Invented Perpetual Motion.

We are informed that Mr. Bee H. Olliff has about perfected what he thinks will solve the problem of perpetual motion. Mr. Olliff has been engaged in this work for several months, perhaps longer, and now believes that he has the problem solved. The Cotton Market.

There has been a good deal of cotton in the Statesboro market during the past week. Prices remain about what they have stood at for the past month. Sea islands selling all the way from 10 to 17 cents, and short cotton all the way from 6 to 8 cents. The demand in the markets is reported to be very active.

Lecture Tonight.

Dr. Edwin Hall, the well known lecturer, will give one his lectures at the auditorium tonight at 8:00. Dr. Hall was to have been here last Wednesday, but owing to the fact that he missed connection the engagement was postponed.

It is needless for us to comment on the ability of Dr. Hall as an orator, as he has a national reputation, and has appeared before us several times before, and will always receive a hearty welcome at the hands of the people of Statesboro. It will be remembered that he lectured here last fall on "How to Get Married and Stay Married," which was enjoyed very much.

The subject for tonight will be "The Fool Killer," and will no doubt prove to be very entertaining, and, inasmuch as Dr. Hall is to let a portion of the proceeds go to our school library, all who can should go out tonight and help this worthy cause.

We understand that Mr. Parish had no insurance on the property burned.

Barn and Stables Burned.

On Tuesday night the barn and stables of Mr. Joseph Parish at Portal, was destroyed by fire. About 100 bushels of corn, 800 bundles of fodder and some farming tools were destroyed. A mule and cow were saved with a great difficulty, the mule had the hair all singed on its back, and the cow was badly burned. The barn was in a light blaze when Mr. Parish and family were awakened by the roaring of the flames.

Mr. Parish and his father-in-law were both pretty badly burned while rescuing the stock from the burning building. It is not known how the fire originated. One or two suspicious looking tracks were seen around the building next morning, but as yet there is no clue that will solve the origin of the fire.

We understand that Mr. Parish had no insurance on the property burned.

Negro Tried to Kidnap Child

Attention is called to an Associated Press dispatch under an Atlanta date line, to the effect that the fire insurance rates are to be raised in Statesboro and several other towns of this size. The excuse given for this, is the fact that we have recently had a fire the amount of the losses of which has been greatly exaggerated, both at home and elsewhere in newspaper reports. Two or three newspaper reports have made it read, "A Loss of $25,000.00," when in fact the actual loss will not be more than $3,000.00 at the outside.

It seems that this is the way we are to be paid off for our trouble of taxing ourselves to put in an expensive system of water works, and getting to the fire, which was the first one in several months, and putting it out, actually saving a lot of property in the building that it originated in, and kept the flames in this building until a stream of water ran out of it that would have floated a small boat.

Statesboro's fire loss is among the smallest in the state, and now that we are prepared, at a great cost, to cope with a fire we are entitled to a reduction in insurance rates.

Mrs. John D. Easterling, the corresponding secretary of the Woman's Missionary Union of Georgia, will attend the rally of the Woman's Missionary Society at the Baptist church on the 18th and deliver an address.

About Rheumatism. There are few diseases that inflict more torture than rheumatism, and there is probably no disease for which such a varied and useless lot of remedies have been suggested. To say it can be cured is, therefore, a bold statement to make, but Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which enjoys an extensive sale, has met with great success in the treatment of this disease. One application of Pain Balm will relieve the pain, and hundreds of sufferers have testified to permanent cures by its use. Why suffer when Pain Balm affords such quick relief and costs but a trifle? For sale by all druggists.

Statesboro still continues to move forward. One of the latest industries to locate here is a candy factory. A news reporter called on the proprietor, Mr. Peter Nicholas, on yesterday and was shown through his place located in the brick store at the west end of the Simmons block.

We were very much surprised when shown the many varieties of candies being put up for the trade right here in our town. The goods will compare favorably with any that can be purchased anywhere, and the fact that these goods can be bought fresh every day and the knowledge that they are manufactured out of pure materials should commend them to our people. We hope that Mr. Nicholas will be given a patronage that will justify his venture here in the line of a candy factory.

It is the most wonderful healing salve in the world. Beware of counterfeits. Sold by W. H. Ellis.

Many men have succeeded by attending to their own business, and many more have failed because they interested themselves too much in other people's affairs.

LETTER TO J. E. BOWEN, Statesboro, Ga.

