METTER

Mr. Bedford Everett was shaking hands with some of his friends here, one day last week.

Mr. Joshua Everett of Excelsior, visited our town this week.

Mrs. Bettie Lanier breathed her last Wednesday morning. She had been in declining health for a long time and her death was expected. She had reached the ripe old age of three score years and ten.

Mr. J. R. Dixon attended court in Swainsboro this week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Ed Collins spent a few days of this week in Atlanta.

Mrs. W. D. Kennedy and W. J. Willie left for Savannah Wednesday, where they will spend a few days visiting relatives.

Mrs. H. R. Williams of Pulaski, was a pleasant visitor to our town this week.

Dr. W. D. Kennedy is spending the week in Atlanta, in attendance upon the Medical Association.

Mr. L. D. Rountree made a flying business trip to Rocky Ford Tuesday.

Mr. Chas. Mikell and family are preparing to move to Horace. We are very sorry to lose a good family of people from our town, but we wish them well wherever they may cast their lot.

Mrs. J. R. Lee, who has been in Atlanta under the treatment of Dr. Calhoun, returned home Saturday somewhat improved.

A Daredevil Ride
Often ends in a sad accident. To hear of a man riding a bucking horse, and being thrown, is a common occurrence. "A deep wound in my foot from an accident," writes Theodore Schule, of Columbus, O., "caused me great pain. Physicians were helpless, but Bucklin's Arnica Salve quickly healed it." Soothe and heal burns like magic. 25c at W. H. Ellis' drug.

Miss Ida Rogers returned home Sunday after a week's visit among friends and relatives here.

The singing at Mr. E. G. Hendrix Sunday evening was well attended.

W. H. Ellis wants every person in Statesboro who has constipation, dyspepsia, headache, or liver trouble to come to his store or send W. H. Ellis 25 cents by mail and get 60 doses of the best medicine ever made at a half the regular price, with his personal guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure.

To those suffering with dizziness, headache, poor digestion, constipation and strained, Dr. Howard's specific offers quick relief. It is an invaluable boon to all who feel uncomfortable after eating, and is today the popular dinner pill in all the large cities.

Correction.
It has been circulated that I raised a row and tried to break up the singing at Register Saturday afternoon. It is a falsehood and I will face the man in it, wherever he may be. If some of the people around Register would attend to their business and let other people's alone, they would get along better.

Communicated

Mr. Editor: If you will allow me space in your paper I wish to call the attention of the public to the report of O. B. Stephen in regard to the sale of fertilizer and cotton seed meal tags for the past season.

He says we sold during last season commencing October 1st 1903 up to April 1st 1904, 5,808,455 fertilizer tags; 1,540,100 cotton seed meal tags, making a total of 7,348,555. He says for the season of 1904 and 1905, commencing October 1st 1904 up to April 1st 1905, we sold 5,808,985 fertilizer tags and 1,417,730, making a total of 7,226,715.

He says these amounts make a total of 7,226,715. Now take what it is, 7,226,555, makes 100,000 less than his figures, and take from what he says was sold last season and what was sold this season, and it will make a difference of 151,000, which is this much less fertilizer and cotton seed meal tags used this season than last season.

He says according to the above figures there has been sold in Georgia 71,480 more fertilizer tags this season than last season and 112,440 more cotton seed meal tags have been sold this season than last season. Now I want this rectified for it is not right for such reports to go out to the public.

SNAP
The farmers are going ahead with their crop and are preparing to capture "general green".

Miss Edna Howard, of Ogechee, is spending the week with Misses Eva and Annie Newton.

Mr. R. L. Best has 26 acres of sea island cotton chopped and sided. Mr. Best says look out for eight cent cotton.

Mr. Miles Gray and Mrs. Glen Gray, of South Carolina, were the guests of Mrs. Ida Howard the past week.

Misses Eva Robins and Ruby Kiebles was the guest of Miss Iva Best Saturday.

Measures F. L. Clary and S. L. Moore passed through our midst one day this week.

There was a large crowd in attendance at Macedonia church Sunday.

A Large Contract
When W. H. Ellis, the enterprising druggist, first offered a 50 cent package of Dr. Howard's specific for cure of constipation and dyspepsia at half price, and guaranteed to return the money if it did not cure, he thought it probable from his experience with other medicines for these diseases, that he would have a good many packages returned. But although he has sold hundreds of bottles, not one has been brought back.

This is so surprising that he has taken the contract to return the money if it does not cure, and has sold hundreds of bottles, not one has been brought back.

W. H. Ellis wants every person in Statesboro who has constipation, dyspepsia, headache, or liver trouble to come to his store or send W. H. Ellis 25 cents by mail and get 60 doses of the best medicine ever made at a half the regular price, with his personal guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure.

Won, But Lost!

There was quite an enthusiastic debate at Metter last Friday evening between Metter and Excelsior. The query was Resolved: "That the south was justifiable in seceding."

Excelsior defended the negative and all the public sentiments were that the negative won; however, the judges, to the surprise of all, returned the decision in favor of the affirmative.

