WANTED—Farms For Rent

EDITOR'S NOTE: Georgia has thousands of farms for sale but fewer to rent—paradoxical situation of great importance both to landowners and present tenants.

"In December, 1938, like many other tenant farmers, I was looking for a farm for rent. I found very few for rent but many for sale at bargain prices.

"With all these farms for sale and many men wanting to buy, why was there no business being done? When a good product which the people need is not selling, the manufacturer works out a new plan of selling.

"The farm mentioned above would probably rent for $75 and the tax be about $15. If he rented it out the owner would net $60 every fall, not counting the upkeep.

"This may sound too simple to be workable. A stillson wrench is a simple tool but it has never been replaced. And there is nothing unusual about this plan.

"It goes without saying that all tenants would not make successful landowners. Some do not have the ability or ambition. But many have and if given an opportunity like this would make good.

"And there is no doubt about the added advantages of ownership. The owner has many more sources of income than the tenant. Pulwood, for example, all the tenant can hope to get from pulwood is day wages for cutting it.

"The owner of a small farm without tenants can afford to forego a few dollars' income now in order to make more later from diversified field crops, timber and livestock on a fertile farm that stays put inside its boundary lines.

see a record of the average tenant farmer's income, many people, including the tenant himself, in some cases would be surprised. I have such a record and it shows the total cash income for one year to be $122.70.

"Nothing worth while can be accomplished in one day. A sound agricultural system able to withstand a severe financial shock cannot be founded in a day or a year.

"Under this farm purchase plan the purchaser should be selected carefully. He should have character and courage and have in operation a plan of farming that provides more than one source of income.

"I. A milk cow to every two members of the family and in no case less than two cows.

"Ten hens to every member of the family and in no case less than 40 hens. (In Progressive Farmer and Southern Ruralist Clarence Poe says, "In the bulletin, Studies in Farm Tenancy in Texas, it is shrewdly noted that the tenant whose wife is a better and chicken woman, is the one who ultimately buys a farm.")

"Seventy-five pounds of pork to each member of the family.

"Fifty quarts of canned fruits and vegetables to each member of the family, or this value in canned fruits and vegetables and dried foods, such as dried apples and beans.

"Good workstock and tools.

"Plenty of livestock feed.

"Planting seeds.

"An insurance policy."

Bulloch County Is Beautiful Too

Atlanta boasts of her dogwoods, Charleson, her gardens; Savannah, her Azaleas but we don't hear of Bulloch county boasting of her dogwoods.

There is a section of the county through which the "Old River Road" runs that is one of the most beautiful sections in the state. It's beauty is not planned nor made by the hand of man. It is God's work at His best.

The part of the county is not only rich in beauty but is one of the most historic sections in the state. The "Old River Road" was the original Milldegeville-Savannah State coach road before and during the War Between the States.

Let's do a little boasting of our own beauty.

Its A "Real Clean Up"

There are still a few who doubt the sincerity of the Brewers and Beer Distributors Committee of Georgia about the promised "clean up" campaign.

These doubts took another blow this week, with the announcement that three questionable places in Richmond County, near Augusta, have been padlocked and their licenses revoked—effective at once.

They're Off

The Man of the Week

EDITOR'S NOTE—This week we present a man the like of whom makes up the salt of the earth. It is men like him, who go about their daily work, with a love and understanding for it which turns their work into their hobby.

Dan Bland was born and reared in Bulloch County. He was born in 1894, the same year the court house was built here in Statesboro.

He was in the first class to enter the then First District Agricultural and Mechanical School in 1908. He was out of school for two years before finishing in 1916.

Dan is the son of the late Mike Bland, one of the county's most beloved characters and a pioneer in the history of the county. His mother was Miss Annie Rigdon also of Bulloch County.

Dan Bland is not a man to do much talking. He goes about his work with a love for it which pays him rich dividends, if not in cash, in satisfaction of a job well done.

The Editor's Uneasy Chair

THE ALMANAC SAYS THE WEATHER THIS WEEK TODAY, THURSDAY, APRIL 11 WILL BE RAINY. FRIDAY, APRIL 12, WILL BE RAIN. SATURDAY, APRIL 13, WILL BE RAIN. BIRTHDAY OF THOMAS JEFFERSON. SUNDAY, APRIL 14, WILL BE SHOWERS. MONDAY, APRIL 15, WILL BE STORMY. MOON IN FIRST QUARTER. TUESDAY, APRIL 16, WILL BE SHOWERS. WEDNESDAY, APRIL 17, WILL BE SHOWERS. BUT DON'T BLAME US IF THE ALMANAC IS WRONG.

It pleases us this week than Dan Bland has been named the Man of the Week. Dan has known us since we were a little shaver. And the folks used to send us out of town from town to keep us out of trouble we used to pass his place and always thought he was the best peacan man in the county.

