JAPANESE WMS DECISIVE VICTORY.

St. Petersburg, August 2.—5.35 p. m.—General Kuropatkin reports that the Japanese have occupied Ikhavuen, east of Liao-Yang, and the Yangse pass, thirty miles of Liao-Yang.

St. Petersburg, August 2.—0.23 p. m.—It is officially announced that the Russians have fallen back from Yangse pass, but are holding their position on the Sumatza road.

St. Petersburg, August 2.—1.52 p. m.—The feeling at the war office here was distinctly gloomy this morning.

No official telegrams had been received by the general staff from General Kuropatkin, who was communicating direct with the emperor, but from private sources at the front it already was apparent that Simocheng, fifteen miles south-east of Hai-Cheng, had been lost.

General Stakelberg's outpost having fallen back to Hai-Cheng. No word was received enabling the staff to confirm or deny the reported capture of the late General Keller's position at Ikhavuen, east of Liao-Yang, and Yangse pass, thirty miles east of Liao-Yang, but heavy fighting continued on both the southern and eastern fronts, the object of the Japanese in the east being to flank General Keller's corps from the south and north, which is easily possible.

CANT STAY OUT OF THE SCHOOL ROOM

Miss Alice Cone of Stillson, has again been employed as teacher at the Simmons school house. This is the sixth term she has been engaged in at this place and we are still glad to welcome her in our midst, and truly hope she will have a large school, as she has ever done much good in the sacred cause.

Miss Alice states that she has been trying to instruct the young over sixteen years, and has had in her charge over a thousand boys and girls and her heart was made large enough to love them every one; but she will soon retire from the school work, and leave the school rooms to those who are capable of surpassing her. Stillson.

A little forethought may save you no end of trouble. Anyone who makes it a rule to keep Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy at hand knows this to be a fact. For sale by All Drugists.

The Park Row building in New York is the tallest inhabited building in the world. It covers 15,000 square feet of ground and is thirty stories high. The distance from the curbing to the cornice is 380 feet, to the top of the tower 890 feet, to the top of the flagstaff 447; the depth of the foundation below the curbing is seventy-five feet, making a total distance from the foundation to the top of the flagstaff of 562 feet.

THE DEATH PENALTY.

A little thing sometimes results in death. Thus a mere scratch, insignificant dot or punny boils have paid the death penalty. It is wise to have Bucklen's Arnica Salve ever handy. It's the best salve on earth and will prevent it from burning, scalds, ulcers and piles. Only 25c at W. H. Ellis' drug store.

Mr. Davis' Letter to Tom.

In connection with the visit of Henry G. Davis to this city as a vice presidential candidate friends have noted that he retired to his room at the Hoffman House at an early hour each night after ordering writing materials sent to him, says a New York dispatch in the Baltimore Sun.

One who is close to the noted West Virginian Democrat explained that he never went to bed without writing an autograph letter to his brother Tom. When their father died, leaving their mother with five children, Henry, who was the eldest, with his brother Thomas, next in age, took up the support of the family and made such a success of it that their earnings enabled the younger children to have the advantage of education which had been denied them.

Since that day Henry and Tom have worked together and have never had a disagreement. Their love for each other is more than brotherly. Thomas is living the life of a bachelor in his home at Keyser, W. Va. He has remained single from choice. Their devotion to each other is so great that each writes to the other every day.

Henry would as soon think of going without his sleep as of going to bed without writing his daily letter to Tom. He writes to his most intimate friends by dictation, but to his brother he always sends an autograph epistle. For forty years they have kept up this practice.

Early Risers
The famous little pills.

Too Much Rain for the Crops.

It begins to look like after almost burning up all the summer the crops are going to strike the other extreme. It has been raining every day now for over a week, and the ground is soaking wet. It is feared that the result will be bad on the cotton, while the early cotton seems to have matured to a certain extent, yet the leaves are falling off of it to the very top and it looks like it ordinarily does in October. Whether this is due to the fact that the stalk has on it now all the matured fruit that its capacity will hold, is a question on which some of our best farmers are divided.

The continued rain makes it bad on the farmers for fodder pulling. This week would be the main week for fodder pulling had the weather been of a nature that would have permitted it.

