THINK OF THIS!

DAY AFTER DAY we go about our daily tasks, interested only in ourselves, our neighbors, our business and his business.

And then one day we read of a raid of the "vice squad" in some large city and cases being made against a number of girls found in a "den of iniquity."

For us to make the statement that, in Statesboro, there are a number of houses of prostitution it would be expected that we know it to be true.

We think of Statesboro as being one of the prettiest, healthiest and cleanest of small towns. Yet in several neighborhoods in the city there are as many sores which, if something is not done to clean them up, will gradually and surely sap the strength and destroy the beauty of our community.

Children in these neighborhoods come to know of what goes on and become exposed to dangers to morality. The health of the neighborhood, and the city becomes endangered, resulting in loss of time and money.

Our usual attitude of letting well enough alone will not solve this problem which affects your child, your home, your city. A militant attitude must be assumed by the entire city and a concerted voice raised demanding "rid us of this evil."

MOYER'S DAY. SUNDAY IS MOTHER'S DAY. Does this mean anything to you? Certainly it does.

We can think of no holiday more in keeping with the American tradition than Mother's Day. It has ever been "American" to honor the great heroes of our land—it is not fitting, then, that we should set aside a day in honor of our greatest heroine—your Mother and our Mother?

But Mother's Day takes on added importance when we stop to think of how PERSONAL this holiday is. All American mothers, of course, we honor; to our own Mother we pay special tribute.

MERCANTILES' HALF-HOLIDAY. Last Wednesday afternoon marked the beginning of the Statesboro merchants observing the closing of their stores during the summer, until the opening of the Tobacco Market.

At a meeting about two months ago the merchants in Statesboro agreed to close their stores during this time. Drug stores, garages, filling stations and automobile dealers excluded. They, out of necessity, have to stay open.

At this meeting there was a spirit of civic co-operation. A majority of our merchants were present. All agreed that Wednesday was the best day to close up their stores and relax for a half-day—go fishing, play, and forget business.

After the meeting, someone said that if so-and-so did not close they would stay open too. Now, the point we want to bring out is this: We believe that if a majority of our civic-minded merchants agree to close up their shops, then all the other merchants in similar businesses should do the same thing.

Statesboro is a good town and has a wonderful reputation for its high-class type of merchants. To us we had rather do without an extra dollar and enjoy part of this life, and Wednesday is our day to play.

"STAND UP AND LIVE!" "Stand up and live! Is a fitting health slogan for National Posture Week, May 6-11, since standing up tall and straight enables one not only to look better, but actually to live better," says Dr. O. F. Whitman.

"A person in a slouched attitude has only one part of his lungs functioning, and is, therefore, depriving the blood of air, which it needs to make it rich and red, and sufficient in quantity to nourish our tissues well.

"A habitual slump may result in the organs of the abdominal cavity... more especially the stomach and intestines... being crowded downward out of place, resulting in numerous ills often difficult to diagnose.

"When figure faults develop, consult a physician. By following his advice, you may avoid developing unnecessary ills later in life.

"Five good standing, sitting and walking rules are: Head up, Shoulders back (square, but not stiff); Abdomen contracted, Chest high, Back straight."

Junior-Senior Banquet time is here. A great occasion, as we remember it. White pants and dark coat. The girls all pretty, and speeches nobody listened to.

The members of the Press Association of the First District are letting it be known that they refuse to use "canned" free publicity for any candidate using other advertising media to the exclusion of newspapers.

The Man of the Week

In every community there is one man whose name is the first one to be mentioned when a move for a community project is made.

Alfred Dorman was born Feb. 28, 1891, on a farm in Sumter county, Georgia. His family later moved to Cordele, Ga., where he attended school.

Alfred Dorman has one of the best personalities of any man in the state of Georgia. As a young man he was a member of the United States Wholesale Grocers' association.

Alfred Dorman has the remarkable faculty of doing things and getting things done. He will get into his car on a Friday and make a trip to Chicago and back over the week-end if his business calls for it.

Mr. Dorman is that man who can walk and talk with the rich and the poor. He understands the language of each. He is a very personal friend of Senator Walter F. George and Senator George.

