KUROPATKIN'S DOWNFALL HARD BLOW TO RUSSIA

Serfs, Sire, Wives and Daughters Are Praying For Kuropatkin's Soldiers.

St. Petersburg, March 10.—The extent of the disaster to Russia, Kuropatkin's army is as yet unknown here, but it is feared that the worst possible has happened. It is known that Field Marshal Oyama succeeded in closing his ring around at least the large part of Kuropatkin's army.

Details of the disaster are not in the possession of the official here because of the fact that communication with Mukden has been cut beyond any doubt. No word has arrived here from the army dated later than 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. At that time the situation of General Balerding, who commands the rear guard was extremely desperate.

All accounts that have been received agree that the battle of yesterday must have been fought under most dreadful conditions. A dust storm of hurricane violence was blowing during the entire battle, concealing friends from foes, while through the opaque yellow veil, streams of wounded and camp followers plodded northward.

This morning the war office was besieged with inquiries for news, but had little consolation to offer the faithful inquirers.

All the papers are filled with long lists of those killed during the earlier days of fighting and the churches are crowded with wives, mothers and sisters, praying that their loved ones might be spared.

At last all classes of Russia seem to have been joined in one common grief.

All hope of Kuropatkin waiting for an opportune moment to strike and convert defeat into victory has been abandoned, and the papers in dolorous strains chronicle the last and worse reverse the Russian arms have ever sustained in the history of the country.

Mrs. Elizabeth Miller Dead
On Thursday March 2nd at the home of her grand-daughter, Mrs. P. M. McGlammy, Mrs. Elizabeth Miller passed quietly to her reward after about four weeks of painful illness. Everything that kind friends, physicians and relatives could do did not give her relief. The Blessed Lord had seen fit to call her home.

Funeral services were held at the Macedonia Baptist church for over fifty years, being the last of the members who helped to constitute Macedonia church.

The deceased was the mother of Rev. J. J. Miller, Mr. F. M. Miller, Mrs. Mary Waters, Mrs. J. N. Woods, Mrs. M. H. Bradley, and Mrs. M. L. Newton. She leaves a large number of sorrowing friends and relatives to mourn her loss.

The Judge and a
Supposed Burglar
Cordele, Ga. March 10.—Under ordinary circumstances Judge J. B. Smith is pretty hard to fool, but he got in it proper a few days ago.

A gentleman who has been staying with Judge Smith, came in one afternoon and pulled off a pair of long-top rubber boots. While the family was at supper Irma and Hope, aged 7 and 5, discovered the boots, and taking them into a dimly lighted room, propped them up under the edge of the bed.

When the youngsters had finished their work, the delusion was perfect, and no one could have told that there was not a man under the bed. He appeared to be lying on his stomach, and seemed not to have gotten quite far enough under to hide his feet.

The kids went breathlessly into where the judge was eating and informed him that there was a man under the bed in the other room—they had seen his feet sticking out. The judge tiptoed down the hall, and sure enough, there was the man—a real burglar.

There has been a deal of talk about burglars here lately, and Judge Smith determined to catch one. He drew up his sleeves, slipped in the room and got ready. Snapping down, he grabbed the boots, made a savage pull that would have dislodged three men and—it was on the judge.

Fined Heavily For Contempt.

Savannah Morning News.
S. S. Sasser was adjudged guilty of contempt in the Superior Court yesterday, and fined $100, for refusing to permit Special Commissioner Walter H. Fleming to enter upon his land and catch certain hogs which belonged to J. W. Larissey. Payment of the fine was suspended, pending good behavior.

This is the outcome of the Ossabaw Island stock controversy between Mr. Larissey and Mr. Sasser, which became so serious a few weeks ago that it was necessary for Judge Cann to interfere, and delegate a special commissioner to remain on the island and keep the peace while sorting the stock. Both Mr. Sasser and Mr. Larissey agreed to the arrangement, and a consent decree was accordingly entered.

Wednesday Mr. Sasser violated this order by declining to allow Mr. Fleming to enter upon his land in search of two of Mr. Larissey's hogs. He threatened to shoot the officer if he insisted upon trespassing, and so testified in the hearing. Sasser admitted making the threat, and said he was advised by his counsel, Mr. F. M. Oliver, to "shoot like a dog" either Mr. Fleming or Mr. Larissey if caught upon his premises.

WEARY OF THE ROWING.
Judge Cann told Sasser he did not credit his statement about the lawyer's advice. The court did not believe that Mr. Oliver or any other member of the Savannah bar would advise a client to do as the witness claimed. The court did not deem it of sufficient importance to summon the attorney that he might enter a denial.

Judge Cann said he was getting tired of the Ossabaw Island trouble, and warned Mr. Sasser that he would be more severely dealt with in the event he were brought before the court again.

There has never been any rule against Mr. Larissey, notwithstanding the fact that his competitor on the island has been cited on other occasions before the judge. Passing upon the case, Judge Cann said:

COURT'S ORDER VIOLATED.
"After hearing the testimony in the above stated contempt proceedings, the court is constrained to find that the preponderance of the testimony seems to show that Mr. Sasser prevented the gathering of cattle belonging to Mr. Larissey on Mr. Sasser's land, and thereby violating the order of this court, heretofore passed. The order of the court distinctly covers all land controlled by either party.

"There is a lack of sufficient proof that Mr. Sasser carried a weapon upon land other than that controlled by himself. There is nothing in the order which prohibits Mr. Sasser from carrying a weapon on land controlled by him, except under certain circumstances mentioned in said order.

"Mr. Sasser having violated the said order, the court adjudges him to be in contempt and assesses a fine of $100, the collection of the said fine to be suspended during the future good behavior of Mr. Sasser, and until the further order of the court."

After his defense of Sasser Judge Twigg informed the court that he was disgusted with the conduct of his client and that he wished to inform him that the firm of Twigg & Oliver would decline to represent him in the event of another violation of the order.

Col. Robert L. Colding appeared for Mr. Larissey.

Clarke County Planters

To Aid Cotton Plans.
Athens, Ga., March 10.—A most interesting meeting of cotton growers has been held at the university chapel to hear reports from the state convention. Most of the following was the line-up:

W. Hagin, catcher; L. Hall, pitcher; Dr. Mooney, 1st; Bill Outland, 2nd; M. Waters, 3rd; J. Zetterow, 4th; Hedleston, 5th; Fields, 6th; Mathews, 7th.

The game proved to be very interesting and no doubt the victors will receive another challenge in the near future, as some of the married men who made several grand stand plays do not seem to be satisfied with the result and are anxious to prove themselves star players.

Negro Dropped Dead
News reached the city Saturday of the sudden death of July Butts, living in the Blitch neighborhood, which occurred on Sunday, March 6th. It seems that Butts and the preacher had gone from church to a friend's house to take dinner and while making preparation for the feast Butts dropped dead. Medical aid was summoned, but to no avail. Butts was well known in his community, having resided there for the past four years. It is said that he had never been sick a day in his life and had never taken a dose of medicine. It is believed that heart trouble was the immediate cause of his death.