By good authority, it has been whispered that two of the judges had their minds made up before the speeches were delivered. One of the speakers on the affirmative admitted that the negative won, but he did not mean to be harsh, personal or ungentlemanly, but we cannot refrain from saying our feelings are wrought concerning the matter; and furthermore we do not want anything but justice.

With love and good will to all, we ask the gentlemen of the affirmative to give us their candid and honest opinion as to who won.

THE NEWS.

Published at Statesboro, Ga.
TUESDAYS AND FRIDAYS.

By The Statesboro News Publishing Co.

A New York doctor wants all idiots drowned. We are afraid that the doctor will be among the first to leave us, thinks the Fairmont (W. Va.) Times.

A Brooklyn judge says a man who dyes his hair is weak minded. Probably because he does away with the gray matter, opines the Newport News Times-Herald.

If Professor Wiley could suggest some remedy for the artificial prices that food commands, the value of his investigations would be further increased, observes the Washington Evening Star.

In addressing the Twentieth Century club, at Boston the other day, Prof. H. L. Bailey of the College of Agriculture, Cornell University, said: "I believe that there are more boys going directly back to the farm from the agricultural colleges than there are lawyers going into law from the law schools or doctors going into medicine from the medical colleges."

Professor Patten of Pennsylvania has apparently gone on record in favor of early marriage and both members as bread-winners, observes the Massachusetts Ploughman. Who's to run the house and bring up the children is apparently a mere detail for future consideration. The theory seems to be growing, however, and looks much more like a menace to humanity than the much-discussed danger of race suicide.

The agricultural department has made public its final figures on the principal farm crops for 1904. Corn heads the list with 2,467,000,000 bushels, having a value on the farm estimated at $1,087,000,000. Winter wheat was 333,000,000 bushels, worth $326,000,000, and spring wheat 219,000,000 bushels, worth $185,000,000. Oats were 885,000,000 bushels, worth $286,000,000. Potatoes were 333,000,000 bushels, worth $151,000,000, and hay was 61,800,000 tons, worth $520,000,000.

Automobile owners in some instances are writing letters to newspapers advocating a higher limit of speed for their machines in a crowded city like New York. Now, it is not likely that any manipulator of these impetuous chariots has got into trouble when driving at less than a dozen miles an hour, says the New York Tribune. The levying of a fine of $10 has been a mere laughing stock. It is certainly necessary to make the punishment for hearing firearms, unless by permission of the constituted authorities, a severe one.

Henry George's famous book has now seen five and twenty years of life, states Collier's Weekly. His son estimates that some two million copies of it have been sold, in various languages and forms, and its influence has been greater than its circulation. The hold which it has taken upon our time is due much less to the precise doctrine elaborated than to the note of human sympathy which it so sincerely strikes. Universal brotherhood, which we hear so much about, was deeply felt by Henry George, and expressed by him with a convincingness entirely innocent of any literary art. The book holds and moves readers of every belief as few volumes on political economy can hold them.

It is exceedingly difficult to understand the obstacles which confront those who advocate the creation and enforcement of laws restricting and regulating the labor of children, declares the New York Sun. Upon no ground in the entire realm of morals or economics can the system of child labor be justified. The moral objections to it seem self-evident. The economic objections should be only less so. So indifferent is the community to this profoundly important question that it has become necessary to organize a National Child Labor committee to urge legislation on the subject, and to attempt to create a healthy public sentiment. A few days ago this body held a meeting in New York.

FEAR A WAGE CUT

Railroad People Oppose Lowering of Passenger Rates.

PROTEST TO COMMISSION

Chairman Brown's Proposition to Cut Rate from 3 to 2 Cents Per Mile in Georgia Brings on Most Strenuous Fight.

Railroad officials and railroad employees gathered in the Georgia senate chamber at Atlanta Thursday to enter their joint protest against the proposition contained in the motion of Chairman J. Pope Brown to reduce the passenger rate in Georgia from 3 to 2 cents per mile.

To the left of the senate chamber were seated some thirty-five or forty railroad officials, including presidents, vice presidents, traffic managers, general passenger agents, and assistant general passenger agents, not to speak of the attorneys who were present in the event of an emergency calling for their services.

On the other side were assembled as many railroad employees, representatives of numerous labor organizations, and represented by Colonel R. L. Coling of Savannah, all gathered with one object in view, namely, to convince the commission that it would be unwise, as well as unjust and unfair to the railroads to make this proposed reduction in the passenger rate.

The railroad employees came as committees appointed under resolutions adopted at a recent meeting held in Macon, from all the labor organizations which are represented in the railroad service. These included committees from the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Order of Railway Conductors, blacksmiths, machinists, telegraphers, boiler-makers, railway trainmen, carpenters and joiners, clerks, car men and, in fact, every branch of the service. They felt there was no doubt about a reduction in their wages being one of the first efforts of a reduction of the passenger fare of 2 cents, hence they were there to protest against it.

The hearing, in fact, was one-sided. There was no argument of any kind was adduced in favor of Chairman Brown's motion, nor did Chairman Brown himself have anything to say in support of it, further than was intimated in questions which he now and then asked.

