Current Development Of Paper Industry Is Of Great Interest To Timber Owners

Tremendous Volume of Wood-Pulp Needed Is Important Economically

Of great interest to the timber owners in Georgia is the current development of the pine and paper industry. There are now seven mills actually in operation or definitely planned for operation in Georgia and Florida.

These seven mills when operating at capacity will require 1,265,000 cords of wood per year. On most of the pine forest lands within the state an annual growth of one cord per Pulpwood being transported from the woods by truck. Pulpwood bled by rail. It is shipped in cars of 10 or 15 ft. long and must be 4 inches cords each at varying rates for or over in diameter at the small end. (Courtesy of U. S. Forest Service.)

acre per year may be expected under intensive forest management. Where forest fires occur or where forest management, including thinning, is not now practiced, the annual growth per acre is considerably much less and may be as low as .3 to .4 cords per acre per year.

Assuming an annual growth of .5 cord per acre per year, the above figures mean that the seven pulp mills would use each year the growth on 2,530,000 acres. Inasmuch as these mills will procure their pulp from Florida or South Carolina as well as Georgia it is probably more correct to state that the annual growth on approximately 1,250,000 will come from Georgia. This does not mean that this area will be cut clear every year, but that an amount of wood equal to that which has grown on the area over a period of one year will be cut. The above figures represent 4 percent of the forest lands of Georgia.

Important Financially The economic importance of this tremendous volume of wood can be approximated by applying the figure of $1.00 per cord as the valuation of pulpwood. This figure was recently established by the U. S. Forest Service as a minimum price for pulpwood stumpage in timber sales on National Forest land. This means an income of approximately $1,250,000 per year to the timber owners of Georgia.

At the present time no news printing is made from southern pines, but authorities agree that it is only a matter of time before such will happen. Although only longleaf and slash pines are useful for the naval stores industry, all of Georgia's six commercially important pines are suitable for pulpwood.

The Division of Forestry does not advocate, as a general practice, clear cutting stands for pulpwood, but recommends the use of thinning, work out turpentine trees, poorly farmed trees and trees of undesirable species. Thinning not only brings an income, but, if handled properly, benefits the forest—hence their importance in One way of making profitable fields beautiful is to plant the pecan groves in crotalaria. Mrs. Homer Simmons has her entire grove in full blossom now and expects this field of beauty to turn into a profitable pecan crop in 1938.

If pastures have to be brought along with increased livestock production P. F. Groover should continue to have good whiteface cattle and be able to keep marketing top hogs at about 6 to 8 months of age on his carpet grass and lespedeza pastures.

Robbie Belcher says it is profitable to push hogs with soybeans, oats, early corn and peanuts. While thinking over the cost of the recent ton lotters he sold at the show he brought out that he had other hogs that were farrowed about the same time this little was but he did not care for them as closely. This group of stuff weighed about 100 to 125 pounds and had consumed about as much feed as the prize winners—which meant that they were going to cost him about as much again as the prize winners to finish out. He cleared more than $140 on the 10 head entered in the show.

Uncle Jim Sags I find livestock on legume hay and pasture make cheaper gains and sell for more because of their extra quality.

With exception of a six-year period, 1916 through 1921, when extraordinary influences served to increase Georgia's corn acreage, the state this year is harvesting the largest corn crop in its history.

The influences that gave Georgia six straight years with a corn crop in excess of this year's indicated yield of 49,428,000 bushels were the first World War and next the "boll weevil."

Georgia farmers responded generously to the cry that "Food Will Win the War," and incidentally to the high wartime prices for corn. They produced bumper crop years in 1916, 1917, 1918, and, because of post-war demand, in 1919. In 1920 and 1921 the boll weevil began coming to Georgia on a large scale.

Farmers, discouraged at early efforts to control the weevil, turned from cotton to corn. As methods of fighting the weevil were developed, the corn acreage dropped and the cotton acreage went back to normal—and above.

The average per acre yield of corn in Georgia is not going to bring about 100 bushels per acre. For the last 10 years, the yield per acre has averaged about 9 1/2 bushels.

This year, however, with a good growing season, coupled with more corn following legumes because of the Triple A program, the average yield is expected to be about 12 bushels to the acre. It's that increase in the yield per acre that is giving Georgia a great corn crop.

Speaking of bumper crops, Georgia's indicated crop this year of 7,998,000 bushels is the largest since 1922.

will be given for the books to be bought. Mr. Ellis urges every one to bring or send the books to be sold on this day without fail.

Free school books will be furnished all pupils and it is very necessary for the pupils to enroll on the first day of school so that the number of books that will be needed can be determined. These books will have to be ordered from the State Department of Education.

Mr. Ellis announces the faculty as follows: Miss Mary Gray, first grade; Miss Cecile Brannen, second grade; Mrs. W. Louis Ellis, third grade; Mrs. Paul N. Smith, fourth grade; Miss Frances Lee, fifth grade; Mrs. Alvin Anderson, sixth grade; Miss Ollie Mae Jernigan, seventh grade and high school English; Mr. Robert A. Wynn, principal and high school science and mathematics; Mr. Guy T. Gard, vocation agriculture; Mrs. Guy T. Gard home economics.

Mr. Louis extends an invitation to all parents and friends of West Side School to attend the opening day in order that the school may get off to another successful school year and with the same good cooperation through the school year.

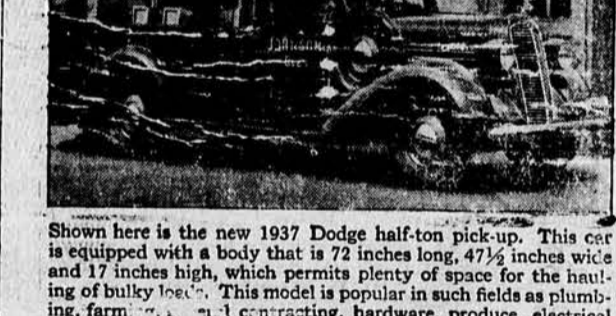

R. E. A. PROGRAM (Continued from Front Page) organization buys current at wholesale prices and retails it to the consumers. The difference in the wholesale price and the retail price is where the borrowed money will be repaid from.