Death of Mr. Gideon Brown
We regret exceedingly to learn of the death of Mr. Gideon Brown, one of Emanuel's most prominent farmers and one of those rock-bottom citizens which forms the stamina of our commonwealth. The News extends loving sympathy to the family and friends in their bereavement.

Incredible Brutality
It would have been incredible brutality if Cha. F. Lemberger, of Syracuse N. Y., had not done the best he could for his suffering son. "My boy," he says, "but a fearful gash over his eye, so I applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve, which quickly healed it and saved his eye. Good for burns and ulcers too. Only 25c at W. H. Ellis' drug store."

THE STATE FAIR.

The state fair offers $22,000 in prizes this year. This is the largest sum ever put up by a state fair in Georgia.

President Hughes, of the State Agricultural Society, and his fair committee at first made the prize $1,500 for the best county agricultural exhibit. This was as same as last year.

But this did not satisfy Atlanta. She wanted to beat every thing ever offered before and begged the fair committee to raise the first prize at least to $1,800. The committee thought that $1,500 was enough but finally agreed to increase it to $1,800, as Atlanta was as anxious.

The prize for the second best county exhibit will be $1,200; third $800; fourth $600; fifth $400. The next five best county exhibits will get $300 apiece and the next five will receive $200 apiece. This makes 15 county prizes, but still Atlanta is not satisfied and she offers $100 apiece to every single one of the other 122 counties in Georgia if they make good exhibits.

As the railroads haul the county exhibits free to Atlanta and as each county is sure of getting at least $100, there is no reason why every county should not make a display. All the hay, cotton, grain and vegetables can be sold in Atlanta after the fair at good prices.

The best individual agricultural exhibit will receive $400; second best $300; third $200; fourth $100. For the best one-horse farm exhibit, the fair will pay $800; second $200; third $150; fourth $50. There will be a prize of $50 for the largest yield of upland cotton from one acre, and the same amount for the largest yield of sea island cotton and corn from one acre.

Liberal prizes are offered for nearly everything grown on a farm. Copies of the premium list will be mailed free by the general manager, Frank Weldon, Atlanta, Ga.

A MIXTURE OF STUFF.
Gumbling is a very unpleasant habit, and besides it never helps matters in the least. The poor Rake, who lives in an ice house and eats whale blubber, is to be pardoned if he grows a little. But it would be a safe statement to say that some of us who live in the land of sunshine and plenty, can beat him out at what should be his own exclusive right. A Bulloch county farmer has no more right to grumble than Adam had when he was monarch of all he surveyed, Eve included. But he right to growl in a land where the man can make everything he wants, is yet to be established. No man ought to be satisfied with his achievements, but it is the privilege of everyone to be contented.

"Ole Bill," said the successful business man, "Ole Bill, that's what they call the man who was raised among them, and who has stayed among them. No matter if he has studied law in Edinburgh, and can move heaven and earth with his eloquence and logic; no matter if he learned his medicine at first hand in Germany or Paris, and is a genius; no matter how venerable and dignified he may have grown, as he dispensed law or argued medicine or did stunts; no matter anything about that, he is still just "Ole Bill," thus deposed the successful business man, without malice to any and with charity to all. His experiences and observation would make a great book.

Raising Irish Potatoes

Like Owing A Gold Mine.
From the Macon News, Jan. 27, 1905.
The entire session of the United States court was completed this morning and until 1 o'clock with the suit of George H. Anderson against Mrs. Anna Mitchell. Anderson is a Michigan man and rented some land from Mrs. Mitchell for the purpose of raising Irish potatoes.

From a hearing of the case it appears that the potato industry in Georgia is a profitable one and indications are that others will go into it after it becomes known how well the Michigan man made out.

Anderson rented about 100 acres from Mrs. Mitchell and raised a crop of potatoes which were very profitable to him. He began preparations to go into it again this year when he claims that Mrs. Mitchell made known her intention of using the land herself. Anderson claims that the land was rented for more than one year, while Mrs. Mitchell asserts that one year was the limit. The Michigan man makes an injunction restraining Mrs. Mitchell from interfering with his working the land, and the result of the case was a decision for Anderson.

It developed during the hearing that Anderson had made a good thing out of potatoes and he declared that a good crop from 100 acres was worth $10,000. He demonstrated that last year he made $8,000 with a poor crop and bad weather, but he showed that under favor conditions Irish potatoes raised in Georgia is like owning a gold mine.

The results obtained by Mr. Anderson in the potato growing industry are brought out during the hearing of the case have caused no little discussion among those interested in agricultural matters and there are several now studying the question more thoroughly.

That the growing of Irish potatoes in Georgia is profitable is generally conceded by those who have investigated the proposition. Others, too, have been as successful as Mr. Anderson who has demonstrated how a potato patch can be made a gold mine.

Mr. E. L. Cleveland of Houston, Maine, who is now in Georgia, investigating the potato growing industry in discussing the matter said: "It is quite evident to me that your farmers need to diversify their farming, in view of the present cotton trouble. One of the most profitable crops that the farmer can put in is Irish potatoes for the early market."

"You can plant here just about as early as Florida, and the quality of your potatoes puts them at the head of the market. Hastings, Florida, last year shipped 75,000 barrels of potatoes for the early market. This crop netted them $225,000. Can your farmers see the value of this diversification?"

"The sandy loam soil of Georgia is particularly adapted to the raising of Irish potatoes; this crop can be made to work wonders with the average black acre."

"It is not generally understood, perhaps, that the raising of Irish potatoes requires less scientific knowledge of farming and less work than any other crop. No special knowledge is required to raise a big crop of Irish potatoes and they are always worth in the neighborhood of three dollars a barrel. This land is level and easily worked and would respond beautifully to treatment by the machinery that we use in the cultivation of potatoes."

UNWORKED FIELDS OF WEALTH.

This Earth's store of riches still intact in fabulous quantities. In spite of the enormous harvests made on this earth's great store of wealth, diamonds, gold, oil, gas, coal, iron and other materials, reveal the fact that there is still a vast store of wealth waiting to be discovered.

Investigations have proved, for instance, that huge areas of the floor of the Pacific are strewn thick with immense deposits of nodules of pure manganese. In fact, a practical and economical method of recovering it and the individual who does so will be once beyond rich beyond the dreams of avarice.

The most crying need today is a substitute for Para rubber. It is certain to be discovered sooner or later. Celluloid and cellulose-based oil are useful for some purposes for which rubber is used, for oil and automobile tires real rubber is the only material with the necessary elasticity.

Real photography in colors is still an open field and offers boundless opportunities for the inventor. In other matters, too, the list of wants unmet is endless. Jewellers, for instance, are still quite without any safe method of fixing pearls on jewelry, such as rings, where the gems are mounted without a surrounding setting.—London Chronicle.