The hearing was opened by Chairman Brown's announcement that it had been called to consider his motion to reduce the passenger fare in Georgia to 2 cents. He read from the protest made by one of the roads, part of which, he said, stated his position clearly and fairly.

This statement was to the effect that the chairman did not want to cause the railroads any heavy loss, but made his motion on the idea that the increased travel under the 2-cent rate would make good any loss consequent upon the reduction. "This," the protest stated, "is preposterous." "That is fairly stated," said Chairman Brown, "and that is exactly the question we are here to determine."

Mr. Brown then announced the meeting open, and asked if there was any one who wished to appear in favor of the reduction. No one responded in support of the motion, and Chairman Brown then stated the commission was ready to hear from those who wished to oppose the reduction suggested in his proposition.

DAUGHTERS HYSTERICAL

Screaming Pandemonium Follows Announcement of Election of Mrs. McLean as President.

Mrs. Donald McLean, regent of the New York city chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, was elected president general of the national society Daughters of the American Revolution, in session at Washington, Thursday.

The announcement early in the session of the result of the ballot taken Wednesday for national officers, which resulted in no election for president general, indicated that the contest was extraordinarily close. On the first ballot Wednesday Mrs. McLean received 342 votes of a total of 717 cast, leaving her just twelve votes short of an election. Mrs. George M. Sternberg, District of Columbia, received 201 votes, and Mrs. Charles Warren Lipitt of Rhode Island 164 votes. Mrs. Lipitt withdrew from the contest and another ballot was ordered.

The second ballot, taken Thursday morning, resulted in Mrs. McLean 362, Sternberg 322, blank 6, total 690. As the vote was announced, a wave of enthusiastic applause swept over the auditorium and galleries. Some of the women screaming and a yell to their emotions. Others cried and became hysterical. Every delegate in the hall was on her feet. No attempt was made by the president general to control the demonstration, for to stay it. When some measure of order had come to the assembly the president general recognized Mrs. Sternberg, who moved that the election of Mrs. McLean be made unanimous.

In the midst of a great demonstration, Mrs. Fairbanks put to the congress the motion of Mrs. Sternberg. It was carried enthusiastically, but there were a few scattering "noes." The negative votes were received with hisses. Sharply rapping for order, President-General Fairbanks said: "The chair desires that demonstration cease. Daughters of the Revolution do not hiss, their guests must not. I ask the ladies who voted 'no' to join heartily in support of Mrs. Sternberg's motion." Mrs. McLean was then recognized and delivered a speech, in which she expressed profound appreciation of the honor shown.

Of the sixteen candidates for vice president general, more than ten—the number to be elected—received a majority of the votes cast. It was decided by the congress that the ten receiving the highest number of votes should be declared elected. This resulted as follows:

Mrs. John R. Walker, Kansas City, Mo., 519; Mrs. Mary Wood Peck, San Francisco, 515; Mrs. Charles H. Deere, Moline, Ill., 500; Mrs. O. J. Hodge, Cleveland, Ohio, 447; Mrs. J. J. Etey, Brattleboro, Vt., 447; Mrs. Lindsay Patterson, Watson-Sale, N. C., 438; Mrs. H. S. Chamberlain, Chattanooga, Tenn., 435; Mrs. John Cunningham Hazen, Pelham Manor, N. Y., 435; Mrs. George W. Nichols, Spartanburg, S. C., 430; Mrs. Franklin E. Sparks, Colorado Springs, Colo., 417.

Other officers were elected as follows: Recording secretary general, Miss Mary Desha, Washington, D. C.; corresponding secretary general, Miss Virginia Miller, Washington, D. C.; registrar general, Mrs. Stewart J. Mason, Washington, D. C.

Some lively scenes marked the work preliminary to the second ballot. Mrs. Peel of Georgia rose to a question of personal privilege. President General Fairbanks reserved the right to decide whether it was a question of privilege. "Yesterday or the day before," said Mrs. Peel, "it was decided no campaign speeches would be heard." Amid the uproar which followed, President General Fairbanks replied: "Back to your seat. You have not kept faith." Order was restored finally and balloting for president general was begun.

AGENTS TAKE HAND

In the Fight Being Waged In Insurance Association.

HOLD ROUSING MEETING

Ask New York Legislature for Mutualization and Sustain Policy of President Alexander. — Vice President Hyde Hissed.

After a session at the Hotel Savoy in New York, lasting for nearly six hours, Tuesday, and after recesses, the 200 managing agents of the Equitable Life Assurance Society from all parts of the United States, adopted resolutions late in the afternoon, asking the New York state legislature to "exercise its plenary power by enacting an amendment to the society's charter," this amendment to give the policyholders admission to the directorate of the society.

The resolutions also provide that a committee, consisting of one manager for every state in the union and one from Canada, together with all the managers in New York city, should be named to visit Governor Higgins and Superintendent of Insurance Hon. Dickerson and secure their assistance in getting the legislature to act in the matter. This committee, representing the whole committee, will be designated before the agents finally adjourn.

