Damon and Pythias to Be On Magnificent Scale

Swainsboro lodge, No. 114, K. of P. will give a presentation of the well known drama, "Damon and Pythias" some time during the coming month. Special costumes, historical accurate and correct will be purchased from a New York costumer, and special scenery will be bought from a well known Chicago scenic studio.

The production will be under the personal direction of Geo. H. Bell, whose ability as an actor and stage director is well known in this entire section. Mr. Bell, himself, will probably assume the roll of Damon, while Captain C. H. Thompson will play Pythias, and Hon. F. H. Saffold will appear as Dionysius, the tyrant king, in the cast will include, Messdames A. F. Lee, A. Thompson, Louis Proctor, Geo. H. Belle, Miss Lula Thompson, Messrs. A. F. Lee, S. H. Lester, A. Thompson, S. J. Tyson, H. H. Thompson, L. S. Proctor and various members of the K. of P. lodge.

This elaborate presentation of this magnificent, historical production will be given for the benefit of the local lodge of order, which has recently purchased a lot and is now raising funds to erect a castle hall. After two performances in Swainsboro it is expected that the company will make a tour of several neighboring towns. There will be about twenty-five people in the cast. —Swainsboro Forest-Blade.

Champion Liniment For Rheumatism

Chas. Drake, a mail carrier at Chapinville, Conn., says: "Chamberlain's Pain Balm is the Champion of all liniments. The past year I was troubled a great deal with rheumatism in my shoulder. After trying several cures the storekeeper here recommended this remedy and it completely cured me." There is no use of anyone suffering from that painful ailment when this liniment can be obtained for a small sum. One application gives prompt relief and its continued use for a short time will produce a permanent cure. For sale by All Druggists.

"Three years ago," writes J. O. Edge, of Hanson, Ky., "my little daughter had Bronchitis in a severe form, and after trying other remedies and doctors without relief, we tried Dr. King's New Discovery. The first dose relieved her and in two or three days she was entirely well."

METTER

Mrs. Alley Durden and daughter, Mrs. Annie Johnson of Stillmore, are visiting their friends and relatives in and around town this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. S. Bazemore's little two-year-old baby died Monday night after only two days of sickness.

Mrs. Jno. W. Giddens, of Swainsboro, is spending a few days of the week with her parents, Mr. Joshua Ellis.

Mr. Jacob Ellis and wife, of Canoe, paid our town a short visit Wednesday.

Prof. Hamlin Echridge visited his friends at Vidalia last Saturday and Sunday.

The Williams Sisters have opened up their nice line of spring millinery goods and are now ready to please their many friends and customers in the latest styles and fashions.

Rev. Frank Donaldson, of Daisy, preached a very able sermon here Sunday.

Woody Brothers gave a free musical concert on last Monday night, but on account of the inclemency of the weather they had a very small attendance.

Rev. S. W. DuBose and wife of Statesboro, are making the Collins house headquarters for a month visiting their friends in and around town.

Mr. J. C. Jones, who is one of the firm of W. C. Jones & Co. of this place, is spending the week in Statesboro with his family.

Mr. L. H. Sewell, our hustling cashier, spent a few days of last week at Tolberton visiting home folks.

The young folks of the town met last Friday night and organized the Metter Library Society with Dr. B. B. Jones as president. We hope by continual efforts there will be some good accomplished from the society. We meet every Friday evening at 7:30 and we invite everybody to come out, as we give you something wholesome.

The Metter high school closed its first month's work last Friday, March 10th, and we are very proud of the good work that is being accomplished by both teachers and pupils. The record of the month's work show that the school is kept up to its high standard. The school should be the pride of all our citizens, because so many young and tender minds are entrusted to its care. The enrollment has reached 135 pupils, which is the largest in its history.

Mr. John M. Lee and Miss Minnie Cassidy were united in the holy bonds of wedlock last Thursday evening, Judge G. R. Trapnell officiating. We wish for them a pleasant sail over the sea of their new life.

By The Tonic Route

The pills that act as a tonic, and not as a drastic purge, are DeWitt's Little Early Bitters. They cure headache, constipation, biliousness, etc. Early Bitters are small, easy to take and easy to act—a safe pill. Mack Hamilton, hotel clerk at Valley City, N. D. says: "Two bottles cured me of chronic constipation." Sold by W. H. Ellis.

An awful good sermon to preach is generally a very poor sermon to listen to.

A man's idea of domestic happiness is three good meals a day, and not being asked to argue with the cook as to whether she will stay or go.

BAG.

Miss Belle Poor was a pleasant visitor at the home of Mr. G. R. Beasley one day last week.

Mr. B. E. Proctor, of Brooklet, was in our midst on last Thursday.

The report in regard to Misses Ophelia and Cornelia Seibels having small pox is simply a mistake. The girls state that they have not even been exposed to the disease under no circumstance.

Mr. Gordon Simmons originally from near Snap, now of Stillson accompanied by Mr. Jim Brannen of that place, made a flying visit in our midst on last Sunday.

There was no school at Pleasant Hill last week, on account of sickness in school.

A Chicago Alderman Owes His Election to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"I can heartily and conscientiously recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for affections of the throat and lungs," says Hon. Jno. Sherman, 220 So. Peoria St., Chicago. "Two years ago during a political campaign, I caught cold after over heated, which irritated my throat and I was finally compelled to stop, as I could not speak aloud. In my extremity a friend advised me to use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I took two doses that afternoon and could not believe my senses when I found the next morning the inflammation had largely subsided. I took several doses that day, kept right on talking through the campaign, and I thank this medicine that I won my seat in the Council." This remedy is for sale by all Druggists.

STATESBORO, GA., TUESDAY MARCH 21, 1905.

VOL. 5, NO. 2

Gang of Thieves Hit Town.