Examination of the corn crop, incidental to the pulling of the fodder, shows that this crop was cut much shorter by the dry weather in June than the farmers had anticipated.

END OF BITTER FIGHT.

"Two physicians had a long and stubborn fight with an abscess on my right lung" writes J. F. Hughes of DuPont, Ga., "and gave me up." Everybody thought my time had come. As a last resort I tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. The benefit I received was striking and I was on my feet in a few days. Now I've entirely gained my health." It conquers all coughs, colds and throat and lung troubles. Guaranteed by W. H. Ellis Drug Store. Price 50c, and $1.00 Trial bottles free.

SUICIDE PREVENTED.

The startling announcement that a preventative of suicide had been discovered will interest many. A run-down system, or dependency involving precede suicide and something has been found that will prevent that condition which makes suicide likely. At the first thought of self destruction take Electric Bitters. It brings a great tonic and nursing will strengthen the nerves and build up the system. It is also a great Stomach, Liver and Kidney regulator. Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed by W. H. Ellis druggist.

A Big Crowd Attended Funeral.

There was a large crowd out to attend the funeral of the late Mitchell Alderman which was held at the family cemetery near his late residence on Sunday last.

The funeral was conducted with Masonic honors. The Ogechee Lodge No. 218 F. A. M. conducted the funeral services, under the lead of Worshipful Master Brooks Simmon.

Mr. Alderman was a member of this lodge for a number of years and stood high in its councils, and the high tributes paid to his memory on Sunday last was only befitting to the circumstances and the life which the deceased had lived.

C. B. Griner & Co.

The complaint that the excessive rains are injuring the cotton crop comes from every section of the county.

THE COMING COTTON CROP.

It looks to us as if the cotton growers in the southern part of the cotton belt have a distinct advantage over those in the northern part during the present year. Cotton will open more rapidly in the southern part than in the northern and the farmers will have an opportunity of marketing it quicker.

It is usually good policy to market the cotton as fast as it comes from the fields. Not to do so is a kind of speculation that puts all the odds against the man who holds it back. Once in a great while, we admit, good prices and big profits are made by holding it, but we can count more farmers upon our fingers who have lost by it than we can of those who have ever profited by it.

The present crop, if reports are true, is going to be an exceptional large crop. Reports indicate an increase of about 7,000,000 acres in cotton, giving an area of something like 82,000,000 acres to the cotton crop. The condition of the plant is said to be much better than last year. If this is true there is going to be a very large crop of short cotton made.

When this crop is thrown upon the market and the mills get supplies enough to go on with their work, the chances are they will buy just as they need the staples, thus forcing a weakness in prices.

Any man who looks at the conditions today, and studies the conditions in the past few years, will have to admit that it is reasonable to expect much lower prices when the great cotton belt begins in earnest to pour its products upon the market.

It is hard to tell what sea island cotton will do because there is not much upon which estimates can be made. The old crop is 80,000 bales behind last year, though prices are still sluggish and there is little demand. Up to this time last year there were 108,472 bales in sight, though there is only 75,181 in sight at the present time. There is 9,721 bales in Savannah now, against only 2,487 last year in sight. The average this year is much less than last year in Georgia, but conditions are better at this time.

Rains are doing some injury to the crops in this state, as well as in Florida, and this will have an important bearing on prices later on. There is much better reason to hope for higher prices for sea islands than there is for uplands, though at the present time there is less demand for the long staple than there is for the short.

Nothing from present indications there will be a big crowd on next Monday, the day when the murderers of the Hodges family will be tried.

The editor of the Athens Banner now of the fixed opinion that the democratic nominees are possessed with Jeffersonian sanity.—Parker recently seated himself upon a box of bolts, and Davis on a keg of nails.

Monday Trial.

Monday the Superior Court will convene in Statesboro for the trial of Paul Reid and the two negroes charged with the murder of the Hodges family. No doubt a large crowd will be present, as is usual on such occasions, and the probability is that the trial will be concluded in one day. Reid and the negroes are now in Savannah jail, and will be here for their trial.

Developments are had, expect to understand that the State has employed J. E. ... Savannah attorney, to ... the depositions, both the direct and substantial testimony ... them as the perpetrators of the crime. The people ... give the defendant ... at the hands of the jury, who will do ... evidence shows ... duty.

