SOCIETY

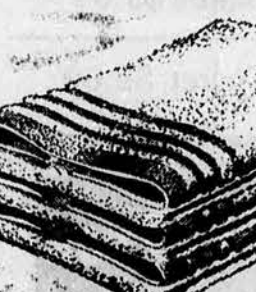

ALL'S FAIR

It was a very solemn occasion as Mrs. Majors of Claxton was about to install the PTA officers until some body in a stage whisper said, "Looks like a healthy corps of officers," and something slightly akin to a magnified giggle rippled over the audience. The officers installed were Ethel Bushing, Marian Ollif, Sara Morris and Mary Atkins. Friend Jardine, we understand is well stocked up with cigarettes since his friends gave him a house warming. Somebody should have given him some of these ready-made biscuits that are available in any grocery store. We have it on good authority that he ate seven biscuits at his evening meal prior to the party. You didn't know they were counting them on you did you, brother? And, it was "Ship Aho!" when Jane Franseth went nautical and gave a very spry party for Elizabeth Dowson. We would have enjoyed barging in even as a beach comb. Sam Bartow Lamb and Martha Kate down town with Baby Lamb. One Minute he was carrying her like she was a fragile piece of china, and next like a bag of meal. Keep it up, dad. Practice makes perfect they say. We had a guest about two weeks ago who said, "They need to do something now to the Jaekel Hotel," and when we went down town on Monday morning the scaffolds were up and the painters were at work. Statesboro just needs a hint and they're into action and Mr. and Mrs. Sharpe are no exceptions. Orchids to you! It's looking very pretty and it is credit to our town.

This seems to be a year of reunions. We note in our paper that Dr. Mooney attended the reunion of the class of 1898 of the Old Atlanta Medical College. It hadn't occurred to us before that Doc Mooney and young Doctor John were alumni of the same institution, but the Atlanta Medical College was succeeded by the Emory Medical School. Much is being said about the Silver Jubilee members of the 1913 graduating class are planning. This '13 class has 28 living members.

ber and 23 of these plan to be present. We predict that the three bachelor members, Joe and Tom Zetterower and Outland McDougald will have the time of their lives and will even have the nerve to sympathize with their classmates who had not escaped matrimony. This class claims many firsts among their accomplishments. They while in the seventh grade, bought the first drum for the school. This drum was used for them to march out to their graduation. They bought another during their senior year. Fay Foy is the first child of a member of the class to graduate from college. Dorothy Hodges Phillips, daughter of Mrs. Wilton Hodges was the first child of a member of the class to marry. Mr. Frary Waters, near Sadio Denmark is the first of the number to be "Grandma."

Louise DeLoach home from college where she has been working at Marshall Fields—That's one place we've always had a hankering to see. Louis must tell us about it. We almost wanted to send her a pair of pajamas that Arabel Jones got her a graduation gift. The novel print featured replicas of magazine covers such as Woman's World, Esquire, etc. The Sweet Girl Graduate's gifts of today are almost as numerous as wedding presents used to be.

The days that were too cold are now too hot. WITH THE COUNTY AGENTS

BYRON DYER

ELVIE MAXWELL

Extension Beef Cattle Specialist R. E. Davis points out that a common trouble during the winter season is the lack of feed for livestock, particularly cattle. As a corrective measure, he suggests the use of silage, through means of the inexpensive but useful trench silo. Right now, he says, is the time to plant a few acres of sorghum and corn, or sorghum alone, to be saved as silage. Then, in the summer, the trench silo can be dug, with no cost except the labor. With a trench full of silage, the winter feeding problem is solved. Ask your county agent for the circular on how to construct a trench silo.

The purchase of 215,933 acres of land to be added to 48 National Forests and purchase units has been approved by the National Forest Reserve Commission. These purchases, in 24 states and Puerto Rico, will be administered by the Forest Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Included in the purchases was Chattahoochee unit, with 5,895 acres in Georgia and Alabama, bought for $30,712.

Indications that kuzu is an effective form of vegetation for the protection of meadow strips, which are used for terrace outlet channels, can be seen in the Soil Conservation Service demonstration area near Americus, according to Project Manager H. G. Dasher. Fifteen meadow strips were largest on record, amounted to 18,946,000 bales, the Department of Agriculture reports. The next largest crop, 17,978,000 bales, was in 1926. An all-time high record was established also in yield per acre, last year's 266.9 pounds an acre exceeding the former record of 233 pounds an acre in 1898.

Georgia farmers are making good use of pasture sod for erosion control as well as a cheap source of feed for cattle and other livestock. The top picture shows a pasture which was seeded to a mixture of lespedeza and pasture grasses and which a year later was providing good grazing on a thick, erosion-resisting sod. The picture below shows a contour-furrowed pasture with a complete cover of sod after two growing seasons. By conserving rainfall, contour furrows promote a denser growth of grasses and legumes which in turn help to control erosion.

Complete returns show that commercial Irish potato growers in early and intermediate potato-growing states voted approximately three to one for a continuing marketing agreement program, which includes an enforcing order. In Georgia, where only Chatham county was involved, the vote was six for the agreement and none against.

WHEN LIFE DEPENDS ON TIRE SAFETY

IT'S ALWAYS Firestone

FOR 19 CONSECUTIVE YEARS THE
WINNERS OF THE INDIANAPOLIS 500 MILE
RACE HAVE PROTECTED THEIR LIVES WITH FIRESTONE GUM-DIPPED TIRES

THEY said it couldn't be done — that they could not withstand the torture of the new high speeds. Yet Floyd Roberts set a new record, at this year's Indianapolis Race, averaging 117.2 miles an hour for the 500 miles on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires.