On Saturday a gang of negro thieves struck Statesboro broadside. Three or four negroes were in a bunch who made a tour of the stores, pretending to be prospective purchasers. Soon after leaving the store of Mr. P. Williams, that gentleman noticed that a coat that belonged to a certain suit was missing. He went out and found them on the street in front of Messrs. Proctor Bros. & Co. Williams singled out a suspicious looking package under the negro's arm, jerked the paper off of it, and the coat he had missed fell out before his eyes. The negro who gave him the package as Paul Burke, and Dover as his home, was arrested and lodged in jail. The others in the party were loud in protesting their innocence. Other missing articles were found on the negro's person, including a hat from J. G. Blitch Co., and a pair of shoes from Clary's.

No doubt the town would have been struck harder, had not they been detected as soon as they were. Mr. Williams gave the negro some wholesome advice in this way, he says: "Nigger hereafter when you want to steal, go to the Gentiles, never steal from a Jew they will catch you every time."

Register & Glenville To Tapp Statesboro.

We understand that the arrangements have been about perfected by which the Register & Glenville will run their trains into Statesboro instead of stopping at Register as at present.

This will be a decided step forward not only for Statesboro, but for the R. & G. as well. This would give us a direct line of road from here to Glenville, and later we understand that it is the intention of the R. & G. to extend either to Jesup or Vaycross, then we would have a direct line to Florida.

We expect soon to hear the whistle of the Register & Glenville in the city limits of our town.

Real Estate Deal at Brooklet.

Mr. J. B. Lee sold his tract of land one day last week to Mr. P. C. Waters of Harville. The tract contains seventy-five acres and lies in and near the coming little city of Brooklet. We are informed that the purchase price was $2,500.00. It is one of the best pieces of property in one of the best communities, and near one of the best little towns in Georgia.

A Safe Cough Medicine For Children

In buying a cough medicine for children never be afraid to buy Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. There is no danger from it and relief is always sure to follow. It especially cures cold, croup and whooping cough. For sale by All Druggists.

Save 25 to 75 per cent. by making your purchase at The What Not while they are selling at cost.

Best Remedy For Constipation

"The finest remedy for constipation I ever used is Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets," says Mr. Ell Butler, of Franklinville, N. Y. "They act gently and without any unpleasant effect, and leave the bowels in a perfectly natural condition." Sold by all Druggists.

Base Ball Meeting Tonight.

We are requested to announce that there will be a meeting of all those interested in seeing Statesboro get up a first class ball team this summer at the court house this evening at eight o'clock. A stock company has been organized with a capital of $1000 for the purpose of fencing a ball park and financing a good team. It is proposed to have some of the best teams in the state come here and play this season, and the boys are anxious to equip a team that will meet the best that is coming down the Pike.

There is nothing that will pull away that tired feeling so quick as to turn out and witness a game between two crack professional ball teams, and there is nothing that keeps a town more in the public eye during the summer time than the fact that she has a ball team that is cleaning up. Other teams around in good shape. All who are interested are cordially invited to turn out to the court house tonight at eight o'clock.

Incredible Brutality

It would have been incredible brutality if Chas. F. Lemberger, of Syracuse N. Y., had not done the best he could for his suffering son. "My boy," he says, "out a fearful gash over his eye, so I applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve, which quickly healed it and saved his eye. Good for burns and ulcers too. Only 25c at W. H. Ellis' drug store."

$100,000.00 to loan on Bulloch county farms at a low rate of interest and easy terms.

Call on J. A. Brannen, Statesboro, Ga.

Will Wed in April

The announcement has been made of the approaching marriage of Miss Maggie Williams of Adabelle to Mr. W. B. Wallace of Hagan. The marriage will take place in April at the home of the bride's father, Mr. J. W. Williams. Miss Maggie is one of Bulloch's most popular young women and has a large number of admirers all over the county. The groom to be is one of the most popular young railroad men in this section, and holds a trusted position with the Register & Glenville railroad. The young couple will make their home at Hagan.

Jesse W. Sample Married.

Mr. Jesse W. Sample was married to Miss Ellen Parker, of Claxton, last Sunday.

Jesse is too well known and has too many friends here to need comment, he having been known and identified with our people since infancy.

Mrs. Sample, formerly Miss Parker, is the daughter of Mr. A. C. Parker, a prominent sawmill man of Claxton, and is a young lady whom any young man should feel proud to win. Mr. Sample has recently been promoted to the general management of the Collins & Reidsville R. R. a position of honor any young man should feel proud to win. Report of the marriage was made to us by Mr. Alonzo Warnock, who was present at the best times of his life.

Mr. and Mrs. Sample will make their home in Reidsville.—Forest-Blade.

Shot Knobs Off

Some person with evil intent visited the church at Payne's Chapel in this county one night last week, and shot the building full of shot, knocked off door knobs and did other devilment generally. It is said that several parties in the neighborhood have been prosecuted for cutting up at the church some time ago, and some think that this might have had something to do with the devilment at the building a few nights ago. But no one knows.

A Card of Thanks.

To the many friends whose thoughtful kindness and tender sympathy helped to lighten our burdens and soften our grief during the illness of our father, we tender our thanks to all. If anyone ever had better friends, truer friends than he who has gone from us, that one is blessed.

To his medical attendants who we feel sure did more than professional duty demanded, we owe a debt of gratitude, and especially to him who laid aside all other duties and watched with tender care day and night at his bedside, we are at a loss to find suitable words to express our appreciation, but may every act of kindness, every word of love, be returned to the hearts from which they immigrated as refreshing dew from Heaven, that will brighten their lives until they, too, shall blossom for Eternity.

With all our hearts, we thank you.

