Small Crop, But Fine Fruit.

It is shown from the testimony of those experienced in the culture of fruit in Georgia that the yield this season has been injured, but also that a fair crop will be made and that the fruit will be unusually fine. There are some growers in the state who insist that there will be no appreciable difference in the showing the orehards will make. This assertion is based on the ground that the peaches, ripening quickly as they do, and the necessity of gathering the crop within a few days, practically as many crates will be a banner crop year in Georgia."

Seventeen-Year Locusts Duc.

The hour of the seventeen-year locust is at hand, and the Georgia farmer is anticipating with some alarm the visitation which is sure to come, unless all signs and traditions in regards to locusts fail.

It is a matter of history that the seventeen-year locust apreared in the state in bulk in the year 1868. He arrived on schedule time in 1885 and now the time is propitious for another visit, and although he is somewhat overdue, locusts of the seventeen year brand have been seen in regiments in many of the southern states.

Southern Sentiment.

The following from the peroration of Mr. John Temple Graves' Memorial ad dress delivered in Atlanta is reproduced by the New York Evening Post with the statement that no recent utterance more completely expresses "real southern sentiment" of to-day:

Ladies and gentlemen, as I sink into silence with the setting sun, let me :alute the colors that surround me. First. that dear old flag of tender memories battle-scarred and grimed with glory consecrated in heroic convictions and furled forever upon an issue never to be reopened. And then, in the spirit of this happy day, let us salute that other flag that carries all the hope and glory of the present and all the hope and promise of our future, the flag of our country, the flag of our fathers, and now, please God, our flag forever. It's symbol is that of liberty and progress and wherever it streams men must and shall see daybreak bursting on the Not another flag in history has such a mission as that, or goes forth to carry such tidings upon land and sea. It is the banner of dawn, the flag of morning, the emblem of peace, the symbol of liberty-the unbought, unconquered, glorious—over all victorious— Star Spangled Flag of the free. As we behold it streaming here—we are vet-erans and sons of veterans, we are American citizens too-with one blood single bitter memory-can take it to our hearts and lift it high above heads, and, thank God, it waves at last above a reunited country, with its white stripe breathing peace, its red stripe pulsing kindred, and the azure radiant with stars which speak providence that makes—no and for-ever—one people—in this gre., st re-Mrs. F. The Long Cotton Gin

Has many advantages, compared with those of modern times. A double roller gin of two lengths, $3\frac{1}{2}$ to 5 feet length. The $3\frac{1}{2}$ foot gin will gin from 3 to 4 bales in ten hours. The 5 foot gin will gin from 4 to 6 bales in ten hours.

These Gins are Adjustable, in every way, instantly, while running, to suit all classes of cotton. Hackers are raised alike, with one nut or let down with the same. Tension to both blades are given with one nut against rollers. Any pressure desired. Brest of gin adjustable every way. Rollers are the ne towards and away from blades up and down, lifted by means of hand we list. It is all done in a moments time, while running. One man does the wor of two. It saves house room, power, oil, labor, length of shaft, pullies, there, one crank shaft, for it has but one, and it will gin a thousand bales wi nout being re-babited.