One reason why Peru-na has found permanent use in so many homes is that it contains no narcotic of any kind. Peru-na is perfectly harmless. It can be used any length of time without acquiring a drug habit. Peru-na does not produce temporary results. It is permanent in the system, and gradually eliminates catarrh by removing the cause of it. There are a multitude of homes where Peru-na has been used off and on for twenty years, and a thing could not be possible if Peru-na contained any drug of a narcotic nature.

What Mary Gave.

She gave an hour of patient care to her little baby sister, who was cutting teeth. She gave a string and a crooked pin and a great deal of good advice to the three-year-old brother, who wanted to play fishing. She gave Ellen, the maid, a precious hour to go and visit her sick baby at home, for Ellen was a widow and left her child at his grandmother's while she worked.

DROLL STORIES OF THE PASSING MOMENT.

COULD NEW WILD OATS WITH IT.

Simon Ford was showing a hotel-keeper from up the State some of the beauties of Central Park, New York. "What's that monument over there?" inquired the stranger, pointing to the "That is Cleopatra's Needle," replied Mr. Ford.

The rural bonfire gazette at it long and thoughtfully. Finally he remarked: "Well, it should be seen with that thing. I don't wonder Antony fell in love with her. With a needle like that, a stitch in time would save about a million!"

A MEAN MAN.

John T. McCutcheon, whose "Bird Center" cartoonists have been making an amazing record, told a Bird Center story at a recent dinner.

"The mean man of Bird Center," he said, "is his little boy fishing one day. The boy sat with his feet hanging over the end of the pier, and losing his balance somehow, he fell head first into the water."

"A bystander plunged after him. This hero had to dive down to the bottom time after time before he found the boy. I just let him swim, and he came up with a fish in his mouth."

GOOD OPENING FOR A PUS.

A new family had moved into the apartments on the first floor. Coincidentally with the arrival of the new tenants a cat was followed by five or six half-grown kittens moved in, and took possession of an obscure corner in the hallway.

From the statements of parties most interested it appears that these animals began howling at or near 6 o'clock p. m. of the same day, and kept it up until 11 o'clock, at which hour a full man wrapped in the folds of a dressing gown and wearing a pair of squeaking slippers was seen descending the stairway from the apartment on the second floor.

As he reached the bottom of the stairs a door leading into the apartment on the first floor opened, and a man with a skull cap and an angry countenance emerged.

"I don't know who you are," said the man in the dressing gown, "but my opinion is that you haven't got much humanity about you—if any building should ride up in front of this building in an automobile, and you don't stop to help it, you are a good deal better off than I am."

Why don't you take those cats in and then?"

"Why don't you take them in?"

"The idea of half starving a lot of kittens and letting them yowl all night long and disturb everybody in the building. You little grasshopper!"

"It isn't disturbing you any worse than it is disturbing me. If you want those cats fed you can feed them."

"I'll give you a dollar if you'll feed them," said the man in the dressing gown.

"What have you got to say now, sir?" he demanded, turning and facing the new tenant.

"Nothing. Except thank you, sir."

"Well, by the great horn—say, my name is Rogers. What's yours?"

"Glad to know you, Mr. Rogers. My name is Hawkins."—Chicago Tribune.

COMPETENT BUT UNPREJUDICED.

In the course of the year Parson Whitaker received many calls to marry, christen and bury in the village round Cayce, so it often happened that his services were required in families of which he knew little more than the names of the persons whose behalf he was to officiate.

One day he was summoned to a lonely farm to perform the burial service. On arriving there after some vicissitudes he was met by a forlorn-looking man who was evidently in charge of affairs.

"Are there relatives left whom you should mention?" the minister asked.

The "Good Road."

RULEY we can say agriculture is the great monarch, and its interests should be fostered in every possible way.

If any tax upon this important industry can be lifted without an impairment of governmental revenues it certainly should be done, and it certainly should be done, and it certainly should be done.

We have no fault to find with vast appropriations for penons, irrigation schemes, waterways and railroads, but it is a crying shame that agriculture, the monarch industry, has scarcely been noticed, and when it demands of the National Government what the individual communities are not able to give—continuous lines of improved highways—its request should be answered by large appropriations for such continuous lines of improved interstate roads.

This Nation claims to lead in everything, and I think it does, for we have the biggest rivers, the biggest trusts and the poorest roads on earth. Surely the National Government should always do those things that make for the National welfare, and how could the National welfare be better promoted than by the National aid for continuous lines of improved interstate highways?

By such highways not only transportation of farm products is greatly facilitated, but such roads will make for a better education, more social and religious privileges, and in every way tend to elevate the character of our rural population, on whom we, as a Nation, so largely depend.

How absurd it seems when we are told that the National Government can spend $250,000,000 to build one canal in Panama, and New York State can spend $100,000,000 for canal purposes, but that no money can be appropriated to aid the great industry—agriculture—upon which the prosperity of the entire country and these special interests rest.

Were it not for the agricultural interests, canals, rivers, harbors and railroads would be practically useless, for without the products of agriculture there would be little or nothing for them to transport.

The National Government has expended $400,000,000 in improving the Panama canal, while in the same time it has laid railways to the extent of $138,000,000, and in addition to encourage railroad building, has given $100,000,000 of the public land, making a grand total value given for these objects of not less than $1,500,000,000, besides appropriating for irrigation schemes that the desert may blossom as the rose.

All these appropriations were made from the people's money. We find no fault because such appropriations have been made, for we approve of them all, but we do find fault because the common road, the most important factor among them all, which makes for national prosperity, has been utterly neglected.

Now abridges, waterways, railroads and highways, but the greatest of these is highways.

Has the great-souled mind assume to say that Congress has not the power to authorize outlays for road improvement, because the Constitution does not allow such appropriations?

In answer to that statement all we have to say is that Congress and the Constitution were created by the people and for the people, and that both Congress and the Constitution are simple instruments to do the work and bidding of the people.

All the money held or received by the National Government is the people's money, and we do not insist that a man shall do what he will with his own when free from encumbrances.

Big Strike of Street Railway Employees Causing Trouble.

TRAFFIC BADLY CRIPPLED

Schedules on Both Elevated and Subway Abandoned—Many Non-Union Men Are Pressed Into Service. One Accident Recorded.

With one collision in which twenty-nine persons were injured and none killed, New York passed through the first day of the general strike on its Rapid Transit system Monday.

Beyond this accident and some minor casualties due to the abnormal conditions, the strike of the men was annoyance and vexation to a million or more people usually dependent upon the interborough company's lines for transportation to and from their business. So far there has been little disorder.

Sporadic encounters between individuals, some bad language and the action of a few hoodlums in the throwing of missiles at passing elevated trains tell the phases of the strike.

Service on the elevated roads, and subway, while not tied up, was crippled and badly crippled at times. Trains were run at irregular schedules in the morning, but the elevated lines did not fare so well. On the one side practically no service was made to institute a service, while the Sixth and Ninth avenue lines, which serve the West side, were run in a fashion woefully inadequate.

In fact, the elevated system of the interborough's line was pretty well paralyzed. The company's entire effort to maintain service in the subway and in this it was partially successful.