H. J. Akins and Mother.

A Dinner Invitation

After a hearty meal of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will prevent an attack of indigestion. Kodol is a thorough digestant and a guaranteed cure for indigestion, dyspepsia, gas on the stomach, sour risings, bad breath and all stomach troubles. W. Watkins, Leebus, Ky., says: "I can testify to the efficacy of Kodol in the cure of stomach troubles. I was afflicted with stomach troubles for fifteen years and have taken six bottles of your Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, which entirely cured me. The six bottles were worth $1,000 to me. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will digest any quantity of all the whole some food you want to eat while your stomach takes a rest—recuperates and grows strong. A Little Girl Goes Over the River.

On last Friday the Angel of Death hovered over the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Deal about two miles from town and bore away the spirit of their little three-year-old daughter, Ella. The little one was taken ill with something that was at first thought to be rheumatism and died in a short time.

The remains were laid away in the Smith family burial ground near the home on Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Deal have the sympathy of a large number of friends in their sad loss. We are informed that another child of the same family was taken ill on yesterday with the same disease.

The What Not.

REASONS WHY TURNER-GLISSON CO'S. "is the Best Place to Buy."

We do not wait till the season is over, when the styles are picked over and the most desirable goods gone before we offer goods at LOW PRICES, but we open the season with low prices. In fact we are refuted for Low Prices. It will pay you to compare our prices even when they claim to be pricing you at cost. We are making war on high prices and the many price methods. We have but one price. Your child can buy as cheaply from us as the most thoroughly posted merchant.

If all the people only knew about our complete and up-to-date line of SPRING DRY GOODS and were posted well enough to appreciate our extraordinary low prices, it is a fact that our stock, which, ordinarily, is large enough to last the entire season, would be so reduced within a few weeks that our buyey would have to leave for the northern markets to try and secure a second supply.

Here are a Few Samples of Our Prices

It is impossible, however, to do our prices justice with printers ink—the goods must be seen to be appreciated. These prices are not on remnants or last season's styles, but on the newest goods in the market.

THE NEWS.

Published at Statesboro, Ga.
TUESDAYS AND FRIDAYS.

By The Statesboro News Publishing Co.

Those who have read the prize stories in the Boston magazines will not be surprised to know that the best one was written by a crazy woman in Minnesota, states the Baltimore Sun.

The author of "The Simple Life" says America is a better place than England for one to learn the English language, remarks the Denver Republican. He should come to this country in summer when the baseball reporter is coining the brand-new English words that fatten each new crop of dictionaries.

People who live in large cities will look upon this endeavor to distribute immigrants in the rural sections as a mere impractical undertaking, but probably the most valuable of all charitable endeavors. The present conditions of city life, largely brought about by congestion in slums where members subsist on doles from the charitable, while rural communities are clamoring for workers, are as mischievous as they are amazing, the Philadelphia Public Ledger opines.

Who could imagine a more delightful occupation than that of forester, asks the Little Chronicle? But such a profession was practically unheard of in this country five years ago. Now Yale, Harvard, the University of Michigan and of Nebraska and several agricultural colleges have schools of forestry with many pupils enrolled. So great is the demand for these young men of high character, intellectual ability and scientific training, that present a place under the government or private employ awaits every graduate.

New York may well be amazed at the figures showing that 35 percent of the school children of that city are abnormally old—that is, have not reached grades appropriate to their age. It was to be expected that a considerable number would be backward, but that so large a percentage should be behind from two to six years is astonishing. Children may enter school at six years, and should complete their first year's work at seven. Yet in the first year classes there are 15,425 children between eight and nine years of age, 4,117 between nine and ten, and 2,850 over ten. This is 23.2 percent of the total number.

The farmer who is expected to state what he grew on his farm for ten years, also the number of animals fed, will be well informed regarding the work done by him, Farm and Home thinks. Unfortunately but few farmers keep books, and they are compelled to guess or estimate, instead of giving all the facts. Another difficulty is that many farmers die, or sell their farms, during the ten years, hence no estimate of their operations can be obtained. If some method could be devised by which farmers would be required to make an annual report to the State Board of Agriculture of each state it would be more reliable than taking a census, and comparisons could be made yearly instead of once in ten years.

A most heartrending instance of the callousness of a great nation to the sorrow of an inventor and the sufferings of his kindred has been brought to the attention of the London Times by Capt. Edward Scrope Shrapnel, of the Vancouver Island Veterans, British Columbia. He is a grandson of the inventor of that famous shell containing bullets which a time fuse explodes where it will kill and maim the most victims if the gunner has the right range. The captain reminds England that this year is the centenary of the death-squaring shell, but that the family of the inventor is not enjoying, and never has enjoyed, an adequate pension for the ingenuity of Gen. Shrapnel, Royal Artillery, who spent a fortune—in fact, ruined himself and his family—in experimenting with the shell.

FIGHTING RATES ON LUMBER.

Georgia Saw Mill Association Asks Injunction Against Roads.

Counsel for the Georgia Saw Mill Association applied to the United States court at Savannah, Friday, for an injunction to stop the railroads of the state from charging an alleged excessive freight rate of 2 cents a pound on Georgia pine.

The interstate commerce commission recently decided that the rate was unjust, and the United States court ordered the roads to desist from charging the extra 2 cents, which it is now claimed has not been done.

ORCHARDS and GARDENS

Improve The Woodlot.

Farmers do not consider the care of the woodlots as one of its importance demands. Now is a good time to work in the woodlot and secure a year's supply for home use by cutting out all dead wood and that which is perishable, such as white birch, alders and young maple, and all trees that do not have a healthy growth, besides thinning out the woodlot, especially where the wood is needed, and in large numbers. These seedlings can be successfully and economically transplanted when two to four years of age.

At the New Hampshire Agricultural College 22,000 of these seedlings were transplanted last spring. The work of digging was begun April 18, and the work was as follows: A two-tined nurseryman's hoe was used, and with this tool one man could loosen about as many seedlings as two men could pull or pick up. A man can easily hold about 25 in his hand, and when this number has been pulled they are put in small piles or baskets, protecting the roots from the sun. Averaging all seedlings, from 175 to 250 trees could be taken up by each man in an hour, and the cost did not exceed 75 cents per thousand.