What Georgia Editors Say.

The Lyons Progress urges the immediate passage of a bill, already passed by the senate and now before the house, which provides for an amendment of the constitution of Georgia so as to allow the exemption of college endowments from taxation.

In the Bainbridge Argus appears the following ode to the first day of the month:

"The melancholy day has come. The saddest of the month. The 'hunted ones' play hide and seek 'tween the back door and the front.

The bill collector's on the go, Persistent as the summer gnat.

The thirty days of peace are o'er, And they don't know "where we are at"

We understand Carrie Nation is going to Europe soon. Now, just let some skulking bandit tackle Miss Carrie! So warns the LaGrange Graphic.

Mr. Sheppard of the Effingham County News, gives some timely suggestions concerning the pleasures and advantages of country life.

"No greater gain can come to the country at large than that which comes from the promotion of love and appreciation of rural life. Health, happiness, purity and peace are the natural inheritance of those who dwell surrounded by fresh air, beautiful scenes, bright skies, and pure social influence.

Judge Parker's Resignation

Judge Parker's announcement that he would resign when he was ready and as he desired, seems to have been carried out to the letter. Even the Associated Press reporters were unaware of the purport of that sudden journey to Albany until developments occurred.

Judge Parker has the utmost tact in his actions. He resigned his office in a simple democratic way that cannot fail to be pleasing. He was also very conscientious in the discharge of all duties of the office. It is said that his portion of the docket was thoroughly cleaned up when he handed in his last decision.

As to the time and manner of his resigning he acted for himself, as he has done in all other matters since he turned his face from his father's home and went out into the world. He never stopped to consider the political effect nor to ask advice from political men. The fact that his successor will now have to be elected for the full fourteen years term instead of being appointed for the unexpired portion, as would have happened had he postponed his action, made no difference to him. He studied out his simple duty and went straight toward it.

The democratic simplicity that marked his retirement was characteristic of the man. There was a tender pathos in the emotion he betrayed when he took a last look at his own deserted chambers. They had become a part of his life, his other home. The library that adorned the walls were his adopted children. Small wonder that his voice trembled when he said to the newspaper men, "This room, boys, was mine."

Thus he closed a chapter in a life that has ever been pure and clean. Next Wednesday, he will write the first words on the second page. And at the end of this new chapter—let us hope—lies Washington.—Ex.

END OF BITTER FIGHT.

"Two physicians had a long and stubborn fight with an abscess on my right lung" writes J. F. Hughes of DuPont, Ga., "and gave me up." Everybody thought my time had come. As a last resort I tried Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. The benefit I received was striking and I was on my feet in a few days. Now I've entirely gained my health." It conquers all coughs, colds and throat and lung troubles. Guaranteed by W. H. Ellis Drug Store. Price 50c, and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

The School Teacher

At the request of some of my Bulloch friends I will give the readers of your paper some of my views as to an ideal school teacher; although what I shall say will cause no one to accuse me of copying from some learned sage, but I shall endeavor to express my honest opinion.

It is sometimes urged that the teacher, like the poet, is born, not made.

In a sense this is true, but it often wears the look of an apology for ignorance. Much good must be derived from theoretical information, but only the knowledge of the theory of education alone, can never make a teacher. Experience in teaching, as in many other things, is essential, but experience keeps a dear school. Whoever neglects the theory of education because teaching is only a practical work makes a fatal mistake, and his work must end in failure, or that he must blunder himself into success, laboriously correcting his errors, and slowly discover things for himself, which others have discovered before him.

How exalted is the position of a teacher! A beautiful story is told from Talmud. Once in a great drought the Rabbies prayed in vain for rain. At last a common looking individual got up and in a plain, simple earnest manner prayed to Him who causeth the wind to blow, and the rain to fall and at once clouds began to cover the heavens, and the rain began to fall. "Who art thou?" they cried, and he answered, "I am a teacher of children."