"After God had finished making the rattlesnakes, the load and the vampire. He had some very undesirable substance left with which he made a knocker.

"A knocker is a two-legged animal with a cork-stemmed soul, a water-sogged brain, a combination backbone made of jelly and glue.

Portrait of VIVEN LEIGH

(Appearing as Scarlett O'Hara in "Gone with the Wind" at the Georgia Theatre, starting April 11th)

No matter what else may happen to her during her future career, Vivien Leigh will always be remembered as the girl who won the most controversial role in the history of motion pictures—the part of Scarlett O'Hara in David Selznick's Technicolor production of Margaret Mitchell's "Gone with the Wind."

This was the role that all the world had debated for two years. Every important star in motion pictures, and dozens of the lesser players, were named as candidates at one time or another. In the home stretch of the race, the role went to Miss Leigh.

Selznick, when he first purchased the film rights to Margaret Mitchell's best-seller novel, promised he would search the world for a living Scarlett, a girl with waist and all the other characteristics of the Georgia belle. In Miss Leigh he found not only the physical counter part but a girl whose French and Irish ancestry gave her the same blood strains as the heroine of Miss Mitchell's novel of the Civil War South.

Born in India

Vivien Leigh was born on November 5, 1913, in the resort town of Darjiling, India, which nestles in the mountains opposite the unconquered peak of Mt. Everest in the Himalayas. Her father, Ernest Richard Hartley, then a stock broker of Calcutta, came of French forebears, and her mother, Gertrude Robinson Hartley, was born in Ireland. In the book, Scarlett's mother was of French descent, and her father was of Irish birth.

Throughout girlhood, Vivien traveled from city to city in Europe, acquiring her education. At the age of five she was taken to London to enter the Sacred Heart Convent. At the age of eight she was given her first taste of acting in a school production of "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

The urge to act remained with Miss Leigh through her subsequent years of schooling, and even after her marriage, at the age of nineteen, to Leigh Holman who, today, is one of England's most prominent actresses. Following the birth of a daughter, Suzanne, in 1934, Miss Leigh appeared in a number of minor picture roles, and then made her stage bow in "The Green Sash" at the Theatre Royal, London.

"The Mask of Virtue," presented by Sydney Carroll at the Ambassador Theatre, was her next play. There were only four major players in the cast, and Miss Leigh was one of them. It gave her an opportunity in the biggest role to date. The play did so well it was moved to a larger house, the St. James Theatre, where it ran for five months. Miss Leigh shared in its success, and was hailed by critics as definite "find."

Picture Offers

While the play still was running film offers from major companies came daily to the young actress. Instead of snatching at them, however, she accepted, after brief vacillation, a role in "The Hypocrite," stage play by Clemence Dane, followed by a part in Shakespeare's "Henry VIII," an open air presentation in London's Regents Park.

"Fire Over England," in which she had a role as a lady-in-waiting was Miss Leigh's first major picture. She went on to important roles in "Dark Journey," "Storm in a Teacup," "St. Martin's Lane" and "Yank in Oxford." Meanwhile, on the stage, she played "Bats in the Belfry," "Hamlet" and "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

When Selznick was searching for Scarlett, Miss Leigh appeared in Hollywood and became a last-minute candidate. She made a lengthy series of tests and at length triumphed over the field.

Miss Leigh is 5 feet 3 inches tall, weighs 103 pounds, and has Scarlett O'Hara's green eyes. Her hair, too, is like Scarlett's, brown with a definite reddish tint, all of which will be seen in natural color, since the film is entirely in Technicolor.

Georgia Farmers Build Soil with Legumes and Grasses

Thirty seventh grade boys and girls of Register School, Miss Mary Lunsford, teacher of the seventh grade, and Mr. H. G. Holloway, bus driver, spent April 1, seeing and visiting places of interest in and around Savannah.

They were furnished a guide by the Chamber of Commerce. The first place they visited was the Sugar Refinery. The guide showed us the dock where sugar comes in from foreign countries. We saw the different processes that sugar goes through. The grounds were very attractive. The Azalias and panicles were in full bloom.

The next place we went to was the Irene Mound. There we saw where long ago there was an Indian village. Most of the skulls, bones and pottery that belonged to the Indians have been removed.

After seeing the Irene Mound we saw the Union Bag and Paper Mill. We saw how wood was ground into pieces and how it went through several processes. We saw no longer wood, but was paper.

The W. P. A. work shop had the things that were removed from the Irene Mound. We examined skulls of the Indians, pottery, pipes, arrow-heads, bone needles and other interesting things.

On our most interesting visits to the Telfair Academy of Arts and Science. There we saw the works of great artists and sculptors, beautiful old furniture and clothes of the Telfair family.

Our last two visits were to Southern Bell Telephone Exchange and to see the destroyers. Our visit to the telephone exchange was of much interest.

