So yesterday afternoon we went over Sugar Loaf mountain alongside Chimney Rock, thru Hendersonville, to Saluda and returned their call. We

Leon S. Tomlinson Makes Statement

In accepting the challenge of Judge P. H. Preston, Sr., to a Battle of Muldown Col. Leon S. Tomlinson makes the following statement to the press:

"What am I going to do about the Muldown challenge I received from Judge P. H. Preston, Sr.?"

"The wicked fletch when no man pursueth, but the righteous stand bold as a Lion. With that as a battle cry, I accept the challenge unflinchingly."

"Indeed, the challenge is a surprise since I have been cooking Muldowns for fifteen years without any questions being asked. In fact, several years ago when a certain high office in this section was made vacant, I had a heaving in my chest to lay my politically pure body on the altar of public sacrifice in order that the fumes thereof might entreat the gods of government to shower this section with their innumerable blessings and I adopted a platform of: abolishing all taxes and put every body on a pension, serve red breast bread, corn dodgers and Muldown three times daily on every street corner and in every Justice of the Peace Court House through this section. In fact, had I run I was going to slip a few pints of Muldown to prospective voters instead of the usual intoxicants."

"Now, I am not trying to be critical, but I wonder if my opponent has not allowed his own taste to carry him into the Stratosphere of Cullinary fine arts without a gondola to shield him from the chilling influence of impartial tasters."

However, as the one challenged, I have the right to select the weapons, place, etc. My seconds in due season will meet with his and inform him relative to weapons. The place will be the High Bluff on the Great Ogeechee river, where the stream is diverted in its course to the sea and verted in the opposite direction. The time will be as the sun starts creeping below the horizon, while the birds sing as they gather their evening meal.

"So far as disqualifying his son, as a judge of the duel, on account of relationship, I wish to state that I would even welcome his good wife as a judge, except I do not care to warp her domestic tranquility. Moreover, I believe the judges could smell the Muldown cooking and determine the quality, since a properly cooked Muldown is more delectable to a hungry man while steaming on the oak coals than the sephrys coming through orange blossoms."

"To be sure, I will be glad to give what every knowledge I have of the cookin to anyone, but I am waiting until after the duel, as I do not care to be shot with my own ammunition. "Furthermore, I have arranged with the Solicitor-General for the protection of the law, as I do not care to have my Muldown spiked with runoyer rubber keels, second hand cigars or ipeac. This last precaution was prompted yesterday. When I approached one of our prominent doctors to talk some business, he held out his hand and said: "Leon, my boy, there is no use to see me, Preston has already invited me to be present when the battle royal takes place."

"No, I am not running any preliminary hardies. I'll be ready at an instant's notice."

"Let the chips fall where they will and let the devil take the hindmost, but regardless of who wins, I am just as confident that I will not lose a single Muldown decuple, for they are as sacred as the devotees of Mahatma Gandhi."

FIFTY MILLION DOLLAR MORTGAGE CANCELED IN CLERK'S OFFICE HERE

A fifty million dollar mortgage was cancelled in the office of F. I. Williams, clerk of the Superior Court, here this week, which was by far the largest cancellation ever made here.

In January, 1911, the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company executed to the Bankers Trust Company of New York a thirty year sinking fund mortgage for fifty million dollars. This mortgage was a lien on all properties, lines, poles, etc., in 71 counties in Georgia. All outstanding bonds in connection with the mortgage were redeemed July 1, this year and the said indenture is now satisfied.

When word went out here that a fifty million dollar mortgage had been cancelled by Clerk Williams, there was much speculation on the part of the curious. Assistants in the office did not even know that such a mortgage existed and only old timers around the court house recalled the recording of the mortgage in 1911.

Regime, Regimen

In medical literature, regimen has been used in place of regimen, says Literary Digest. The preferred usage, however, is regimen, meaning "a systematic course of diet, etc., to improve or preserve health, or to attain some effect, as reduction of flesh."

"What's the matter?"
"Matter enough. Lock what this damn worm does every time I say 'back up.'"

