Shade Trees.

Shade tree, shade trees, plenty of them, but not too near the house. Set them for coming fence posts along the road and up and down the lane. Do not wait to send away for high priced trees. Secure them from the forest near home. They will do better and harmonize better than trees that are not indigenous. Set a row of elms, maples, box elders or oaks along the highway seven feet from the fence. Take a little pains with them, giving them plenty of mellow soil to root in and pack the earth just enough to make them stand the gales. Shade trees will add to the value of the place, and anything that adds value is a money maker. The farm is the farmer's bank. He may not be able to invest much cash in improvements, but whenever he can invest his labor he should do so. Trim all shade trees moderately high, if large enough trim them ten feet up, so that you can see under them. And after you have set these trees look after them a little. Keep them away from them, and carry them a painful of water occasionally New York Tribune.

A message was sent by wire and wireless telegraph from Washington to city to Rome and a reply received in less than five minutes.

The distance is about 8000 miles each way, and the message had to be repeated, or, in telegraph language, relayed, six times. It came by wire to Seattle, from Seattle to Sitka and Valdez by cable, and thence to Rome by wireless telegraph. The message and replies were sent in order to show what American telegraph lines can do.

CALLS ANSWERED PROMPTLY

Day and Night

ATTENTION FARMERS.

President Harvie Jordan, of the Southern cotton association, has decided that the farmers in all the cotton growing counties should meet in their respective communities on July 4th, have barbecues, speaking and make the day one of general enjoying this year on account of the splendid year accomplished by the farmers in reducing the cotton acreage for 1905.

President Jordan's call follows:

"Office Southern Cotton Association, Atlanta, Ga., June 9, 1905 Southern Cotton Growers:

"Every report issued on the cotton acreage of 1905, including the United States government report of June 2nd, indicates beyond all question of doubt that the cotton acreage of this year has been materially reduced by the farmers, thereby making another abnormally large crop with extremely low prices a impossibility. Southern cotton growers are to be highly commended for this standing so loyally by their pledges and promises, which will save the south from financial ruin and disaster. The farmers also held their cotton from the markets during a most depressing period in January and February, thereby emphasizing their ability to protect their interest from the devastating influence of speculation. The cotton holding movement has saved the south $50,000,000 in the value of the cotton unsold on January 20th, and the reduction in cotton acreage will insure 10 cents per pound for the staple next fall. We should therefore have a day of general rejoicing for the great work accomplished.

FOURTH OF JULY SELECTED.

"The Declaration of American Independence from the yoke of foreign domination was signed on July 4, 1776. I think that a fitting day for southern cotton growers to assemble together and declare their freedom and independence from foreign combinations which in the past have dictated the price of the great money staple crop of the south. I therefore issue this call, earnestly asking that the cotton growers all over the south meet on Tuesday, July 4, 1905, either in their local beats, townships, militia districts or at their county seats, and have barbecues or basket dinners, speeches and make of the day one of general rejoicing. I trust also that strong resolutions will be passed at these meetings emphasizing loyalty and patriotism to each other and agreeing that no cotton shall be sold during the balance of the present year for less than 10 cents per pound. I call upon the business and professional men in the various towns of the south to assist and take active part in these meetings. It is the duty of every southerner to assist the farmers in this patriotic duty and to commend them for their great victory they have won. I ask that copies of all resolutions passed at these meetings be mailed to the headquarters of the Southern Cotton association for compilation and publication. Such a meeting of the cotton growers and their determination to demand better prices for cotton would have a tremendous effect on the spinners of the world who have sold their goods ahead and have yet to secure the raw cotton to fill their contracts. Let every community act and act with determination.

Yours truly,

HARVIE JORDAN,

President Southern Cotton Soc.

HON. J. G. MOORE DIED VERY SUDDENLY.

(Savannah News)

Hon. James G. Moore of Groveland, Bryan county, died suddenly at St. Joseph's Hospital at 11 o'clock Sunday morning from acute indigestion. His remains were taken to Groveland in the afternoon and the funeral took place yesterday.

Mr. Moore entered the hospital about ten weeks ago for an operation on one of his feet. He had practically recovered and expected to leave for his home Sunday or Monday.