Mr. Norris is further pointed out that the committee working on the project does not wish to interfere with a farmer getting satisfactory current from any other source.

A large portion of Bulloch county is now served by electric current. The immediate section around Statesboro is served, Brooklet, Port, Register, Leaffield and Nevis communities are also receiving current.

The only other matter discussed at this meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was the meeting to be held in Herty today at which time Dr. Charles Herty will address farmers of this section. It is believed a large delegation will attend from Bulloch county.

Mr. Wm. B. Parrish, Special Agent in Charge of the Department of Commerce, Bureau of Census reports, that there were 12,484 bales of cotton ginned in Bulloch county from the crop of 1937 prior to September 16 as compared with 15,798 bales ginned to September 16, crop of 1936.

According to an official report released by the crop reporting board of agriculture in Athens, a probable production of 1,321,000 bales of cotton of 500 pounds each is indicated for Georgia this year. Opinions vary as to the probable production for Bulloch county. Estimates ranging from 19,000 to 24,000 bales have been made.

Burton Ferry Route To Go Through Business Section

ALONG NORTH AND SOUTH MAIN STREETS AND PARRISH STREET

LOCATION DESIGNATED IN LETTER FROM DIVISION ENGINEER E. A. LOGAN TO LOCATING ENGINEER R. P. NORRIS DATED SEPTEMBER 21.

According to a statement made here this week by Mr. R. P. Norris, Locating Engineer, the Burton Ferry route will run through the heart of the Statesboro business section.

The announcement was made upon the receipt of a letter dated September 21, from Mr. E. A. Logan, Highway Division Engineer of the sixth division, Savannah, to Mr. Norris. The letter stated that the highway department had decided to adopt the location of the route through what is known as the Burton Ferry Street, North Main Street and East Parrish Street.

This decision comes after a considerable investigation of the two proposed routes for the highway, the other being along Zetterover Avenue.

On August 24, State Engineer Vermer visited Statesboro and Bulloch county to investigate the location of the Burton Ferry route through the city. At that time he studied both the proposed routes but withheld a statement as to which would be selected. While he was here it was learned that the Screven county commissioners were expecting to close a contract with the State Highway Department to build the fills and approaches at the Briar Creek bridge site. The contract for the Savannah river bridge has already been let and work is now under way.

Mr. Norris stated that the state will use practically the same location as the one laid out by a survey in 1928. He stated that most of the right-of-way has been secured to the Ogeechee river, except a few places in the river swamp.

All the field work has been completed to the river except for a small section which has been held up because of high water. It is expected that this will be completed in the near future. All the plans are about complete.

The Bulloch section of the Burton Ferry route from Sylvania to Statesboro has been completed and will require very little additional work. The contract for the bridge over the Ogeechee river has not been let. It was learned that the route will cross the river at Dover about 400 feet below the present bridge.

Mr. Dr. Miriam Foy Waters of Savannah is visiting B. H. Ramsey and relatives in Statesboro this week.

Dr. H. H. London, head of the Division of Arts at the Teacher College has tendered his resignation to President Marvin S. Pittman, to accept the directorship of Trades and Industries in the state of Mississippi.

Dr. London came to the college two years ago. He has become well known over the state in his field and his demonstration of the set-up of a general shop in Savannah last spring attracted much attention. His duties in Mississippi will be two-fold, as director of Trades and Industries and Professor of Industrial education at Mississippi State College.

President Pittman announced today that Kenneth Brown, who has been a teaching fellow at Ohio State University, has been added in the department.

Wednesday, plans for lighting the football on the Municipal Grounds were submitted to Mr. C. E. Wollett, superintendent of the Statesboro High school. The plans were drawn and submitted by engineers of the Georgia Power Company and are based on the lighting systems generally adopted by high school grounds.

Feeling the need of a lighted field so that a greater number of the people of Statesboro might attend the games of the Blue Devils, a request was made of the Georgia Power Co. to furnish an estimate of the cost. According to the plans submitted the cost will run approximately $2,400. The blue print calls for forty reflectors carrying 1,600 watt bulbs to total 60,000 watts. These lights would be mounted on 11 poles approximately fifty feet above the field. The poles would have four reflectors each and the other would have two lights each. The poles would be set about 18 feet from the side lines on each side of the field and about 70 feet apart.

HARVIN MULKEY AT ROTARY ON WINNING $400 ESSAY PRIZE

TEACHERS COLLEGE STUDENT WINS $400 PRIZE IN ESSAY CONTEST HELD BY AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION; TALKS TO ROTARIANS.

At its regular Monday luncheon meeting this week the Rotary Club heard Marvin Mulkey, the winner of the $400 offered by the American Bar Association for the best essay on the Constitution.

Mr. Mulkey is a senior at the Teachers College and is the senior class representative on the student council. His home is in Pompano, Fla. Last year he was the president of the junior class. He is majoring in social science.

In addressing the Rotarians Mr. Mulkey described his writing the essay. It contained 4,000 words and was mailed to the contest directors in the fourth quarter of 1936. He was notified by telegram last week that he had won the first prize of $400. The contest was announced and was opened last December. It was open to all students at teachers colleges in the United States. The subject on which the essay had to be written was "How and to What Extent the Rights and Liberties of the Individual are Protected Under the Constitution."

When Mr. Mulkey decided to enter the contest, he stated that he worked continuously on the subject. He began by reading all the available information he could secure on the subject. He remained out of school for a period working on it and finished the final manuscript just before April 1. He read excerpts of his essay before the club.