VISITORS FETED AT LOVELY SOCIAL AFFAIR

The garden at the rear of the handsome F. W. Darby home on Zetrower Avenue was transformed into a court fit for queens on Wednesday evening, and the younger set grew definitely more social-minded as they dispersed there under vari-colored lights until a late hour. Miss Dot Darby invited about fifty of her friends to meet her attractive visitors, Miss Elizabeth Platt of Gainesville, and Miss Sara Lewis of Cartersville, Miss Sara Alice Bradley and Margaret Remington presided over the flower-encircled punch bowl. After informal introductions everybody played Bingo. Later in the evening the guests went to the recreation room over the garage and danced. Dot wore for the occasion a white marquisette featuring yards and yards of black lace. Miss Platt was demure in an old fashioned empire frack of printed tissue taffeta. Miss Lewis' frock was most distinctive, white stars gleamed on a black background, decollete bodice had white grosgrain straps while the swing skirt was finished with bands of white.

Indians Died of Starvation
Although the Indians—natives of the forests—were first-rate hunters and fishermen, they often died of starvation—even the braves, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer. This was due to their belief in living for today and letting tomorrow take care of itself. They never used their food sparingly nor did they as a rule preserve food.

Pull up a chair, have a Beechle, my hearties, and Jan will Herald you the news. We've had a matter on our boozem chest for some time that we've wanted to unload on the Gen. Ed. but for fear of dire consequences of being pinned to the horns of a dilemma an dmuch beating of Eagle wings we've hesitated to have our say, but in the words of the "Walrus," the time has come for us to talk about amny things—not a bout who stole the tart or why Okra is like it is bu why, or why, does the Heffie insist on our using yellow paper for this column, when he knows full well how yellow is the color of jaundice and how we don't look that way though there's times we faintly felt that our words were straying from the mark and weren't characterized by their usual vim, vigor, vitality & red corpulence & we thought a nice red piece of paper might make us fighting mad & show us the way to sling words around with that devil-may-care attitude instead of in a sorta lazy languorous way as we knew the yellow paper & the general temperature of the weather we making us do. Yellow is always our favorite color when it comes to handling money, but since Pres. Roosevelt decided to bury all the fine gold somewhere in the land of the Bluegrass and a take the yellow back notes out of circulation & we decided to be another writer we haven't seen any yellow money in our hands or found any in our jeans but we are yellow with jealousy when we see some of our friends come out sporting a new car or building a fine house for we have a suspicion then that they've had their hands on some of the forbidden yellow turee, but maybe, we've always been a little biased agin the color yellow after that teacher took the nice golden rods that we'd spent so much time afield apiking and instead of leaving them where they should be she up and tookem and used em for what they weren't intended and gave us such a good larrupping that we've had yellow spots before our eyes ever since that memorable day—but yesterday a sprightly young gthing with a lota S. A. passed our desk and we could hardly believe our eyes for she was dressed in a thimber than air rig-out that made us forget to notice the color was yellow & and we up and left our desk an didn't finish writing all the nasty things to the Gen. Ed. that we had in mind to say a-bout making us yellow paper, so if you see us around and about with a fixed purpose on our mind you'll know that we've seen a yellow apparition and that we're studying yella ghosts from now on—make it the progressive county for farming and that he hoped we would make it the progressive county for righteousness. W. G. Raines was elected foreman of the Grand Jury. At the last session of the Grand Jury though the effort was made to get it recommended, nothing was done about the Ellis Health Law. The July jury recommended that the county adopt and put the Ellis Health Law into practice. The recommendation in regard to gambling in the county follows: "Our attention has been called to the violation of the law by gambling and liquor selling at certain places of business in the county, of which we have started an investigation. We ask that the investigation be continued by the next Grand Jury and ask enforcement officers to make raids." The Jury also recommended that a county police be employed to help with the investigation. W. L. Harden was recommended as Notary Public and ex-officio Justice of the Peace of the 1716th District. No traverse jurymen were summoned here until Wednesday when the crimina docket was taken up by Judge Woodrum.

BULLOCH COUNTY EPWORTH LEAGUE UNION MEETS IN STATESBORO

(By Frances Hughes)

The Bulloch County Epworth League Union met Monday night with the Statesboro League in a happy gathering. After an interesting program the Statesboro young people entertained the group with a social hour during which time the ladies of the Women's Missionary Society of Statesboro served refreshments.

Prominent on the program was an address given by Miss Sadie Maude Moore, a returned missionary from Korea. In her talk, Miss Moore related in a most interesting way the manners, customs and habits of the people among whom she worked.

Rev. G. N. Rainey of Statesboro led the devotional.