His aged mother and three sisters had been with him during his illness, but left for home several days ago, except one sister who remained and was with him when he died.

He was feeling unusually bright during the morning and shortly before 11 o'clock ate a light lunch. Almost immediately he was attacked with indigestion which affected his heart and he died in a few minutes. His remains were taken in charge by Undertaker Goette, who is a relative of the family.

Mr. Moore was 60 years old.

He was a native of Bulloch county, but resided at Groveland, where he was a merchant. In 1902 he was elected state senator from the first district and completed his term with the last session of the legislature. He was a man of means and influence throughout the section in which he lived and was almost universally respected and esteemed. He leaves a mother, four sons and three daughters. His wife died about a year ago.

UNITED STATES IN ROLE OF PEACEMAKER

President Aids Russia and Japan to End the Cruel War for the Sake of Humanity.

Washington, June 9.—An identical note, the text of which, by authority of the president, was made public late tonight at the white house by Secretary Loeb, has been forwarded to the governments of Russia and Japan by President Roosevelt.

In the interest of humanity the president urges the warring nations to conclude peace. It is suggested by the president that the negotiations for peace be conducted "directly and exclusively" between the belligerent nations.

The note indicates the president's belief that an intermediary may not be necessary to effect conclusive negotiations, but likewise expresses the president's willingness to do all that he properly may to do to promote the preliminary arrangements for a time and place of the meeting of representatives of the Russian and Japanese governments.

TEXT OF THE DISPATCH.

The following is the text of the dispatch given out:

"On June 8 the following dispatch was sent by the president, through diplomatic channels, to the Japanese and Russian governments:

"The president feels that the time has come when, in the interest of all mankind, he must endeavor to see if it is not possible to bring an end to the terrible and lamentable conflict now being waged. With both Russia and Japan the United States has inherited ties of friendship and good will. It hopes for the prosperity and welfare of each and it feels that the progress of the world is set back by the war between these two great nations.

"The president accordingly urges the Russian and Japanese governments, not only for their own sakes, but in the interest of the whole civilized world, to open direct negotiations for peace with one another. The president suggests that these peace negotiations be conducted directly and exclusively between the belligerents; in other words, that there may be a meeting of Russian and Japanese plenipotentiaries or delegates without any intermediary, in order to see if it is not possible for these representatives of the two powers to agree to terms of peace.

"The president earnestly asks that the (Russian) (Japanese) government do now agree to such a meeting, and is asking the (Japanese) (Russian) government likewise to agree. While the president does not feel that any intermediary should be called in in respect to the peace negotiations themselves, he is entirely willing to do what he properly can if the two powers concerned feel that his services will be of aid in arranging the preliminaries as to the time and place of meeting. But if even these preliminaries can be arranged between the two powers, or in any other way, the president will be glad as his sole purpose is to bring about a meeting which the whole civilized world will pray may result in peace."

The foregoing note was forwarded to the Russian and Japanese governments yesterday afternoon. It is rendered especially significant by the fact that it was prepared and sent only after assurances had been received both from Tokio and St. Petersburg that such proposition would be welcomed.

While both Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, and Minister Takahira of Japan were cognizant of the nature of the note, President Roosevelt.

A formal reply to the note may not be received for several days, but, as already made clear, informal assurances that it would be welcomed already are at hand. In view of the significant character of the document and of the attitude toward it which both Russia and Japan have assumed, it is regarded, in official and diplomatic circles as the first firm and decisive step toward ultimate peace.

Wash Burns Comes Clean.

Those wicked officers who thought they had the noose fast around the neck of G. Washington Burns woke up to find themselves mistaken when the jury reported a verdict of not guilty on last Friday.

Wash was charged with selling whiskey, along with the other defendants who were caught some time ago. The officers say that Wash is a slick old con. He was much harder to trap than the others. Wash had never been there before; they never could get him to bring the liquor until the cash was in hand, then he contended that he went off and got it from another party, which made him in the eyes of the law the agent of the party doing the buying instead of the dealer.

Convicted of Carrying Concealed Weapons.