With the sun-baked brick of the straight-away and the granite-hard surface of the turns pulling and grinding at their tires, 33 daring drivers, every one on Firestone Tires, waged a thrilling battle for gold and glory. Never before have tires been called upon to take such punishment. Never in all the history of the motor car has tire safety been put to such a gruelling test. Yet not one tire failed — not one single cord loosened — because Gum-Dipping, that famous Firestone patented process saturates and coats every cotton fiber in every cord in every ply with liquid rubber counteracting the tire-destroying internal friction and heat that ordinarily cause blowouts.

Why risk your life and the lives of others on unsafe tires? Join the Firestone SAVE A LIFE Campaign today by equipping your car with Firestone Triple-Safe Tires — the only tires made that are safety-proved on the speedways for your protection on the highways.

Those in charge of the plant state: "You are also asked to bring a cotton cloth sack, salt and sugar for your vegetables. You must bring some one with you to operate the sealer. Help is scarce at the present time but we are expecting to have some WPA help in the future, but bring some one to turn the sealer until further notice.

"If you have an unusual large amount you want canned at once, tomatoes for instance, the plant will be open for orders if you make arrangements with G. C. Avery. But at the present time Tuesdays and Fridays will be regular days for canning.

"Large quantities are preferred. You are invited to come look over your plant. The building is now temporary but in the near future we are expecting to have a first class canning plant in the best of a wood structure. Two class rooms will be included in the permanent building. We hope to have this complete by the time school opens in September.

"Please bring your food to the plant before 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon. No food will be accepted if brought after that time."

Governor Rivers Addresses 1938 Graduating Class At Teachers College

"The two fundamental objectives of the governmental program of this state is to build a people and a land," Governor E. D. Rivers said in his address at the final 1938 commencement exercises.

The Governor was presided by Professor Marvin S. Pittman, who stated that all educators agree that he is the state's best exponent of education. Governor Rivers stated at the outset that he would talk on the fundamental objectives of the governmental program of this state which he boiled down to two main objectives, "building the man and building the land."

"In Georgia we are making in education in order to build a people and build a land," the Governor said. The chief executive reviewed the program made in education in Georgia in recent months, telling of the adequate term for all schools, free school books, the revised salary schedule, library service, growth in home economics training and other progressive services. He added, however, that the state must go forward with adult education and a campaign to eradicate illiteracy in Georgia.

"If we are to build the man in Georgia we must have a public health program," the Governor said.

MISS VIRGINIA KENAN PLAYING IN MUSICAL QUARTETTE, WASHINGTON

It was learned here this week that Miss Virginia Kenan, daughter of Mrs. J. S. Kenan, is appearing with the Dixie Debs, a modern musical combination, now playing at the Lafayette Cocktail Lounge in Washington, D. C.

Miss Kenan is the guitarist of the Dixie Debs. She studied the guitar in Statesboro for several years and later with Perry Bechtel at the Atlanta Conservatory. The Dixie Debs is a musical quartette made up of four Georgia girls. This quartette is one of the few to use the combination of marimba, trumpet, guitar and string bass. Last season Miss Kenan appeared with the quartette for eight weeks at Virginia Beach, Va.

They are now playing their fourth engagement in Washington, D. C. They plan a tour of the south beginning the first of July and will appear in many of the Southern cities.

TO GIVE SOME IDEA OF HOW AMERICAN COTTON IS RECEIVED ABROAD, THE AGENT CONTINUED, "HERE IS WHAT ONE FOREIGN MILL OFFICIAL WROTE: 'We are consumers of 24,000 bales annually, and, up to last season, used all American cotton. This season we bought 8,000 bales from other sources, and are now sorry we didn't buy a larger percentage of non-American cotton. It is our opinion that American cotton, properly ginned and adequately protected from damage in transit, is the most useful cotton in the world for the bulk of textile trade. However, much of its usefulness is being lost through poor finishing.'

R. E. SHEPHARD SAYS TO USE CARE IN TOBACCO CURE

EXCESSIVE RAINFALL IN THE CAROLINAS WILL CAUSE CROP TO BE SHORT IN WEIGHT SAYS SHEPHARD

In a statement made yesterday, Mr. R. E. Sheppard, who is building the new tobacco warehouse here, advised the tobacco farmers in this section to exercise extreme care in the curing of their this year's tobacco crop.

Mr. Sheppard has just returned from North Carolina and South Carolina, and he said that there has been an excess of rain fall in the two Carolinas. He added that the Carolina tobacco will be short in weight and is not curing out satisfactorily because of the excessive rains.

"It looks like a good year for the tobacco farmers in this section," said Mr. Sheppard, "with the prospects of the price being as good, if not better than last year. My advice to the farmers in this section is to pay particular attention to the curing of their tobacco."

Work on Mr. Sheppard's new warehouse is progressing. The roof is about 60 per cent completed, and the contractor will begin pouring concrete for the floor this week. It is the largest warehouse in this entire section.

Looks of Cotton Bale Aids Exports

COUNTY AGENT URGES FARMERS TO INSIST ON BETTER LOOKING BALE OF COTTON AS AN AID TO EXPORTS

County Agent Byron Dyer this week urged Bulloch county farmers to insist upon a uniform, more attractive cotton bale, as a means of increasing United States exports.

