This Week's Sentence Sermon

Transiency is stamped on all our possessions, occupations, and delights. We have the hunger for eternity in our souls, the thought of eternity in our hearts, the destination for eternity written on our inmost being, and the need to ally ourselves with eternity proclaimed by the most short-lived trifles of time.

DOES STATEBORO HAVE A SPEED LIMIT?

Yesterday we were standing on South Main street just beyond the business district, and a middle aged out of town man came up to us and asked, DOES STATEBORO HAVE A SPEED LIMIT? We replied yes, why, this gentleman calmly said he wondered if the City did have a limit and what the speed limit was.

We wonder if it wouldn't be a good thing for the city officials, and the city policemen to try and slow down some of our high speed traffic in the city limits? North Main, South Main and Savannah Avenue are three of the best race tracks in this part of the state, and they are being used just for that.

The employees of this paper are just as guilty of breaking the speed limit as the other people in the city, but let's all stop and think for a minute, Wouldn't it be better to think now and slow down our speed before some one is killed? We think so.

So far no serious accident has occurred in our city limits, but if we continue to drive like we have, one is going to occur, and then it will be too late. We fully realize that Statesboro is a busy, thriving, and growing city, but our businesses and errands to and from town are not so pushing that we have to drive 50 and 60 miles an hour.

Let's follow the citizens of Atlanta and the lesson they have learned in saving lives by reducing speeding in the city limits. Atlanta used to have more people killed and injured on its streets, in the city limits, than any other city in the United States. The Mayor cracked down on the speeders and set the speed limit to 25 miles per hour. Since then hundreds of lives have been saved, and fathers and mothers have been spared the ugly sight of seeing their loved ones dead or mangled up.

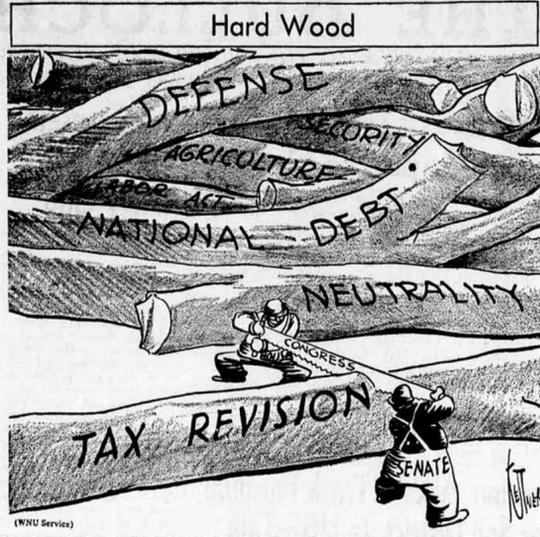

The next time you get in your car to drive anywhere within the city limits, think before you speed your car up to 50 miles an hour.

THE CENSUS IS BEGUN

Last week the census takers in the First District began their gigantic task. At the present time they who ask questions are devoting their efforts to business and industry. In April, they will get down to the still bigger task of questioning you and you and you. They plan to obtain information from every adult in the First District.

It is wrong for any person to resent the questioning of the census takers, to feel they are prying into purely personal affairs. On the surface, this may seem true. For they may ring the doorbell half a dozen times or they may make just one visit. They will ask questions, a great many of them. They will want to know where and how you are working, for instance they'll ask how much money you earn, how long you have been jobless. They will inquire into your neighborhood and your housing conditions. They will want answers to a lot of "why."

That it is a large undertaking is obvious. Thus it is well to remember the information sought should be given cheerfully, and without resentment. All will be told in strict confidence. It is to the interest of each citizen, his community and his nation, that he co-operate by answering correctly and pleasantly. The census is a real yardstick. It provides the background for information important to hundreds of governmental and non-governmental agencies. The motto is—do your part.

General Johnson Says:

A Ghoulish Piece of Muckraking... Break Between Woodrow Wilson and Colonel House Basis of Unfair Scream. By HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON, D. C.—It is significant that in appointing a personal representative to the Vatican, the President did not name a Roman Catholic. Myron Taylor is an Episcopalian.

The American rule for keeping religion out of politics is a good one and I, for one, can't see any violation of it here. I doubt if there has ever been a more blatant violation of the thought was of the Pope as a Roman pontiff, half so much as what pretend a voice for peace and religion generally.

This country stands for freedom of religion. And it is significant that in appointing a personal representative to the Vatican, the President did not name a Roman Catholic. Myron Taylor is an Episcopalian.