Strike Breaker Farley and his crew of seven hundred or eight hundred men were thrown into the tunnel; officials of the company gave them their personal attention and an enormous number of policemen were detailed to the guard trains and stations.

The attempt to run express trains was abandoned early in the day. Even available man was put on the local and a fairly good schedule was maintained during the evening rush hour until the accident. At Twenty-third street took place. This upset things, but after a strenuous effort they were straightened out and a service was resumed on a headway of from five to seven minutes.

The accident at Twenty-third street was in the nature of a rear-end collision, due, it is said, to the inexperience of the men on the trains. Two cars had their ends smashed in, and passengers were injured. It was so severely hurt that they had to be sent to the hospitals. Traffic was delayed for over two hours.

(INCORPORATED.)

Entered at Statesboro Ga. Post Office as second class matter.

The grapple is getting to be one of the fatal diseases, and thousands of people die every year from it.

Rev. Guyton Fisher now in Savannah says in a recent sermon that "men" are scarce in that city. They can get out a big vote all the same.

The Russians have been lately whipped at Muklen where forty thousand of their men were killed, and they are now on the retreat with the Japs right in behind them.

Editor Bouffellot of the Macon News is billed to make a speech on Memorial day at Cedar town, and those people will hear one of the South's most eloquent sons.

Plenty of hog, hominy and hay, and pinders and velet beans will make up for the losses in price of cotton. To these might be added coos, chickens and eggs.

Spot cotton is now worth more than futures. This shows that the bears are in need of the cotton, and are doing their level best to hold it down, but they will probably squeal before they get much of it.

Dr. Osler says men are not worth killing after they are forty years old. We know men who are over seventy making a good living for themselves and families on rented land.

Senator Bate of Tennessee who died last week, was one of the last veterans of the Mexican and civil wars now in congress. The old patriots are giving away to the new issue of commercial statesmen, who know more about graft and pulling the leg of Uncle Sam, than they do about great questions of government.

Billy Atkins was a cripple and yet he made not only a living on his farm but made money besides. This shows that grit-and-put-it is the road to success in any business. The fellow who pretends to do anything and lets the moth eat him, or fools away his time, will always have a hard road to travel. Success comes to the man who works for it.

A Jury Which Became Famous.

A correspondent calls our attention, says Law Nore, to an interesting verdict which was rendered in the district court of Travis county, Texas, in 1857. The defendant, Frank B. Rafter, at that time a well known citizen of Austin, was accused of gambling, which was not regarded as a very serious offense in Texas in those days, especially if the offender chanced to be a prominent citizen. The prosecution was generally treated as a pleasant jest, but was nevertheless carried through in earnest, and a jury composed of lawyers brought in the following verdict:

We, the jury, lawful men, find the defendant guilty; A guilty man beyond all doubt, Let the defendant pay himself out. Thus we've said this freeing man, Your obedient servant, A. O. Horne, Foreman.

The composition of this verdict is attributed to A. W. Terrell, who at the time of his service on the jury was a young lawyer. Afterward he attained great distinction in practice, served as a district court judge, and was United States minister to Turkey under President Cleveland. Other members of the same jury who afterward achieved renown were Charles S. West, who rose to be a justice of the Texas supreme court, and F. W. Chandler, who became one of the leading members of the Texas bar.

Is Roosevelt Turning Democratic?

The above question is being asked in certain quarters. It seems that the president has a way of his own in running things, and the old Party Boss has lost his prestige over him. He appointed Carter Tate, a democratic congressman whose term has about expired, to the place of attorney general of the northern district of Georgia one day last week, and displaced a life long republican in order to do so. It is now given out that he offered the Atlanta postmaster's place to the widow of the late General John B. Gordon. Mrs. Gordon fortunately was so well fixed as not to desire any place of trust or honor and declined.

The president has also declared vacant the job of W. R. Leaken, assistant district attorney at Savannah. This is said to have been the man who tried to have the "Statesboro Mob" brought before the United States court, and would have done so had it not been for it having been ordered stopped from Washington last winter. He has also given New York a chance to see how it feels to have a negro fill the most important office in the city. The yankees can now have an opportunity to see how their own medicine taste. Taking it all together, Roosevelt shows some signs of becoming a democrat.

Best Remedy For Constipation

"The finest remedy for constipation I ever used is Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets," says Mr. Eli Butler, of Franklin, N. Y. "They act gently and without any unpleasant effect, and leave the bowels in a perfectly natural condition." Sold by all Druggists.

The way of the transgressor is hard, as Greene and Gaylor are finding out. They stole the money appropriated to clean out Savannah harbor and run off to Canada. They are now in jail and fighting extradition. Wealth dishonestly obtained is very apt to take wings and fly away or give its possessor lots of trouble. Honesty is yet the best policy.

Every Two Minutes

Physicians tell us that all the blood in a healthy human body passes through the heart once in every two minutes. If this action becomes irregular the whole body suffers. Poor health follows poor blood; Scott's Emulsion makes the blood pure. One reason why is such a great aid is because it passes so quickly into the blood. It is partly digested before it enters the stomach; a double advantage in this. Less work for the stomach; quicker and more direct benefits. To get the greatest amount of good with the least possible effort is the desire of everyone in poor health. Scott's Emulsion does just that. A change for the better takes place even before you expect it.

Leggrippe is all the rage, have you had it?

Many of the Bulloch county prosperous farmers have an eye on Brooklet with a view to locating on account of the healthful surroundings and good school advantages. To each and all we extend a cordial welcome and congratulate them upon their wise judgment.

We are authorized to announce that Elder Patterson of Statesboro, will preach at Brooklet on the fourth Sunday at eleven a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Notwithstanding the steady down pour of rain a good size audience attended quartet conference at Harmony Saturday, and an appreciative audience heard the presiding elder at both morning and evening services, at the Methodist church in Brooklet on Sunday.

We would judge from the number of drummers who pay daily visits to our town, and the elegant stocks of new goods that adorn the shelves of our merchants, that prosperity abounds hereabout. It is pleasing to see on our streets the good farmers for several miles around every week. They know where to get value received for their money, and we hear words of praise from every one for the courteous treatment that they receive from the Brooklet merchants. Here they find a ready market for the surplus produce, at a price even higher than some of the neighboring towns are paying. Brooklet is on an special boom but it is steadily building up with good substantial citizens who appreciate a congenial element and a quiet home.

We congratulate the News upon its own merits for having so successfully passed its fourth birthday. We anticipated, when a few months ago it discarded its kites (twice-a-week) that it was beginning to feel its manhood, and while its competitor still slumbers in its swaddling clothes we are getting good wholesome items twice per week fresh from the press of the News. May you reach the full limit of sixty before your competitor applies the Dr. Osler remedy.

Mr. Shearouse, of Guyton, father of Mr. J. N. Shearouse, was a pleasant visitor to Brooklet Sunday.

Miss Etta Hall is quite sick with pneumonia.

Mrs. Purvis, of Eldora, returned home Monday morning after several days visit to Mr. A. J. Lee.

Miss Minnie Sease, of Ludovic, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Leslie Lee.