Blue Devils Defeat Vidalia First Time In Seven Years

Barnes Scores After Pass Puts Ball In Scoring Position

THE TEAM LACKS THE FINISH THAT LAST YEAR'S BLUE DEVILS HAD; COACH JOHNSON SAYS THAT TIME WILL HELP TEAM.

For the first time in seven years the Statesboro Blue Devils defeated the Vidalia High Indians, in Vidalia, last Friday to the tune of 7-0. It was the first time in three years that the extra point and field goal game being featured with a full page advertisement. This proves to us that the merchants are expressing a willingness to support high school athletics.

The team spirit this year, we believe is such that the people of Statesboro might well be proud of their accomplishments as a result of the support behind them.

Our goal is a football championship at the close of this present season. Your support by your presence at all home games can help make this possible.

LIVESTOCK SUPPLY AND DEMAND POINTS TO GOOD CONDITION

PRICE OUTLOOK FOR 1938 VERY GOOD; COUNTY AGENT DYER POINTS OUT TOTAL POUNDS OF HOGS FOR COMING YEAR WILL BE SMALLER.

From the supply side the price outlook for hogs is very favorable for 1938. County Agent Byron Dyer points out. Total pounds of hogs marketed during the marketing year which begins October 1 will probably be somewhat smaller than in the preceding marketing year. From the demand side, everything points toward a situation in early 1938 somewhat more favorable than in early 1937.

Indications are that there will be a tendency for farmers to hold back spring pigs for finishing on new corn and fattening to heavier than average weights. This delay in marketing will hold many hogs off the fall and early winter market.

With hog production on the up-trend, marketings during the next year will be reduced in order to provide plenty of breeding stock. The immediate effect of farmers' plans to increase pig production next spring is a holding back of breeding stock which would ordinarily be marketed now.

Some of the larger packers now in Georgia have predicted to the farm agent, unofficially, that the bulk of the present hog crop would sell as cheap as in the past marketing season. Indications are they do not expect hogs to drop below $8 per hundred at no time during the heavy movement. With the establishment of packing plants in Georgia by all the larger packing firms the usually congested condition in January and February may be relieved.

THE GREATER GOOD FOR THE GREATER NUMBER

With the announcement that the Burton Ferry Route will run through the heart of the business section of the city of States-boro there should be much rejoicing.

There can be no doubt of the benefit to be derived from a Federal highway through the business section of a city the size of States-boro; with no large weekly payroll . . . where the income of the residents of the county is of a seasonal nature and upon which the life-blood of Statesboro depends. Tobacco in the summer, cotton in the fall, livestock, to a certain extent, seasonal, and other crops that require seasons before they can be realized as cash.

In talking with a great number of the city's leading businessmen we learned that the general opinion, before the announcement of the location of this route, was if the route were to be located through a resident section it would set back an already thriving and established business section and degrade a present beautiful residential section.

In studying the two proposed routes, several of those interested in the welfare of the community, with the idea of the greater good for the greater number, had in their possession figures taken from a survey of a city smaller than Statesboro showing the contract of business before and after the action of a federal highway through the business section of that city. These figures revealed an amazing condition. According to a survey made in Walterboro, S. C., the figures being furnished by a former resident of Statesboro who is now living and has a business in that city, before the highway came through that city, it was just another small town. A federal highway skirted the town about 600 yards. The city realized no benefit to any appreciable extent from the traffic on that highway.

Then, three years ago a federal split the business section of Walterboro wide open.
Today there are five new hotels there. The former resident of Statesboro has increased the size of his business three times to meet the demands on it. It is estimated that an average of 500 people spend the night there in the seven hotels and, the tourist homes. It is further estimated that these 500 people spend an average of $3.00 each.
Which, according to simple arithmetic, comes to 1,500 per day. It is learned that these figures are conservative estimates.

It is evident, the good that will be the result of the Burton Ferry route coming through the business section of the city.
Every business in Statesboro will benefit. It is true that a tourist spends his money for restricted purposes; gasoline, oil, soft drinks, hotel and meals. But it can easily be seen that the money spent thus will soon thus find itself filtering into the hands of the grocer, the druggist, the jeweler, the hardware store and all the others, just as a weekly payroll might.

With the announcement of the location of the route there is no indication as to when it may be finished. It is hoped that it will be soon. With the progress that has been made it will not do to let any slip occur to hold up its finish. Every business should consider it his duty to see that proper interest is manifested to assure its completion.

AND NOW FOOTBALL

This afternoon our Blue Devils meet the football aggregation of our neighbor, Claxton. Half of Claxton will be here with colors flying, enthusiastic in the behalf of that they will return home with the horns of the Blue Devils. They will bring about twenty youths, of which eleven will take their stand on the gridiron to eagerly and anxiously await the sound of the referee's signal and with that signal they will rush toward our eleven Blue Devils each with the sole purpose of out footing the other for the possession of that football in the attempt to build the larger score.

They will furnish several hundred men, and ladies too, of this city and Claxton with an outlet for pent up feelings. We will shout and jump up and down with each rush with the ball. And at the end of the game we will be weak from expended energy, twenty youth will be filled with the glories of victory.
The football seasons opens in States-boro.

A COMMUNITY RESPONSIBILITY

Every community, rural or urban, large or small, has children in need of some kind of special care. Every community should be able to give the kinds of services needed.
There are children in Bulloch county whose homes have been broken up by death, sickness, or by other causes. There are children in our community who are mistreated or neglected. There are the physically and mentally handicapped. There are delinquent children and those in danger of becoming delinquent.

Child-welfare services for all these children in need of special care have been built up through years of experience. It has been found that studying each individual child and his needs and then making a plan especially to meet these needs is the best way to insure the child's normal, happy growth.
This is called social case work, and in the best child-welfare agencies it is done only by persons trained to deal with problems involving human values.