WASHINGTON.—The most ghoulish piece of muckraking of recent times is a publication, "The Truth Behind the House-Wilson Break," by George Sylvester Viereck. Affecting to be the work of a dead man, Colonel House—about his estrangement from another dead man—Woodrow Wilson—Mr. Viereck writes that the break was not a mere vital and inspirational community force.

When a last meeting between the two friends, "Viereck," might have saved at least the wreckage of their dream (League of Nations) again Mrs. Wilson interposed. House lost his friend. Wilson lost the hope of being the messiah of a new day and the world lost its chance of salvation from most of the ills that vex it this day.

Only Two Alive. This other dead man (Carey Grayson) is dragged into responsibility for upsetting the party. For all this character assassination not a single piece of direct evidence is presented. The characters in this play, only two remain alive. Edith Wilson and Bernard M. Baruch. Baruch has made it his business to say little is said against him and all that is specific is probably false. "Viereck" has said that much is implied. "When Baruch and Mrs. Wilson met, Grayson could not have imposed their will upon the country—Baruch, Grayson and his brains of the combination, (through his uncanny fascination—Grayson succumbed to the magic of Baruch."

All the facts about the break between House and Wilson may never be known. From long and intimate knowledge of the two men, the authors here stated by Viereck—Baruch and Grayson—it is betraying no confidence to say that neither of them has been successful in getting yuh's gettin' purty democratic.

And we wonder why the decision of the county commissioners to consider abandoning the health department was kept a secret until the Bulloch Herald printed the news in last week's issue.

We are pleased as punch at the reception of the people of Statesboro and Bulloch county of our announcement of our intentions of publishing semi-weekly. The date has not been set yet. Just as soon as we have settled in our new location here at the Banner States building we will announce the date. It is anticipated that the first of the semi-weekly issues will bring party. Venturing to close to come in about two weeks.

Dr. Bird Daniel tells the best one this week. A gentleman of color came into Dr. Bird's office and was complaining about not feeling so well as he might and was not able to work. "You know dat, yuh gets yuh's gettin' purty democratic."

We won't say who gets credit for this one, for it might anyone of a half dozen teller of tall tales, we became settled in our new location here at the Banner States building we will announce the date. It is anticipated that the first of the semi-weekly issues will bring party. Venturing to close to come in about two weeks.

Letters to the Editor

Editors Note: This is a copy of a letter written to the County Commissioners by Mr. Brown and sent to us for publication. County Commissioners, Bulloch County, Statesboro, Ga. Gentlemen:

According to Webster's Universal Unabridged Dictionary, the word economy is defined as follows: "A frugal and judicious use of money, etc.; THAT MANAGEMENT WHICH EXPENDS MONEY TO ADVANTAGE AND INCURS NO WASTE; frugality in the NECESSARY disposition of money." It might be said that where there is no money there can be no waste and by the same token that where there is no money there is no need for management. According to the above definition an economy man is one who ADVANTAGEOUS to the majority and certainly those things not NECESSARY. It goes without saying that our County Commissioner has investigated every expenditure in the county. Continued on Back Page.

PTA Council To Meet Here Saturday

The Bulloch County Council of the Parent Teachers Association will hold its first meeting in the Statesboro High School Auditorium Saturday morning of this week at 10 o'clock. "The Monthly Meeting Program," will be the subject for discussion.

The Statesboro P-T. A. with Mrs. Ernest Brannen as president will be the host at the meeting. A lunch will be served to the visitors.

Harris Harville, chairman of the program committee promises a program of practical benefit to the officers and committees of the local associations. The program will be in line with the council's theme of the year which challenges the local P-T. A. to become a more vital and inspirational community force.

A clear contact between the groups' leaders of opinions on these things is not political or temporal. It is spiritual in the highest and most realistic sense.

Miss Franseth Speaks at Rotary Club

Miss Jane Franseth, county school supervisor, in a talk to the members of the Rotary Club Monday expressed concern for the welfare of the county in the event the county school abandoned the Department of Health.

Giving a number of illustrations Miss Franseth pointed out the good the department is doing in the rural sections and schools of the county. Continuing, Miss Franseth said, "No one more than I in my heart and the hearts of all those who are interested in the lives of children and the hearts of all those whose parents are not able to fight for themselves."