B. H. Ramsey, Jr., the Union president conducted the business session, at which time the following officers were elected for the new Epworth League year:

President, Emalyn Rainey, Statesboro; vice president, Sara Helen Upchurch, Stillson; secretary, Joe Harrison, Brooklet; treasurer, Josephine Elarbee, Brooklet; press reporter, Carlton Carruth, Collegeboro.

During the recreational hour, the young people enjoyed a series of games that the representatives to the Macon assembly in June had learned, and disseminated to their group.

The Bulloch county Epworth League Union composed of Leagues from Brooklet, Stillson and Statesboro, was organized a little more than a year ago, and has been active in the fall and winter since its organization. Once each month, a happy gathering has been held at one of the three places at which time a worth while program was rendered, following by supervised recreational hours.

The next meeting will be held with the Brooklet group in August. The Statesboro League was winner of the Young People's Banner for having most present.

Black Rat Is Cunning

The black rat is as cunning as a monkey, can climb practically anything except a sheet of glass, and it is not nearly so ready to run away as is the brown. Worse still, it seems to be able to live on next to nothing. Books, paper, tea leaves and other similar materials will keep it alive, whereas the brown rat must get real food.—Pearson's London Weekly.

CANNING PLANT SCHEDULE

The canning plant at Nevils will only operate two days this week and two days next week, Tuesday and Thursday of each week. The plant will not open the week beginning with August 8th unless the supply demands it. If you have any produce to can please get it done as early as possible. If there be a necessity to have canning done during the week of August 8, please make arrangements with Mr. G. C. Avery before that time as he is planning to make a very important business trip to Athens at that time. The canning season here has been a very profitable, successful and most pleasant one. A good many more people has a greater supply of winter food stored than ever before.

READING GROUP TO HAVE MISS BELL

Miss Myrtle Lee Bell of Live Oak Florida will have charge of the "activity hour" of the reading group, Saturday afternoon. We are very fortunate in having Miss Bell with her pleasing personality, and cultured expression talents, to entertain us. We are expecting Miss Bell to be with us for at least three weeks during her stay here. Saturday we are expecting a few numbers in expression that I am sure will be interesting and most striking for the little folks. We are indeed very glad that our enrollment for the group is rapidly increasing. But still there are others that need to be with us each Saturday for we feel it is a great inspiration to better readers. Be sure to come Saturday and bring at least one new reading lover. The library will be open from 4:30 to 6:30 o'clock with the "activity hour" at 5 o'clock—be sure to be on time.

We feel it very beneficial to patrons as well as

TOBACCO SELLING

The tobacco growers are very much enthused over the selling of tobacco this year. We have a good many satisfied growers as far as prices are concerned, but there is quite a bit of interruption in the transportation of the weed to the market. Only a few truckers have qualified to do the hauling systematically. Demonstrator Strickland reported here today that more than one half of his growers had at least two or three more curings still in the field. Although he felt sure they would cut out in plenty of time for Statesboro market. He also has high hopes of the tobacco market throughout the selling season this year. He believes the farmers will continue to receive agreeable prices for the weed.

COMMUNITY CLUB
Last Tuesday night the Community Club observed their first "family night" when forty-five members with their husbands and children met at Middleground school, there being, in all, one hundred and sixty present. A bountiful supper was served at 7 o'clock after which all assembled in the auditorium, being divided into groups. Mr. Adam Deal, leader of the reds, Mr. John Cannon, the whites and Mr. Andrew Metts, the blues. The program began by the entire audience singing, Old Folks at Home and after a few remarks by the president, Col. Hudson Metts spoke briefly on the development of our community. The rest of the evening was spent in games with old and young taking part and we all will agree that time actually seemed to turn backward in its flight and make us children again at least for that night. New members for July are: Mrs. Mattie McGlamery, Millie Sue Cannon, Alice Jo Lane, Bernice Hall, Naomi Akins and Evelyn Freeman. Mrs. Amos Akins and Mrs. Pete Cannon invited us to meet with them for our next meeting.

Pastures will help build the farm income if utilized to the maximum. J. E. Hodges found that even though he had a good size herd of cattle that it was not large enough to keep his pastures grazed down. He purchased some beef blooded steers when the grazing was sufficient to support cattle and is planning to sell the steers after grazing them all this summer.