What does the theory of education mean to the teacher? It means everything that bears upon the training, informing and developing the child. It will show him that education is a little more than dollars and cents and a little "book-learning." Book-learning begins in our public schools at an early age; but education begins at the cradle. The teacher, above all others, should not forget that true education means development, growth—the acquisition of mental and moral development. The child's future welfare should be the first and great consideration, and should turn our knowledge into a living faith that issues in action and controls our practice.

Besides having high intellectual attainments, a successful teacher must have a real and living interest in children, and have earnest and upright character. No bad man can be a good teacher. Children look upon their teacher as an oracle from which proceed words of profound wisdom and understanding, and whose actions are worthy of emulation. If his habits are bad it is impossible for him to mold the character of our boys and girls.

What a deep interest a true teacher feels in the boys and girls that easily sit at his feet. None but a true, earnest, consecrated teacher can ever understand what great emotions of love swell within the breast of a devoted teacher as he endeavors to pave the way into life for innocent childhood. It is almost impossible to come in such close contact with children without becoming better ourselves. Fellow teachers, let us not stop till we have enthroned higher education in our fair land, and let the future generation behold a flood of light beaming from the noble deeds of love wrought by a number of insignificant little "school teachers."

We trust the day is not far distant when teachers will look for no higher compensation for their labors than to know they have helped to give high and noble principles to their pupils that caused them to become useful men and women.

This, Mr. Editor is my ideal of a model teacher.

Respectfully,
Hamlin Etheredge.

A SWEET BREATH

Is a never failing sign of a healthy stomach. When the breath is bad the stomach is out of order. There is no remedy in the world equal to Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for curing indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders. Mrs. Mary S. Crick, of White Plains, Ky., writes: "I have been a dyspeptic for years; tried all kinds of remedies but continued to grow worse. By the use of Kodol I began to improve at once, and after taking a few bottles am fully restored in weight, health and strength and can eat whatever I like." Kodol digest what you eat and makes the stomach sweet. Sold by W. H. Ellis.

What's Got in the Folks?

Every day's paper tells of shootings from ambush, assassination on the public highways, strange missing people, suicides and homicides without limit, at it seems.

A spirit of destructive seems to be abroad in the land.

Nobody is safe at home or abroad. What's the matter with the people?

When the sun gets in its hot work in midsummer on the growing crops, does the torrid heat also affect human brains and human passion?

How else can one account for this craze for homicide that startles and surprises one every day?

The dreadful murder of Mr. Henry Hodges and family in Bulloch county is a painful reminder of the insecurity of country homes. Not a single person being left to tell the story of this foul massacre of a helpless family, one's imagination must fill up the blanks as best it can be done and then the half cannot be told.

Some evidences of the fearful struggle remain, enough to show that it needed more than one assassin to dispatch a family of five and then burn up the bodies of wretched victims in such an inhuman manner.

Are there desperadoes going over the land seeking whom they may destroy? Is it a region of terror?

Has a reign of terror set in, and are we verging on the mysterious horrors of an insurrection?

It is a matter which is worthy of the attention of the wisest and best of our race.

A clear-headed, highly intelligent and patriotic citizen of Georgia said to me a few days ago: "I really think, Mrs. Felton, we are in the early beginnings of a reign of terror. When the struggle sets in fairly, there are going to be dreadful times, in my opinion."

The Hodges family were pleasant, contented and well-to-do farmers, harming nobody, and at peace with all mankind so far as known. On his own premises he is foully murdered, his wife and children all of them burned up after a most hideous murder experience for these intelligent, innocent and helpless people. This experience is intolerable to reflect upon, agonizing to think about, that such treatment should be given to these well-behaved people, with no power in sight to protect our citizens who pay such heavy taxes for the protection of a competent civil government.

It has reached a place where protection must come or we must know the reason why it is withheld from rural homes.

This legislature should not adjourn until the body makes provisions for police management in these rural districts where these blessed women and girls are trying so hard to do their part and to live as Christians in the fear of God and for the happiness of all about them.

It makes my heart ache to think of these brutal murders and the awful suffering untold upon the innocent and helpless.

God helping us, we must look more to these matters and less to the squabbles among the members over trifles. It provokes one's patience to see how dreadful these things are, with so little protection in sight.—Atlanta Journal.

Sure Sign.