Miss Franseth stated that in the two years the department has operated, hookworm in the county has reduced from 40 to 29 per cent. "In the examination of the school children, a number of defects were found that would never have been discovered such as bad teeth, eyes, tonsils and many others."

The speaker concluded her talk with an expression of the hope that the Rotary Club would join the other forces in the county to help the county commissions keep the Health Department. "Because of the joy of living that comes to well children and to keep people well is less expensive in dollars and cents than not to do so."

Bulloch's Cotton Quota Is Set at 36,000 Bales

Cotton quotas totaling some 36,000 acres were mailed to Bulloch county farmers this week. This is an increase of about one per cent over the acreage allotted to the county in 1939.

Farmers that were given an allotment based on half of their old base have about the same quota as they did for 1939; the farmers in the lower part of the county in most cases were allotted their old base for 1940, and the group that had an allotment based on the percentage of their cultivated acreage, after their tobacco base was deducted, receive a little more than 25 per cent of their cultivated acreage for 1940 as against slightly above 24 per cent in 1939. The provisions for planting the cotton quotas are the same for 1940 as they were for 1939; such as the quotas must be planted on the land allotted to and not transferred to lands covered by another work sheet and it is not necessary to plant any given amount of cotton in any given amount of land. Payments on the cotton fit payments on the cotton if it is not planted.

DOES STATESBORO HAVE A SPEED LIMIT?

Yesterday we were standing on South Main street just beyond the business district, and a middle aged out of town man came up to us and asked, DOES STATESBORO HAVE A SPEED LIMIT?

We wonder if it wouldn't be a good thing for the city officials, and the city policemen to try and slow down some of our high speed traffic in the city limits?

The employees of this paper are just as guilty of breaking the speed limit as the other people in the city, but let's all stop and think for a minute, Wouldn't it be better to think now and slow down our speed before some one is killed? We think so.

So far no serious accident has occurred in our city limits, but if we continue to drive like we have, one is going to occur, and then it will be too late. We fully realize that Statesboro is a busy, thriving, and growing city, but our businesses and errands to and from town are not so pushing that we have to drive 50 and 60 miles an hour.

Let's follow the citizens of Atlanta and the lesson they have learned in saving lives by reducing speeding in the city limits. Atlanta used to have more people killed and injured on its streets, in the city limits, than any other city in the United States. The Mayor cracked down on the speeders and set the speed limit to 25 miles per hour. Since then hundreds of lives have been saved, and fathers and mothers have been spared the ugly sight of seeing their loved ones dead or mangled up.

The next time you get in your car to drive anywhere within the city limits, think before you speed your car up to 50 miles an hour.

THE CENSUS IS BEGUN

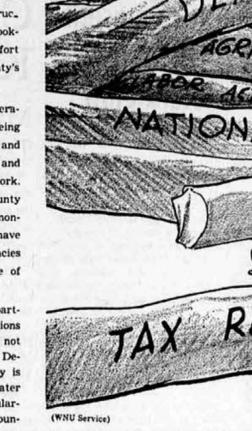

Last week the census takers in the First District began their gigantic task. At the present time they who ask questions are devoting their efforts to business and industry. In April, they will get down to the still bigger task of questioning you and you and you. They plan to obtain information from every adult in the First District.

It is wrong for any person to resent the questioning of the census takers. To feel they are prying into purely personal affairs. On the surface, this may seem true. For they may ring the doorbell half a dozen times or they may make just one visit. They will ask questions, a great many of them. They will want to know where and how you are working, for instance they'll ask how much money you earn, how long you have been jobless. They will inquire into your neighborhood and your housing conditions. They will want answers to a lot of "why."

That it is a large undertaking is obvious. Thus it is well to remember the information sought should be given cheerfully, and without resentment. All will be told in strict confidence. It is to the interest of each citizen, his community and his nation, that he co-operate by answering correctly and pleasantly. The census is a real yardstick. It provides the background for information important to hundreds of governmental and non-governmental agencies. The motto is—do your part.

Good Diets Include More Eggs, Dairy Products, Vegetables and Fruits

Food budgets are often "strained" after the special holiday cooking. So many homemakers like to start the new year with workable plans for feeding their families nutritious foods at a reasonable cost.

Nutritionally, the difference between good diets and ordinary diets, lies chiefly in the amounts of protective foods that are used. That is to say the good diets include more eggs, dairy products, green and yellow vegetables, and fruits.