R. W. MacFarland Is Sales Supervisor On Local Market Bulloch Sees 400 Cars of Melons Go Out From Here

FOR FIRST TIME STATESBORO MARKET HAS A SALES MANAGER. MR. MACFARLAND HAS MANY YEARS EXPERIENCE IN THIS LINE. The sales supervisor on Statesboro tobacco market this season is R. W. MacFarland, a man with many years experience in the business. For the first time since the market was opened here in 1928, the Statesboro market has a sales manager or supervisor. The duties of the supervisor is to see that the warehouse men follow the recently installed system of selling, to check the houses for the correct spacing of baskets, to check the time allowed each house for sales, to act as general publicity manager for the warehouses and many other similar duties. Mr. MacFarland, whose home is in Wilson, N. C., has been in the tobacco business practically all his life. He has been sales supervisor on the Wilson, Winston-Salem, and Henderson, N. C. markets. The first publicity ever given out on the great Wilson market was handled by Mr. MacFarland. He is no novice in the business and has years of experience on some of the largest markets in the world.

NEW TOBACCO SELLING SYSTEM MEETS GROWERS HEARTY APPROVAL A NUMBER OF CIRCUIT RIDERS AND THEIR COMPANIES SEEN ON FLOORS

Buying on the tobacco market here this week has been brisk and a partial reason for this is the fact that many circuit riders have visited the market here this week. Among the circuit riders and their companies seen on the local market this week were: James Thornton of the Imperial Tobacco Company, Thomas Lee of the Export Tobacco Company, Walter Henderson of the Liggett-Myers Company, Dick Stokes of the American Tobacco Company, Vandlandingham and Whalen of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, L. B. Jenkins of the Jenkins Tobacco Company, Kimbrough of the Taylor Tobacco Company, Webb of the International Tobacco Company, and Harpington of the P. Lorillard Tobacco Company. This system not only gives each of the three houses the same number of first sales, the same number of second sales, the same number of third sales, but permits the farmer, to know, even before he leaves home, exactly the day and nearly the hour at which his tobacco will be sold at the house of his choice in Statesboro. As the warehouse floors have been lined off leaving an aisle between the rows, with the system of selling used, it places Statesboro in a class with all the major markets of the bright leaf belt of the world, regardless of the location. Naturally some days on account of light sales all three houses will sell, but regardless of this the sales next morning will revert to the sales card.

WORK IS BEING PUSHED ON ALL PAVING PROJECTS IN STATESBORO

WORK STARTED ON SIDEWALKS ON SOUTH MAIN STREET. IT IS HOPED THAT GRADY ST. WILL BE FINISHED IN TIME FOR SCHOOL OPENING. Work is being pushed on the Vine street paving here with the hope that the street will be opened before the cotton marketing season arrives. The Grady street project is expected to be completed by the middle of September. Rains have delayed work on the Vine street paving but the top soil has been prepared and the street is ready for the paving to be poured. The Vine street project runs from the postoffice on South Main three blocks to Railroad street. The Grady street project from South Main to the High School building has required much time. Curb had to be placed and much excavation done before the top soil could be placed. Though Mayor J. L. Renfro is of the opinion that the street will not be ready by the time school opens this fall, it is hoped the street will be opened to traffic before the end of September. Work has also been started on sidewalks on the western side of South Main from Grady street to the business section. On the eastern side of South Main, which is already paved, new driveways will be constructed. On North Main sidewalks will be put down on both sides of the street from the Brooks Hotel to the Columns Tea Room on the western side and from the S. W. Lewis garage to the Baptist Church on the eastern side of the street. Mayor Renfro stated that the city also hopes to do some alley paving when these projects are completed. Herald's Tennis Tournney Date To Be On August 16

FIRST TOURNAMENT EVER HELD IN STATESBORO FOR THE YOUNG TENNIS FANS. HANDSOME TROPHIES ARE BEING OFFERED. As was announced in last weeks issue of the Herald the tennis tournament which was scheduled to take place on August 2 is postponed to August 16. The reason for this was the fact that the trophy for the winner of the boys singles division of the tournament has not been received. Quite a bit of enthusiasm is being raised over this tournament and if their is a larger number of boys to enter this tournament, the boys division will be divided up into two different ages and prizes will be given to the winners of each division. The Herald hopes that there will be a sufficient number so that this might be in order to give the younger boys a better chance, so far as winning a prize is concerned. The girls division will not be split up into different age limits. The girls seemed to be more interested in this tournament than the boys since more girl's entry blanks have been received than boy's entries. Everyone is looking forward to a big exciting time and the Herald sincerely wishes that everyone that can even swing a racket will enter this tournament, for we assure a big time. This is the first tennis tournament that has ever been held for the