In Bulloch county there are nearly twenty cases being taken care of by a child-welfare council working with Miss Lois Henderson, the local welfare-worker who works in Bulloch, Emanuel, Screven and Jenkins counties.

Miss Henderson, with the council, receives reports of children in need of special care.
Upon close and complete investigation, each case reported is handled according to that child's need. Homes are found for dependent children, care, treatment and education is provided for children who are blind, deaf, crippled, or otherwise physically handicapped. Local physicians hold clinics and it is learned, often provide medicines, and other necessities where the parents of these children are unable to furnish them. The county furnishes some funds in the care of these children. Proceeds from the President's Balls help the community in this work.

The provision of social services for dependent, neglected, handicapped, and delinquent children is a public responsibility.
The community should see that public funds are made available to keep and help social workers who are trained to give the necessary social services for children.

OCTOBER

October has come again . . . Autumn in all its glory . . . warmth by day, a golden warmth and haze in the afternoon, but just a hint of the breath of frost.

Our October is different from October in other lands. In Maine, the frost comes sharp and quick as driven nails, the bright leaves flare up; the maples turn a blazing red, and other leaves turn yellow. In Virginia the chinkapins are falling. And the mountaineer goes hunting up in North Carolina, he stays out late with mournful fop-eared hounds, a wisp of a moon comes up across the lit of the hills.

There is the smell of burning leaves in our town in the afternoons, children shilloetted against blazing sycamore leaf fires, snapping and crackling like whips, sharp acid smoke stinging their eyes. Our roadsides are lit with all the autumn blaze of golden-red.

Summer is dead and gone. The sun flames red as it sets, great shadows lengthen in the fields. Who is there who, at this season, does not feel his mind impressed with a sentiment of melancholy? The leaves falling like our years, we sensing the analogy in our own lives.

"All ashore that's going ashore!" And the uninformed sailors try to hurry the visitors off the boat, because we are about to sail. I take my stand close to the gang plank in order not to miss anything, and also because my friends, who are down to see me off, want me to stay in that particular place so they can spot me for the customary farewell wave. Hence I have a full view of the varied leave-takings.

One fellow waits patiently because he is having to leave his father, or, also his mother is trying to console him by saying: "Daddy will be back in a minute, he's only gone to get a cigarette," but boy-like, he is not to be comforted by this flimsy excuse. There are parting scenes between husbands and wives, fathers and daughters . . . many tender farewells to the gaily plumed, tear-stained eyes are not confined entirely to the feminine sex.

But not all the scenes are sorrowful, there is much merriment among a certain group of Scotch passengers on deck as the highland fling, whiskey bottles, and Annie Laurie are all mixed with hearty shouts of laughter. And the Caledonia's bagpipe band (or is it an orchestra) stays ashore until the last minute, doing its best to make merry, its players gaily bedecked in their kilts of loud colored plaids and blowing themselves red in the face as if to get the noise of the pipes out of those queer looking instruments.

By the way, I can't refrain from stepping to comment on the bagpipes. I had seen and heard them before, but never to the extent that I did on this trip, for this was a Scotch boat, and naturally bagpipes were the mainstay of the day. I've never tried harder to do anything than I tried to appreciate those bagpipes.
Each time they played I decided to forget how amused I had formerly been at hearing them, and I'd start out by putting on the straightest, most serious face that I was capable of producing. For I knew that the Scotch take their bagpipe seriously, so why shouldn't I? But I failed miserably. Invariably, before before the yhad played more than five minutes, I was disgracing myself laughing. The music (or is it a noise) is very odd, with one base-note staying the same all the time, like a stuck key on an old piano, while the other notes run up and down in a most rollicking tune. And the same little tune keeps up indefinitely—over and over they play it, until you begin to wonder if the piper doesn't know anything else.

The players finally came aboard and marched around the boat, playing. I maintained my stand on deck, so that my friends on shore could find me, as we pulled out among many shouts from the boat and the shore from friends to friends. Paper ribbons strung from friends on deck to friends on shore finally broke. I spotted, my friends at the end of the pier, where they said they would be,
and we all joined the waving brigade. To make certain they would recognize me I got out a huge peasant's bandana I had received as a parting gift and waved it frantically. The waving of the bandana as we gradually glided out of sight of the pier gave me the empty feeling in the throat that one is supposed to have,
I believe.

It was rather thrilling seeing the Statue of Liberty and straining our eyes for a last glimpse of her as we left the harbor. I had entirely forgotten that she was pale green in color. When she had finally faded from sight and we could no longer see our native land, it did give us a little queerish feeling, and the next night at dinner with the fog horn blowing at regular one minute intervals, when they asked us to stand and sing:
"O hear us as we cry to THEE, For those in peril on the sea" we couldn't help but wonder a bit.
Nevertheless the trip was a lovely one, even if we did have to heave to (or "stop" to we landlubbers) for five hours one night when we got up in the iceberg regions, and the heavy fog made travel dangerous.