Women who are making plans to emphasize the protective foods in their new food budgets, are fortunate this year. The nation's table will have an ample supply of these foods in the early part of 1940, according to estimates of the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Egg supplies are expected to be ample. The quantities of dairy products are expected to be adequate. Fresh winter vegetables are plentiful and there is a good supply of canned vegetables in storage.

Fresh fruits are abundant, with the usual bountiful supply of oranges and grapefruit coming to the market. Plenty of fruit is also on hand in both the dried and canned form, as well as the fresh.

Pork, with its great increase in production, also calls for special attention because it has raised the supply higher than it has been for several years.

There is plenty of wheat, too, both for domestic and export needs. We know that some kinds of food are more important for body needs than others, and some give us food value more cheaply than others.

The trick in planning well-balanced meals at reasonable cost, is to know which foods are "good buys" in terms of the nutrients they contain. Then it is the cook's

COUNTY AGENT URGES FORMERS TO MAINTAIN TERRACES BY PLOWING. Bulloch County farmers were advised this week by County Agent Byron Dyer to take advantage of the remaining time before winter rains set in for getting terrace maintenance work done.

With a two-horse turn plow, beginning on top of the terrace ridge, throw one furrow downhill. Throw the second furrow uphill, about 14 to 18 feet up the slope from the first. This lays off a land that can be plowed out to maintain the terrace channel.

Flow the outside furrows deep and close gradually, recrossing the depth and width of the cut as the land is plowed out. The plowing will be completed with a dead furrow in the center of the channel flow line. By this method, where grain has not been planted, the native vegetation immediately below the channel will be left undisturbed to control erosion.

After the land has been plowed, the next step is to build up the low places with either a shovel or a slip scrape and to open the ends of the terrace. When the ends are properly opened, they take the same size and shape as the terrace in the field.

The need for terrace maintenance is especially apparent at this time in silted channels and decreased channel capacity, resulting from preparation and cultivation. And now that other work on the farm has slackened up, an excellent opportunity is afforded for doing terrace maintenance work, the agent said.

and the menu-planner's job to make meals appetizing by choosing a variety of foods and by good preparation and attractive serving plans for feeding their families nutritious foods at a reasonable cost.

"When 'Bargain hunting' for food values, it's also important to know that the foods high in nutrients may be purchased at different price levels. For example, one kind of green vegetable may be cheaper than another and still be equally good. Beef liver is less expensive than sirloin steak, yet it contains more food value.

Milk may be purchased in the form of evaporated, or powdered. Of course, the grade of food used, the quantity purchased at one time, and the keenness of the shopper in picking up bargains, all have their effect on the food budget.

A "food-proof" system for assuring a good diet for everybody has not yet been worked out. But the Federal Bureau of Home Economics has made some helpful weekly market lists at different levels of cost. From them, a homemaker may readily make up a weekly market list for a family of any size and any combination of children and adults doing different kinds of work.

But suppose the Smith live on a farm where they both work outdoors and are very active. They would spend less money for food, because they would grow many of their own supplies. But they would need a larger amount of some foods—such as potatoes, cereals, sugar, and fats, which are inexpensive sources of the food energy needed for muscular work.

For a family with children, one extra quart of milk should be added each day for each child to help meet the protein, mineral, and vitamin requirements. Don't worry if the teen age boy seems to be "eating more than his father." He's probably far more active and he's growing so rapidly that he needs more calories and other food values in proportion to his size.

Younger children, of course, need a smaller amount of high calorie foods. But it is important that along with these foods they get the protein, minerals, and vitamins that are needed as body builders and boy regulators.

hard physical labor, but they are fairly active. Mrs. Smith is anxious for them to have a good diet, but at a moderate cost. Their market order each week should include about:

Milk, 7 qts., potatoes and sweet potatoes, 5 1/2 pounds; mature, dry legumes and nuts, 1-2 pound, tomatoes and citrus fruits, 4 pounds; leafy, green, and yellow vegetables, 7 pounds; other vegetables, 12 pounds; eggs, 1 dozen; lean meat and fish, 6 pounds; flour and cereals, 6 1/2 pounds; butter, 1 pound; other fats, 1 pound; sugar, 2 pounds.

With this as their marketing order, during the week they will each have 10 to 11 servings of potatoes and sweet potatoes and 7 to 8 servings of meat, fish, or poultry. With these foods they will also have 1 to 2 servings of legumes and nuts; 5 to 6 servings of tomatoes and citrus fruits; 10 to 11 servings of leafy, green and yellow vegetables; and 6 eggs apiece. Each day they will each have a pint of milk, a serving of cereal, dessert once or twice, and bread at every meal.