Dear Sir: A gallon saved is $4 or $5 dear. Devotee says 2 gallons in 10. How much is it worth a gallon?
A gallon saved saves the painting too; and both together cost $4 or $5—$4 where labor is cheap; $5 where labor is dear.

Our agents in Bridgeport Conn., Hazell & Wade Co., tell us: "There are a great many workmen in our house here. They need to paint lead-and-oil and take ten gallons. We have been selling them ten gallons Devotee lead-and-oil, and have had, in every instance two gallons returned." The proportion is often higher than that; we have known it five in ten; but this is exceptional.

This is the explanation: Devotee is mixed by machinery, and is ground; lead-and-oil is mixed by hand, and is ground at all.

Yours Truly,
F. W. Devotee & Co.

In Memory of
Mrs. David Strange.
After nearly two weeks of painful and serious suffering, Sister Mary Ann Strange passed from this world of toil and care to the Great beyond and is now basking in the sunshine of God's eternal love.

Mrs. Strange, nee Kidenfeldt, was born Thursday, Aug. 14, 1828, was united in the bonds of holy matrimony to David Strange, Sept. 18, 1860. She united with the Primitive Baptist church at Mt. Olive, Emanuel county Ga. in the year 1875, where she lived a devoted member until four years ago having moved to Statesboro; she with her husband united with the Primitive Baptist church of this place. She was blessed to see three of her dear children come home to God's people, telling what great things the Lord had done for them, embracing the same faith that she had cherished for so many years.

She bore her sickness with all Christian fortitude. She sold her children who had gathered lovingly around her bed side that she was resigned to the Lord's will and was ready and willing to go. She said that a man died in her neck, and she died each day during her sickness, and on leaving he soothed and eased her pain by telling her, he would never forsake, nor leave her alone. She told her daughter that she felt that it was the presence of Jesus.

The husband had lost a devoted wife, her dear children a kind and loving mother, the church a faithful and devoted member.

It is impossible to express how this dear mother in Israel will be missed in the home circle, missed in her church, missed by neighbors and friends. Yes, she is sadly missed.

There is no death she stars go down, To rise on some fairer shore, And then in Heaven jewel crown, They shine forever more.

Her funeral service was conducted by her pastor, Elder M. F. Stubbs, on the 7th of February, the day following her death, in the presence of a large crowd of sorrowing friends and relatives at Statesboro, Ga., where her remains were laid to rest to await the resurrection. We pray God to comfort the bereaved ones and show them the silver lining of the dark cloud which overshadows their heart.

Keep looking up, the mist will clear away, In God's own time His loving hand will brighten up the day; Keep looking up, keep looking up, The Eternal hills are looking up, Far far beyond these gloomy clouds are treasures rich and rare.

Mrs. M. F. Stubbs
Addie Patterson.

In Memory of S. W. Strange.
This is a bright, glad, beautiful world, fragrant with flowers, tawful with the song of birds, which now sings over the grave of a dear angel boy.
In the beautiful cemetery in Sherman, Texas, and yet, its attractions are so doubt unnoticed by me, for merciful death has appeared in our midst and snatched from us, loved ones. Without the presence of Wilburn who has gone before, Texas indeed seems empty and cheerless to me. The only consolation to us is that Wilburn is at peace; one who had such a bright future, one who was willing and prayed to give up his young noble life, and as stated before, our only sweet consolation is that Wilburn has heard the words from his Father's lips, "Well done thy good and faithful servant. Enter thou into the joys of our Lord." But 'till only be a little while until we will cross the dark River and join you and your loved ones, among the hosts of the saved on the other Shore.
Wilburn died in southern Texas on March the 4, 1906; just in the first year of his manhood, only twenty-one years old, we don't know why God allowed the youngest plants to die. Brother Richard and I were with him in his last hours, he told us he would not live, he said, since mamma died I haven't anything to live for; I want to die, he prayed to die that he wanted to meet mamma. I talked with him about his soul. I asked him, Wilburn, darling, are you ready to die? do you have a hope of meeting Jesus? He looked up and smiled and said: Yes, I'm ready. I'm resting so good. While holding him up to rest, he raised both arms and kissed me. Richard was holding over him when he was turned up with a smile and kissed him and said: I'm going to leave you.
O thank God he has heard and answered some one's prayers, may his dear old mother's who is now sleeping in the grave. Richard made one of the most touching prayers I ever heard, begging the Lord to spare him, it seemed so hard to give up his dear sweet life. He called one of the doctors to pray and I tried to pray, but Oh, what can man do when the Lord is calling his people to a land that is far far away. We can realize how powerless we are in the time of great trouble.
The funeral services were held at his home; his many friends decorated his casket with beautiful flowers from the Sherman nursery. It was a dark and cloudy day when the light was turned over the lovely casket and the beautiful songs were whispering, where no storms never comes. Oh, how happy I feel! It seemed that the angels were dropping the flowers over his casket. What a sad day but the sun was still shining behind the dark clouds.
When he was called home to his dear mother's bed he held her dying hands and wept like a child; he had a sweet message to tell her but it was too late, and then he wanted to tell her over while in Statesboro a few days and join the Primitive Baptist church. Praise the Lord Wilburn was regenerated and borned again, the Lord answered his prayers and not ours. His death was one of the sweetest I ever experienced. It was so peaceful and calm. God grant that ours may be as peaceful as his. Dear sisters who should we grieve over such a happy exchange; we must only take pattern after his beautiful christian life, and all feel nearer to God and hope that his death may be a blessing to many.
Mollie Strange.