The sessions were replete with developments. Several sets of resolutions were adopted. President Alexander made a brief speech. Vice President Hyde followed him and in his course of his remarks referred to the sale by Second Vice President Tarbell of the latter's interest in the renewal account to the company, which brought forth a sharp retort from Mr. Tarbell. Then all three officers left the meeting and the agents devoted their time to discussion behind closed doors. When Hyde arose to speak he was hissed.

The first set of resolutions which came out declared that the agents pledged "unqualified support" to President Alexander and expressed their entire confidence that the president will continue unflinchingly and finish the work of mutualization that he has so courageously begun.

There was no discussion in any of the resolutions to Mr. Hyde. Resolutions were adopted by the agents giving their "unqualified approval of the firm stand taken by Vice President Tarbell in his support of the president on the mutualization issue."

The Tarbell resolution was introduced by E. A. Woods of Pittsburgh. The Frick committee of investigation was commended in another resolution, and this committee was urged to be prompt in a searching, impartial investigation of the company's affairs, the hope being expressed that the result would be the means of "placing the society on a firm foundation and restoring public confidence."

The organization of metropolitan managers was dissolved by resolution and the agents declared that the surplus in the society's funds belongs to the policyholders.

ADVICE FROM DAN SULLY

King of Cotton Speculators Warns Farmers That Failure to Curtail Cotton Crop Will Bring Disaster.

Daniel J. Sully, the man who drove the price of cotton up to the 10-cent mark and beyond, has written an open letter in which he strongly urges the reduction of the cotton acreage this season. He advises the farmers not to be led astray by the present prices of the staple, and to again surprise the world by greatly reducing the acreage this year.

Mr. Sully's letter is as follows: "If you wish to win your battle and obtain a fair price for your cotton, you must reduce your acreage very considerably."

"You have surprised the world by the manner in which you have held your cotton. Surprise it again by cutting down your acreage."

"Do not let the high price of the present season lead you to the error of increasing your acreage. The first two causes lose their force the moment it is known that there is a prospect for a moderately large crop next year."

"If the mills take 12,000,000 bales during the current season this would leave a carry over of 1,000,000 bales. Hence the necessity of a smaller crop this year."

"Do not let any rise in prices between now and the end of the planting season deter you from reducing your acreage."

"Such an advance would be merely anticipating that you were making the decrease in acreage that your friends have advised you to make."

"If the June reports of the government show that you have failed to make sufficient reduction, the persons who would be gainers by the advance would be the speculators who sell out their futures at a profit."

"The price of the cotton you produce will be regulated by the actual not the expected, reduction in your crop."

"Don't depend on your neighbor to do the reducing."

"In this matter of acreage bear in mind three suggestions: "Don't rely on bad weather to cut down the size of the crop."

"The main question relating to cotton simply because it is too late to plant corn, or other diversified crops."

"It would be far better to let part of your lands lie idle than to run the risk of raising a crop so large as to make possible another period of low priced cotton."

"I am making this appeal to you because I regard the next few days as critical to the success of the cause. I believe that every man who is interested in the welfare of the south should urge the importance of the reduced acreage."

DANIEL J. SULLY.

DEPENDING ON TOGO

Japs Stake Fate on Prowess of Intrepid Admiral.

SLAVS HAVE ADVANTAGE

Heavy Reinforcements for Rojstvensky Make Situation a Grave One. Japs May Refuse to Give Battle in the Open.

A London special says: The British public is only beginning to realize how much depends on Togo's skillful conduct of the approaching naval contest. Until Vice Admiral Rojstvensky arrived in the Straits of Malacca, there was a disposition to ridicule the efforts of the Russian squadron; but now that there is seen to be growing doubt of the local communities local control and management. It would be very desirable to have more complete organization. A farmer in this way, for one share of stock, can provide first class facilities for storing his cotton, whereas it would cost him from ten to twenty times as much to build good storage quarters upon his own farm. There would also be a community of interest and the attention of the growers would be directed more particularly to the business end of the handling and marketing of their staple. These warehouses should be under the management of an expert cotton man who would understand the grading of cotton and act as the representative of the growers in selling the staple to the buyers."

The association has gone so far as to have plans prepared for the proper warehouses. These plans will be ready in a few days for distribution to any section of the country that desires them. In a further discussion upon the subject of warehouses President Harvey Jordan of the Southern Cotton Association says:

"The Southern Cotton Association is now directing its efforts along the line of having better care taken of the staple after it is put into marketable condition, and encouraging the building of modern, up-to-date warehouses in every cotton growing county where from 2,000 to 50,000 bales are annually handled."

"The association is having prepared plans and specifications with blue prints of a number of modern warehouses which will meet the wants and conditions of different localities, and will be prepared in the near future to send these plans and specifications to any county which desires to build a modern warehouse."

SUMMARY OF WAR NEWS.

Evidently Togo has received information that Rojstvensky has left the Coochin China coast and has again taken up his northwestern advance."