Deducing that the "bad appearance" of cotton bales has been a "big factor" in the reduction of American cotton exports, he said a close cooperation between the producer and the ginner can do much towards remedying this situation.

The agent reminded farmers that proper and careful picking and handling of the cotton, as well as careful ginning, is important in the production of a bale which will meet all requirements. Of course, the ginner must also do his part by not using bagging which is poor, cut to pieces or heavily soiled.

Mr. Dyer pointed out that other countries take a pride in preparing a neat bale.

"Brazilian cotton bale, which is very nice looking. It is ginned under government supervision, pressed to high density at the gin from presses made in the United States, completely covered with new bagging, and standardized as to weight. It is also ginned and pressed before being exported. This explains why it finds a ready market."

TO GIVE SOME IDEA OF HOW AMERICAN COTTON IS RECEIVED ABROAD, THE AGENT CONTINUED, "HERE IS WHAT ONE FOREIGN MILL OFFICIAL WROTE: 'We are consumers of 24,000 bales annually, and, up to last season, used all American cotton. MEN WHO WERE MARRIED

Ill fares the land, to hastening ills a prey,
Where wealth accumulates and men decay.

Dick Norman
—GOLDSMITH

This is not the whine of the ensnared culprit who can't take it; nor is it the pious gesture of the counterfeit individual who, on entering prison, embraces Christianity with fervent hope that it will enhance his chance of parole. The purpose of this article is to parade before you some of the outstanding figures in the world of crime, and let you thereby be convinced, perhaps, of the utter futility of a criminal career, and the inevitable suffering and sorrow it entails.

There is no such thing as a successful crook. The world has never yet produced one. "What profit it a man if he gain the whole world and yet lose his soul?" Why men of marked intellectual attainments will deliberately engage in a life of crime is beyond the comprehension of the normal mind. Is it because they cherish a hope of fabulous rewards as the fruits of their nefarious depredations? If so, they are chasing a rainbow without an end.

There is about as much chance of a man succeeding in a life of crime as there is of his drawing pictures of the "fourth dimension."

Jimmy Hope was one of the most skilled and daring bank burglars with whom the police ever matched wits. He looted New York's Bank of Manhattan for more than $1,000,000. Yet he died penniless, in Sing Sing prison, clothed in the garb of a felon.

The criminal ingenuity of Cassie Chadwick was of such a character as to startle and appal. She "trimmed" the smartest bankers in Ohio for millions, lived like a queen for a moment and then died—a broken old woman in a prison cell.

The newspapers proclaimed Gerald Chapman a super-criminal, a master-mind. He looted the sacred United States Mails for approximately $3,000,000. Captured and convicted, he was shutted off to the Atlanta Penitentiary for a long term of years. Shortly after his imprisonment he planned and executed one of the most daring and sensational escapes in American prison annals. He was later captured and condemned to death for murdering a policeman.

Divested of the garish glitter and the tawdry glamour that once clothed his flagitious but meteoric career, broke and unfriended—he died, dangling at the end of a rope.

As a safe cracker, "Canada Blackie" stood without a peer. His criminal reputation was international in its scope. In his wanderings about the world he left a string of looted safes in his wake. Broken in both body and mind, without a dollar or a friend, he died in Sing Sing Prison a few years ago whispering to his pals, "Boys, the game ain't worth the while."

"Ole" Bill Minor was one of America's picture-que crooks. "Histing rattlers" was his racket. His loot ran into the millions. The best years of his life were spent on the bright side of prison walls. His health shattered and his money gone, he died in a Southern prison a few years ago, and only through the Christian charity of a noble hearted woman, who looked and saw the heart of gold beneath the soiled exterior, was he saved from a grave behind prison walls.

Al Capone was for many years the overlord of gangland. Machine guns roared his mandates, and political pundits were at his beck and call. He well might have said with Louis XV., "The law! I am the law!" The American public stood stunned and benumbed with amazement when the Federal government sent him, in chains, to bleak Alcatraz Prison. Today, with his mind cracked and his reasoning faculties gone, he babbles like a drooling imbecile as he ceaselessly paces the limited length of his narrow cell on that grim, fog-enshrouded rock in San Francisco bay.

One of the most potent and pathetic pictures of the dead-sea fruits of a life of crime is that of the two Bidwell brothers, (Americans, they were) who, through orgery, "clip-

THE AMERICAN LEGION AND HOSPITAL AUXILIARY MAKE STATEMENT ON SUNDAY MOVIES

With the inauguration of Sunday movies in Statesboro the members of the American Legion and the Bulloch County Hospital Auxiliary have issued a statement in an attempt to acquaint the people of Statesboro with the facts concerning Sunday movies.

The statement is addressed to the citizens of Statesboro and asks that each individual take a mental inventory of his or her activities on Sundays. "Do you go in swimming, either here or out at the swimming hole, creek or Tybee . . . do you go to baseball games . . . or maybe you prefer to go to Augusta or Swainsboro or some of the other nearby towns to see the movies . . . how about the Post Office? . . . do you go there on Sundays to get your mail and spend most of Sunday morning reading it . . . or maybe you go to your store or office and attend to some matters that you just feel like you have to look after, or do you have a farm . . . ride out on Sunday to look over the crops and . . . a quite sociable game of bridge on Sunday night . . ."