"A friend of mine, an over-worked editor," said Senator Depeu, according to the Denver Republican, "took last summer his first vacation in seventeen years.

"He went to a rugged New England district, a quaint village that nestled at the foot of great mountains on the shore of a deep lake.

"He arrived on a bright, fine morning, and so greatly was he pleased with the grandeur of the scenery and with the pure and perfumed air that, setting out for a little exercise, he soon found himself leaping fences, running, singing and dancing through the country like a child.

"Suddenly, as he skipped around a curve of a quiet road, a hand was laid on his shoulder, and a stern, angry face looked into his.

"Come with me to the station house, a harsh voice said.

"Why, for what," asked the amazed editor.

"I am the town constable," said the other, "and for the last half-hour I have been watching ye jumpin over fences an' singin' an' dancin'. No sane man would act so, an' I'm goin' to lock ye up for an escaped lunatic."

A New Slang Phrase Coined

William Gordon of New Orleans, who is spending the summer in New York, has added a new phrase to the lexicon of slang, and a fellow-townsmen supplied it, according to the New York Times.

"Perhaps," said Mr. Gordon, "there are few people who could, if requested, define the meaning of the term, 'A wise spender.' I couldn't this morning, but I am able to do it now. I met a Louisiana boy who is here on his vacation, and he was telling me of a trip he made to Coney Island with a young New Yorker and two girls to whom the New Yorker had introduced him.

"I had a great time," he told me. "But I spent a bunch of money."

"Wasn't your friend a good spender?" I asked.

"He was a wise spender," was the reply. "He was very speedy when it came to paying car fare, but anybody could beat him to a dinner check."

STATESBORO HORROR A REMEDY TO SEEK.

(Macon Telegraph.)

The wholesale butchery and the extinction of the Hodges family near Statesboro by dehumanized brutes adds another to a long list of horrors perpetrated in this state since the inception of the slaves in and incidentally we want to state that the people of that county displayed great moral courage and forbearance in punishing the perpetrators to exemplary punishment within the forms of law. They deserve praise for their stand for leniency.

During the several years that have passed since the awful crime committed by Sam Hose, there has been a diminution of such criminality in our state. It has begun to hope that the day was over. Under the administration of William McKinley race prejudice and racial hatreds had cooled to a degree. But of later date things have changed. Whether directly or indirectly the strange course pursued by the accidental occupant of the house or not, observant people are reviving the baser purposes of the criminal class of negroes. We say criminal class because we would separate them from the better and more respectable class that know and do

Statesboro affair is of such a revolting character as to stir the passions that drive men to crime. But the better part of us, under the leadership of cooler heads of the community, and the criminals were in the Savannah jail to be by legal processes. We are now can undo the wrongs committed at the Statesboro home. So far as that paraffin affair is concerned it only remains to punish the guilty. What shall be done to prevent similar occurrence tomorrow any isolated home in Georgia. What measure of protection of prevention shall be required? This is a question that has troubled the minds of millions of unfortunates in the south. It is more easily worked out in the north than in the unguarded America, but it does not mean the man in the white coat and the men in the big Pennsylvania avenue, who would come to them and knock down their doors—when the men, nearer home, in the dome of the state and make laws, give rural constabulary powers—then the negro have begun to be armed with bolts, and after the guns in the hands of the negroes will prove scant all the rural homes. The public have awoken the north beyond our reach.

The Northward flow of population is now happily set out with our line of Dixie. The dependent has suggested such women as W. H. Felton and "Laws," but testimony of mouth" will land them. The peril against them. It is a deadly coil upon and a stone. They shall be returned and taste it in the south.

And the legislature can enact the most restrictive laws upon the rural constabulary. The made several reforms of the treasury, and the alleged white out. If half the terror depended on the "reform" of white poverty and the consumption of men of the name upon men of the character of the heroic efforts were on the men-like study of the only real peril which confronts us—which menaces our defenseless and innocent ones—something would be accomplished. Some measure of greater protection on the other hand, and of greater deterrent on the other, ought to be worked out.

The bill to establish a rural constabulary several years ago—which was strangled and pierced by knightly gentlemen plumed, and mailed all over, and in quest of an octopus unseen—might not have been the right kind of a bill but it was on the right line, and it ought to have been worked over if it was not the right thing, and worked out.