A Manila special says: "Three war vessels were sighted at Baguio at 1 o'clock Tuesday morning. Their nationality is unknown. Two unknown steamers have anchored in Lingayen, Island of Luzon, about 130 miles north of Manila bay."

WAREHOUSES NEEDED.

Southern Cotton Association Stands Ready to Assist in Their Erection and Equipment.

According to President Harvie Jordan of the Southern Cotton Association, who has been discussing the question of better warehouses in the southern states for the purpose of better storing the cotton crop, a majority of the cotton warehouses now standing can for a small sum of money be properly equipped so as to secure a great reduction in the insurance rates, which are now very excessive. Regarding this subject, Mr. Jordan says:

"The Southern Cotton Association will encourage the building of these warehouses in the different counties by farmers, merchants and bankers, giving to the local communities local control and management. It would be very desirable to have more complete organization. A farmer in this way, for one share of stock, can provide first class facilities for storing his cotton, whereas it would cost him from ten to twenty times as much to build good storage quarters upon his own farm. Col. D. R. Groover's Death.
(Millen News.)

News reaches us of the death of Col. D. R. Groover, of Statesboro, and no common sorrow stirs our heart as we think with bitterness and grief upon the sad death of this pleasant, affable gentleman and true friend.

Last Saturday night at 12
o'clock, as the great iron-tongued messenger of time proclaimed the last knell of the dying day, he passed into the life beyond, and after a few days illness,
surrounded by family and friends, at the close of the day and the week, he laid aside the cares of a busy and useful life
and entered into that eternal sabbath that knows no sorrow.

Col. Groover was born in Bul-loch county, and fifty-four winters with their frost and sunshine
had left their mark upon him,
but had failed to eliminate from his heart an abiding love and faith in his mother county, and so thoroughly imbued was he with her spirit of enterprise that he was closely identified with her progress and development.

He was one of Bulloch's most prominent lawyers and the oldest member of the Statesboro bar,
and also president of the Bank of Statesboro, and the saddening influence of his death will not only be felt by his immediate family,
but the people of his county and the state at large.

Can stored iron, or animated bust,
Back to its mansion call the kneeling breath?
Can honors voice provoke the silent
dust,
Or flattery soothe the dull, cold
ear of death?

God doeth all things well, and with unspokeable sympathy we humbly bow to the inevitable,
and ask for stronger faith in Him
who holdeth the destiny of all in his hands.

Col. Groover was not a Christian, but a grand magnanimous man and in many respects broader than the orthodox, and we feel that his reward is certain. His religion was:

To live, that when thy summons comes
to join The innumerable caravan, which moves to that mysterious realm, where each shall take
His chamber in the silent halls of death;
Thou go not, like the quarry-lave at night,
Scourged to his dungeon, but sustained
and roothed
By an unfaltering trust, approach thy grave,
Like one who wraps the drapery of his couch
About him, and lies down to pleasant dream.

And this he lived and died, and goes to his grave mourned by a multitude of true friends to whom he leaves the happy memory of his many virtues and his unwavering courage in defending the right.
But he also leaves a heritage of gloom, for his sun has gone down while it is yet day, and his loved ones have our deepest sympathy.

Judge Rawlins presides like an old timer on the bench, and the lawyers and people generally are pleased with the new judge.

The boys in town and country
too, are disposed to loaf and ride around, while the old man is holding the plow.

The cigarette is well called a cotton tuck, and it is sure death to any boy, and a man who would sell one to a boy ought to be sent to the penitentiary for life.

The possession of an iron mountain in Missouri is the only one of its kind in the world has been the standing boast of this country
for years, yet the Missouri "mountain" is but a ballock compared to an iron mountain lately discovered in Durango, Mexico. It is claimed to be 2,000 feet high, about three-quarters of a mile in thickness at the base and is almost solid iron. Naturally it is the stream of iron manufactures
to leave the mountain and work
it. But this the government has refused to permit till quite recently, when a contract was signed between it and some New York capitalists for the operation and development of the mountain on a partnership basis. The ore obtained from the mountain is said to yield about 87 percent pure iron.

How often I have seen in farm papers some one complaining that he is very much troubled with ragweed in his pasture and greatly annoyed to know what to do with it. Now if he will cut it just at the right time and stack it up he will have as good hay as grows, unless it is alfalfa, when fed to cattle or sheep. The only trouble is cutting at the proper time. If any farmer will cut it before it begins to go coarse and the stem woody, and turn cattle to the ragweed stack and the timothy stack, he will learn the value of this neglected forage crop. I have more than once wintered cows with no other roughage than ragweed.

About Rheumatism.
There are few diseases that inflict more torture than rheumatism and there is probably no disease for which such a varied and useless lot of remedies have been suggested. To say it can be cured is, therefore, a bold statement to make, but Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which enjoys an extensive sale, has met with great success in the treatment of this disease. One application of Pain Balm will relieve the pain, and hundreds of sufferers have testified to permanent cures by its use.
Why suffer when Pain Balm affords
such quick relief and costs but a trifle
for sale by all druggists.