The statement points out that the proceeds from the operation of Sunday movies are to be used for strictly charitable purposes; one-half of the fund to go to the upkeep of a charity ward at the Bulloch County Hospital, the other half to go into a fund to be distributed to the needy by the American Legion.

According to the statement the Sunday movies will not interfere with the religious services as far as the hours are concerned and that each picture to be shown will be approved by a committee to insure a good "clean picture."

The statement concludes with the request that the citizens of Statesboro consider carefully and in a friendly manner this question of Sunday movies.

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

Rev. C. M. Coalson of the Baptist church has given us a signed statement, Mr. Coalson does not beat around the bush in this statement. He goes straight to the heart of his subject without mincing words. In reading it one cannot help but see the logic in his thinking. We give you the statement:

"To all who are operating unnecessary businesses on Sunday:

"It now looks as if we are headed toward a seven-day week business world, in which the one-day rest and worship period will be wholly lost. Operation of filling stations, drug stores (for unnecessary sales), swimming pools, some grocery stores and now the cinemas on Sunday; citizens going to Tybee and other pleasure resorts, and to cinemas in neighboring towns—all these tend toward secularizing the holy Sabbath day, and bring us many steps toward losing the quiet, restful and worshipful benefits of the Lord's day. The flagrant operation of liquor stores, on any day, has an even more baneful effect.

"I do not set myself up as a moral policeman with the assumed right to determine for any man what he shall do. The only authority I have is the authority of a studied opinion reached through prayer and serious thinking, and that opinion is that all these things are dangerous and will, in the long run, do the city, especially the children, incalculable harm.

"Therefore, simply as a Christian citizen, I would appeal to all those who are operating any unnecessary business on the Lord's day would desist and help make our little city a God-fearing, Sabbath-keeping place for the rearing of our children.

"I have said these things personally to some of those concerned and, as opportunity offers shall say them to the others. God is my witness that I say them in love for every one who may differ with me in the premises.

"This appeal I make for Christ's sake.
"C. M. COALSON."

VITAMINS IN CANNING

One hears much these days about vitamins, and their importance in a well-balanced diet. However, vitamins are not generally understood by the average person. One question which is argued long and often is, "Does canning destroy any of the vitamins in fruits and vegetables?"

In general, heat alone in cooking and canning does not injure any of the vitamins. But what the chemists call "oxidation"—that is, the action of the oxygen in the air on the food—may destroy both vitamins B and C. And heat hastens oxidation. Vitamins A, D, E, and G suffer little or none in canning. But the loss of C in canning is often very important because fruits and vegetables everyone must have a supply of it every day, since the body is unable to store it.

Oxidation and heat together then are destroyers of this vitamin, while acid and cold are its protectors. So food canned by the open-bottle method, where it is exposed to both heat and air, loses more of its vitamin C than food canned in vacuum or in the presence of very little air.

And fruit and vegetables that wait for hours in a warm kitchen before cooking or canning lose much more of their vitamin C than those that are freshly picked or kept chilled in a refrigerator. Modern methods of removing air from food and packaging in sealed containers such as the food preservation industries now use are aids in saving vitamins from oxidation.

The chemists say that acid makes vitamin C more "stable." So canned fruits hold their vitamin C very well because they are acid, but vegetables lose much of their original C. Tomatoes are a good example. In the tomatoe luckily are not only rich in C, but they are acid. So, in canning, they lose little of their naturally rich vitamin supply. On the other hand, cabbage and peas and green beans—also good sources of C when fresh—lose much of their "vitalizing."

Investigators at one experiment station found that canning destroyed from 50 to 85 per cent of the C in peas, lima beans, spinach and green asparagus. But they found that practically all canned tomatoes may be counted on as having the amount they contain, just as different varieties do.

Even acid cannot have C in foods that are exposed to the air for long, especially if they stand in a warm place. Orange juice squeezed, in the evening and set aside for breakfast, will lose much of its C by morning. Jars of tomatoes, after they are opened, also lose C as the air acts on the tomatoes. Raw cabbage, shredded raw carrots. Apple cider soon begins to lose C after pressing if allowed to stand open.

If you buy lima beans or peas already shelled, you won't be getting nearly as much vitamin for your money as if you had bought them in the pod and shelled them just before cooking. But temperature has an effect here too. Orange juice kept in the refrigerator doesn't lose C as fast as if it stands out in the warm kitchen. This is true also of other foods.

As mentioned before, many of these facts are also true of B. The anti-vitamin B in fruits or vegetables is at least partly destroyed by drying, cooking and canning. But it is destroyed less in fruits than in vegetables, for the acids help stabilize it. They also are the reason that fruit may be sterilized with less heat and for a shorter time than must be used with non-acid vegetables.

FARM BRIEFS

D. L. Floyd, chief statistician of the Georgia Crop Reporting Service, gives us some interesting figures this week on the ages of automobiles and other machinery on farms throughout the United States. A recent survey made by the Federal Census, in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, discloses that one out of every six cars on the farm is more than 10 years old, and that more than half of them are models earlier than 1933. Farm trucks and tractors also present a striking picture of obsolescence. One-fourth of this type of machinery is more than 10 years old. While large increases of farm machinery were indicated for 1937, comparatively little was bought during the "depression years". The survey covered about 3,000 farms in selected counties of 40 states. While the survey was too small to produce an accurate estimate, Floyd says, at least it is sufficient to show the general trend

COLUMBIA S. C. PAPER COMMENTS ON MRS. LANE ENTERING SENATE RACE

In a column called "Around the State House" The State, one of the leading newspapers of South Carolina carries the following paragraph:

"One woman is offering for the state senate down in Georgia. Mrs. Julian C. Lane of Statesboro, having already paid the entrance fee. In the membership of the last legislature in South Carolina there was not a single woman. And yet such matters as care of indigent children, care of the blind and of the old—all of which women are supposed to be particularly proficient—engaged the time of much of the long session."