Planning A Better Georgia

Editor's Note: This final installment of a series of three articles concerning Georgia's penal system offers constructive suggestions presented to the Citizens' Fact Finding Movement of Georgia, Millions in money and thousands in lives can be saved if the system is altered to become workable and humane.

"Development of a satisfactory prison system is a long, hard job, given the best of support and facilities. Yet progress toward the goal is entirely possible, even with Georgia's present provisions for the work."

This is a conclusion reached in a study of the state's prison system prepared by a group of consultants, headed by Tarleton Collier, for the Citizens' Fact Finding Movement of Georgia, representing seventeen organizations and 250,000 persons.

"There must be first of all," says the report, "a consolidation of these provisions and these scattered resources.

"Under consolidation and centralization of control and policy, a better job could be done with less money than is now spent in the chaotic and wasteful system of state-county-highway department maintenance.

"Our paucity and uncertainty of state resources breed waste, because they force us to resort to our present nondescript and formless method as the only way out.

"Illinois and Pennsylvania, with far larger populations and resources than Georgia, but with centralized prison administration, spend less money for their penal systems than the amount of Georgia's 'highway contracts' for hire of prisoners in the years 1937 and 1938.

"Then there must be a change in attitude, with the idea that it is as much the prison's job to teach a man the rules of society as to punish him for his error, if not more.

"Our ideal prison system must be based on a perception of individuality as the most precious and powerful thing in life—and on a desire and ability to protect it and develop it.

"The men in prison are people. They are the stuff of citizens. They are our minority, the humblest of minorities and granted the fewest rights—but we should remember that certain of those rights are human and inalienable, as are those of any other minority.

"The ideal prison system is that in which the prisoners themselves have a voice in its regulation, in the development of its program.

"The ideal penal system must take into account that men are different, with different needs of mind and body, and that they are not one and all work animals of a common type. This system must seek, with the proper cautions, perceptions and facilities, to make a plan of treatment for each.

"This presupposes a competent professional staff, both for study and administration. We must work to build the idea that there should be an eye to the welfare of existence outside the walls, a term of that existence. No system can profess to be a good one that does not have as its main purpose the better fitting of the man in prison for free life after he emerges.

"There is a difference between threatening punishment and offering rewards.

"Georgia must develop a better system of classification and segregation, so that the reward of good behavior, character development and dependability will be more certain.

"There must be, in short, hope."

SINCLAIR ANNOUNCES NEW KIND OF GASOLINE

W. L. Waller, agent for Sinclair, announces this week a new gasoline with double range anti-knock qualities.

"Every motorist knows," Mr. Waller states, "that there are just two important ranges in every fuel: the low speed range and the high speed range. The first range is from ten to forty-five miles per hour for ordinary pick-up in traffic. The second range is at forty-five miles per hour and higher where you need extra high anti-knock for speed on the open highway or for passing cars in traffic. Some gasolines may give high anti-knock in one range but not in the other. But now Sinclair has developed a gasoline that gives high anti-knock in both the low-speed and high-speed ranges of driving.

Mr. Waller states that all his dealers in the county handle this new gasoline.

YOUR PART OF A MILLION DOLLARS

The five to seven hundred workers of the Savannah Sugar Refining Corporation have a payroll of around a million dollars a year, the continuation of which is now threatened by the competition of FOREIGN refined sugar, which has recently invaded Georgia.

This million-dollar payroll is vitally important to Savannah. Anything that materially affects the prosperity of Savannah will likewise hurt the producers of your City and County, as Savannah is one of the principal markets for your products.

In addition to this annual million-dollar payroll to workers in the Savannah Sugar Refinery, another million dollars goes to the American workers who furnish us with goods and services—textile workers, bag-makers, lumbermen, oil workers, railroad employees and truckmen.

In these days of widespread unemployment and high taxes, it is contrary to common sense to increase unemployment in Georgia by transferring good jobs to workers in the tropics. Be sure the sugar you buy is REFINED IN THE U. S. A. If you want to keep the dollars you spend working even closer at home—be sure its DIXIE CRYSTALS—made in Savannah by Georgia workers.

MISS IRMA SPEARS TO BUILT TISSUE. HOME AGENT SAYS

Milk, cheese, eggs, meat and fish are the best sources of protein, Home Demonstration Agent Irma Spears said this week, in reminding Bulloch county housewives that plenty of protein foods are needed to build and repair body tissue.