According to the latest report of the Commissioner of Patents, 3436 trade marks, prints and labels were registered in the Patent Office during 1903. This is the largest issue of certificates of registration in the history of the office, states the Trade Mark Record.

Professor Barrett Woodall, in his "The President Roosevelt," in the Paris Review, writes in praise of "Theodore Roosevelt was born of a rich family, of distinguished honor and a dignity of character universally recognized. The result was for him, in the State of New York, a situation analogous to that which hereditary nobility confers in Europe."

There is a labor congestion in the cities and a growing inability on the part of the farms to meet the ever-increasing demands for their products. The American Agriculturist has prepared a comparative table of farm values, acreage, production and selling prices of the staple crops for a series of years. The three years taken for special comparison are 1904, 1901 and 1896; 1904 is taken as an average year, 1896 as a low year and 1901 as the most prosperous year that American agriculture has ever known. The total value of the farm of the staple crops was $120,000,000 in 1896, $232,500,000 in 1901, and $279,000,000 in 1904. This is the total value of last season's crops, an increase of value out of all proportion to the increase in production.

The farmers of America produce more wealth than do any other people on earth, declares the Kansas City Journal. Last year they cleared up nearly $5,000,000,000 out of their crops. Out of the proceeds of the corn crop last year the farmers could have paid the national debt and still have had enough money to run the Government for six or eight months. All that the world knows of the entire world have produced, since Columbus discovered America do not equal the value of the food supplies raised on American farms during the last two years, while this year's product is over six times the amount of the capital stock of all national banks; it comes within $700,000,000 of equaling the value of the manufacturing of 1900; it is twice the sum of exports and imports for a year; it is two and a half times the gross earnings from the operation of the railroads; it is three and a half times the value of all mineral products in this country, including coal, iron ore, gold, silver and quarried stone.

The head of one of the largest dry goods commission houses in this city, says the New York Commercial, was asked the other day how it happened that his partner, upon whom the principal responsibility of the business rests, came to resign that position without yet thirty years of age. Purely and simply on his own merit," he replied. "It came into my office one morning some ten or twelve years ago and told me he had just finished school and was looking for a position. I happened to have a position open at the time for an office boy, and started him in at $5 a week. His rise from that position to the one he now occupies was steady and rapid, and was due entirely to the fact that, after having received an order or instructions, he could be relied upon to carry them out, and do it correctly, too. He never erred, off on anything, but executed his orders as they came. He was not afraid to ask questions and to get his instructions straight before undertaking the work in hand. In fact, I might say that he owes everything to the fact that he was always accurate in all that he did. You may think that I am preaching a sort of sermon, but if you were entering business positions, whether high or low, would take up for their motto the two words, 'Be accurate', and would live up to it, there need be no fear of the ultimate outcome of their undertakings."

Terrill Thanks Taft.
Governor Terrill has written a letter to Secretary of War Taft replying to his letter regarding the return of the Georgia flag captured from Georgia organizations during the war, and acknowledging receipt of these flags. This action of the general government, Governor Terrill says, was a gratifying one and will be appreciated by the people of Georgia.

Bank Real Estate Liabilities.
At the request of Commissioner General J. C. Hart has handed down an important decision relative to the taxation of banks. The question involves the right of the state to tax the real property of a banking institution, provided the reality represents a part of the capital stock of the bank. Judge Hart holds that the taxation of such property is left with the commissioner general, who may tax or not, as he sees fit. General Wright thinks such property is taxable.