Too hot an oven may cause the white sauce on scalloped dishes to curdle.

Old scenes, dear faces, treasured experiences, tender romances, humorous incidents all flashed across the scroll of memory once more as the 'boys and girls' read again that most to yesterday, "If you wish to see our monuments, look around us."

The surprise of the evening was a gift at each place from Dr. Herbert Kennedy of Omaha, Neb. On it were the words "For old times' sake." Inside was a photographic reproduction of the early newspaper account of their graduation and the picture that had accompanied it.

Horace Smith acted as toastmaster and the address of welcome was made by Miss Fattie Powell. Dr. Julian Quattlebaum of Savannah made a brilliant response. The main speaker of the evening was a former faculty member, Miss Dreta Sharpe of Cuba. Mrs. C. Z. Donaldson, former class prophet once more lifted the veil of the future, Mrs. Barney Averitt gave a toast to Mrs. S. D. Denmark.

As the lovely four course banquet progressed the merriment increased and brilliant remarks were heard on every side. Adding to the entertainment was the lovely program of musical selections given by the children of the members of the class.

Among the class members returning from various points for the occasion were Dr. Mrs. Herbert Kennedy of Omaha, Neb., Dr. and Mrs. Julian Quattlebaum of Savannah, Mr. Tom Zetterover of Dublin, Mr. and Mrs. Derick Davis of Bainbridge, Outland McDougall of Fort Pierce, Fla., Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Rackley of Miami, Fla., Mrs. George F. Fleming of Lakeland, Fla., Joe Zetterover of Savannah, Billy Roach of Dublin, Mr. and Mrs. Gelson of Pooler, Mr. and Mrs. John Bowen of Savannah and Mr. and Mrs. Fray Waters of Denmark.

The long banquet table, exquisitely arranged in all its appointments, was placed in the center of the room. Hand painted cards featuring the pink carnation and tied to a silver bell with silver ribbon marked each place. The mint cups were white graduation caps filled with green and white mint.

At each end of the table was a silver bowl of pink carnations. A wonderful mat of fern studded with pink carnations extended the length of the table and was broken at intervals by silver and white carnations.

At the conclusion of the games dainty refreshments consisting of congealed salad, sandwiches, crackers and pickles were served. Those playing were: Miss Akins, Carolyn Blitch, Sara Remington, Grace Gray, Aline Whiteside, Caroline Brown, Helen Parker, Martha Parker, Gladys Thayer, Nell DeLoach, Grace McNorrill, Mrs. Bob Bryan, Mrs. Ralph Howard, Mrs. Frank Olliff, Mrs. Grady Johnston, Mrs. Ernest Akins, Mrs. Henry Ellis, Mrs. Raeford Williams, Mrs. Ernest Cannon and Mrs. Jessie Akins.

Calligraphy for tea were: Mrs. Homer Parker, Mrs. Porter Stephens, Mrs. W. C. Ak-ings, Mrs. Clarence Williams, Mrs. Bloyce Deal, Mrs. Kate Kingery and Miss Lonnie Belle Bland.

On Monday Miss Akins shared honors with Mrs. Robert Benson, a recent bride, at a luncheon given at Cecil's by Miss Christine Caruthers, Miss Grace McNorrill and Miss Julia Reese. The private entertainment hall was beautifully decorated with gladioli, shasta daisies and zinnias.

Miss Akins was presented gifts of silver and china, and Mrs. Benson was remembered with a piece of pottery. The luncheon was served in four courses. Covers were laid for: Miss Akins, Mrs. Benson, Mrs. Emit Akins, Mrs. Jimmie Wray, Mrs. Bob Bryan, Mrs. Ralph Howard, Doris Wallace, Ethel Mae Boyd, Gladys Thayer, Carolyn Blitch, Elizabeth Deal, Aline Whiteside, Sara Remington, Helen Parker, Martha Parker and Nell DeLoach.

Monday afternoon Miss Sue Akins, Miss Gladys Thayer and Miss Sara Remington entertained at the home of the latter with a bridge party commemorating Miss Akins. The tables were placed on the lawn where pretty flowering shrubs made an attractive setting for the group. Each hostess presented the honoree with a silver coffee spoon matching her pattern. Delicious frozen salad sandwiches and beverage were served the guests. There were about thirty present.

Mrs. E. N. Brown and her daughter Margaret, entertained for Miss Akins on Tuesday morning with a bridge party and a handkerchief show. A profusion of summer flowers adorned the rooms where the tables were placed, a color motif of pink and white being suggested in the decorations and refreshments. Punch was served to the guests on their arrival. Miss Akins was given a plate matching her china. Stationery was given for high score, and handkerchiefs were given for cut. Guests were invited for six tables.

Class of 1913 Reunite For 25th Anniversary

CLASS OF 1913 IS BRILLIANT ANNIVERSARY BANQUET

The Woman's Club presented a scene of unforgettable beauty Tuesday evening as the graduation class of 1913 celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their graduation from Statesboro High School.