Julius Waters seems to be quite a success when it comes to keeping himself before the public. It will be remembered that we have had to handle his actions as news a number of times lately, and we have no desire to parade him in the public print.

Last week he got married, and within a day or two he faced a charge of carrying concealed weapons. The jury after hearing the case and deliberating upon it for some time, returned a verdict of guilty late Thursday evening. A fine of $50.00 and cost or six months in the gang was imposed. A motion for a new trial is now pending.

The circumstances of the case are as follows: Once upon a time Waters boarded at the Central hotel, when it was run by Mr. O. C. Parker; a couple or so of months' board feed due, and Waters sought his meals elsewhere. On leaving he neglected to settle up. Frank Parker went out to call on him for the money at the county chain gang, where he was then working as a guard. Payment was declined, and one word called for another; Waters being armed made a show of his arms, and Parker threw his hand back to his hip pocket and also flourished a pistol. Waters swore out a warrant for Parker and secured a verdict of guilty against him and set his cash account back to the tune of about $75.00.

It seems that there were other times that Waters had carried weapons when he was not guarding convicts; remembering this, Parker had him pulled on the same charge that he had been fined for, with the result as named above.

Snake Around Baby's Neck.

Swainsboro, Ga., June 9.—Mr. and Mrs. William Boatright had a remarkable experience at their home near Graymont this week. They were in a field near the house, when they heard their children crying and calling for help. Upon going to the house they found a large black snake coiled around the neck of their youngest child, a baby of only a few months. In the bed with the little one, sleeping quietly and complacently, were two large snakes. One was killed and the other two put to route, but the parents firmly believe that the little one would have been strangled to death had it not been for their timely arrival. The baby was not injured, and is none the worse for the scare it received.

Dying of Famine

In its torments, like dying of consumption. The progress of consumption, from the beginning to the very end, is a long torture, both to victim and friends. "When I had consumption in its first stage," writes Wm. Myers, of Caracas, Md., "after trying different medicines and a good doctor in vain, I at last took Dr. King's New Discovery, which promptly relieved me." METTER

We are sorry to report the illness of Mrs. T. H. Burns, but we hope it is nothing serious and she will soon see her out on our streets again.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Collins spent a few days of this week at Excalibur visiting friends and relatives.

Mrs. P. H. Perkins accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Worwick returned Wednesday evening from an extended visit with friends and relatives at Paschal.

Mrs. W. L. Kennedy accompanied by Little Abbie McLean spent last week at Portia visiting her sister, Mrs. Jason Franklin.

Messrs. J. E. Cowart and Will Durden of Summit, were two prominent figures upon our streets last week.

The Metter literary society, in the presence of a large and attentive audience, rendered one of its most interesting and instructive programs last Friday evening since its organization. Some had come to think that our society was dying, but we are proud to show them that she was only letting slack the chain to catch up a new hold and to come with renewed energy and more enthusiasm.

The patrons of the Metter high school gave a basket picnic last Friday. It was quite a treat to the teachers, pupils and patrons; talking, eating and drinking was the order of the day. There was plenty of lemonade, big dinner and good speaking. Everybody reported a fine time.

STATSBORO AGAIN WINS

Last of Series of Games Breaks all Records—Helena-McRae

Shut Out.

The way that Statesboro wall-poled the Helena-McRae baseball team on Wednesday afternoon was a shame.

The second game of the series resulted in a victory for the victors by a score of 5 for Helena-McRae to 1 for Statesboro. This kinder got the home boys hot in the collar and they determined that they should be shut out sufficiently strong to knock them completely out of our class.

What they lacked of doing this on Wednesday afternoon wasn't much, the score standing 15 to 0 in favor of Statesboro. Huff pitched the game for Statesboro and gave up but few safe hits, while Davenport, for the visitors, was batted clear out of the box. Davenport had staked his all on his game. His ambition was to defeat Statesboro, and the little victory scored the evening before had the effect of making him hold to claim the next game. He would pitch and sweat, and the boys would guy him, but in the sixth inning he flew up and another pitcher was put in his place. The change was a most disastrous one. Several of the Statesboro boys walked to first base on balls. Another change in pitchers was made, but the day was lost and Helena-McRae was all to the bad.

