NOTHING TO HIDE

Dr. Marvin Pittman, president of the Georgia Teachers College, is to be commended for the frankness with which he has handled what the newspapers term "subsidization of athletes."

According to the audit as reported by Zack Arnold, state auditor, the college has had the courage to show in its audit that it has paid out $1,543.20 to members of the varsity football and basketball teams.

This is something new and unheard of in the state where colleges are not so aboveboard about subsidization of its football and basketball aces. Usually the star grid and floor performers are given some form of scholarship which includes tuition and living expenses, and sometimes spending money In The News is made available through odd jobs about the campus. At the Teachers College it is not financially possible to aid athletes as liberally as it is at coleges located in larger centers of population. There is no wealthy alumni to aid the T. C. athletic program. Dr. Pittman is opposed to all secret or evasive methods dealing with the athletic program and consequently makes it a part of his regular physical education program.

Mr. Arnold, in commenting on the report, commends Dr. Pittman in making no effort to cover up the fact that the college aids its athletes. We join with the State Auditor in commending Dr. Pittman for the straight-forward way in which he deals with his athletic and physical education program.

All you who own timber lands take time out and go to see the results of the fire which destroyed more than 500 acres of timber between here and the river, on lands belonging to Mrs. Ruth Mayer, Jim Hodges, Fred Hodges and others.

A lighted match, carelessly thrown, or a small fire left burning may have started it, or someone may have set it-there is no way of knowing. Yet, because of someone's carelessness, what it took Nature years and years to produce was destroyed in 48 hours.

To see the results should set every farmer and business man who owns lands to thinking and exercising care to prevent such forest fires.

Congratulations to the members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce on sponsoring one of the most unusual shows this section has ever seen.

You know, in spite of what Seldon tells me about these new fangled farming methods, sometimes I just ain't got a bit of patience with some of these college farmers.

Why, last week I was down in the lower pas ture and was driving my pigs out where that oak ridge is where they could eat acorns and fatten up for the market. This young sprout came out and me and he told me that was not the thing n a yard and carry the acorns to the pigs. He allowed as how it would save a lot of time. But the strings.