In planting, two men can work together with advantage, one using a spade or heavy dibble, which is thrust into the soil, while the other follows, placing a tree in each opening made, and then pressing the earth back firmly about the roots. It was found that two men could plant on the average 400 of these seedlings per acre, or 8 to 10 feet to a tree, 500 trees per acre, and the cost was found not to exceed half a dollar for each acre. The total expense of transplanting amounted to $1.25 per acre. This low figure places the expenditure of planting or restocking lands adapted to the white pine within easy reach of all.

Improved Implements and Land. That modern harvesting machinery has become a necessity is understood by every farmer, and it is appreciated at its full value, but what about the great improvements in other implements for other work at other seasons? The manure spreader that makes it easy to get out all our manure as made and distributed over the land in the best manner for the greatest benefit to the coming crop, permitting the operator to treat five times the number of acres with the same materials, and without lessened results; wheel plows and harrows; disks that save the man work at least one-half and make it possible to cultivate double the acreage and obtain heavier crops per acre; improved harrows, that easily enable the worker to cut the land in the mechanical condition, a condition that hastens strong, quick germination, conserves the moisture, and is really one-half the cultivation; riding cultivators that cut over one-half the ground in a day, and at the same time work close and fine the surface soil; grain drills; planting machines; silos and silo-filling machinery; in fact, every machine to do the work and do it well.

How many farmers go beyond the harvesting machine in their purchases? Possibly not over 5 percent and the other 95 percent are doing the best they can with what they have, and complaining of the great scarcity of farm help. It is easily possible for the average small farmer to go beyond his needs in the purchase of implements; but the mistake is generally one of wrong experience and close observation teach me that good farmers need good tools for the best results, and that their use brings the best results. The man who has five thousand dollars and buys the greatest number of acres to be had for all that money cannot succeed as can the man who bought land with half the money and got in shape for business with the other half. Poor land can be made profitable; all can be utilized for some good end; rich land is a good thing to have; but too much land for the capacity or means of the owner will not pay, let its character be what it may, unless the farmer is in good luck. This class of letters, Mr. Editor, is hard reading for all except those who are looking out to buy land for farming purposes; and it gives me great pleasure to know that there are so many of this latter class at this time.—D. E. HOWARD in Country Gentleman.

Restocking Land With White Pine. At the recent meeting of the Society for the Promotion of Agricultural Science, held in Philadelphia, Prof. F. W. Kane said: The white pine has played an important part in the lumbering interests of this country as an indigenous tree. As the forests of this valuable timber are gradually disappearing, methods of renewing them can scarcely fail to be of economic interest. In 1900, $2 a pound was the average price for pine seed, and $3 a thousand for 4 to 6-inch seedlings, the lowest quotation. Nowhere in New England could nursery-grown seedlings be obtained in hundred-thousand lots. As the quantity of seed recommended by the best authorities was five pounds per acre, the idea of spending $10 an acre for seed alone on land that had a valuation of from 50 cents to $5, was naturally regarded as visionary and impracticable. Upon careful examination it was found that in different sections where the white pine is native, young natural seedlings can be secured in large numbers. These seedlings can be successfully and economically transplanted when two to four years of age.

At the New Hampshire Agricultural College 22,000 of these seedlings were transplanted last spring. The work of digging was begun April 18, and the work was as follows: A two-tined nurseryman's hoe was used, and with this tool one man could loosen about as many seedlings as two men could pull or pick up. A man can easily hold about 25 in his hand, and when this number has been pulled they are put in small piles or baskets, protecting the roots from the sun. A Severe Cold For Three Months.

The following letter from A. J. Nussbaum, of Batesville, Ind., tells its own story: "I suffered for three months with a severe cold. A druggist prepared me some medicine, and a physician prescribed for me, yet I did not improve. I then tried FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR, and eight doses cured me."

A Chattanooga Druggist's Statement.

Robert J. Miller, proprietor of the Read House Drug Store, of Chattanooga, Tenn., writes: "There is no merit in FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR than in any other cough syrup. The calls for it multiply wonderfully and we sell more of it than all other cough syrups combined."

JAPS TAKE TIE PASS

Russians are Dislodged from Their Last Stronghold and Given Another Jolt.

RETREAT TOWARDS HARDIN

The Capture of Many Prisoners, Stores and Ammunition is Reported by Japanese—Details of Oyama's Planing Movement Are Yet to Come in.

The Pass is now in the hands of the Japanese and the broken Russian army continues its retreat to the north. Another successful flanking movement on the part of the Japanese will probably seal its fate, but it may be that the Japanese are not in condition to accomplish such a feat after their exhausting efforts of the past two weeks. General Kuropatkin reported to St. Petersburg that his army is falling back in good condition. The next town of importance in the line of the Russian retreat is Kai Yuan, some twenty miles from Tie Pass, but its strategic value is not known.

The following dispatch from Tokio, under Thursday's date, gives meager news of the occupation of Tie Pass: "The Pass, which was held by a division of Russian troops, is now in possession of the Japanese. After a slight resistance the Russians evacuated at midnight the strong position they had prepared months ago, setting fire to the railroad station and other buildings. The Japanese troops, which had occupied Yingpao and East Pishan, are in hot pursuit of the retreating Muscovites along the Kihon road. It is predicted that the Russians will retreat to Harbin. The Japanese captured many prisoners and the Russians destroyed vast stores of supplies. The Japanese have cut the railroad north of Chang Tufu, forty miles above Tie Pass."

Was Kuropatkin's Last Chance.