Since we were having to constantly rush up our watches to catch up at the five hours difference between our New York time and that of London, I found it hard to get to bed early. One night, some six or seven days out, we happened to walk out on deck about 11:30 and you can imagine our amazement when we saw that there was no moon and it was light . . . almost light enough to read by. Extending half way around the horizon were patches of pink light, like the reflection of a beautiful sunset. Someone said it was the Aurora Borealis, sometime called "northern lights," and we were far enough north to see it, but some
"kill-joy" said it wasn't anything but
"kill-joy" said it wasn't anything but purposely haven't checked on the scientific end of the question yet for I fear I'd find out it WASN'T the Aurora. Since early childhood I've longed to see the Aurora, and I no matter what some smart guy said, I wasn't going to be cheated out of my illusion (if it was an illusion) that I had come thousands of miles to see AND I SAW THE AURORA BORE-ALIS, believe it or not.
I was very much interested in the foods on the boat that were new to me, and made it a point to order some with each meal, choosing the ones whose names were the oddest.
Whortleberry pie sounded simply gorgeous, and it proved to be delicious, but after all it is at least a first cousin to our own Georgia huckleberry. Kipper Herrig I can't recommend; it is raw fish pickled and is entirely too smooth to let one forget that it is raw. Scotch scones are sweetish bits of bread with raisins, and haggis, the national dish of Scotland, is much like the English black or blood pudding, and a little like our own liver pudding, the not so good. It is perfectly black and as well as I could tell by the tiny bit I tasted, it made of ground silver, some kind of cereal, some queer tasting spices and no salt at all. The dish is highly prized by the Scotch and is served only upon special occasions, such as Bobbie Burns' birthday, and must be accompanied by bagpipe music. Haggis appeared on our menu again for our farewell dinner, and the smiling, fat chef brought in the pudding shaped like a football and decorated with a small ship. Around the entire dining room he marched, trailed by the marching bagpipe players blowing with unusual vigor and volume.
At the end of about nine and a half days we caught sight of the coast of Ireland and it looked as green and lovely as we had been taught it would. The grass seemed to grow right down to the water's edge and there, in the far distance we could distinguish what appeared to be a speeding train, judging from the trail of black smoke it left.
Away in the distance we could see what seemed to be a city—which proved to be Belfast. Our boat stopped while two small tenders pulled alongside and took off the passengers for Belfast, this being about noon.
About five or six o'clock we came close to the Scottish coast and headed up the Clyde river, where perhaps the largest shipyards in the world are located. We were shown the docks where the Queen Mary was built and her sister ship (which is called King George?) is now under construction. How those rusty looking steel skeletons can ever become ships is a mystery. And about seven o'clock we docked at Glasgow, and our quiet landing was quite a contrast to the hullabaloo at our take-ing off for Belfast.

AT THE CHURCHES

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
C. M. COALSON, Minister Recently I read in one of our denominational papers this quotation from a lawyer who was skeptical in his views:
"If I believed, as you do, that the masses of our race were perishing in sin, I could have no rest. I would fly to tell them of salvation. I would labor day and night. I would speak it with all the pathos I could summon. I would warn and expostulate and entreat my fellowmen to turn unto Christ and receive salvation at his hands. I am a manstained as the manner in which the majority of you ministers tell your message. Why do you not act as if you believed your own words? You have not the earnestness in preaching that we lawyers have in pleading. If we were asleep as you are, we would never carry a single point."

Can you read those words without shame? Shame that we are so tame and listless in our work for the salvation of men?
No, I am not in the mood to make an indictment today—not today—I want to make an appeal. Let's not take the charge of this skeptic lying down. Do you believe it is as necessary to win the lost to Christ as it is to make a living? Is it not as needful for us to win our case with the lost as it is for lawyers in our congregation to win their cases before the courts?
Come Sunday morning prepared to raise questions in your own minds about the above theme. Do not be like the man who, when the lecturer at the close of his lecture enquired if anyone had a question to ask, sleepily said, "Yes, what time is it?" Subject: Sunday evening: "Purifying Hope."

METHODIST CHURCH
G. N. RAINEY, Pastor Rally Day in the Church School next Sunday. To stimulate attendance and interest in the work of the Church School all classes and departments are working for a record-breaking attendance. Every regular member of the Church School is urged to be present. Those who have not been in the habit of going at all are cordially invited. There will be a special program in the church auditorium at 10:15 a. m. under the direction of Mrs. Jesse Johnston, before the classes assemble.
11:30 a. m. The worship program and message by the pastor.

Theme: Jesus Legacy to the World His Peace. Jesus had the idea of the material things of the world to bequeath to those whom He left as His disciple. Jesus committed His mother to the care of John, the beloved disciple. His task of evangelizing the world He left to the disciples. His garments went to the soldiers who scruffed (Herb, Joseph of Arimathea claimed His body but His Peace He left to the world—to his children.
"Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, give I unto you."

Following this brief meditation by the pastor the Holy Communion will be administered.
S. p. m. The evening service will begin. The pastor has chosen for a theme: The Goals of Life. Have you ever asked yourself why you behave as you do, why you try to be religious, why you try to serve unselfishly? In other words, what is the motive which actuated your behavior? It is necessity, selfishness or love? Come to the evening service and think with us on this important theme.

did the Scotch people think of Edward (& Wally)? Well they were "thumbs-down" one and all, and said they were thankful that Wally came along and gave them a chance to get rid of him. We tried in vain to find someone on the other side of the fence, not only among them, but among some English people we met later. But all we met were of the same opinion, and seemed exceedingly pleased with their present king.

After a night aboard the Caledonia in harbor, the morning brought our guide with a large bus, gaily upholstered in Scotch plaid to take us on a tour of the Trossacks.
(Are you listening? Next week, we are going thru the Trossacks with Lilla's party, and you've got a real Scotch invitation to join us.
And then on with them, as they tour other interesting places in the land from which our forefathers came. Our invitation to Lilla was to write us anything of interest she saw or heard on the trip, and from this first installment it is apparent that these gals are really going to take us gallivanting.)

MISS NINA BELLE HOWARD BECOMES BRIDE OF JAMES MARSHALL AULD IN QUIET HOME CEREMONY

An early fall wedding characterized by beauty and simplicity was that of Miss Nina Belle Howard and James Marshall Auld, which was solemnized Friday morning, October 1, at the home of the bride's parents on Zetterover avenue...

Before the ceremony Mrs. Waldo Floyd accompanied by Mrs. W. M. Phillips sang "I Love You Truly" and "At Dawning". The vows were taken in the living room before an improvised altar banked with ferns and smilax.