Valuable time has been consumed at the present session, and now at the heel of it nothing can be done, but those who are on the list by nomination for the next general assembly should begin to think out some measure of protection for the women and girls on Georgia farms.

COMMUNICATED

Editor News:-

Allow me space to say for the betterment of my race. So many crimes are being committed by one part of the negroes that all the negroes have to suffer for it.

Look down upon these negroes on earth like devils turned out of hell. I see from the way the black smoke is rising from these negroes that are killing and burning, all the negroes may lie down and wake up in the other world. I recommend that the negro be classified, some first class, some second class, some third class.

I know that the negro cannot live without you white folks, and I trust that the white people will plan for the negro to be classified and I am hoping to see the time come.

Rev. H. H. Hanes.

"To Be."

Subject of a lecture by Col. George W. Williams:
Ah, what is to be? Is the question we hear,
From the morning's first ray till the evening draws near,
Our hearts are all joyous, our spirits are free,
But what is life's secret? Ah, what is to be?
Ah, what is to be? What's the secret of time?
Is it waiting in sorrow and trouble and crime?
Or does it mean pleasure on land and on sea?
Ah, what is life's secret? Yes, what is to be?
Ah, what is to be? Will the turning of fate
Take us where all life's honor and glory await?
Does the song of the river, the bird and the tree
Convince us there's laughter and loving to be?
What is to be? Ah, the future don't say,
There are legions of honor and glory today,
But time is ere fickle and promises may flee,
So we wonder what is it? What is it to be?
Ernest Camp.

Help the orphans! Georgia people, it's a duty that you owe
To yourselves and to your children, to the people high and low;
Help the orphans, now they need you, now there's calling in distress.
Help the orphans, they will thank you, Mumford joining, God will bless!

Andrew Female College,
Outhbert, Ga.,
Fifty-first Year Begins September 14

To those parents who are looking for the right school for their daughters we submit for consideration the following facts:
Andrew Female College is in a high and healthy location above the wire grass, in one of the most beautiful sections in Georgia.
The cost of attendance is exceedingly low considering the excellent advantages offered in all departments; Literary, Music, Art, Elocution, etc., and the abundant provision for the convenience, comfort, safety, and welfare of those who share her home life.
Andrew offers an education eminently practical.
Andrew's curriculum is broad and high.
Andrew's corps of instructors is a body of men and women who feel called of their work and who labor with painstaking care to show themselves approved in the polish of mind and heart and life of those who are committed to their training and care.
Andrew's special departments are towers of strength, especially in the Music department. One of our leading teachers has spent years in Europe, besides having enjoyed the best advantages which America affords.
If you want to send your daughter to a school where she will receive the very best attention while securing unexcelled advantages, write for a catalogue and information.

Hon. Pope Brown on ### the Reduction of Fares.

The Hon. Pope Brown is the chairman of the railroad commission of Georgia, and in a recent communication to the commission makes the suggestion that passenger fares in the state of Georgia be reduced to two cents a mile. His suggestion is creating widespread interest among the people and the matter will come up for discussion before the commission on August 26th.

Some of the reasons given by Mr. Brown for his suggestion are particularly pointed. He takes up in detail and cites in many instances where the passenger accommodations furnished the people by the railroads, especially at the smaller stations in the state are entirely inadequate, refusing to maintain stations at some points, declining to furnish separate accommodations, or protection from the weather, and any of the absolutely needed accommodations by the traveling public. Inasmuch as the railroads will not furnish these needed accommodations to the public, Mr. Brown thinks that their charge for transportation, which ought to include these things at the rate of three cents per mile is excessive.

In regard to the affect a reduction of passenger fares from three cents to two cents per mile will have on the earnings of the roads, Mr. Brown does not think that it will affect roads much, for he says: "At first it might appear that the above suggestion would bring about a radical reduction in the rates, but when it is considered that conventions are accorded a one-half cent rate, the pleasure-seeker a one and a half cent rate, and that many ride free, it will be seen that the reduction at last will only affect a portion of the travel and will be made to those whom it most would benefit."