The Charming
When she moved to her street,
The girls pointing said,
That she was rather neat
But her hair was to red.
To be sure it was twisted
In just the right style.
But many insisted
Her curls told of guile.
Her eyes, they passed lightly,
And color as well,
But her feet—Oh, so lightly
Were shod—whisperers fell.

With my thought thus enraptured,
"Tis needless to say,
Her first glance my heart captured,
And holds to this day.

GOOD BYE
Good bye old winter,
We have tired of all your ice and snow,
Don't linger in the lap of spring
It isn't nice you know.
You've had your days,
Long nights of moon and stars,
Where lovers in the shadowed snow
Have wandered,
Near and far,
While softly they've snuggled up.
To keep away your frost,
Have felt each others frosted breath
And told the story old.

The Farm and Garden.

There is only this about it whatever area you decide to give to cotton it should be made to produce every pound that good fertilizing and good cultivation can make it produce. The seeds are a valuable product and the stalks carefully returned to the soil this winter will supply a large quantity of vegetable matter to it. We are told that the report of the State Agriculture Department
shows no reduction in the sales of fertilizers.

Some think that this indicates
no reduction in the area of cotton.
It may be that our farmers are going to use fertilizer freely on their crops of spring oats, peas,
hay, corn, sugar cane and garden
crops.

Well! whatever the prospect
may be to optimist or pessimist,
let us trust that the unexpected,
bringing good things as it often does, may happen this fall.

Field peas—ought there not be a greatly increased area of this valuable crop this year? It is true it is a difficult crop to gather and put on market. Some can get the peas picked to better advantage than others. Like cotton, however, it is well suited to women and children labor.

There is a steadily increasing demand for our field pea seed
every year from Whippwill or speckled variety. It appears to us that for the next year the minimum price for the seeds should not be less than $1 per bushel,
whether wanted to produce a crop of seeds or the crop to be used for providing vegetable matter or to make a soiling crop. Used in one way or another and in the best manner possible there are few more valuable crops on the southern farm. Many have not found it out.

Sorghum—Another very valuable
crop is without question.
Sorghum not so much for its syrup, but as a pork producer. One acre of it at its best will produce more pork and hogs than an acre of any other crop. Of course, it is an exhaustive crop, but just according to its value. Have you ever tried it for its several purposes? If not try an acre this year—half of it with the Amber variety and half with the Orange.
Take from cotton land this acre.

Alfalfa—Another generation of southern farmers will probably put a better valuation upon this great perennial clover, for such it is. It is better known in the south as lucern. Any land that will yield a half bale of cotton or twenty bushels of corn,
will readily produce lucern.

It only needs that the land be properly prepared at the start,
good seeds sown in the proper time and good care one year to establish a crop that for several years will be worth a hundred dollars per year to any man who keeps a cow and horse.

The best time for starting off
the crop is from October 15, to November 15. Three times out of five sowings the first week in December will succeed. It is much better to start in the fall, for then the crop can easily get ahead of the weeds.

In one instance in Mr. Martel's experience, Lucern sown in drills, December 5, succeeded, though the soil was hard frozen for a day or so before the little plants had developed the third leaf. The little plants show from the very start what sort of root they will soon develop.

Few farmers probably start any crop upon the spur of the moment.
In this instance, there is six months for considering the question, whether to try it or so much as an acre will be little or nothing.

But do not make the venture without being willing to meet the several but very simple requirements of a crop so valuable. If through carelessness you fail, you may bar the path of progress to more than one worthy farmer,
who later may listen to a statement of your valuable experiments.

M. Martel tells us of a friend of his who disputed with him for a number of years, concerning onions from seeds, denying that they could be so grown. The fact was revealed that the friend had some years previously sown two years in succession, onion seeds, that were ten years old. Not one came up, either time. He was convinced that onions would not even come up in such soil and climate, much less grow. A year or two ago Martel went over to his skeptical neighbor some ten miles off, Carrymda and Queen seeds to sow

a row forty feet long. He sowed them carefully for his neighbor
and asked to be told the results
when the crop matured after good clean cultivation. He returned some time in May and found his friend about to gather three pecks
of as fine table and pickle onions
as might be found in a day's march anywhere.

great benefit in general debility and nervous trouble, and kept them constan-

no equal." W. H. Ellis guarantees

Brown Will Make Race.

Hawkinsville, Ga., April 28.—
The following announcement of the candidacy of Hon. J. Pope Brown for governor of Georgia
was made today:

To the white people of Georgia:
I think it due to my friends all over the state, who have encouraged me by their replies to my recent letters of inquiry, sent to every county, to now announce positively and definitely that I will be a candidate for the democratic nomination for governor in the primaries of 1906.

On October first, 1906, my term
as railroad commissioner will expire, and between now and that date my official duties and my private business will so completely occupy my time, that I will not be able to commence an active campaign prior to that date. As soon, however, as my term as commissioner expires, I will make a plain, explicit and definite declaration of the principles for which I shall stand, and of the policies
I shall advocate in addressing the people throughout the state.
For I am not vain enough to think that I can be elected governor simply from a personal desire for the office. I believe that this is one campaign in which the people will insist on passing for themselves upon the issues involved,
and I shall confidently invoke their favorable judgment upon the principles that my candidacy will represent.

