LETS PRESENT A SOLID FRONT

With interest right now running rather high on the proposed Burton Ferry's Route it seems to be an opportune time to begin applying the pressure. Last week a meeting was held in Atlanta with representatives from Sylvania, Statesboro, Claxton, Glennville, Loudiwici, Jesup, Nahunta and Folkston and the members of the highway board in conference. The discussion became rather complicated to the average person. In listening to anyone attempt to explain why Burton's Ferry cannot be completed now, one becomes so confused that one wonders if Burton Ferry is not just a dream. It has been a dream for a great number of years. Meetings have been held in Atlanta time after time. Meetings all up and down the proposed route. And all the while other routes are being completed; new routes are being worked on. And Burton's Ferry is still just a

But it occurs to us that if we start at home on this thing we might get somewhere. All the right-of-way deeds from Statesboro to the river have been secured except one for the extra 100 feet required by the highway department through creeks and swamps. This deed is being held up because the land owner wishes to secure a concession on another road from the local board of commissioners The board has offered to pay for this additional 100 feet but the land owner will not agree to accept it. He admits that he intends to let them have the footage they require but not until he secures the concession he is asking on the other road, a community road. If this were straightened out it still might be months before there would be any further consideration on the Burton's Ferry Route, but it seems to us that we could present a better case if we could say that cooperation was being given wholeheartedly all down the Lets forget our personal benefits on this thing. Think of the greater good for the greater number which is the basis for every civic move for the betterment of a commun ity, every county, and every state. A solid front goes a long way when presented to anyone, even to a highway board.

With our highways being improved all the

Some few weeks ago the Statesboro Rotary club set up a Safety Council and adopted a set of safety rules and regulations. At each meeting since the organization of that council each member of the club that has violated one or more of these rules and regulations reports himself and pays the fine set by the recorder. Since this council has been operating in the club, infractions of the safety rules have been reducced to a very low num-

Now a large commercial organization has begun a DRIVE SAFELY campaign which is state-wide in its scope. Automobile drivers are being asked to sign a pledge. This pledge does not set down any hard and fast rules but merely pledges the motorist to apply the Golden Rule to driving, to consider the rights of others, to observe state and local traffic regulations, and to apply the common sense rules of safe driving. This is a pledge which every good citizen will gladly make.

If this Drive Safely campaign which is being sponsored by a commercial organization succeeds in being instrumental in saving only one life, it will have been a success. Such a campaign make us all Safety. conscious. Civic organizations all over the state are joining in on this crusade, realizing the benefits to be derived from it.

VOTE ON APRIL 14

Bulloch county votes on the liquor bill on Thursday, April 14. The ordinary has called the special election according to the law as passed in the last session of the General Assembly. On the 14th go to the polls and vote. Vote one way or another. If you did not sign one of the pttitions which circulated within the county, that does not mean that you cannot vote in the election when it is held. If you are eligible to vote do so!

If Bulloch county votes for the taxing and legalizing and controlling liquor then it will be possible to buy, in an orderly manner, good quality liquor under legal, orderly conditions. And the man who continues to patronize the bootlegger is not a good citizen, is not an asset to the state. It will become the duty of every citizen in the county to observe the law scrupuously, himself and to give his fullest support to the enforcement officers in their task of preventing violation of the law.

For a quarter of a century Georgia has attempted to enforce an unenforceable law. Now that we have an opportunity to legalize liquor in this county and in the event it is legalized, its sale will be strictly regulated and it will be up to the states, county and city officials to see that those regulations be enforced.

If Bulloch county does not vote for the taxing and legalizing and controlling liquor, then there will still be graft; the bootleggers will continue to do business; and the cause of true temperance will not be advanced.

"THE CURCUS"

The Circus is coming to town . . . Is there any other combination of words which mean so much to a youngster and oldster alike? None . . . This Circus is different from most circuses. It will not be in a tent and it will not come to us by train. But it will have fat ladies, trained ponies, clowns, magicians, a band and pink lemonade and icecream, and a host of other "marvelous" and "colossal" and "stupendous" attractions. "The Circus" is a production made up of entirely local talent and sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary. It will be presented tonight and tomorrow night at the high school auditorium. More than 100 of the prominent people of Statesboro will take part in the production. The parade which tied up traffic Saturday afternoon gave one an idea of what to expect.

Get yourself a bag of peanuts and go to "The Circus," It will do you good.

The trees in Statesboro are a part of its personality. In driving about the city one is amazed at the number of trees which grow in the front and back yards of our homes and on the city's sidewalks. It adds a beauty to our town which no amount of planning could attain.

STANDARDS OF SOCIAL WORK Social workers of Georgia meet this week in Macon to discuss the standards of service in the state and to consider modern trends in this work outlined by nationally known authorities in this field. Practically in its infancy, the Georgia Conference on Social Work is patterned after similar organizations in other states, formed to encourage and promote high standards of service. In this field the conference has been a vital force in co-ordinating and improving standards of social work in the state, despite the fact that it has been able to maintain only a part-time office in Atlanta, in contrast to full-time schedules with elaborate research departments and generous budgets available in other states

The conference hopes to engender greater interest in its work so that a full-time organization can be operated in Georgia. This would offer a more valuable consulting service for social workers and agencies and permit more extensive educational work for workers in smaller Georgia cities. Through this service, it is cited, the general level will be raised and the work of members placed on a more economical basis. With the extended state work in this field, it becomes practically a necessity that Georgians co-operate generally with the conference for the greater good of the state.—Atlanta Constitution.

Last Friday was "kid" day in Statesboro for Bulloch county farmers, and each "kid" meant $1.10 to the farmers, and each "kid" meant $1.10 to the farmers at the annual pre-Easter kid sale, Most of the sew to the New, York markets. County agent Dyer states that the farmers do not go to the trouble of tracing them but he is of the opinion that many of them are sold as lambs.

"In the early Spring we have a heavy kid crop and that is one reason we have more of them during Easter will be seen as the county Agent who takes bids from buyers and accepts the highest to suit the buyers and the kids are assembled. More than 3,000 kids have been sold at Easter sales stated Mr. J. E. McCroan, ordinary issued the farmers and since raising kids and goats do not cost the farmer and scitual cash outlay as a crop it means practically all profit.

Mr. Dyer estimates that about 200 farmers in Bulloch county raise kids, with some few taking trouble to provide a grazing patch of small grains late in the winter. Otherwise there is no special arrangements made.