Old scenes, dear faces, treasured experiences, tender romances, humorous incidents all flashed across the scroll of memory once more as the 'boys and girls' read again that most to yesterday, "If you wish to see our monuments, look around us."

The surprise of the evening was a gift at each place from Dr. Herbert Kennedy of Omaha, Neb. On it were the words "For old times' sake." Inside was a photographic reproduction of the early newspaper account of their graduation and the picture that had accompanied it.

Horace Smith acted as toastmaster and the address of welcome was made by Miss Fattie Powell. Dr. Julian Quattlebaum of Savannah made a brilliant response. The main speaker of the evening was a former faculty member, Miss Dreta Sharpe of Cuba. Mrs. C. Z. Donaldson, former class prophet once more lifted the veil of the future, Mrs. Barney Averitt gave a toast to Mrs. S. D. Denmark.

As the lovely four course banquet progressed the merriment increased and brilliant remarks were heard on every side. Adding to the entertainment was the lovely program of musical selections given by the children of the members of the class.

Among the class members returning from various points for the occasion were Dr. Mrs. Herbert Kennedy of Omaha, Neb., Dr. and Mrs. Julian Quattlebaum of Savannah, Mr. Tom Zetterover of Dublin, Mr. and Mrs. Derick Davis of Bainbridge, Outland McDougall of Fort Pierce, Fla., Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Rackley of Miami, Fla., Mrs. George F. Fleming of Lakeland, Fla., Joe Zetterover of Savannah, Billy Roach of Dublin, Mr. and Mrs. Gelson of Pooler, Mr. and Mrs. John Bowen of Savannah and Mr. and Mrs. Fray Waters of Denmark.

The long banquet table, exquisitely arranged in all its appointments, was placed in the center of the room. Hand painted cards featuring the pink carnation and tied to a silver bell with silver ribbon marked each place. The mint cups were white graduation caps filled with green and white mint.

At each end of the table was a silver bowl of pink carnations. A wonderful mat of fern studded with pink carnations extended the length of the table and was broken at intervals by silver and white carnations.

At the conclusion of the games dainty refreshments consisting of congealed salad, sandwiches, crackers and pickles were served. Those playing were: Miss Akins, Carolyn Blitch, Sara Remington, Grace Gray, Aline Whiteside, Caroline Brown, Helen Parker, Martha Parker, Gladys Thayer, Nell DeLoach, Grace McNorrill, Mrs. Bob Bryan, Mrs. Ralph Howard, Mrs. Frank Olliff, Mrs. Grady Johnston, Mrs. Ernest Akins, Mrs. Henry Ellis, Mrs. Raeford Williams, Mrs. Ernest Cannon and Mrs. Jessie Akins.

ALL'S FAIR

Comments Here and There: What man says that his wife goes for weeks without spending a nickel? Hey, wait a minute! Don't all speak at once. What black haired girl cuts her own hair, does her own thing and talks like the lightning express? Who has violet eyes, modest demeanor and wears darling frocks that ma-ma makes?

Something ought to be done about that young lawyer who goes to the picture show so much alone. Is that good politics? The women can vote, you know.

Now who could have sent Editor Copley that cunning soap image of "Dopey"? He mooned over it so that he had to take a vacation.

Do husbands forget? We'll say they do! When Donie Bland and Myrtle Preston whipped up a little love party recently a certain matron would not accept for herself and husband until she consulted hubby. Hubby failed to appear at supper, the minutes rolled into hours, and at 11:30 the missing wife came in from the Legion fish fry. Was friend wife angry? Your guess is as good as mine.

If we were running an Intelligence Bureau for absent wives, we'd write about that college professor who appeared to be having such a swell time while his wife was away for ten days.

Mark Wilson, president of the class, gave the welcome address and Helen Hall Coursey made gracious response. Frank Mikell, the secretary proceeded to call the roll. In the midst of festivities every member present paid silent tribute to Madge Temple, the only member of the class who has died. Mrs. D. L. Deal conducted the impressive In Memoriam.

Harry Davis delighted his classmates with a vocal selection, "There's a Gold Mine in the Sky."

Albert (Mule) Smith introduced his own brand of humor into the occasion when he made the "Awards." Mrs. Sara Moore Sledge of Chattanooga was presented an "automobile" for traveling the longest distance to attend the reunion. Mrs. Lucy Brannen Purser received two awards, a rolling pin for being married the longest and baby shoes for having the most children. Helen Hall Coursey and Bob Coursey were given "twins" for being the only classmates to marry. Glen Bland was given a wedding ring, for he is the next member to be married.

Mrs. Lila Griffin Averitt played the accordion and the entire group joined in the old songs that used to make the auditorium ring in the days of 1913. Wonderful plain reproduction was made and one of each put at every place at the banquet table.

Remarks overheard after luncheon with Anne Oliver: "Wasn't that the best fried chicken? Yes, but that home-made ice cream was heavenly! Our orchids this week go to Fay Fox—As she played in recital her fragile loveliness was faintly suggestive of a girl of the Old South and the grand piano might have been a harpsichord, but her Dresden china daintiness is deceptive, and the full resonant tones she evoked were unlike the airy tinkle of the Colonial instrument for this girl of the New South has strength, courage and initiative, and all those characteristics that make for leadership. And as college authorities singled her out and honored those qualities, we were thrilled and happy for her."