Four Hundred Pensioners Unpaid.
It has been reported that about 400 of more Georgia pensioners who have not received their pension money for 1905, will have to wait until the legislature meets this summer and makes an appropriation to meet the deficit of something over $45,000 in the pension fund.

This is the final action that was taken as the result of a conference a few days ago between Governor Roosevelt, Attorney General Hart, State Treasurer R. E. Park and Comptroller General W. A. Wright, when the whole subject was gone over in detail.

President May Attend Fair.
The managers of the state fair to be held in Atlanta are moving along in the most satisfactory manner possible. His being the greatest fair ever held in the state. Besides the large number of counties and the individual exhibits that are promised, the managers are expecting to have President Roosevelt as a guest. It is known that the president intends visiting Georgia in the near future, and it is the wish of the fair directors to have him present on the occasion of the opening of the state fair. Hon. William J. Bryan has also been invited to come down and shake hands with his Georgia friends, and it is probable that he will come.

Wants Damages for Alleged Libel.
Suit for $10,000 damages for alleged libel has been filed in Rabun superior court at Clayton by State P. Barlow, R. E. Hamby and J. E. L. Hamilton, prominent business men. The suit is the outcome of a circular which is said to have been issued by Mr. Barlow before the late democratic primary, charging Mr. Hamby as a former legislator, with selling out the interests of Rabun county to railroads and other corporations, and also controlling the vote of Hon. John H. Barlow, the present member of the legislature from Rabun county. Mr. Barlow was used for damages, it will be remembered, on account of alleged libel by Mr. Derrick at the February term of the court. The case will be reached in regular order.

NEW CANAL BOARD.

President Names Men to Dig the Big Panama Ditch.

Only Three of the Members Have Important Executive Functions to Perform, Thus Carrying Out Roosevelt's Primary Object.

President Roosevelt has carried out his plan for the reorganization of the isthmian canal commission as a general and business method, generally on the lines of the legislation suggested to congress at the last session, which failed, in the crush of business, at the closing hours, Monday, within half an hour after the president's departure from Washington on his vacation trip. Secretary Taft, directly in charge of canal matters, made public the personnel of the new commission and the division of duties among them. Only one member of the old commission was re-appointed, Benjamin M. Harrod, Ohio. His commission is new from top to bottom, for there is a top and bottom end considerable difference between the functions and pay of the commissioners, finding he was obliged to resign to appoint seven commissioners, the president did so, but he carried out his plan by making three of them practically the commission. The other four, though bearing the title of commissioners, are not to receive a much lower compensation, but are assigned much smaller fields of activity.

The president also has carried out his scheme of dividing up the work of canal building among the commissioners, so that, nominally, acting as a body on stated occasions, each individual member would operate in a special field. The head of the commission is a trained railroad man, chosen for his administrative abilities in the financial and purchasing field; the new-governor of the zone is a lawyer, who also has had to do with state affairs; the engineer commission member already knows his specialties in the execution of the practical work of canal cutting. The other members of the commission are named to comply with the law as a piece of compromise, but are men of high ability as hydraulic engineers. Secretary Taft told them that they were expected to show results, and that is said to be the keynote for the president's action.

The personnel of the commission is as follows: Theodore P. Shonts, chairman; Charles E. Macoon, governor of the zone; John P. Wallace, chief engineer; Rear Admiral M. T. Benedict, United States navy; Brigadier General Peter C. Hains, United States army, retired; Colonel Oswald M. Ernst, corps engineers, United States army; Benjamin M. Harrod, former legislator, was announced at the war department, and in connection with the announcements Secretary Taft gave out for publication a statement showing the allotment of duties to each commissioner and a lengthy one from the president containing the plan for re-organization of the commission, the re-assignment of duties to each commissioner. The first reads as follows:

The trouble in Dalka started began, when, under the pretext of holding a memorial meeting for a late Jewish socialist leader, a crowd of over 1,000, mostly Jews, carrying red flags, marched into Dalka street, and was met by a mixed police and military patrol of twenty men. The police declared the socialist fire revolvers at their heads, and the mob to attack the patrol, which thereupon fired several volleys into the crowd.

WOMEN MADE TARGETS
Four men were killed and forty were wounded. The crowd removed all nine of the wounded, two of whom were women. These were taken to the hospitals, and it is expected that two or more of them will die. The dead are announced were Jews. The police made many arrests.