New Year - New Leaf - Why Not New Car?

THE slate's clean, the past is past, you're making a new beginning on a new year you hope will be happier and finer and richer - how about doing the job up right?

You spot the fun possibilities in this brilliant and buoyant Buick just by watching it flash by, but have you been in to try it?

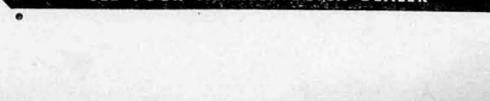

Do you know what it's like - first hand, we mean - to have a hundred-plus Dynaflex horsepower waiting your treadle-foot's nudge? Have you sampled the thrill in such an engine micro-prise-balanced to smoothness a wrist watch can't hope to equal?

Today's winter-roughened roads give you swell chance to try out Buick's gentle ride - raw weather emphasizes the stout snuggness of Unisteel Bodies by Fisher and the convenience of the Flash-Way Direction Signal.

Now's when you must find new rubber - sure, soft, tiptoe brakes - Buick's automatic choke - stout, taut frames and rugged bodies, and why wait for spring to buy beauty that gives your spirits a lift?

Then too, driving speeds are naturally lower now and driving distances shorter, making this the best time of all to get a car properly started in life. So figure it out! It's a new year. You've turned a new leaf. Ask your Buick dealer what a new Buick will cost you now - and let every month of 1940 contribute to a happy new year!

3. In excess of one ton manufacturers' rated capacity truck, one hundred dollars ($100) per year or any fraction thereof. Resolved further, that the articles excluded in section 4 of the rolling store motor vehicle act, passed at the extra session of Georgia laws, 1937-38, as set forth on page 182 of said Georgia laws, are excluded in this resolution.

Resolved further, that the words "rolling store," "motor vehicle," "retail," as used in this resolution, are to have the same definition as stated in the act of the Georgia Legislature referred to herein.

That each operator shall apply to the county commissioners of Bulloch County for a license and have the same issued to him before he begins business in said county, in which application he shall set forth a description of the motor vehicle intended to be used as a rolling store, giving the weight of said vehicle, together with the maximum actual weight of such vehicle and load combined, the name, the residence and owner of said vehicle, and such other information as may be required.

Any person violating this resolution shall be punished as provided in said act referred to herein. Adopted in regular session adjourned, on the 22nd day of December, 1939.

HOW TO KEEP POINSETTIA FOR FLOWERING NEXT YEAR. At this season, the poinsettia plant will be found in full bloom. It's a good idea to care for the plant at this time, so as to keep it in good condition for flowering next year.

The true blossoms, inconspicuous, are surrounded by the bright red leaves or bracts which fall off soon after the holiday season is over.

After the leaves have fallen, put the plant in a cool place, between 40 degrees and 60 degrees F., and allow the soil to dry out. Do not water the plant in this stage, which should last until May. Then, if there is too much old wood to make a shapely plant for next winter, cut it back. Shake the old soil from the roots. Put in a pot large enough to hold the mass of roots without crowding. Provide drainage in the bottom of the pot. Fill it with fresh soil—three parts garden loam, one part well-rotted manure, and one part leafmold.

After the poinsettia is reported, set it in a warm, light place and water it whenever the soil seems to hold drying out. When the maple trees are in full leaf, set in poinsettia out of doors in a sunny place, still in its pot. Bury the pot in the soil up to its top. This saves rotting in the fall and disturbing the roots.

In a very hot climate it's better to place the poinsettia where there is some shade at mid-day. As soon as growth starts, provide wooden or wire stakes to support the plant and keep the stems straight. If more is necessary to report the plant once during the summer in a larger pot, if it becomes potbound.

In the fall and when there is danger of frost, it's time to bring the poinsettia indoors. Keep it in a light airy part of the house, cut out of drafts, where the temperature ranges from 60 degrees to 65 degrees F. Higher temperatures will make the leaves drop. Keep the soil moist and give a little liquid manure at weekly intervals. Then you'll have flowers and red leaves for next Christmas.

Loose Screws In the News...

Old Mother Hubbard. Went to the cupboard. And threw her doggie a bone. Along came the garbage man. To put it in the garbage can. But to and behold it was gone!