And that attractive young couple, the Jimmie Wrayas are going to leave us soon. We understand they are being transferred to LaGrange. Sudie Lee Akins just barely has time to catch her breath in between parties, before her marriage to that football star of a few years ago who used to make us hold our breath as he made spectacular plays for T. May days were lovely, June days are rare. But any old day is a grand old day if it isn't darkened by care. As Ever JANE.

ANNOUNCEMENT Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Brown announce the birth of a son; Ernest Hampton, on Sunday June 12.

Culminating the series of lovely parties with which Miss Sue Lee Akins has been feted was the dinner party given Wednesday evening at the Tea Pot Grille after the rehearsal by Mr. and Mrs. Emit Akins.

The bridal motif was emphasized by the use of a miniature bride and groom and a wedding bell in the center of the table. The place cards were brides and grooms and these were attached to the central decoration with satin ribbons. Bags of rice tied with tulle were given as favors. Quantities of shasta daisies and gladioli, artistic arrangement adorned the private dining room. The guests included the wedding party and those who will assist in the reception.

On Thursday evening June 9th, 46 members of the class of 1913 were reunited at the Woman's Club for an evening of fun and reminiscences. Wives and husbands that have been acquired during the ten years and the faculty members increased the number present to 73.

Pink and green, the old class colors, proved again their adaptability in decoration and refreshments. Shasta daisies and pink zinnias were used on the tables, and at intervals white tapers were placed. Pink and green balloons bounced gaily from the back of each chair. Miniature diplomas tied with pink and green ribbons announced the well-known addresses, marked each place and when unrolled disclosed the interesting program. Green and white mint cups held pink and green mints. The elaborate dinner menu was served in four courses.

Committee Named To Launch Hospital Care Plan

DR. C. M. DESTLER AND DR. JOHN M. MOONEY WERE SEEN OUTLINE OF STUDY MADE BY MEMBERS OF FORUM CLUB

With the meeting of the representatives of various civic, county and medical organizations of Bulloch county held at the court house Thursday night, the movement to establish a hospital care insurance plan in Bulloch county was launched.

Farm Performance Being Checked On

Performance under the 1938 farm program is now being checked by community supervisors. Efforts are being made to complete the cotton and tobacco check up by July 15 so there will be no delay in the marketing quota allotments and the subsidy on the '37 cotton. The subsidy is contingent on the various farmers complying with the 1938 program on cotton.

These supervisors are not performance officers but are assisting farmers to certify to their performance so the payments can be collected on compliance with the 1938 farm program. They have been working in the field for about 10 days.

Blue prints are available on all the farms that were signed up on a work sheet in 1937 for checking performance. On farms that were not signed in 1937 the photographs used in 1937 are being used to check from.

Farmers anticipating payments under the 1938 program are urged by Raymond W. Williams, county performance supervisor to cooperate with the supervisors to speed the work along as much as possible. Every precaution possible is being taken by these supervisors to get the correct information on the first visit to a farm. If the operator of the farm can spare time to assist them men it will add to the efforts to avoid errors.

Sunday Movies Are Discontinued By Sponsors

THE AMERICAN LEGION AND THE HOSPITAL AUXILIARY HAVE DECIDED TO DISCONTINUE SUNDAY MOVIES.

The American Legion and the Hospital Auxiliary in announcing its intention to discontinue Sunday movies make the following statement:

"The Woman's Auxiliary of the Bulloch County Hospital and the American Legion have decided to discontinue Sunday movies for charity. This decision was reached entirely for the good of three churches of Statesboro and the city at large.

"Suppose those members of these three churches that honestly approved of good clean wholesome and educational pictures on Sunday for charity had taken their side into the churches as vigorously as the opponents have, can you imagine what would have happened to these churches? Did they have the same rights as a member of a church?"

"It is our honest opinion that approximately seventy five per cent of the membership of these three churches were in favor of Sunday movies for charity at the hours and etc. A petition was circulated for less than one day and approximately 90 per cent of those approached, signed it, and over 200 names were on it at the time it was discontinued, not just names but some of the most prominent church members and citizens of Statesboro, and since it has been discontinued there have been numbers of people wanting to sign it. We are confident, after our canvass, that from seventy five to eighty five per cent of the voters of Statesboro are in favor of it.

"Have the Mayor and some of the Council shown up by the passing of this ordinance that it was purely a fight against the Movies or some direct connection with it, and not a religious motive, as some of you were led to believe? Those who were responsible for bringing the fight with in the churches, and the heads of the churches who assisted in the campaign so vigorously, do they feel that with the passage of this ordinance that they have won a great victory, and now the morals of the people of Statesboro are safe-guarded, or do they feel that a political victory has been won, and in winning it, most of the moral side has been left out of it? Do the people generally approve the ordinance, and the way in which it was passed, this being the only ordinance that was operated in Statesboro on Sunday strictly for charity?"

Was it fair and honest for some of the opponents to continue to insist in public and private that the proceeds were to be used in building a building? A motion was made and unanimously adopted, before the picture was shown.

Hospital Day At Georgia Today

SHARE OF EACH WEDNESDAY'S SHOW WILL BE GIVEN TO HOSPITAL AUXILIARY TO HELP UNDERPRIVILEGED CHILDREN

Mrs. John Mooney, president of the Bulloch County Hospital Auxiliary announced this week that, with the cooperation of Mr. H. H. Macon of the Georgia and State Theatres, one day each week at the Georgia Theatre will be Hospital Day.