St. Petersburg special says: The news from the front is again very serious. Prof. Maximilian Kovalevsky, another blow at the defeated Russian army. In spite of the exhaustion of his forces after the twelve days' struggle for Mukden, he has been able to organize a fresh turning movement in the hope of completing the victory won under the walls of Mukden. Tuesday's attack on the Russian advance line at the Pan river, has now ended in a complete failure, while Japanese columns were being worked around to get in position to fall upon the Russian rear, and Wednesday the blow was struck, a disaster which the Army of the Far East, since its arrival at the city of Santopou, bringing to St. Petersburg the first news that a battle was in progress north of Tie Pass. That General Kuropatkin was taken by surprise is a fair inference from the manner in which Tuesday night he abandoned the Pan river positions, leaving so hurriedly that he again was obliged to burn his stores to prevent them from falling into the hands of the Japanese. It is evident that the Japanese struck in from west of the Liao river. The pass is practically the gate where the mountains and Liao river meet, and it commands the whole country northward. With the Japanese in behind the Russian army at Tie Pass General Kuropatkin's position is extremely critical.

With the evacuation of Tie Pass Wednesday night the Russian army abandoned the last stronghold in southern Manchuria, and definitely the end of the campaign is at hand. At least no other strategy is possible for General Kuropatkin, in view of his scanty supplies of ammunition and stores, the shattered condition of his army and the wide enveloping movements which the Japanese have continued almost without a stop since the Russian defeat at Mukden.

PEACE OVERTURES SIDETRACKED.

Germany Hears Officially That Czar Will Continue the War.

The German government has been informed that the Russian emperor has again put aside all peace suggestions and is unshaken in his resolution to continue the war. All the highest officers of the far eastern army recently joined in a petition to Emperor Nicholas not to consider peace, asking that they be given other opportunities to show the quality of Russian valor and representing that, although they have retreated, they and the army still have the will to fight.

SENATOR BACH IMPROVES.

Physician Will Insist Upon His Going to Seashore for Recuperation.

According to a Washington dispatch Senator Bach continued to improve, and Dr. Morgan, his attending physician, says he is doing just as well as could be expected. It is expected that he will inaugurate his going to the seashore as soon as he is able to get out.

FRAZIER TO GET TOGA.

Present Tennessee Governor is Named in Legislative Caucus at Nashville to Succeed Late Senator Bates.

A Washington special says: The senate practically finished with its consideration of the Santo Domingo treaty Wednesday. There is to be no vote upon it, but instead the senate will let it go over until next fall. It is a distinct defeat for the administration, but by letting the treaty matter remain in "status quo," the republican senators will let the president down as easily as possible. President Roosevelt is represented as being especially chagrined over the lack of interest in his pet treaty manifested by republican senators and some pretty strong language has been used by administration leaders in their references to those who have not felt incumbent upon themselves to remain in Washington and force the fighting.

There is some criticism also of republican leaders on the ground that they have failed to display that managing ability expected of them. It developed Wednesday that at least two republican senators would have voted against the treaty had the test come, Messrs. Nelson and Clark of Minnesota, and with the democratic vote united against it, with the single exception of McHenry of Louisiana, the senate leaders determined to take the easiest way out of their difficulty and permit adjournment without action. The only real work now remaining before the body is the confirmation of the nomination sent in. One alternative, which is under discussion, concerning the treaty was termed merely an excuse for inaction, is that Senator Cullum, as the chairman of committee on foreign relations, should offer a resolution directing the president to appoint a commission to make an investigation of the Santo Domingo debt and other questions involved in the protocol. This plan was agreed on tentatively, and the program most desirable under existing conditions, especially as it is believed that such a resolution could be adopted without debate.

Twenty-two republican members of the general assembly, according to report, refused to be bound by any action in caucus on the contest, and entered into a compact not to vote for Peabody. A majority of them, however, were in favor of seeing the lieutenant governor in the governor's chair. It means that he will be found so legally. Finally the leaders of the opposing republican factions arranged a compromise by which Peabody would be vindicated by being declared elected and McDonald would be made governor on January 1, 1907.

At the conference at which the bargain was made, pledges were given to the independent republicans by the heads of four large corporations who had been active supporters of Peabody, that he would retire after being seated and permit the lieutenant governor to take the office of governor.

At the Conference at which the Bargain was Made, Pledges were Given to the Independent Republicans by the Heads of Four Large Corporations who had been Active Supporters of Peabody.

Governor Peabody's resignation, it is said, was placed in the hands of W. S. Boynton and will be filed by him with the secretary of state. In conversation Adams said he felt outraged at the action of the general assembly and expressed surprise that Peabody should become a party to what he termed a conspiracy to secure the office of governor for a man who had no active supporters of Peabody. He will issue a formal statement to the people regarding the result of the contest.

Jose F. McDonald, who is slated to become governor, was born in Ashland, Ohio, in 1858. He removed to Colorado in 1879, and has extensive mining interests in Leadville and elsewhere.

Governor Peabody was escorted before the joint assembly by a committee after the adoption of the report and resolutions restoring him to the office of governor. He was greeted by the members of the assembly and the people gathered to witness the ceremony. Governor Peabody thanked the members of the assembly for having "done their duty," and assured them that their action would meet with the approval of their constituents. He said that his election would do away once and for all with the "dark days" of the association's membership, which now numbers 125,000.

STATISTICS TO BE ACCURATE.

Senator Morgan occupied practically the entire time in the discussion of the Santo Domingo treaty in executive session of the senate Thursday. He made a sensational speech, in which he attacked the treaty and the administration. He said that the treaty was a "sell-out" and that it would destroy the country. PEACH CROP KNOCKED OUT.

Recent Cold Spell in North Alabama Did Immense Damage.

ADAMS IS OUSTED

Trick Worked in Colorado Gives Seat to Peabody.

HE PROMISES TO RESIGN

Compact Entered into Whereby Lieutenant Governor McDonald Will Eventually Be Installed as the Chief Executive.

In joint convention of the Colorado legislature at Denver Thursday, James H. Peabody won his contest for the office of governor, from which he retired on January 10, after serving a term of two years, but his victory was achieved only after he had given his pledge to resign and surrender the chair to Lieutenant Governor Jesse F. McDonald.