To Our Persecuted Friends of Excelsior.

Doubtless the readers of the News remember very distinctly a statement from our Excelsior friends in regard to the joint debate at Motter. It fell upon the ears of the people of Motter like a thunder burst upon a clear mid summer day. We acknowledge our defeat, for who could listen to those silver tongued orators without being completely overcome by the power of their eloquence wit and learning. We listen with breathless admiration and enthusiasm to those great orators, who existed so close to us, and were hitherto, unknown to us. Their speeches were wonderful pieces of consummate art, filled with the great principles of ethics, literature and religion. They expressed in beautiful language the wonderful laws of political economy, and even the great Daniel Webster would have acknowledged their superior knowledge of the constitution, and would have taken off his hat and resigned the fight for the union to them, and his adversary John C. Calhoun, would have retired to the hills of South Carolina and never entered the arena of politics again. Taking these facts into consideration we think it no discredit to acknowledge our defeat, we accept our defeat with the honor of true gentlemen, and ask our friends to cease to ridicule our weakness in debate, and to think of us in the future as their true friends, for their eloquence has won our hearts most sincere affection.

In behalf of the gentlemen of the committee who exhibited such dishonor and forfeited their claim to the name of gentlemen, we shall only say that they both made large fortunes in Motter, and are now living in luxury and plenty, while poor Excelsior is persecuted and victorious. Metter is honored throughout the length and breadth of our land.

As Metter alone appointed the judges, (we won) and Excelsior lost. We do not reply upon the principal that "a hit our will bow," but with the hopes that our friends will think less harshly of us since we have yielded to the inevitable. However, we are willing to meet them at another place, if they think we can debate well enough to interest them.

Yours in humility,
Affirmative Speakers.

Stevens Says Crop Is Good.

Atlanta, Ga., April 22.—Commissioner O. B. Stevens of the agricultural department has been scratching around among the fruit orchards in the vicinity of Cordale and Tifton, and reports that while the cold snap did some damage in that section of the state, the indications are that there will be a large crop of peaches and other fruit. He says that the damage was by no means extensive. As against this, however, he says that it is his opinion that the orchards of North Georgia were badly injured and that the crop will be very short in that section of the state.

In Memoriam.
When the Angel of Death entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Allen he bore away, in the person of their daughter, Effie, aged fifteen years and seventeen days, one of the most lovable characters it has been the writer's pleasure to meet.

She had suffered long and painfully, but uncomplainingly, of that fell disease meningitis, and had come to rest upon death as a happy release from her almost unbearable agony.

Her was indeed a beautiful spirit—a loving and dutiful daughter, an affectionate and helpful sister, a docile intelligent and faithful student, and a merry and self-sacrificing friend to her young companions.

The influence of such a life, short tho its earthly pilgrimage was destined to be, cannot be easily estimated, and all of us may deduce from it lessons of duty and patience under affliction that will assuredly help us along life's vicissitudes until we, too, are called to that bourne from whence no traveler ever returns.

Her loved ones mourn not as they who have no hope, but are sustained by the precious hope that she has only passed through the gates of pearl and awaits them with outstretched arms in that Celestial City, not built by hands, where there is no more death.

"Therefore are they before the throne of God, and serve him day and night in his temple."

And the Lamb which is in the midst of the throne shall feed them and shall lead them unto living fountains of water: and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes."

May He who doeth all things well tempter this sorrow to the bereaved loved ones, and may they come to realize that such spirits as hers are only lent us for a little while to brighten life's rugged pathway, and to draw us closer together in bands of sympathy and love.

By her teacher and friend,
Jas. H. St. Clair.

RIVER SIDE.

Mrs. Lou Roberts is visiting her sister, Mrs. C. M. Cappe this week at River Side.

Miss Maggie Moore, of Rocky Ford, was here doing shopping here last week.

Mrs. Agnes Roberts of River Side, is visiting her mother at Fly this week.

There was quite a large crowd attended church at Nevill's Creek church Sunday.

When Savannah had played its half of the ninth inning, resulting in three deaths at first base, the visitors threw up their hands and made a bee line for the train for home.

There was an attendance of about 400 people, and the gate receipts amounted to $75.00. The unfavorable weather had much to do with keeping the people from turning out. It is probable that the game was not a financial success.

STATSBORO DEFEATS SAVANNAH Y. M. C. A.

Score of 11 to 2 in the Match Game
Wednesday Evening Showed That the visiting Team, While Made Up of Good Jolly Fellows, Didn't know How to Play Base Ball.

The first match game of ball between the Statesboro first nine and an outside team came off Wednesday afternoon on the Statesboro diamond between Statesboro and the Y. M. C. A. team of Savannah, and resulted in a walk over for the home team.

Savannah played a pretty game up to the fifth inning, when she started to tumble, and by the time the sixth inning had started disintegration had set in which showed their finish in a short time. Up to the fourth inning the score stood 2 to 1 in favor of Savannah, but when three of Statesboro's runners put their feet on the home plate in one inning, it completely rattled the friends from the city by the sea.