There is another question which the commission ought to take up and that is to compel the roads to sell regular round trip tickets during the week. The roads conduct the traveler in the south to pay a straight fare each way, and sell no round trip tickets, save for some of the conventions, excursions, or pleasure seekers or week end and Sunday travel. As chairman of the railroad commission, Mr. Brown's recommendations ought to have weight and influence and the future action of the commission will be largely watched by the people of the state.—Augusta Herald.

A Warning To Mothers.

Too much care cannot be used with small children during the hot weather of the summer months to guard against bowel troubles. As a rule it is only necessary to give the child a dose of castor oil to correct any disorder of the bowels. Do not use any substitute, but give the old-fashioned castor oil, and see that it is fresh, as rancid oil nauseates and has a tendency to gripe. If this does not check the bowels give Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and then a dose of castor oil, and the disease may be checked in its incipency, and all danger avoided. The castor oil and all kept ready for instant use as soon as the first indication of any bowel trouble appears. This is the most successful treatment known and is relied upon with implicit confidence even in cases of cholera infantum. For sale by All Druggists.

Man are such wise creatures that it is easy for a girl who can look pretty while she is embroidering a centerpiece to make her average one believe she makes all her own clothes.

IN MEMORIAM.

Mrs. Ellen Dickerson, nee Martin,

was born at Ketas, Ga., August 16, 1871 and died July 23, 1904, near Ketas, Ga.

She leaves a husband and four children, father, one brother and five sisters, together with a host of friends and relatives, to mourn her departure. She was a devoted wife, an affectionate mother, loving daughter and sister and a true friend.

Her grief-stricken husband has lost an affectionate wife, the children an indulgent mother and the community a faithful friend, whose place will be hard to fill.

She was married to Mr. John C. Dickerson about fifteen years ago, and joined the Primitive Baptist church the 2nd Sunday in June 1896, and was a true and faithful follower of Christ to the end.

She was not a demonstrative woman. She never ascended the house top to sound her virtues through the trumpet but in a quiet and unobtrusive manner lived for God and Heaven.

While we mourn she is basking in the glorious sunlight of God's eternal day. She is now in the realms of glory and with outstretched arms is beckoning to relatives and friends to come home.

Friends and relatives, do you feel that if the summons should call for you that you are prepared to meet this dear one on the shores of eternal deliverance? O, to be ready when He comes! What a grand and glorious privilege! We feel that while earth is poorer, Heaven is richer. She gladly closed her eyes to earth to open them in Heaven.

Calm on the bosom of thy God,
Fair spirit, rest the day of 1904,
Even while with us thy footsteps tread
His seal was on thy brow.

Lone are the paths and sad the bowers
Whence thy sweet smile is gone;
But, O, a brighter home than ours,
In Heaven is now thine own.

May we all resolve to lead better and holier lives and to meet that dear one on the blissful heights of glory, there to shine with all the splendor of Heaven's redeemed host through all the endless years.

Her remains were given a last resting place in the family burying ground near her home Tuesday morning. A large crowd of relatives and friends, who were not permitted to tell her goodbye while living, gathered at the grave to bid the cold and lifeless body of this dear, good friend, a last and sad farewell.

COMMUNICATION.

The following is a letter from a colored school teacher to J. A. Warnock at Brooklet:

Savannah, Ga., Aug. 8, 1904.

Mr. J. A. Warnock,
Brooklet, Ga.

Dear Sir: This letter from a colored teacher, who not very long ago taught school in Bulloch county, knew Mr. Henry R. Hodges slightly, and when I read the horrible deed perpetrated upon him and family, it brought sorrow to my heart and tears to my eyes.

Now let me say through you to the good white people all over the county, they have my deepest sympathy. I think at times it is all a dream and that I may awake and find it so. Oh, what sorrow! How can such a thing be endured? My heart is filled with sorrow for those poor little children more than all—I love children. Mr. Warnock I am so very sorry is why I write you this letter. I can feel the great pressure at this distance the Lord in prayer; as some and go adds grief to grief.

I do hope that the right parties who did the deed may be over taken and that swift justice may be meted out to them as they deserve to have; it matters not in what way it may come. May the time soon come when people will know better and do better.

I will now close and remain,
Yours truly,
S. C. Daniels.