There was undoubtedly some of the best ball players in the game on Wednesday afternoon that had ever been seen on the Statesboro diamond. The gate receipts for the three games was about $140.

Revenue Officers Making Trouble.

A special deputy United States marshal has been noosing around Statesboro for the past week, accumulating evidence against men who have been ordering whiskey for other people.

It is claimed that a recent test case has been made which makes a man who orders for other people a dealer and subject to the revenue license, especially if the party accepts a commission from the liquor house from whom he orders, or accepts the money here and has it charged to his account with the liquor dealer. If this is the case, then there will be lots of merchants all over the country who are liable. We understand that the detective who has been here has a long list of names, which includes a number of farmers who have been ordering for their friends.

We have heard of no one paying the license yet, but developments are being watched by not a few of our business men, who have made a practice of ordering whiskey for their customers and friends.

Soldiers Camp Out.

On Tuesday afternoon the Statesboro Volunteers decided to take a little slice of actual service. They started out to Robert's mill to camp out, they had hardly passed out of the city limits when a hard driving rain and windstorm overtook them and remained with them all the night through. The boys were given an opportunity to see and feel some of the hardships of a soldier's life.

Infant's Death Near Blitch.

On Tuesday night the Angel of Death entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Metz near Blitch, and took from their home their one year old daughter. The cause of the little one's death is attributed to a severe case of pneumonia. The remains were interred at the family burial grounds near Mr. Jas. Donaldson's place on Wednesday afternoon.

Sunday School Picnic

Yesterday was a big day for the Sunday schools. The Central carried a good many from each school in Statesboro, where they baked in the cool Tybee breeze and partook of the delicacies prepared for the occasion. The Central had prepared ample accommodation for many more than took advantage, but owing to unknown cause some were left at home, but the space was taken before they reached Savannah, and all had a delightful time and are at home again living in anticipation of another.

HALL EXPECTED TO MAKE RACE.

"When will Hon. Joe Hill Hall definitely announce for governor?"

That is the question generally asked throughout the state today by the politicians interested in the gubernatorial race.

That he is to all intents and purposes already a candidate seems a foregone conclusion.

A caller at the state capitol, whose name is withheld for obvious reasons, stated today:

"Why, Joe Hill Hall is running now. He may not be running for himself, but if he is not he is 'lectioneering for governor for somebody who is not yet announced. I came on the train with him to Macon last week, and at every station we stopped friends came up and shook hands with him and urged him to run. In each case he would tell them to wait, that a candidate to represent the principles for which he has always stood would soon be announced. He gives you the idea of canvassing for the principles he represents, and that the candidate to fit these will be named later."

SEAB WRIGHT THE LATEST.

The latest gossip about another candidate who has not yet been announced is that Hon. Seaborn Wright, of Floyd, former candidate for governor and representative-elect from that county, will be put forward for this honor by Mr. Hall and his strong following. Just what will come of this rumor remains to be seen.

GUESSY CROWD IS GATHERING.

That the supporters of Hon. DuPont Guerry in his last campaign are rallying to a single standard is proved by the fact that his three leaders, Hon. DuPont Guerry, Hon. Joe Hill Hall and Hon. S. C. Tapp, have given out interviews in which each states that the candidate of their choice, or following, has not been mentioned yet in formal announcement.

Mr. Hall states that the man to be the candidate will be put forward at the proper time. Mr. Tapp comes out boldly in favor of Hall, and yesterday Mr. Guerry gave to The News an interview in which he strongly intimated that Mr. Hall is his choice and that he will soon announce.—Atlanta News.

Small Blaze.

On Tuesday at noon the dwelling of Mr. B. B. Sorrier on North Main street caught fire, and had it not been for some quick and effective work on the part of the neighbors, we would have had another fire to our record. Smoke was discovered issuing through the roof of the kitchen caused from a defective flue, the blaze was smothered between the overhead ceiling and the roof. The bucket brigade got in some good work and by the time the hose reel arrived from down town the fire was under control. It was fortunate that this was the case, as considerable difficulty was experienced in getting the hose attached to the hydrant across the street.

The loss was covered by insurance.