Those cryptic signs on telegraph poles used by circus folks to route their trucks in and out of town are always thrilling to me, and I like to see the big tent go up. But quite eclipsing the circus trucks was the big moving van from Baltimore which brought Maude Edge's household effects to her home on Zetterover avenue. Despite its size it was a revelation to see the enormous amount of furniture disgorged from the innards of one van. I couldn't help thinking of the wooden horse in the siege of Troy from the viewpoint of its capacity. Mrs. Edge's little dog rode down on the truck. The dog's name we understand is "Beer Keg." However, Mrs. Edge insists that one of the children gave the innocent animal his unusual cognomen.

Addressed to men only: You need not worry about your wives getting too modern. They're not a bit different from that Victorian woman who swooned at the sight of a mouse. A group of women trying to be modern had a committee meeting one night this week and left the men at home to put the babies to bed. Business was sidetracked and the talk meandered on to sorter scary yarns and half the women there telephoned their husbands to stay awake until they got there, they were scared. If you want to check up on this you might consult an unusually gorgeous woman at the tea last Wednesday afternoon at Mrs. L. T. Shuman's. I wasn't at all surprised to learn that Miss Inez Williams grew it. I thought those dahlias Sally Mount brought from North Georgia were the largest I'd ever seen, but Miss Inez has proved that South Georgia can produce dahlias that are equally as lovely as those grown any place. And while I'm mentioning the tea, I must tell you how lovely Nina Belle was that afternoon. Her dress, a lustrous blue satin, enhanced her brunette loveliness, and the musician's maid tribute to her fresh young beauty by the use of that popular melody of several months ago entitled "Beautiful Lady in Blue."

Why are all our young businessmen going around humming "Indian Love Call" and "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise"? Men that have never before sung the Duxology or trying out for the choir.

Along comes Aunt Kitty and tells Lavinia that she hasn't enough color in her house, and down come drapes that were drab and up go drapes that are colorful and the results that Aunt Kitty knew what she was talking about. Personally I thought Lavinia had lots of color already, for when my coffee was served in a tangerine cup on a blue saucer and I ate from a flamingo plate, I began to look for the pot of gold. Any way her home is modern and attractive and what is more it exudes friendliness which is the highest praise I can hand any house.

W. L. I read the article in the magazine section of the Atlanta Journal several Sundays ago about Theodore Roosevelt Willis and his ability to help him fittingly observe his second birthday. Some day they can see just what a two year old wore to a party in the year 1937 for Glenn's mother made kodak pictures of the group. She also gave whistles to all the guests.

After a few plays and games they gathered around the beautifully decorated cake and watched while the young host blew out the two candles. The little folks were served ice cream and cookies.

HOSPITAL NEWS

The Bulloch County Hospital is definitely fulfilling its purpose. Not only is it serving our own county, but people in many nearby towns are beginning to realize the superior facilities and modern equipment offered in our County Hospital and they are patronizing it in a way that is gratifying. Miss Naomi Zetterover, the new superintendent, and her secretary, Miss Emma Collier, are both courteous and competent and they are making friends for themselves and the institution. Leroy Driggers of Claxton is recuperating.

T. Lanier Jr., and baby, are occupying a room filled with flowers and friends. Enoch Griner of Claxton was admitted this week.

Miss N. Turner, daughter of W. M. Turner of Statesboro is doing nicely after an operation.

T. E. Howard, an operative patient, is recovering rapidly. Miss Roberta Baxter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Baxter of Statesboro, is much improved after an operation.

Mrs. Rex Hodges, who lives on Jones avenue, continues to improve. Mrs. Buck Overstreet of Pembroke is doing nicely after an operation. Aubrey Casson of Statesboro, Rt. Four, was operated on and is now much improved.

Mrs. G. W. Williams of Register, an operative patient, is improving rapidly. Mrs. George Kelley and little Kitty, are greeting callers.

Little Sue Simmons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Simmons, had a tonsillectomy Tuesday.

NEVILS NEWS

BY MISS MAUDE WHITE

Nevils School News
The Nevils High school has now been running for three weeks. The enrollment is still good, several of the classrooms in the grammar grade department, are in an overcrowded condition, although some very nice work is being carried on.

FARMERS MEETING AT NEVILS

Mrs. G. C. Avery the vocational teacher here is conducting a series of farmers meetings at Nevils. Last Thursday night Prof. Duncan of the Rural Education Department of the University of Georgia met with Mr. Avery and his group. They had a good attendance of farmers at the Tuesday night meeting. There will be at least two other meetings, on the dates announced at the group meeting and to the student body.

SPECIAL PLANS TO VISIT MORE HOMES

Special plans are being made by Supt. Britt and his entire faculty to visit more homes and become better acquainted with the community life and in this way be more able to help the child in an understanding way.

NEW BOOKS BEING ENJOYED

The children are enjoying their new books so much, and most classes are almost permanently regulated. Mr. Turner with his crew of hands are now working on the new water system here. An electric pump is being installed to furnish running water.

SUPERVISED LUNCHEONS

The health problem is being observed here. Supervised lunches and bathing the hands in a systematic way are two features greatly adhered to. We are hoping to have some new playground equipment within the next few days.

Intensive cultivation of cotton pays even in bad cotton seasons according to the demonstration conducted this year by W. A. Blackburn. Mr. Blackburn produced 2380 pounds of seed cotton which ginned 425 pounds of lint from one acre that he used 500 pounds of an 8-4-8 fertilizer and side dressed with 100 pounds of sulphate of ammonia.

Wallace Suggests Measures for Safety

The need of adequate inspection and safeguards against farm fire and explosion in rural schools was emphasized by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace this week in urging observance of National Fire Prevention Week, which begins October third.

Last year about 3500 people lost their lives in farm fires. The property loss was approximately $100,000,000. This does not include the fire loss in the non-farming rural communities—villages, towns and cities of less than 25000 population—which is estimated at $125,000,000.

"The traffic explosion last March in a Texas consolidated school which killed 300 children and teachers reveal the shocking fact," said the Secretary, "that but few states make any provisions for inspecting rural schools against fire, explosion, and faulty construction." He urged that steps be taken to protect rural school children with the same strict safety laws that apply in the cities.