Two large destroyers were anchored at the docks. We went aboard the smallest one after Miss Lunsford finally received special permission from the captain. No visitors were supposed to be allowed on board. On the war ship we saw the radio room, control room, looked through a telescope, and saw some of the war guns.

Under the direction of Miss Lunsford we made and sold enough ice cream to pay all of the expenses of our trip.

HIGHLIGHTS OF FARM WOMEN'S WORK IN 1939

Georgia far women accomplished big things during 1939. With home demonstration agents and Extension specialists acting as leaders, they:

Saved approximately 467,080 through home improvement and home furnishings activities.

Canned or otherwise preserved farm products valued at approximately 1,091,000.

Assisted in the clinics for the immunization of smallpox, diphtheria and typhoid with the result that 57,000 individuals were immunized against the three diseases.

Gave increased attention to handicrafts. Over 17,000 families from 1,540 Georgia communities made articles in the home which ranged from rugs and baskets to pictures, plaques and pottery.

Saved approximately $280,000 through adopting improved practices in dry cleaning and laundering, through dyeing, making over garments and in construction of clothing. A total of 302,947 articles of clothing were constructed.

Sold miscellaneous farm products valued at $547,765 through retail car markets, roadside markets, bartering, retail grocers, rolling stores, community trucks, hotels, tea rooms, and parcel post through post card contacts.

SEWED FRUIT WHIPS

Fruit whips are good to serve during any season of the year. They are simple to prepare, inexpensive, and delicious. Fruits of pronounced flavor and color make the best fruit whips, for example, peaches, apricots, and prunes. Cook, sieve, and sweeten the fruit for a whip before you beat the egg whites. If the whites stand they will lose much of the air that has been worked into them by beating.

Egg whites whip up more quickly when they are at ordinary room temperature, so get the eggs out of the refrigerator ahead of time. Avoid getting egg yolk or any fat on the beater. If it gets into the whites, they won't beat up as stiffly as you want them.

Adding a pinch of salt to the egg whites before beating will increase the volume of the foam and make it less likely to become watery if it stands. Either a rotary beater or a whip or whisk beater may be used. A rotary beater makes a finer foam, but a whip beater makes a greater volume. Beat until the whites are stiff, but not dry. At this stage the foam will be shiny, and will hold its shape when the beater is removed.

Hot fruit pulp added to the beaten egg partly cooks them. The best technique for combining them is to pour the hot fruit mixture gradually over the egg whites. Use a gentle, folding motion for mixing. If the whip is to be baked, pour at once into a buttered mold or pan. Set this in a pan of water, in a very slow oven (255 to 250 F.). A whip cooked slowly should not stick when taken from the oven.

If the whip is served without cooking, mix only a short time before you want it. Whipped cream, if used, is added after the egg and fruit mixture has cooled and just before serving. If the whip must stand, a little gelatin added to the hot fruit pulp (after being softened in cold water) will keep it light and fluffy. Use 1 teaspoon of gelatin to 3 egg whites and 1 cup of fruit pulp. Chill in refrigerator.

Georgia Progress Days Began in 1934

March 1935 President Marvin S. Pittman, of the Georgia Teachers' college, introduced a new educational program in the form of a Georgia Progress conference. The sixth annual program will be held at the college tomorrow and Saturday with the theme "Planning a Better Georgia."

"MAN OF THE WEEK"

In keeping with other conferences such as the Institute of Citizenship at Emory and the Institute of Public Affairs at the University of Georgia, the college here inaugurated a program with an even broader field. The first program, March 8-9, 1935, was a conference on "The Teaching Profession in Georgia." Chancellor Philip Weltner was one of the principal speakers. Dr. J. C. Meadows, of the University of Georgia, was a leader of a discussion with educators from all parts of the state participating. The second Georgia Progress Program was held March 6 and 7, 1936, and the theme was "A More Abundant Life Through Health and Physical Education." Dr. M. L. Brittain, of Georgia Tech; Dr. O. C. Carmichael, of Vanderbilt; and Dr. Malcolm Deussen, of Emory, were the leaders. In 1937 the program was given March 12 and 13 with "Georgia's Wealth and Poverty" as the theme. Dr. George Fort Milton, of Chattanooga, and Dr. Wm. T. Couch, of the University of North Carolina, led the discussion. "Science in Georgia Progress" was featured at the fourth annual program, March 12, 1938, with Dr. E. Laurence Palmer, of Cornell university, and Dr. Hanner A. Webb, of Peabody as the speakers. Last year the program was on "Progressive Education in Theory and Practice," with Dr. William H. Kilpatrick, of Columbus university, and Dr. Paul Misner, of Glencoe, Ill., as the leaders.

Rountree, lawyer, of Swainsboro; Mrs. Troy Rucker, president of the State Home Demonstration council; Charles D. Russell, of Savannah; R. M.