Mr. Dock Bland, of Middle-ground church neighborhood, bought a resident lot from Mr. Fayette Alderman last week and will in the near future build a handsome residence and move his family to Brooklet.

Mr. Ed Lane who has been in the employ of the Savannah Street Car Co., for several months returned home Saturday. He says there is no place like Bulloch county.

Mr. S. L. Blackburn, of Statesboro, visited the family of his brother, Mr. Ed Blackburn, Sunday.

Mrs. Wilson, of Statesboro, returned home Monday after a week's visit to her son, Mr. Jack Wilson.

Col. Booth and wife were visitors in our town Saturday.

Hous. Fred Lanier and Remer Proctor attended Judge Rawls' court in Brooklet Friday, only one case was tried. A. H. S. Knight vs. E. W. Perkins, question of rent, verdict for defendant.

Barcus Davis, colored, about sixty years of age was tried before Judge Wayne Parish Friday and adjudged insane. The constable carried him the same afternoon to Statesboro for safe keeping, until arrangements can be made for him in the state asylum. Davis has always been a good reputation and has been in the employ of Mr. H. M. Robertson for several years.

Leggrippe is all the rage, have you had it?

Many of the Bulloch county prosperous farmers have an eye on Brooklet with a view to locating on account of the healthful surroundings and good school advantages. To each and all we extend a cordial welcome and congratulate them upon their wise judgment.

We are authorized to announce that Elder Patterson of Statesboro, will preach at Brooklet on the fourth Sunday at eleven a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Notwithstanding the steady down pour of rain a good size audience attended quartet conference at Harmony Saturday, and an appreciative audience heard the presiding elder at both morning and evening services, at the Methodist church in Brooklet on Sunday.

We would judge from the number of drummers who pay daily visits to our town, and the elegant stocks of new goods that adorn the shelves of our merchants, that prosperity abounds hereabout. It is pleasing to see on our streets the good farmers for several miles around every week. They know where to get value received for their money, and we hear words of praise from every one for the courteous treatment that they receive from the Brooklet merchants. Here they find a ready market for the surplus produce, at a price even higher than some of the neighboring towns are paying. Brooklet is on an special boom but it is steadily building up with good substantial citizens who appreciate a congenial element and a quiet home.

We congratulate the News upon its own merits for having so successfully passed its fourth birthday. We anticipated, when a few months ago it discarded its kites (twice-a-week) that it was beginning to feel its manhood, and while its competitor still slumbers in its swaddling clothes we are getting good wholesome items twice per week fresh from the press of the News. May you reach the full limit of sixty before your competitor applies the Dr. Osler remedy.

A Chicago man wants a divorce because, as he alleges, he was out of his sense when he got married. Is that to say he was laboring under the temporary mental aberration of love?

An insurance company reports that it has written a $2,000,000 policy on the life of a Wall Street broker. Hereafter, that broker and not Al Adams should be referred to as "the policy king."

A Pennsylvania boy has been arrested for hugging an old woman so hard that he broke her collar bone. He ought to have been arrested on general principles for not selecting a pretty girl.

An engineering publication states that the cost of one of our battleships, including armament, is all told nearly $8,000,000, and Russian battleships probably cost, ready for action, about the same. In view of this fact it would seem likely that Russia's loss of warships in the far East, since the war began, totals about $15,000,000, and may amount to $150,000,000, states the Baltimore Sun.

Our readers have all heard of Dr. Gussaulus of Chicago, one of the ablest ministers of the day. He is interested in men as well as books, and human nature as well as theology. We learn that he has recently made a can was of 100 of Chicago's most prosperous business men, and found that 80 of those came from the farm. He also found that 71 out of 100 of the best doctors were country boys. If he had looked up the preachers we have the impression that he would have found that about 99 out of 100 learned how to milk cows, hoe corn, dig potatoes, ride horses, and read the best agricultural papers on the farm. Why is that? The farm boy has an opportunity to develop physical strength in a way that athletics, so popular and fashionable among town boys and in the colleges, never will. He has good health, a good appetite, lives out in the open air, and there for can stand the strain that is inevitable in the struggle for success in the city.

JAPS TAKE MUKDEN

Russians are Driven From the City and Mikado's Forces Now in Full Possession.

KUROPATKIN STILL RUNNING

Russian General Making Desperate Efforts to Escape Being Surrounded. Precipitate Retreat in Full Swing Toward Tie Pass.

Mukden is now in the hands of the Japanese and Field Marshal Oyama's first great objective has been accomplished after a prolonged and desperate battle. A single terse sentence from Tokyo saying that the Japanese entered the ancient capital at 10 o'clock Friday and a confirmation dispatch from Yinkow, was the extent of the information.

Kuropatkin is in full retreat, but the fate of his army is still in doubt. With Tie Pass his point of refuge, he is endeavoring to extricate his forces, but from the meager information in Friday's dispatches it is apparent that his position is extremely critical. Behind the Japanese screen that has been gradually thrown to the west and north of Mukden, columns of infantry and guns are reported to be moving northward.

The Russians have been driven from their positions, and now are rushing northward toward Tie Pass, around which are high hills which were prepared for defenses after the battle of Liao Yang in September.

That the Russians have lost many guns and large quantities of ammunition and supplies is certain. Immense stores, it seems certain, have been destroyed. The Japanese have not yet reported the capture of guns, but it could hardly be surprising if Kuropatkin could have removed all of his artillery.

The result of Oyama's great turning movement is said to depend on General Kawamura's army, which is supposed to be moving from the east toward Kuropatkin's line of retreat. Should he reach the military road, which runs almost in a direct line from Fushun to Tie Pass, before the passage of the Russian army, the circle will be complete, as Nogi's guns already command the railway and should soon control the Mandarin road, which is a short distance east of the railway and runs parallel with it.

Even should Kuropatkin extricate his army, it is believed in some European capitals that peace will follow this latest Japanese victory. The calling to St. Petersburg of Mr. Iswsky, Russian minister to Denmark, who formerly was in Tokyo, is regarded as significant.

The losses in the operations preceding the battle proper must have reached enormous proportions, but up to the present neither side has attempted an estimate. They will exceed the Shalke losses, in which the Russians alone lost in killed, wounded and missing 67,000 men. Field Marshal Oyama arranged his attack so that the Chinese city of Mukden should not come within the range of battle, rather an easy task, as the Russians had no positions immediately around the city, as was the case at Liao Yang, and the Russian town is two miles from the outer walls of the old city.

Oyama's Telegram. A Tokio special says: Field Marshal Oyama telegraphs as follows, under Friday's date: "We occupied Mukden at 10 o'clock this morning. Our surrounding movement, in which we have been engaged for some days past, has now completely succeeded. The fiercest fighting at several places in the vicinity of Mukden took place. We captured a great number of prisoners, enormous quantities of arms, ammunition, provisions and other war supplies. There is at present no time to investigate the number of them."

General Kuropatkin sent the following dispatch to Emperor Nicholas, under Friday's date: "Last night began the retreat of all our armies. During the night there was no fighting but a heavy cannonade."