The trip for the boys was made possible by County Agent P. H. Ward and interested Thomas county citizens whose trucks were the means of transportation. A local packing company also helped out and a local cheese company furnished lunch for the crowd.

"This is your Experiment station," Doctor Starr said in welcoming the visitors. "It doesn't belong to us. It belongs to the people of Georgia. We are just here running it for them. We are always glad to have visitors and wish that more groups of farm youths could arrange to visit the station."

Road to Contentment Learning to enjoy thoroughly that which you have is the quickest road to contentment.

There, as guests of Director S. H. Starr, they saw the pasture experiments that have proved successful for use in South Georgia. They also saw some of the finest beef cattle, hogs and workstock in the state. They saw demonstrations that proved beyond the shadow of a doubt the value of legumes and cover

Statesboro High To Play Claxton This Afternoon

This afternoon at 3:30 the referee's whistle will bring together two first district high school teams each with hopes of the First District Championship, Claxton High and Statesboro High.

The Statesboro Blue Devils won their first game last Friday when they defeated Vidalia by the score of 7-0. That score is by no means an indication of the strength of the Blue Devils. They out weighed the Vidalia players by 150 pounds per player.

The Claxton High Tigers, opened their season with a 20-0 victory over Reidsville last Friday. The Tigers scored one in each of the first three quarters. Edwards, Sauls and Benton accounted for the three markers. The Tigers line, though very light, consistently overcharged their bigger, but slower opponents.

A good game is expected this afternoon between these two reasons and a large crowd is expected.

TEACHERS TO PLAY THREE GAMES IN EIGHT DAYS

The South Georgia Teachers will through three football games in eight days, beginning tonight with the University of Miami at Coral Gables, Florida. Next Monday evening, October 4, they meet Tampa University at Tampa and on the following Friday, October 8, they play Stetson University in DeLand, Florida.

A squad of 25 men with Coach Crook Smith left here yesterday (Thursday) for their Florida swing. They will be away for ten days.

W.H. Ellis Dies Here After A Short Illness

RETIRED DRUGGIST AND PROMINENT STATESBORO CITIZEN WHO CONDUCTED DRUG BUSINESS FOR PERIOD OF FORTY YEARS.

W. H. Ellis, retired druggist and prominent Statesboro citizen died at his home here Thursday after an illness of several days. Funeral services were held Friday afternoon from the Presbyterian Church, with Rev. H. L. Freed in charge. Interment was in the East Side Cemetery.

Mr. Ellis, who has long been a resident of Statesboro, was born in that part of Bulloch county which is now Camden, for forty years he conducted a drug business here, first in partnership with Dr. L. J. McLean and later operating the business himself as the W. H. Ellis Drug Company. Mr. Ellis at one time served as city clerk and has also served the city as a councilman. He was active in civic affairs and for a long period was secretary of the Masonic Lodge.

Mr. Ellis is survived by his wife; three children, Henry Ellis, Louis Ellis, and Mrs. M. J. Bowen Jr., all of Bulloch county; one brother, Jake Ellis of Chester, Pa.; six sisters, Mrs. L. V. Ennis and Mrs. J. B. Everett of Statesboro; Mrs. J. Wright of Metter, Mrs. J. W. Giddens of Swainsboro, and Misses Ruth and Dell Ellis of Metter.

LILYS TO MOVE TO NEW QUARTERS NEXT WEEK

Lily's, ladies ready to wear shop, announces this week that they will move their shop from their present location to their new quarters on East Main street, which is being prepared for them by Hill Simmons. The location will be in the Bank of Statesboro building which was recently purchased by Mr. Simmons. Mr. Roy Blackburn is the contractor. The new Lily's shop will be modern in every respect. A large plate glass window replaces the former two windows, and will allow a full view of displays when placed in the window. The move will place this shop in the center of the shopping district of Statesboro and next to the Georgia Theatre.

It was further announced that a contest would be held in which two beautiful dresses would be given free. The contest to run for two weeks beginning October 5.

New Norris Hotel Damaged By Fire

FIRE DELAYS MOVE FROM THE NORRIS HOTEL ON EAST MAIN STREET TO THE NEW NORRIS ON HILL STREET.

Along with the announcement that Mrs. J. M. Norris would give up the management of the Norris Hotel on East Main street and give all her time to the New Norris, located on Hill street, a fire in the New Norris, Sunday, did a considerable amount of damage and it may be several weeks before the move is made.

When an alarm was sounded here Sunday morning, smoke poured out of the large two story wooden New Norris Hotel on Hill street, giving every indication that the building was on fire. The fire, however, was confined to two rooms on the second floor. The entire second floor was damaged by smoke, and water and the first floor was also damaged by water. Firemen kept the flames down and quickly extinguished the fire in the two rooms.

The fire attracted much attention and church groups Sunday morning crowded the streets as the smoke poured from the windows and the roof of the large building.

BROOKLET FFA ELECTS JAMES SMITH PRESIDENT

The Future Farmers of America made up of sixty vocational agricultural boys of the Brooklet school held its first meeting Monday and elected the following officers: President, James Smith; vice president, Thomas Hill; secretary, The Sanders, treasurer, John Rushing; press reporter, Rupert Clifton.

The FFA will meet today to initiate some of the new boys into the club. The final initiation will be held on October 15.

The club has already made their plans for their first project in agriculture, which is a winter cover crop. They have ordered their steers and will feed them out on their project.

BLUE DEVILS PLAYING HINESVILLE TODAY

At its regular Monday luncheon meeting the Statesboro Rotary club considered two projects which will be of benefit to the community. Proper committees were designated to cooperate with the civic authorities on both of the projects studied.