Imagine their mortification, when, in the next inning, they were sawed out in the one, two and three fashion, and not a single visitor saw the first base. They were followed by Statesboro in the latter half of the same inning, running in four men making that many scores. This broke the backbone of their good hope, and a vigorous kick was put up by the Savannah team.

They began to draw on their jockeys and prepare to leave the grounds. Finally all differences were patched up by Statesboro canceling two of the runs made. About this time a dispute arose between one of the Savannah players and a Statesboro citizen which came near resulting in a fistfight, but friends interfered, and soon the game had started up again.

At this juncture the Savannah pitcher had caved in and pitchers were changed. The result from the change was disastrous to say the least of it. The Statesboro boys batted him just for the fun of the thing, and the ball boy was kept busy climbing the fence to get the balls that were batted out of the grounds, while the Statesboro boys almost belittled themselves running around the diamond. They scored so fast until it was almost impossible for the spectators to keep tab with it.

When Savannah had played its half of the ninth inning, resulting in three deaths at first base, the visitors threw up their hands and made a bee line for the train for home.

There was an attendance of about 400 people, and the gate receipts amounted to $75.00. The unfavorable weather had much to do with keeping the people from turning out. It is probable that the game was not a financial success.

Wash Burns Comes Clear.
Our readers will remember that One Wash Burns, colored, was reported as being in jail some time ago, on a charge of setting fire to the house of Fannie Day one Saturday night. Wash has been languishing behind the bars since that time, but was relieved this week when the grand jury reported "no bill" in his case. It seems that the prosecution fell down in his case.

Fire on College Street.
On Tuesday afternoon, the dwelling of Rev. L. E. Waters on College street was discovered to be in flames. A telephone message to the store of J. G. Blitch Co was the first news of it up town. Mr. Blitch's dray was standing in front of the store, he dispatched it to the callaboose, where the water hose are kept, broke in the door before the marshall arrived with the key, placed several men on the dray and almost in the length of time it would take to tell of it, the dray was going in a sweeping run down South Main street towards the burning building. But the building was in a light blaze when reported, and when the department arrived the flames were licking the sides of the adjoining building and leaping far across the street toward the college. A hose pipe was attached to a water main nearby and a stream was soon on the burning next door, which had by that time caught afire all on one side and the roof. So close were the two buildings together that no one could approach near the endangered structure, on account of the intense heat, by the use of a headstead head-board a sort of protection was afforded, and soon the other building was put out; this was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John Powell. The water was then put on the burning structure and the fire was extinguished, leaving some of the weather boarding, post, etc., still standing.

Mr. Waters has recently purchased the place and paid for it. It was insured for $1,000 and the loss was about $1,500, and most of the household goods were destroyed, either by the fire or damage in removing. Inasmuch as the entire rear end of the building near the cook room was in a light blaze before the fire was discovered by Mrs. Waters, who was sewing in the house at the time. None of the furniture or fixtures in that part of the building was saved. While owing to the great distance from the center of the city and the progress the fire had made before discovery, it impossible for the fire department to save the burning building, yet they did some valuable work in stopping the further spread of the flames, which could not have been done without the use of the water works.

The damaged building is the property of Dr. Sample, and was insured. We understand that Mr. Waters will rebuild.

Saved By A Collar Button.

Augusta, April, 23.—It is probably due to a collar button that Manager Billy Earle of the Columbia baseball club is not a dead man.

While on the way from Charleston to Augusta this morning a malicious negro fired a pistol bullet through the train, striking Earle in the throat. Fortunately it had passed through the panel, instead of the glass, and landed on the manager's collar. A flesh wound was caused and the shock produced considerable swelling and soreness. He could hardly speak when he arrived here. He was attended by a physician before being able to go on to Macon, where his team plays tomorrow, but he will be unable, even if complications do not arrive, to play on the team for a week or more.

The accident occurred about thirty miles above Charleston. The negro who was with a crowd, all apparently drunk, was seen, but not recognized. The railroad authorities are endeavoring to apprehend him.

A TYPOGRAPHICAL ERROR.

Life itself is full of mistakes, and we are no oftener reminded of this fact than when we see the little typographical errors that are continuously creeping into print. One has often destroyed the force of an entire expression.

The public who did not detect the error in the names of Glisson, the originator of refreshments, will note the typographical error, L. C. Glisson, which should have been M. L. Glisson with C. B. Griner & Co. All the people of the town and anywhere near town discovered the misprint; this is only for the benefit of visitors and traveling men who might be led astray by an unintentional error.

Stranger, ask any of our solid citizens where the best drink and creams are found and we will get your five cent and also get you as an advertiser. The public has been and admired our handsome fixtures, and the taste of our delicious cool drinks, and they are both the judge and the jury and will make the verdict. We have anticipated the manner of their verdict by the ever increasing stream of people who through our store and sit at our tables every day. If you could keep in touch with the throng follow the crowd to C. B. GRINER & CO'S.