There is a large bone on a moultrie sidewalk, that no one has dared to molest, not even the garbage man. For hovering around it for the past few days have been one large police dog and two small pooches. The canines treasure the delicacy so much that when they spied the city sanitary department coming down the street recently, in a body they hid the bone behind a shrub.

The city of West Point was honored recently by the visit of a small West Point States vet, who was on hand at the famous surrender of Appomattox. According to the News, J. B. Billingsley—that's the 107-year old New-nanite's name—is "well preserved" and feels as young as a mer youth of 87.

Dawsonites listened to an "elephant-faced" preacher recently when they were visited by "The Reverend" Fuller, a colored preacher, born part human and part elephant, and known throughout the world. Fuller is said to be the only 13 children in his family born in his condition. He has a forehead of an elephant, ear that hangs 17 inches, two normal ears and three eyes, but can see out of only one. An elephant trunk formation hangs 24 inches.

A Colquitt county gander has taken up bull fighting—well, cow-fighting, anyhow. Henry Greenwood, owner of this belligerent fowl, was milking Bossy one day when "Jim" the gander decided to grab a bite of the bovine's dinner. Bossy objected rather strenuously, so "Jim" threw a hell nelson on the cow's neck; and, when finally slung off, grasped her by the tail for a wild ride around the barnyard. And with the gander still hanging on, Greenwood, somewhat dazed, continued his milking.

W. A. Strickland, Carrollton, has found a new use for the 15-year-old dog, "T" the hound. All day long, it saws Strickland's stove wood at his wood yard, and when day is done, the ingenious Carrolltonian puts the tire track on the rim and treks home in the same auto.

Any person violating this resolution shall be punished as provided in said act referred to herein. Adopted in regular session adjourned, on the 22nd day of December, 1939.

Bulloch Farmers Ordering Seedlings For Planting

County Agent Byron Dyer reports that many applications for forest tree seedlings have been received by his office up to date since last fall for farmers and 4-H club members, who are carrying out reforestation practices on their farms.

Mr. Dyer states that he is still occupying application for seedlings and that the various nurseries over the state are already shipping trees to the farmers.

Farmers wishing to obtain seedlings may purchase pines from the State Division of Forestry in Atlanta, Abraham Baldwin College, in Tifton, or the University of Georgia Forest Station in Athens, at a cost of $2.00 per thousand. Black locust may be obtained from the State Division of Forestry at $3.00 per thousand, and black walnut at $3.50 per thousand. All orders are F. O. B. nursery.

Those who wish to plant during January and February and who have not already placed an order for trees should do so as soon as possible, in order to be sure that they get delivery. Mr. Dyer said, "Remember," the agent added, "that every farm participating in the 1940 Triple-A farm program can earn an additional $30 this year by planting forest tree seedlings."

Bulloch County has unlimited possibilities in the production of beef cattle. We hope that in a few years we can supply the local demand for beef cattle instead of buying them from the West.

This is in line with the record of the other two pigs when they weighed about his present weight. It is gaining nearly six times as fast since protein supplement has been added to his diet as before and is paying approximately 3 1/2 times as much for his corn.

Farmers are cordially invited to visit the demonstration, but should do so as early as possible. The pig will be ready for market in about a month. The boys are expecting to put on about 175 pounds gain on each pig in a fraction over three months. The larger pig for some time have been gaining an average of 2 pounds a day and are expected to gain more rapidly as time goes on.

This demonstration indicates that corn properly supplemented will pay around one dollar per bushel when fed to hogs at 5 to 8 cents per pound. This might serve as a guide in selling surplus corn.

Part of supplement is furnished by the Rackley Feed and Seed Store.

TO THE COUNTY COMMISSION, BULLOCH COUNTY, STATESBORO, GEORGIA

The local branch of the American Association of University Women is deeply concerned over the possibility of the discontinuance of the Ellis Health Law in our county.

It is our understanding that at a recent meeting of the county board of commissioners it was considered to discontinue the services of the Health Department.

Those who wish to plant during January and February and who have not already placed an order for trees should do so as soon as possible, in order to be sure that they get delivery.

Mr. Dyer offered the following recommendations for production and care of hatching eggs:

Laying hens should be fed a good ration, and should be given all the mash they will eat.

One male may be allowed to each 10 to 12 females of heavy breeds, while one male to each 15 females is a general rule in the case of Yeghorns.

On cold days, eggs need to be gathered frequently, and in freezing weather, gather them every hour or two, so as to protect them from chilling.