Mrs. Mooney stated that Mr. Macon has offered the Hospital Auxiliary a share in the receipts of the Georgia Theatre on Wednesday of each week. This money will be used to maintain a bed at the Bulloch county hospital for underprivileged children who have no way to secure hospitalization.

Beginning today, each Wednesday will be known as Hospital Day at the Georgia Theatre. Mrs. Mooney states that the Auxiliary is especially grateful to Mr. Macon for his hearty cooperation in making it possible for the Auxiliary to help those who are unable to help themselves, and adds that she hopes the public will keep in mind this generosity on the part of the County Committeemen and support the Auxiliary in its aims, by attending the Georgia Theatre to help the management help the auxiliary help the hospital help the underprivileged children of Bulloch county," said Mrs. Mooney.

"Judge Hardy's Children," with Lewis Stone, Mickey Rooney and Cecilia Parker is showing at today's Hospital Day.

Candidates Playing Their Cards Close To The Chest

The election to be held on June 29 in Bulloch county and the 49th Senatorial District is apparently on the quiet in several ways. But as the date of the primary approaches it is expected that interest will increase.

Bulloch county will witness a close race in the campaign for Judges of the City Court. J. E. Anderson, candidate for the position of assistant attorney general, opposes the incumbent, Linton G. Lanier. Judge Lanier was elected a short time ago in the race occurring when the former judge, Leroy Cowart, resigned.

Fred W. Hodges who is candidate for reelection as chairman of the Board of County Commissioners has no opposition.

The liveliest race promised is the one for two places in the House of Representatives. The candidates include two lawyers, one farmer and a mayor. Harry A. Akins, member of the local bar association and prominently connected with the Forum Club which originated the movement for the organization of a hospital care insurance plan, was the first to qualify for the race. Francis P. Lee, former representative from this district, has qualified. Mr. Preston has served two terms in the lower house. He is a graduate of the University of Georgia and has been actively associated with local politics for a number of years. D. B. Franklin, Bulloch county farmer, is a member of the board of trustees of the Cliftonville school and has also qualified for candidacy. H. Marshall Ifford, whose work as mayor of Brooklet built up a surplus in the town's treasury, was among the last to qualify. Mr. George M. Johnston, prominently mentioned as a probable candidate, did not qualify.

Bulloch's choice for its senator lies between only two candidates: Mrs. Julian C. Lane, president of the Eleanor Roosevelt Chapter of the Women's Democratic Club and also connected with many other Democratic activities; and Harvey D. Brannen who has served five terms in the lower house during the years between 1921 and 1932. Mr. Brannen was a member of the local bar association until 1918 when he entered the war. Returning from the war he entered the insurance business and has remained in this field ever since.

The race for County Commissioner will include two former members who seek reelection: George P. Lee and M. J. Bowen, and two new candidates: C. A. Peacock and C. B. Griner.

350 New Books Added to Bulloch County Library

LIBRARIAN WISHES IT UNDERSTOOD THAT USE OF LIBRARY IS FREE AND URGES CITIZENS TO USE IT

The Bulloch County Library added 350 new books to their shelves last week. This was the second shipment of books received in the last few weeks, the first consisting of approximately 200.

These new books were purchased by the Library Board under a plan which was submitted by the state. The local board raised $500 which was matched by another $500 by the state. This same plan is extended to the libraries of the county schools. $500 has been allocated to the school and as their part is raised the amount will be matched by the state.

The shipment of books just received by the library include fiction books for children through the seventh grade.

Mr. Leon Holloway, traveling librarian attached to the Bulloch county library states that Summer Vacation Reading clubs are being organized in all the county schools, and that the places of meeting will be announced later.

Edith Jones, librarian, in a statement made this week, wishes it understood that the Bulloch County Library is a free library. "There are no membership fees," said the librarian. Because citizens were solicited before the opening of the library for membership a number of the people of the county think that a membership is still necessary. The use of books is free to anyone wishing them except the newest books which are on the rental shelf.

Tobacco Marketing Cards Started

NOT TO BE ISSUED UNTIL ABOUT OPENING OF MARKET SAYS FIELD REPRESENTATIVE

Work is now under way to prepare marketing cards for the county agents. These cards will not be issued until about the time the markets open, according to Homer C. Durden, field representative of the Southern Region from Washington.

County Committeemen, community committeemen and the county agents are urging that every farmer that has tobacco planted in Bulloch county turn in to the community committeemen or the county office the acreage planted, the heads of the families on the various farms and the 1936 and 1937 production. It is advisable to carry to these committeemen the sale records or farm account records.

Under the 1938 program marketing quotas in pounds for tobacco will be based on the past three years sales records, the land available for tobacco, the labor available for tobacco, and the equipment on the farm for growing tobacco.

If the local committeemen are to furnish the state office the necessary information to compute the pounds for the various farms it will be essential that every tobacco grower in the county provide the information asked for prior to Saturday night, June 25. When quotas are issued they will compare favorably with every farmer in the community in which a grower lives.

COLORED LIBRARY OPENS WITH 300 BOOKS IN CHARGE OF MARY JOYCE

The colored division of the Bulloch County Library is now open with 300 books. The library is in charge of Mary Joyce.

In furnishing the library where they succeed in raising four dollars the Bulloch County Library Board will advance six dollars. In this way the library has been able to purchase a number of books.