Alfred Dorman presented to the club a project which calls for the issuance of a "Visitors Card" which will extend the out of town and county visitors with certain parking and traffic privileges while in the city. Mr. Dorman cited several examples where unfavorable impressions might have been made upon visitors here due to the lack of knowledge of the traffic regulations and the manner in which they were enforced. He stated that the club's committee was designated to cooperate with the civic authorities on both of the projects studied.

APPROXIMATELY 2000 HOGS AND 350 HEAD OF CATTLE SOLD WITH PRICE TAKING A DROP. BOTH YARDS A NOTICE CHANGE IN SALES HOURS.

Approximately 2000 hogs and 350 head of cattle were sold here this week at Statesboro's largest weekly livestock auction this year. Prices, however, took a drop.

The lots at the Bulloch Stock Yards increased greatly over last week as 675 hogs and 90 head of cattle were sold. Prices were off about eighty cents a hundred on top hogs but prices remained good on feeder and barbeque pigs. There were representative buyers on from Georgia, North Carolina, and Virginia. The cattle market was also slightly off but there was a good demand for feeder cattle.

Despite a break in the market of $1.50 a hundred pounds 1250 hogs were sold Wednesday at the Statesboro Livestock Commission Company and farmers seemed well satisfied. Because of the heavy sales Wednesday the management announced that beginning next week sales would begin at ten o'clock in the morning. The sales Wednesday evening lasted until far into the night. The feeder pig market was good with enough feeders to supply the demand with prices running from 9 1-2 cents to 10 1-2 cents.

The Bulloch Stock Yard also announced a change in the sale hour for next week and sales will begin promptly at one o'clock.

COOPERATIVE KID SALE TO BE HELD TOMORROW

A cooperative kid sale will be held at the Central of Georgia depot Saturday, October 9, from 10 a. m. to 12 noon.

Joseph Fava, Savannah, is the buyer for this sale with a bid of 90 cents per head for fat kids. Mr. Fava assures local farmers that he has goats that he will be in the market continuously. Kids acceptable for the sale should weigh about 15 to 25 pounds and be fat.

ROTARY CLUB STUDIES PROJECTS FOR CITY AND COUNTY BENEFIT

RECOMMENDATIONS BE MADE TO HAVE VISITORS CARDS ISSUED TO OUT OF TOWN VISITORS WHILE HERE.

ORVILLE McLEMORE'S "ROVER" BREAKS IN NEWS

The United Press ace sports reporter is Henry McLemore, who spent many years of his young life in Statesboro. In Monday's daily papers, aggregated throughout the United States, Henry gives his home town a mention.

In "Today's Sport Parade" written from New York, Monday, the lead paragraph began, "I have seen some very fast horses in my day, including my Uncle Orville's Rover, who still holds the record for the ten-buck run from the depot to the post office in Statesboro, Ga. but nothing to equal this Menow who staged a runaway in winning the Belmont turfway on Saturday."

Henry is the son of the late Ber. McLemore and nephew of O. L. McLemore of this city. Young McLemore, who is known throughout the world as an authority on sports, visited in Statesboro this year.

Former High School Students Make High Records At College

SIX FRESHMEN AT COLLEGE GRADUATES OF STATESBORO HIGH SCHOOL SCORE HIGH IN FRESHMAN ENTRANCE EXAMINATIONS.

Six former Statesboro high school students, freshmen this fall at the South Georgia Teachers College made high enough scores on the freshman entrance examinations to be classified among the five highest of the class of 198 freshmen.

Braxton Faircloth, omer Blitch, and D. B. Gould, all of Statesboro, made high enough scores to rank in the upper one percent of the freshmen of the entire University System. D. B. Gould's score of 106 in science was one of the highest in the state.

The five ranking students in each of the tests held at the college this fall were:

English
Kathryn Gainsy, Bainbridge, 116;

W.E. McDougald To Address Presbyterians At Valdosta Rally

ANNUAL FALL RALLY TO BE HELD IN FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OF VALDOSTA ON THURSDAY, OCT. 21.

The annual Fall Rally of the Presbyterian men of Savannah Presbytery will be held in the First Presbyterian church of Valdosta on Thursday afternoon and evening, October 21. The occasion is the get-together meeting of the members of the Men's Clubs in the Presbyterian churches of the Presbytery, the central organization being known as the Men-of-the-Church.

It is expected that Dr. R. A. Forrest, pastor of Teococa Falls Institute, Teococa Falls, Georgia, will be the principal speaker of the rally. Dr. Forrest is one of the able speakers of the Southern Presbyterian church. Other talks will be made by the Rev. J. B. Merrin, Presbyterian evangelist and pastor of the Presbyterian church of Douglas; Rev. Freeman B. Parker, pastor of the Tifton Presbyterian church; Elder Jas. L. Davis, of the First Presbyterian church, Savannah; W. E. McDougald, Statesboro, and others.

The annual banquet will be held at 6:15 o'clock, with the night session following at 7:30. The meeting will be adjourned by 8:30 o'clock in order to allow out-of-town delegations to get an early start for home.

There was considerable improvement in the Blue Devils boys in their game with Claxton over the score the second touchdown. In the fourth period after the completion of two passes and two line plays, Barnes again smashed the center of the line for the last score.

Plans To Raise Money To Light Gridiron Made

At a meeting of the high school yesterday afternoon plans were completed to attempt to raise the funds necessary to light the football field on the Municipal Playground.

Dr. J. H. Whitesides was made chairman of a committee to be named by him to aid in the raising the funds to light the field.

There has been some agitation in the city for a lighted field so that more people may attend the football games of the high school. There are a number of the business men of Statesboro who do not feel they can take time from their business in the afternoon to attend the games. If the games could be played at night then these men could attend without feeling that they are neglecting their work.

Plans have already been submitted with estimates of cost. Coach Johnson has stated that he feels sure that the balance of his schedule could be transferred to Statesboro in the event the field could be lighted.

Supt. S. E. Wollet was named Treasurer to administer the funds as they are subscribed.