Eggs should be placed with small end down in egg case and turned twice a day by slanting the case.

Handle eggs with care and do not jar the eggs or containers, because the egg with its microscopic embryo is very delicate and easily injured.

Bulloch Farmers Ordering Seedlings For Planting

County Agent Byron Dyer reports that many applications for forest tree seedlings in Bulloch County have been received by his office up to date since last fall for farmers and 4-H club members, who are carrying out reforestation practices on their farms.

Mr. Dyer states that he is still accepting applications for seedlings and that the various nurseries over the state are already shipping trees to the farmers.

Farmers wishing to obtain seedlings may purchase pines from the State Division of Forestry in Atlanta, Abraham Baldwin College in Tifton, or the University of Georgia Forest School in Athens, at a cost of $2.00 per thousand.

Black locust may be obtained from the State Division of Forestry at $3.00 per thousand, and black walnut at $3.50 per thousand.

Those who wish to plant during January and February and who have not already placed an order for trees should do so as soon as possible, in order to be sure that they get delivery.

Since many flock owners sell eggs to commercial hatcheries, it is important that eggs be in good condition, so as to hatch a high percentage of chicks.

Continued from Editorial Page. lars spent by the county in the past year has accomplished a much. Eery Truly Yours, E. H. BROWN, Copy to Bulloch Herald.

TO THE COUNTY COMMISSION, BULLOCH COUNTY, STATESBORO, GEORGIA

Gentlemen: The local branch of the American Association of University Women is deeply concerned over the possibility of the discontinuance of the Ellis Health Law in our county. To us this seems to be a backward step of a serious nature.

The fact finding committee of Georgia, a group of public spirited citizens who are making great contributions to the welfare of our State, has listed Health as the Number One problem of Georgia. That in itself should make us more anxious to promote the work of such an organization as the Bulloch County Health Department.

The service rendered by the Health Department during 1938 cannot be interpreted in terms of dollars and cents, as is the case when telling of the miles of new paver highways, but rather in terms of the intangible "joy of living." Listed below is the statistical record of the efforts of the Health Department as we with the principal speaker at the regular weekly meeting, Monday, at the Statesboro Rotary Club.

Admitted to medical service for communicable diseases, 1,263; tuberculosis control, admitted to medical service, 124; Immunization: small pox, 204; Diphtheria, 313; typhoid, 3,132; Hookworm treatments, 4,172; venereal diseases, 1,941; pre-natal medical service, 1,941; parents, 316; milk examined, 1,214; dental inspections, 2,289; food handlers inspected, 158; milk handers inspected, 14; visits to dairy farms, 92.

If the above statistics are read with understanding it will be evident to all civic minded citizens that the Health Department is making significant contributions to the well-being of Bulloch County. It is not economy to put more people on relief because they are physically unable to work, or to fill our schools with children who are retarded because of illness. Let us all work together to find some way of continuing the service of the Bulloch County Health Department.

SUE HAMMACK, Chairman of Health and Recreation, the American Association of University Women.

Post Office Sets New Record Stamp sales for 1939 at the local postoffice were the largest in the history of the office, according to Postmaster George T. Groover. The receipts were over $25,000.

At a later date (after December 30, 1938) Mr. Rushing made a note eliminating this clause, but neglected to do so in the presence of the witnesses who originally witnessed his will. On July 13, 1939, Judge J. E. McCroan ruled that clause 10 which was noted as eliminated in the original will "is legible and accurate. Eddie Johnson who has had more than 18 years experience will be in charge of production in the repair shop."

County Mules Bring $1,500 The county sold at public auction, 10 mules and 3 horses to the highest bidders on the court house square for a total of $1,500. SPOKE AT TEACHERS COLLEGE MONDAY

RUTH BRYAN OWEN Ruth Bryan Owen, America's first woman diplomat and former minister to Denmark spoke to a full house at the Teachers College Monday.

Mrs. Bryan told the capacity crowd how the farmers of the little state of Denmark had remedied their entire economic set-up through collective and co-operative scientific dairying, farming, buying and selling.

She said that the Danish farmers have organized "everything except the weather." Mrs. Bryan expressed the opinion that no one nation is strong enough to deal with war, but if we stood together, we could be strong enough to deal with war. I think that we are standing at the crossroads.....

-----the road of the Soviets..... and thank God, that is the pure democracy..... and that is the road which the people of Denmark are now taking."

In private life Mrs. Owen is known as Mrs. Borge Rohde.