The vote in joint convention of the general assembly by which Governor Adams was ousted and Governor Peabody installed was 51 to 41. Ten republicans voted with the democratic members for Adams.

It was more in the nature of a party trick, a personal triumph for both Peabody and McDonald are republicans and Adams is a democrat. Although the republican majority on the ballot is 35, the membership of the legislature being 41 republicans and 31 democrats, it had been found impossible to gain for Peabody enough republican votes to reinstate him as governor for the remainder of the term ending in January, 1907.

Twenty-two republican members of the general assembly, according to report, refused to be bound by any action in caucus on the contest, and entered into a compact not to vote for Peabody. A majority of them, however, were in favor of seeing the lieutenant governor in the governor's chair. It means that he will be found so legally. FAC-SIMILE OF OFFICIAL EMBLEM

Of Southern Cotton Association, Which Was Adopted at New Orleans. In a few weeks time nearly every cotton planter in the South will have in his possession a fac-simile of the official emblem of the association, which is the reproduction of which is shown in the accompanying cut.

The New Orleans convention adopted the cotton badge as the official emblem of the association and directed President Harvie Jordan to establish a bureau for the distribution of this emblem, which is being now prepared in the shape of buttons to be worn on the lapel of the coat and in the shape of stickpins.

Mr. B. Dixon Armstrong, a well known planter and historian of the South, has been placed in charge of the bureau, and under the direction of President Jordan, has opened offices at 1420 Empire Building, Atlanta, Georgia, for the purpose of sending out these emblems.

In the opinion of President Jordan and Secretary Cheatham, everybody in sympathy with the movement should wear one of the emblems. In this opinion there is no better way of showing the strength of the movement. The funds to be derived from the sale of these buttons will be used to carry on the campaign to organize the association's membership, which now numbers 125,000.

SULLY AGAIN IN HARNESS

King of Cotton Speculators, Free from Financial Entanglements, is Once More in the Arena.

A New York special says: The re-entry of Dan Sully into the cotton market Tuesday was signalled by a rise of from only 8 to 10 points, but Wednesday all future quotations showed increases of from 30 to 35 points, and the great bull leader seems to be about to start another great campaign. Having been discharged from bankruptcy, Sully is now free from all financial entanglements, and is said to have extensive plans for recouping his losses. Whether or not he will be able to rout the bears, is the question which is now agitating all cotton men.

Sully is said to have unlimited backing. He is quoted as saying that the south raised not a bale too much last year and that the world needs this cotton and must have it. He believes in an increase of prices, and points to the efforts of prominent bears to cover their shortages as evidence that they share his belief that the south is not really long on cotton.

The announcement was made that J. H. Hodley, chief side man, the same fireman who in the cotton market braved the flames and reached the imperiled tenants.

The victims of the disaster were typical East Side people, the same as typical East Side tenement, and the scenes attending it were in many ways peculiar to that cosmopolitan quarter. To apparently reckless displays of heroism shown by firemen, policemen and volunteer rescuers alone is due the fact that the list of dead is not greater. Two hundred persons crowded the big five-story double tenement house were seen to be upon the flames from an overturned or exploding kerosene lamp in the basement spread through the structure and wrapped the whole building in flames almost before the alarm had been sounded.

Even when the sleepers awoke at the first cry it was almost too late, but hardly a moment was necessary to show them that their danger had nearly begun. The narrow iron fire escapes, which ran down the building on each of its exposed sides, had been made receptacles for rubbish of all descriptions, and in many cases, they were little better than useless.

It was found also that every fire escape platform on the building had a "blind," or a square piece of board, which fits into the opening through which the ladder passes in the grated floor.

The result of these obstructed escapes were evident when it was found that nearly all of the dead belonged to the lower tenement, which was reached before they were able to reach the ground.

Another case of negligence, which was responsible for the loss of some lives, was an immovable skylight at the head of a ladder leading to the roof. Battered securely and partially covered by ice, the skylight resisted all efforts to force it and a pile of bodies of the dead lay under it when the horror was over.

Coroner Goldenskrantz declared after an investigation that he had reason to believe that the cause of the disaster was an incendiary. He issued subpoenas for the fire marshal, tenement house and building inspectors and health and police officials to appear before him at the inquest. The district attorney's office has begun an investigation to place the blame for the great loss of life. Chief Croker of the fire department asserts that the police and the tenement house departments are to blame for the violation of the fire escape laws.

NINETEEN LOSE LIFE

Holocaust in New York Fire-trap Tenement House.

Fire Escapes, Choked With Rubbish, Hampered Rescuers and Were Direct Cause of Death of Many of the Victims.

Nineteen persons dead, two scores injured, some so seriously that they may die, nearly two hundred persons temporarily homeless, is the result of a fire that practically destroyed a fire-trap tenement house in Allen street, New York, early Tuesday morning. The fire had gained great headway before it became known to most of the tenants and many of them were cut off before they could make an attempt to save themselves.

Thrilling rescues and daring leaps for life marked the fire. Scores were carried from the blazing building by firemen with scaling ladders braved the flames and reached the imperiled tenants.

Atlanta is rejoicing at the prospect of soon having direct communication

The idea of Myers attempting to reply to Charlton on the great high noble things of life. No wonder he went off on paved streets.

A man who now stands for decency in politics and civic government is regarded as a cranker by the modern grafter.

Why should Myers be afraid to tackle anybody on the majority issue, when he has a whiskey dis-tiller, and three hundred saloons at his back.

It appears to be the field against Clark Howell for governor. This would make a man think that Howell is the strongest man in the race.

Sam Small is making things hum on the Brunswick Journal.
He is incidentally putting in some good clicks for Clark Howell for governor.

The senate sat down on Roosevelt's scheme for Uncle Sam to become the debt collector against the little country in the South, like San Domingo.