In the above eight words the greatest defeat in the history of the Far Eastern war was made known in St. Petersburg. This brief message was flung over the street in newspaper extras, and it was passed from mouth

Adams and Peabody Antagonistic That Contests Shall Be Honorable Battle. Neither Governor Adams nor former Governor James H. BATE FUNERAL IN SENATE

Impressive Services Held in Upper House Over Remains of Dead Tennessee Senator.

A Washington special says: The funeral services for William B. Bate of Tennessee were held in the senate chamber Friday afternoon.

The president of the United States, the members of his cabinet, the chief justice and associate justices of the supreme court, the diplomatic corps, members of the house of representatives who are in the city and representatives of the army were present and occupied seats in the chamber.

The body of the late senator was brought from the Ebbitt house to the capitol at 1:45 p. m., and was met by the committee of escort at the bronze door of the senate wing. The committee formed in open rank and after the remains had passed through followed to the senate chamber.

An exception was made to the senate rule adopted recently excluding flowers from the chamber. The desk of the secretary and clerks of the senate was completely covered with beautiful offerings, mostly of roses, carnations, lilies and violets. When the casket was brought in it was accompanied by a number of immense floral tributes which were placed on the carpet.

The galleries were crowded and extra seats had been placed on the floor, some of them being occupied by members of the house.

The ceremony was begun at 2:03 p. m., when Vice President Fairbanks stepped forward for the opening prayer. Chaplain Hale of the senate, Dr. Samuel H. Green, pastor of the Presbyterian Baptist church, and Dr. J. P. Prentiss of the Mount Vernon Square Methodist church, South, took seats at the secretary's desk.

After all were seated Dr. Greene read a passage from the Bible and Dr. Prentiss delivered the funeral address.

Paying a high tribute to the character of Senator Bate, Dr. Prentiss eulogized the record the deceased had made in the service of his country in statesmanship and in the Mexican war. He praised the gallant fighting qualities displayed by the senator in that later conflict, the civil war, in which he served the confederacy. The address was brief, consuming not over seven minutes.

The services were closed with prayer by Dr. Charles Hale, closing with the Lord's Prayer, in which all joined. Dr. Hale read an announcement to the effect that all who cared to accompany the remains to Nashville, Tenn., for the funeral, would be accommodated on a special train over the Southern railway, which would leave Washington at 5 p. m.

Senator Carmack then escorted Mrs. Bate and other members of the family from the chamber. President Roosevelt and his cabinet, the supreme court, diplomatic corps and other guests retired, and on motion of Senator Allison, the senate at 2:30 adjourned until Monday.

The remains lay in the closed casket until 7 p. m., when they were taken to the special train for Nashville. The members of the senate who went to Nashville are Messrs. Carmack, Proctor, Daniel, Pettus, Scott and Overman.

Only three members of the Tennessee delegation in the house of representatives were in the city. Messrs. Sims, Brownlow and Gorman. They accompanied the family to Tennessee.

to mouth. Two thoughts formed in the minds of every one, and two words on every lip: "Remember—peace!" the former declared, the latter hoped for.

General Kuropatkin is no maker of phrases; his words never are quoted like the famous "All is lost save honor—remember—peace!" the former declared, the latter hoped for.

The state department at Washington is officially informed from Tokyo that the Japanese have achieved a great victory before Mukden and that the Russian army is in full retreat. The casualties are enormous on both sides.

KUROPATKIN ON THE RUN

Russian General Making Desperate Efforts to Save His Defeated Army.

MAKING FOR NORTH

Fortified Positions Hastily Abandoned and Flight Begins Closely Pursued by Japs.

Georgia Contingent is Amazed That President should Proffer District Attorneyship to a Democrat.

A Washington special to The Atlanta Constitution says: The announcement that "congressman Tate, a democrat, whose democracy knows no trills or compromises, is to get the district attorneyship over not only Ed Angier, the incumbent, but over several republican aspirants as well, has created a good deal of consternation among the Georgia republicans in Washington.

While there is nothing in this particular case to warrant the suggestion of a new policy, still some of the republican officeholders seem to think there is enough in it to cause temporary nervousness on their part.

Collector of Internal Revenue Rucker and Collector Devoaux of Savannah, the two colored republicans holding high office in Georgia, took heart with the appointment of a colored collector at New York, but this Georgia change has had a somewhat chilling effect.

They have been in the city for several days, having come for the inauguration, but as their terms have nearly run, there will be no action in their cases for a long time.

Congressman Tom Bell of the ninth Georgia district paid a handsome compliment to his predecessor in that office, Hon. Carter Tate, when in discussing the offer of the district attorneyship to Mr. Tate, he said: "Coming as it does without solicitation on his part, I see absolutely no reason why Carter should not accept the district attorneyship. He would make an excellent official and I am sure his appointment is a credit to the president, demonstrating as it does a policy of keeping the courts free from partisan politics."

With a sterling democrat like Judge Newman on the bench and with Mr. Tate as district attorney, it can never be charged against the federal court, as has been charged in some other districts, that it lends itself to partisan politics. If my opinion or advice were asked, I am not certain that there can be no reason in the world why Carter could not accept the appointment tendered him."

It is officially announced in Tokyo that the Russians began retreating Wednesday morning. The Japanese army are pursuing them. Advice received indicates that General Kuropatkin is badly beaten in the bloodiest battle of the present war.

The Russian army is leaving positions south and southeast of Mukden. The sky is lighted with the brilliant glare of burning warehouses, where tons of commissary supplies have been given to flames. The retreat is being effected in perfect order, the Russians beating off attacks of pursuing Japanese.

The withdrawal was necessitated by a heavy concentration of Japanese west and northwest of Mukden, whither they have transferred a large share of the forces from the southern front to reinforce the original striking force of General Nogi.

The Russians still held their position at Madaypu, where a strong attack is expected at any moment.

A division of Japanese troops has appeared north of Mukden on the heights west of Hushatani station.

Washington Gets Official News. The state department at Washington is officially informed from Tokyo that the Japanese have achieved a great victory before Mukden and that the Russian army is in full retreat. The casualties are enormous on both sides.

BANKERS ON THE STAND.

They Tell of Mrs. Chadwick's Peculiar Dealings With Their Respective Institutions.

Nine witnesses were examined in the Chadwick trial at Cleveland, Ohio Tuesday, and the defense established the fact that the claims of the government that Mrs. Chadwick had no money in the Oberlin bank at the time of drawing checks, which were certified to Spear and Beckwith, was incorrect in two instances, at least.

It was shown by the general journal of the bank that on November 3, 1903, when Mrs. Chadwick received a certified check for $10,000 an entry crediting her with that amount was made on the journal of the bank and a deposit slip for $10,000 was made out in her name. The entry and the slip were in the handwriting of Cashier Spear. Another entry of similar nature, amounting to $5,000, was also found, whose facts brought out on cross-examination by Judge Wins, counsel for Mrs. Chadwick, after long and tedious questioning of H. H. Avery, assistant cashier of the Oberlin bank.