On last Friday evening a party of the Metter boys and girls were invited to take supper at Mr. J. Everett's on their way to the public debate at Excelsior. The party reached there about dark, had only a short time to stay, but was entertained royally. The parlor was beautifully decorated with the most fragrant flowers. Nice music was furnished by a number of the party; soon we were asked in to supper, and on reaching the dining room found the table loaded with choice eatables. Shortly the crowd had assembled at the school house to witness the discussion of the subject, Resolved: That the United States was not justified in defending the Cubans. It was a hot contest on both sides and the speeches were both very interesting and instructive.

The Sulphur Springs about three miles from town is becoming quite noted. This property belongs to J. T. Trappell, W. J. Willie and W. B. Trappell, who are preparing to improve them. They are having the water analyzed and hope to be able to publish the analysis in a short time. The water of this spring has already proven of great value. The people have visited the springs from a distance, used the waters, and found them to be famous for their medicinal qualities.

Doctors Are Powerless to Combat With Meningitis

New York, April 7.—Seventeen deaths from cerebro-spinal meningitis were reported during Thursday in Greater New York, making a total for the week, thus far of 82. An average of 25 developing cases have been reported daily. A new treatment is being tried at Bellevue hospital. It consists of drawing off the fluid from the spinal canal. This is being done every other day and greatly relieves the patient. By the use of ice bags they are then kept in good condition and with little pain.

"The only question is," said one of the hospital staff, "whether we are getting all the discharge from the canal. We are not able to tell because there is no X-Ray strong enough to determine whether the fluid is clogged in the brain. It is believed that in the advanced cases it does clog up."

"This treatment reduces the temperature almost to normal, thus affording us an excellent opportunity for working. We have found no drugs will have any salutary effect on the disease."

It is interesting to note that the meningococci of the bacilli of spinal meningitis are so similar to the germs of another disease, that it is difficult to tell the two apart. The meningococci have the appearance of the coffee bean would if it were split in the middle and opened out so that the two hemispheres would form a circle. We have found nothing yet with which to kill the germ.

"At Bellevue is a lad who has been there three weeks. An eminent surgeon who is studying the disease trephined the boy's skull and drew off the fluid which causes the trouble. This patient is still living and shows improvement."

The close analogy to an incurable distemper peculiar to dogs has suggested a new field of inquiry. Stray cats and dogs are now under suspicion.

Reached Home to Die

Our readers will remember an account of the home-coming of Mr. J. G. Newsome, as reported in these columns about three weeks ago. Newsome had arrived home after an absence of 56 years from the land which gave him birth. When he arrived he expressed a desire to live out the balance of his days in his native land. And it turned out that his remaining days were few. About a week ago he took sick at the home of Mr. J. G. Brannen, where he had been given a home. Several offers were made to furnish him with a physician, but he always replied that he did not want one, he would soon be better. His condition grew worse, and on Saturday a physician was called over his protest and it was found that he was then in a sinking condition, and the old fellow passed away on Saturday night.

On Sunday he was buried at Bethlehem church cemetery, in three-quarters of a mile of where he first saw the light of day 61 years ago.

Mr. Newsome had lived in Louisiana for several years and after the war he moved to Illinois, where it seems that he lost all trace of his relatives, except that he remembered his mother having told him where he was born.

When the shadows of old age began to creep over the old fellow, and being without family—having never married—the visions of the land of his childhood rose up before him. He expressed a desire to turn his footsteps this way, but, after living 61 years, was without means to pay his way to Georgia.

Kind friends in his Illinois home made up a purse sufficient to bring him here, and on his arrival here kind friends who had known his family, or had heard of it, gave him home and shelter and administered to his wants in his last days.

Mothers Begging for Bread at the Palace

St Petersburg, April 7.—The efforts of the chief of police to smother the political agitation has led them even to invade the cemeteries in their search for evidence of treason.

It has become the practice of students to place on the graves of the comrades who were active or who suffered in the cause of freedom verses bound with ribbon on which political sentiments are inscribed. The police now makes nocturnal visits to the cemeteries in search for these treasonable notices, which are promptly confiscated. But being ignorant, the policemen make curious mistakes. The other day a harmless inscription in Greek simply expressive of sympathy was seized and on Wednesday a red ribbon interpreted by the police as a revolutionary emblem which was not only cut off but created so much alarm that a general order was sent out to all vendors of mortuary wares prohibiting the sale of red ribbons.