Bulloch county has the reputation of having more two-story white dwelling houses with a brick chimney at each end than any other county in Georgia.

The Macon Evening News
throws us a sweet little bouquet about our coming Centennial Edition. Just wait for its appearance, it will be a hummer.

One of the reasons that there has been a decline in old time ideas of doing right, is that men are too busy chasing the dollar to think about the good old things.

General Kuropatkin has been recalled, placed on list of those who are disgraced. How it would be possible to disgrace any further a man who has supported the arms and infamies of Russia for the past decade we fail to see.

Suppose that Japan shall clean up Russia, then after resting a few years, should grow bold and tell Uncle Sam to walk out of the Philippines? What a great advantage she will have of us with this government twelve thousand miles from the scene of the fighting.

Billie Osborne delivered himself of another long winded meaningless article on Sunday. In his former articles he established a record for charging more and proving less than any writer we have read after in a long time, and the latter article leaves him in the same light.

Greatest Battle in History.

It has been left for modern times to furnish the greatest and bloodiest battle in the world's history. If all reports of the number killed in the battle fought last week around Mukden in Manchuria, between the forces of Russia and Japan be true, then Waterloo, Sedan and Gettysburg fade into insignificance when compared with this, the bloodiest ever known.

It is claimed that the Russian army alone lost 100,000 men on the field of battle, and the loss of Japan must have been certainly as great. Japan being the aggressor in this battle was compelled to storm the strong positions of the Russians, and her loss was certainly as great as that of Russia.

Charlton and Myers Cross Swords.

The Hibernians gave a banquet last week in Savannah. Hon.
Walter G. Charlton made a speech and stirred up the animals.
Mayor Myers, who is a product of modern political methods in that city, took exception to Charlton's remarks and made a reply through the press. Charlton in his speech deplored the decline of old time ideas, and the substitution of the modern political grafter in place of the old time patriot and statesman, and intimated that things were rotten in a political way in the city by the sea.

Myers places paved streets, and big buildings in the forefront, and stands alone upon the plane of materialism, and is willing to forget the heroic past and its glorious memories. Charlton himself is one of the noble sons of an illustrious ancestry, and is proud of those patriots who in better days, brought credit and honor to his native city and state; and no wonder he grows pessimistic, when he beholds the types of the present day political oracles, and sees and knows the methods that bring them forth.
No wonder he weeps at the shrine of the noble dead, and laments the decay of statesmanship. The right of the gratters, and the political bosses, backed up by whiskey distilleries, and purchasable votes, and fraudulent ballots, is enough to make him sigh for the return of the good old days, when greed and gold had to give way before high minded men who refused "to tow the knee, that what might follow tawning."

He is paved streets and elegant buildings, compared to high and noble manhood? If it means for us to depart from the ancient land marks of high civic honor, noble deeds, and right living, in order to obtain them, it is better for us to still travel slowly along the sandy streets.

No people, city or state, can build on material ideas alone, and Charlton belongs to that class who would be progressive, and at the same time not forget high ideals, nor depart from the paths of truth and right, and high endeavor. The spirit of commercialism, greed and gain is swamping aside old ideas, but now and then some clarion voice like

"SAVED MY LIFE"

—That's what a prominent druggist said of Scott's Emulsion a short time ago. As a rule we don't use or refer to testimonials in addressing the public, but the above remark and similar expressions are made so often in connection with Scott's Emulsion that they are worthy of occasional note. From infancy to old age Scott's Emulsion offers a reliable means of remedying improper and weak development, restoring lost flesh and vitality, and repairing waste. The action of Scott's Emulsion is no more of a secret than the composition of the Emulsion itself. What it does it does through nourishment—the kind of nourishment that cannot be obtained in ordinary food.
No system is too weak or delicate to retain Scott's Emulsion and gather good from it.

We will send you a sample free.
Beware that the picture in the bottle of Scott's Emulsion is of a fisherman carrying a large cod fish on his back.

Your Uncle Walter G. Charlton talked right out in meeting the other night while at a banquet in Savannah. He said that in comparing the Savannah of the past with the Savannah of the present the latter suffered considerably by the comparison. He must have had in mind the fact of Garfield standing in the shoes of Greene.

Statistics show how startling mortality from appendicitis and peritonitis.
To prevent and cure these awful diseases, there is one reliable remedy, Dr. King's New Life Pills.

The old public well, one of the old landmarks of Statesboro, has at last succumbed before the march of progress and was filled up yesterday. It had been declared a nuisance when the up-to-date system of water works took its place. There was no longer any room for it. In the years gone by it served its purpose, but like so many human beings it grew old and decrepit, and it was necessary to be "chloroformed." Misery is about the only real enjoyment of the pessimist.

In Memoriam

To be submissive to God's will is our duty, to accept his dealings without murmuring should be our pleasure, yet they do often bring sadness of heart, as it is with the writer, while trying to offer this tribute of love to the memory of my dear little pupil and friend, David Philmore Newman, who left us last Saturday night for his home of eternal bliss. It was after six days of intense suffering with that dreadful disease, pneumonia, before the soul of this almost idolized boy answered to the summons, "Come home." His body was taken to Lane church Sunday evening, where relatives and friends had gathered to pay the last tribute of respect. After being funeralized by Rev. D. R. Mc-Keeven he was sadly laid away to rest in the old cemetery, quietly and peacefully until the resurrection morning.
This little fellow had never made no profession of a hope in God, and had probably never been personally sol-lerted by his parents, relatives or friends.
"To seek first the kingdom," consequently when his departure was near at hand, we could then see and feel how negligent we had been of the one thing needful. I talked with him one day in reference to his feelings when he was about twelve years old; he said he felt like he was a bad boy, and I asked him if he cared, "O yes, Miss Alice I do care, I feel so sorry when I do wrong, I try hard to quit it but it seems that everything that I do is wrong." I took the little fellow if he ever thought of calling on his kind Heavenly Father to help him live right? "Some times I try to say my prayers but I don't know how." From the earnest manner in which he talked with the tears rolling from his truthful blue eyes, I felt like that God, our Blessed Savior, had not neglected him as we had, but that He had touched his heart with a living love from the altar of His Eternal love and that it would purify and cleanse him ready for the Masters use.