Several directors of the Oberlin bank testified that they know nothing of the transactions with Mrs. Chadwick. One of them said none of the Chadwick deals were ever reported by Mr. Spear to the directors.

An official of the Euclid Avenue Trust company testified Mrs. Chadwick had $92,500 on deposit in his bank.

Robert Lyons, receiver for the Citizens National Bank of Ohio, said he did not know Mrs. Chadwick, but that he had seen her at the bank and that he had seen her at the bank and that he had seen her at the bank.

Mrs. Chadwick came into court apparently none the worse for her illness, which caused the adjournment Monday.

It is doubtful if Andrew Carnegie will take the stand. District Attorney Sullivan is reported as saying: "It is not my present intention to put Mr. Carnegie on the stand, and I do not think he will be called upon to testify unless his evidence should be needed in rebuttal of something introduced by the defense."

The Atlanta Constitution says: A Washington correspondent sends the following to his paper: "Attorney General Moody stated this morning that he had, on behalf of the president, tendered to Hon. Carter Tate, a democrat, the office of district attorney of the northern district of Georgia, now held by Hon. Edward Angier. The place comes to him entirely unsolicited."

"Coming as it does, Mr. Tate's friends are sure to be surprised, if he should not accept it. It comes solely as the result of the personal admiration of President Roosevelt for him, and of his close personal friendship with Attorney General Moody and Secretary of the Interior, Mr. Clegg, both of whom served in congress with him."

NEGROES CALL ON ROOSEVELT.

Delegation Pleads With Him for Betterment of Present Conditions.

A Washington dispatch says: Bishop W. Grant, Alexander Walters and B. W. Arnold of the African Methodist Episcopal Church headed a delegation of members of the sociological congress which called on President Roosevelt Wednesday to consider with him plans for the betterment of the condition of the negro race in this country.

In an address delivered to the president, Bishop Grant said that they came as the representatives of a large constituency of negroes of different churches and other organizations to thank him for the "splendid position" he has taken of equal justice to all men, regardless of color, creed, section or race, also for the nomination of Charles W. Anderson as collector of internal revenue for the second district of New York. Continuing, Bishop Grant said:

"We have come to request you to recommend to congress the appointment of a commission to investigate and consider every phase of the face question in the United States with the view of suggesting some plan for the betterment of the condition of the colored people and to bring about a more harmonious relation between the races in this country."

Informally, the delegation suggested to the president the subject of the reorganization of the packing house industry politically against negroes, but the members of the delegation declined to discuss the feature of the call. President Roosevelt did not indicate to the committee.

Several directors of the Oberlin bank testified that they know nothing of the transactions with Mrs. Chadwick. One of them said none of the Chadwick deals were ever reported by Mr. Spear to the directors.

SENATOR BATE DEAD.

Well Known Tennessee Passes Away Suddenly at Washington From Attack of Pneumonia.

United States Senator William B. Bate of Tennessee, twice governor of his state, a veteran of both the Mexican and civil wars, rising from private to major in the confederate army and for eighteen years a conspicuous member of the upper house of congress, died at his hotel apartment in Washington Thursday morning, aged 78 years. Death was due to pneumonia and defective heart action.

Senator Bate attended the inauguration ceremonies on March 4, and his death is believed to be due primarily to exposure to that occasion. He suffered a slight attack on that day. He, however, continued his official duties and occupied his seat in the senate Tuesday. He became suddenly ill at the dinner table that evening and immediately called for a physician. He was put to bed and his condition was recognized as serious. Despite the efforts of his physician, he became steadily worse, and all hope for his recovery was given up Wednesday.

His illness, however, showed improvement, and it is probable he would have recovered but for the weakness of his heart, which is attributed not only to his advanced age, but the serious strain to which it had been subjected by a long standing asthmatic condition.

Senator Bate was entirely conscious until his death, and realizing that the end was near asked that he be buried at his old home in Nashville. He died at his old home in Nashville. He died at his old home in Nashville. He died at his old home in Nashville.

Millen News.

The grim reaper, death, seems to have singled Statesboro out as a field rich unto harvest and as he has been busily at work with his scythe there for the past few weeks.

Among the list we notice the name Capt. W. N. Hall, and our hearts go out in sympathy to the family and numerous friends whose hearts we know are crushed with sorrow at the loss of this genial, great-hearted son of the old regime.

Captain Hall was one of those brave rugged natured old veterans, whose courage and fidelity has been the backbone of southern valor and southern pride, and as each one crosses the dark river we feel a nameless pain, a longing to retain those men among us, whose like the world will never know again—guileless and honest—living in heart and deed the golden rule of Confucius, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." He has obeyed the soldier's last tattoo and gone to join the legions of those who once wore the tattered rags of grey, for

On Fame's eternal camping ground The mighty tents are spread, And glory guards in solemn rounds The bivouac of the dead.

With love in our hearts we say, peace to his ashes.

Will Start Y. M. C. A.

The young men of Statesboro are taking steps to organize a Young Men's Christian Association. It is proposed to lease a hall and establish a public library and reading room. Someone, perhaps a young lady, will have charge of it. This is a long felt need and we are glad to hear the question is being agitated, and hope soon to know that it will be a reality.

Can Children Be Educated?

The above is a question which should squarely and touchingly confront every parent. I believe that every man hopes that there may be a time in his life when some good fortune will be his. The youthful mind too is ever dreaming of what "I shall do when I am a man." Fond hope lingers with him. No doubt many a farmer boy passes the long, long summer day, the sun kissing his cheeks, while he dreams of the gleaming prospects which he sees in the future for him. His heart leaps for joy as he thinks he may yet go to school—probably to college. Late the candle or the pine knots are kept burning as the quiet night finds him studying and planning, and probably all this time his parents have forgotten to give him any education, and he plods his weary way alone. They seem to have forgotten that there is only one time in a child's life when his educational ambition is at its height. If properly directed at this time his ambition may prove to him a fortune; if let die away, the child may grow to manhood in ignorance and all his fond hopes perish.

There are at present in the state of Georgia about 88,000 people who have no education—total illiterates. The average yearly amount paid for each child's schooling in the United States is about $1.80. The average amount paid out for each person for alcoholic drinks is about $10.00. Now, to say nothing of what is paid out in other wasteful ways, does it really seem that Georgia should have so many who desire no benefits from an education.

While so small an amount is paid out for education, yet a great many children do not have advantage even of this.

The world has reached an age of progress and enlightenment that is calling for men and women who are educated. Not only does it want them educated, but it is saying, "Give us men and women who can work when educated." This cry is becoming more and more intense.

Some one has said that a common school education increases a person's advantages of life about four times, and that a high school education increases his advantages about twenty-three times. We know that these estimates are not unreasonable.