"Milk is considered an excellent source of protein, especially for children who need a good supply during the period of growth," Miss Spears pointed out. "Milk not only contains complete proteins but is also rich in carbohydrates, fats and certain of the needed minerals and vitamins.

"Cheese, eggs and the meat organs are also rich in proteins of high nutritive value," she continued. "Proteins of muscle meats are good, too, but they do not rank as high."

The home demonstration agent said nuts also contain proteins, but sources of fat, rather than of protein. Most of the cereals and legume seeds, such as peas and beans, she stated, do not contain all the essential amino acids necessary to make them complete proteins.

"Fortunately, when one food lacks some of the amino acids, another food may be fairly rich in these same amino acids," Miss Spears explained. "When two such incomplete proteins are eaten together, they form a mixture of complete protein. For example, cereals do not contain all the essential amino acids.

"Milk, however, has the kind of protein that is needed to supply what the cereal protein lacks. So, if cereal is served with milk, it becomes a complete protein of good quality."

These four public-spirited, progressive women of each county in 1912 formed the nucleus for the future home demonstration club. The passage of the Smith-Lever act in 1914, and its adoption by the state rapidly extended the number of field agents in home economics. At the outbreak of the World War emphasis was placed upon food conservation, but at the close of the war a return to the phases of work that had been suspended brought renewed effort to bear upon home grounds, home furnishings, convenient kitchens, clothing and the economic aspects of home life.

The home demonstration program has continued to include the well-known activities of the rural home. Vitalized in scope and significance by wider and more accurate knowledge, better skill, and more sustained and systematic direction in the community.

FARM WOMEN ASSUME COMMUNITY LEADERSHIP

More than a quarter century of work under the home demonstration program has meant aroused initiative among Georgia farm home-makers and the development of latent leadership in community co-operation of every type of needed activity.

Home economics in extension dates from the year the college of agriculture received its first state appropriation for extension teaching. Prior to that date, however, the announcement of the first Georgia farm women's conference in January, 1909, urged all delegates to "bring their wives to this meeting and show their approval of this initial effort to organize the women of the state."

At the second annual conference in 1910 a longer series of meetings for women were held. In the spring of 1911 two workers in Clarke and Clayton counties were appointed for a two months' period each to organize girls' canning clubs, and in August of the same year the first woman member was appointed on the staff of the state college of agriculture.

Appropriations from county commissioners, fair associations, banks and private citizens for the support of extension work began in 1912, but teachers and women over the state continued to contribute their fine work and co-operation. That year, a letter addressed to teachers in the state asked that they "send us the name of about four public-spirited, progressive ladies of your community who will be willing to form a committee to encourage your club and look after its interests."

Keeping pace with a demand which, since announcement of the 1940 models, has resulted in a new all-time sales record for any corresponding period in Chevrolet history, this division of General Motors recently built the 700,000th of these models. The event took place less than a month after production of No. 600,000.

TC Lab School News MUSIC FESTIVAL

An event of great interest to the boys and girls of the grammar grades was the music festival held in the college auditorium May 3. The first part of the program was various schools singing by themselves and then all the schools participated in the festival singing together.

MAY DAY. The elementary and high school students have taken part in the May day festival this year. Twelve couples danced "Old Dan Tucker" and "The Virginia Reel." These couples were dressed as pioneers—the girls having on old skirts and very tight waists, and the boys having on boots, old pants and hats. The boys did "Arkansas Traveler" by themselves. There were some students that acted as couples and sang two songs, "Old Folks at Home" and "Oh, Susanna."

SOFTBALL. On Wednesday, May 1, the strong Pulaski softball team defeated the Laboratory school to the tune of 9 to 2. C. Woods was the winning pitcher. Moore was losing pitcher. C. Woods cracked two home runs to lead the Pulaski hitting. The highlight of the game was a triple pulled by the Pulaski team. Laboratory school has three more games in the Tri-County league.

The members of the Senior Commerce class, Miss Weaver and Miss Breen, our student teacher, visited the Coca-Cola plant Tuesday morning from 8:30 to 9:25. Mr. Poindexter, the owner, carried us through the plant and showed us each process in cleaning, filling and testing each bottle of coca-cola. We enjoyed the visit very much and the cold coca-cola he gave us.

JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET. The Juniors of the Laboratory High school have planned to entertain the seniors with a banquet at the Jaekel hotel Friday night, May 17.

It will have supper at the hotel and the banquet will be followed by a dance at the College gym. The dance will be a card dance with several break dances in between.

GOULD ENOUGH FOR ANY BIRDY "WON'T YOU come into my gourd," said the martin to the worm.

"It's forty-four inches around—why that's plenty room to squirm."

Such might be the words of a martin if he is tenant of a very "apartment house" that R. S. Wolfe, of Baxley, might construct.

Mr. Wolfe, who has already sent Jesse James' measurements to the Bustel Gourd club at Monroe, Ga., said it was the biggest gourd he has received in his experience as a gourd collector.

Mr. Wolfe, however, is hesitant about building the martin dwelling. Such luxury, he says, would spoil the martins. Soon they would be expecting much more. Maybe even a parking lot.

STONES ARE sometimes shaped like a human profile, or a silver dollar, or even a sweet potato.

But Henry Owens, of Cartersville, found one that was shaped exactly like an egg. And the color and surface gave it the appearance of a petrified egg.

Mr. Owens found it about a stone's throw from the old Cooper mill. Now the oddity is on display at the Tribune-News office.

TWO 4-H MEMBERS SELECTED. Jesse James, assisted county agent of Colquhoun county, Marietta, and Miss Eugenia Baker, assistant home demonstration agent of Mitchell county, Camilla, have been selected as Georgia's candidates for the two $1,000 national 4-H fellowship awards which will be for nine months study in the U. S. department of agriculture, Washington, D. C.

The two Georgia candidates, who were selected on their outstanding ability in 4-H club and college work, will compete with representatives of the nation for the study scholarships.

LESPEDEZA FERTILIZERS. There is no definite experimental data on the increase in the yield of lespedeza per acre in Georgia due to fertilization. Farmers are getting good increases from applications of phosphate and lime. From these results and results obtained in other states where lespedeza has been used for a number of years it would appear that a practical application would be 300 to 400 pounds of superphosphate or its equivalent in such materials as basic slag or three parts superphosphate every two or three years and 1,000 to 3,000 pounds of limestone, depending on the acidity of the soil.

GROWING BROILERS. Feed consumption and rate of growth of baby chicks vary widely with different lots of chicks, management methods, kinds of feed and the time of year. Arthur Gannon, extension poultryman, says it generally takes about six or seven pounds of feed to grow a two-pound fryer. On the average it takes about ten weeks for the growing period, when chicks are fed a good commercial starting or broiler ration containing all the necessary minerals, vitamins, proteins and other nutrients. It often takes much longer with farm-raised chickens in case they are not fed a mash.

EXCHANGE OF COTTON. Commodity Credit corporation has announced that it had accepted proposals from nineteen cotton firms to exchange 25,835 bales of low-grade, short staple, government-owned cotton for high-grade, long staple, privately-owned cotton under the cotton exchange program announced in January. With previous acceptances, Commodity Credit corporation, the total amount of government-owned cotton to be exchanged under the program now amounts to 186,158 bales.

IMPROVED LAND USE. Since 1932, approximately eight and a half million acres of submarginal land, unsuited to continued cultivation, have been purchased and developed in the United States for uses for which this land is better suited principally forestry and grazing. In dry-land areas this land is being used to help farmers shift more to live stock production and away from the uncertainties of one-crop farming. The land which has been purchased is being turned back to grass and made available to nearby farmers who need more land for this type of farming.

'GOOD-NEIGHBOR POLICY' HELPS SICK FARMER. MUMPS. H. Everett Harrison, of Carroll county, down. Down in bed and feeling bad. But there was a heap of plowing to be done. Now when someone is sick, the neighbors usually come around one by one and tell the sick man how sorry they are. But the folks down in the New Brooklyn section of Carroll county, northwest of Yula, Ga., had a different idea.

Twenty-three of Mr. Harrison's neighbors came to see him bright and early one morning. But they brought their mules and plows with them. And they didn't just stop at the house to warm him well. Down to the fields they went. There the twenty-three did all of Mr. Harrison's plowing in one day. When the weather's right, they're coming back some day and do the planting.