During the time I had the honor and pleasure of having this little form in my school I recognized in him some noble traits of character; his ear-est efforts in trying to get his lessons, and his loving disposition toward his teachers and his fellow pupils. He was loved by his teacher and school-mates.
Poor little Philmore, how strange it will seem when we visit the old school room again and see that empty seat which has been filled from my time, but we will find empty seats, but we will find empty hearts which only Jesus can take.
A place is vacant that cannot be filled until we meet in the glorious resurrection.

Look up, dear pupils and friends, for our redemption draweth near, soon our Blessed Lord will come and if we prove faithful we shall meet our sainted loved ones to roam the glory land and bask in the smiles of our Blessed Savior.

Philmore was among the most noble and generous hearted boys, his piety was remarkable, his devotion to his teacher and schoolmates was beautiful and all this must have come from a pure heart without which no one shall see God. May the unconquered brothers and sisters be reconciled to God and accept Jesus for their Savior.
Remember our God who knows them from the beginning makes no mistake, all His wise purposes may not be understood by us now but some sweet day we will see the wisdom of His ways, those whom we love so dearly and whose presence here on earth was so essential to our happiness, and not let each of us whose call is on to part with our loved ones say, "The Lord giveth and the Lord taketh away, Blessed be the name of the Lord."

Philmore's charming smiles and sparkling eyes
No more shall meet our earnest gaze, No sleep sweetly Philmore, a good boy never dies,
Sleep in peace till Jesus the just shall raise.

Ozer Has Dismissed Kuropatkin in Disgrace.

St. Petersburg, March 17.—In the face of the possibility of the complete loss of the army and the admitted fact at the war office that Vladivostok is possibly lost, preparations are being made to continue the war on a larger scale than ever.

Another army of 453,000 men is being hurriedly raised to be dispatched at once to Manchuria.
This will make a total of about 950,000 men sent to the field.

RUSSIA DISGRACED BY CZAR.
St. Petersburg, March 17.— With the Japanese hanging on the heels of the flanks of the remnants of the broken and dejected Russian army, dogging their every footstep, jeopardizing them at every turn, and harassing every move they attempt to make, General Kuropatkin, the old idol of the private soldiers of Russia, the man who has repeatedly sacrificed his chances of life in behalf of his ruler, but sought no protection for himself which his men could not have, had been dismissed in disgrace from the service of Russia. General Linvitch, commander of the first army, has been appointed to succeed him in command of all the Russian land and sea forces operating against the Japanese.

The word disgraced is written in large letters in the laconic imperial order gazette, which contains not a single word of praise for him—the man who has given his all to his country, who has fought a fight which the war exports of the whole world have marveled at when they have taken into consideration the rotten razor of jealousy which impregnated the army officials given him by his country to fight with.

The disgrace leaped upon the old general's head is not lessened but added to by the imperial order, making it plain that a request from Kuropatkin for relief is without foundation; that he has made no such request, but has been summary removed from his command. Another view that might be taken of the action is that this assertion that Kuropatkin has not asked to be relieved, but goes to show that despite his physical trials he was still willing to do. But, the annals of Russia in all its military career knows no more bitter rebuke, no more severe imperial scorn than this heaped upon her defeated general.
Russia simply knows no reason for defeat to her arms, seeing but two points—victory and glory, or simply disgrace and oblivion with a fall in the face of any reason whatsoever. So passes General Kuropatkin from the war situation.

The announcement now comes that General Dragomiroff is responsible for the disgrace heaped up on Kuropatkin and his dismissal from the army. Emperor Nicholas acted upon his advice and determined, at the instigation of General Dragomiroff, the war minister, that the step was necessary when it became apparent yesterday that Kuropatkin, while concentrating for a stand at Tie Pass, seemed aware that Japanese had worked around to the westward again and allowed himself to be surprised.

Another strong influence which has worked against Kuropatkin and which operated directly in bringing his downfall are the old rings brought out by General Gripenharg to the effect that General Kuropatkin's mind was failing.

General Kuropatkin will return to St. Petersburg forthwith, but what action will be taken upon his arrival, if any, it is not known.

Three Governors In a Single Day.

Denver, Col., March 17.—The bargain made by leaders of the opposing republican factions of Colorado to take governor's chair from Alva Adams, and to seat in it Lieutenant Governor James F.
McDonald, after permitting Jas.
H. Peabody to hold it for one day, was carried to a conclusion late this afternoon.

In fulfillment of the agreement which he made, before the general assembly decided the gubernatorial contest in his favor, Gov.
James H. Peabody resigned the office in which he was inaugurated late yesterday afternoon.
His resignation, of which W. S.
Boytoun of Colorado Springs has been custodian since Wednesday, when it was written, was filed in the office of the secretary of state at 4:20 o'clock this afternoon.
James Cowie, secretary of state, immediately certified Gov. Pea-body's resignation, and Lieut.
Gov. McDonald was then sworn in as governor by Chief Justice Gabert. There was no further ceremony.

Gov. Adams was ousted and Gov. Peabody was installed by the general assembly about 5 o'clock yesterday, and Gov. Mc-Donald was sworn in before 5 o'clock this afternoon. Thus, in less than twenty-four hours, Colorado has had three governors.
Gov. Peabody transacted practically no business of state while in the office of governor. He received many callers who urged him not to resign and also many messages of the same import by telegram and telephone. To all these he replied that he did not care to hold the chair.

Half a dozen members of the National Guard patrolled the corridors about the executive chamber during the day as a guard for Gov. Peabody.