The stories of sufferings on the part of the widows, wives and families of soldiers at the front are attracting general attention and the public demands government aid for the sufferers. The local charities are no longer able to cope with situation. In many places the fund is not sufficient and the papers are filled with pathetic accounts of starving mothers and children begging the streets.

The Nosno Novgorod, the palace of the governor, was besieged by a crowd of hungry women with babies in their arms, crying for bread. The governor informed a committee to investigate the situation. His reply aroused the ire of the local press:

The Vidmostest's position, that of procurator general of the holy synod, will be abolished if the patriarchate is re-established and Antonous, the metropolitan officer at St. Petersburg, the highest archbishop, will become patriarch.

Under the new press regulations, the papers are not permitted to publish anything affecting the emperor and imperial family without the consent of the court censorship. The imperial chancellery has formally requested the Kobeko commission which is revising the press regulations to include this restriction, and such a request the commission regards as being equivalent to an imperial order.

Glenwood Graded School

On Friday, March 24, 1906, was organized a society to be called "The Athenian Literary Society of the Glenwood Graded School." There were only twelve charter members allowed. Many were anxious to come in at the first but the organizers were planning an invitation ceremony which would furnish entertainment for several afternoons, so they invited four members each meeting.

The officers elected were: Miss Bessie Hagan, president; Mr. Fred Boatright, vice-president; Miss Pauline Bennett, secretary; Master Traant Nesmith, guard; Miss Willie Davis, critic.

They have had two interesting, instructive meetings, with several visitors each time, and should you happen to be near Glenwood any Friday afternoon about three o'clock, you could not pass an hour more pleasantly nor profitably than by attending one of these meetings.

The names of the charter members are: Misses Willie Davis, Bessie Hagan, Pauline Bennett, Lucille Bennett, Mrs. Matheny, Messrs. Arno Bennett, Traant Nesmith, Raymond Hagan, Jim Hagan, Fernon Dickerson, Willie White, Gorman Bennett and John White.

Those who have joined since are: Misses Myrtle Dickerson, Ruth Proctor, Terah Proctor, Mae Stansell, Messrs. Conrad Davis, Carther Hagan, Fred Boatright, Ben Joyner, Leon Proctor.

Miss Leola Averitt Passes Away

On Friday afternoon, after an illness of several weeks, Miss Leola, the fifteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Averitt, passed peacefully away at their home in East Statesboro. The deceased leaves a wide circle of friends and relatives to mourn her loss. She was much beloved by the young people of the town. She was a member of the Baptist church.

The funeral was held at the Baptist church on Saturday afternoon, and the interment was made in East Side cemetery. The services were conducted by Rev. J. S. McLenore in the presence of a large crowd of friends and relatives of the family.

The News joins their many friends in extending its sympathies in their bereavement.

HARRISON AKINS WRITES TO HIS FAMILY

Our readers will doubtless remember the account in these columns of a sudden departure made by Harrison Akins, who, up to that time, had been considered one of Bulloch's best citizens; along with him went a young woman, so it was learned that there was a "woman in the case." Some were surmised while lots of the neighbors were not. For some time all trace was lost of the "young couple," and it seemed that they had been swallowed up in space, but one day last week Mr. Akins wrote his son from Glenn Springs, S. C., telling him of his happiness in his new home and what a fine country it was around there; in fact, he thought that the further that way one traveled the better the country was, and expressed an intention of moving further on into the "land of promise."

He gave some directions about the way he wanted his farm here conducted, but failed to say what time he would return. He also failed to make any mention of wife No. 2. That will probably come in the next letter.

Found Bank in Fine Shape

Mr. J. K. McDonald, National Bank examiner, was in the city on Saturday and made a thorough inspection of the condition of the First National Bank of this city. After he had finished his task Mr. McDonald took occasion to compliment the officials of the bank in the highest terms. He thought that for a bank of only four months old the showing made by its officials had reason to look on with a considerable degree of satisfaction. The First National bank is one of the solid institutions of Statesboro.

Special Religious Services

The pastor of the Methodist church has appointed special services to be held during the week to pray for the revival of the work of God in the church and community. Services will be held every afternoon at 4:30 o'clock and 7:45 at night. All christian people interested in this cause, and the public generally are invited to attend these services.

The pastor will be assisted by his son, Dr. George N. MacDonell, and Rev. Mr. Rosser of the North Georgia Conference.