The parent may ask himself the question, "What can I do to assist my boy's education?" And he may also reason, "I have so many calls for money, it seems almost impossible for me to spare my boy, let alone paying his way." Thus the poor boys and girls are neglected. The parent often never even thinks what just a little time and money thus expended would mean to the child. "Ships and instruments of war and wealth may be found again if lost, or may be acquired at a later age; but a bright intellect once lost is gone forever." While on the other hand if the intellect is trained, the child is given a possession more precious than jewels, and more to be admired than riches; a possession that will not rust nor tarnish, nor can it be stolen when the thief appears.

Some may say, "Let the children work it out for themselves, they are able, and as for me, I have not even time to think about such." But every encouragement and advantage should be given the child. The parent is living for his children. He should try to benefit them while he lives. Many times the child, once so hopeful and promising, is allowed to sink down under discouragement, when only a few words by the parent might have meant a fortune to the child.

The child reaches two roads, as it were, one leading to teeming fields of knowledge, the other to the neglected fields of ignorance. Just at this time the child is in the most needful stage of his life. Happy should be the parent who recognizes the child's needs and directs him accordingly.

he have the highest knowledge of right before he is educated? I say no.

To be educated is to be trained in heart and body and mind in all that is highest and best. To be thus trained requires more than merely a day or a week or a month it requires years, and with some who have not had the opportunity of an education during childhood, it may be the strongest years of their life.

Now in conclusion I would say that I hope the year 1905 will be one of prosperity to the schools of Bulloch, and one worthy of remembrance.

A Chicago Alderman Oves His Election to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"I can heartily and conscientiously recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for affections of the throat and lungs," says H. W. Jones, Chamberlain, 220 So. Peoria St., Chicago. "Two years ago during a political campaign, I caught cold after overheated, which irritated my throat and I was finally compelled to stop, as I could not speak aloud. In my extremely a friend advised me to use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I took two doses that afternoon and could not believe my senses when I found the next morning the inflammation had largely subsided. I took several doses that day, kept right on talking through the campaign, and I think this medicine that I won my seat in the Council." This remedy is for sale by all Druggists.

I think a great deal may be accomplished by the common school libraries. I understand that our commissioner, Mr. J. E. Brannen, is offering on very liberal terms, a good library for each school in the county. I hope all the schools will take advantage of these, and will use them to the best advantage possible to be obtained from them.

The great educators are continually passing away, but their work still lives. The books which they have written they have left for us, and while they are dead they yet speak, and let us listen to them. Their very lives are stored away in their books, and are rich with knowledge. Thus their lives serve as a bridge on which the following multitudes are to cross. In these books are stored the crystallized thought of all past ages. A few cents expended for a good book may mean more to a boy than hundreds of dollars given in exchange for something that will perish.

Can the children be educated? Is it an impossibility? I would say to ninety-nine per cent, "It is not an impossibility." There is scarcely a home in the land where there is not enough wasted if the people were only aware of it, to keep the children in school for several months of the year. If a man is determined to educate his children, no barrier will keep him back. If he is not trying to do his best along this line, he is not doing his duty.

Those interested in education should try to interest those who are not. "It is not given to all of us to be great, but it is given to us to admire greatness." What do we mean by greatness? Do we mean fame? Not altogether. A man or woman may be famous in his community as being virtuous. In this sense greatness would mean fame, but to be great is to be noble. How can one reach the highest degree of nobleness without a knowledge of what is right. Can

Petition to Merge S. & S. and S. A. L.

A petition from Mr. Wayne Parish at Brookier has been put before the railroad commission asking them to declare the Savannah & Statesboro railway and the Seaboard Air Line railway one and the same corporation. It is alleged that, according to the testimony brought in the controversy between John Skelton Williams and President Barr of the Seaboard Co., the Seaboard owns the Savannah & Statesboro railway.

Mr. Parish claims that inasmuch as there is a common ownership between the two, that they are one and the same and should be merged.

It is claimed that Brookier is discriminated against in the way of rates, and that the entire line of patrons would be benefited. The case will come up for a hearing in a few days. There is considerable interest in the outcome of the matter.

J. C. Deal and Velvet Beans.

Last year Mr. J. C. Deal who is one of the leading farmers of the Sam neighborhood, a few miles above Statesboro, planted a field of twenty-five acres in corn, planting two rows and then skipping a row, and then planted pinners and velvet beans among his corn, and he made sixteen bushels of corn per acre, and then used the beans and pinners for hog and cow food. About the first of November he turned twenty-five head of cattle in the field and they have remained fat all the winter eating the vines and beans, and he now has several beets for market. In addition he fattened forty-two head of big hogs, from the pinners and the beans, and the vegetable matter from the vines will be turned under and it will be equivalent to two hundred pounds of guano to this year's crop.

Mr. Deal says that this field was worth three times to him of the same number of acres in cotton, and he has solved the food question for hogs, cattle and horses. He cut six thousand pounds of velvet bean hay, and is now selling it on the market for one dollar per hundred, and has enough to feed his horses all the year.

We know of several farmers who are on the road to independence by planting velvet beans, and the farmers can make no mistake in planting them.

Farm Less And Make More.

Some men go on the theory that if farming is a paying business and a good thing more of it will pay better thing. If a man could do a lot and as well as he can do the right amount, there would be no reason why this theory wouldn't stand the hard knocks of practice, but no man can hire work done as well as he can do it himself; that is farm work. And here is where the over-reaching farmer falls down.

Of all farms in the United States, those paying best per acre are the 40 and 80 acre farms. It is true that there are some instances that almost anyone can cite where the 200, 800 and 400 acre farm is paying the best, but we speak of farming as a whole—of the average farm in the United States.

Bulloch county is now one hundred years old, and it is our intention to put out the most elaborate special edition ever issued from a town the size of Statesboro. It is expected that the edition will contain at least 100 pages, which will be filled with photographs of interest to the people of this section. Special attention will be paid to the history and photographs of the people whose names have been connected with the county during the past 100 years. The full history of the events of interest during these 100 years will find space in its columns.

It will be handsomely bound, with a lithograph cover, printed in colors, and printed on first class paper; in fact there will be nothing in it except the very best, both in material and workmanship. We hope that it will not only be something that will be a credit to the News, but one that every citizen of the county will have cause to feel proud of.

It seems to us, at this time, when the county has just finished her first one hundred years, this will be the proper thing to do—to make something of it, in the way of the printing of a handsome booklet that may be preserved and handed down to the generations to follow. It is expected to contain those things that will make it a place in every home in this section, and one that will not be merely scanned and thrown aside, but will be preserved for years to come. We expect to spend considerable money and an endless amount of time and labor on it and hope to be able to put out something that will give satisfaction.

It is very probable that it will be issued about September 1st, in time to be out of the way of our fair exhibit; that will command our attention from then on for the next sixty days. In the meantime active preparations are under way for the publication of this mammoth edition.

New Rural Route to Start

Postmaster Rigdon informs us that rural route No. 5 has been ordered put in operation on April the 15th. This route leaves Statesboro after the arrival of the morning trains, and runs from here to the residence of Dr. Patrick, back via the Riggs old mill and over in the neighborhood of Mr. John A. Nevils. This will be a big convenience to the people in that section of the county. We have not learned who will be the carrier as yet.
