Dogs Always Honest.

Houston Pose.

"There is one peculiar thing about dogs," remarked a well-known local fancier and humorist, "and that is you never saw one pant and wag his tail at the same time. A dog is not capable of a double emotion. He can't growl and wag his tail at the same time, for it is impossible for him to be mad at one end and glad at the other."

"If a dog is glad to see his master he will bark and wag his tail. If he wants to get into the house he will paw at the door, whine and wag his tail, but they are all symptoms of one and the same emotion. But if his master opens the door he will cease to show anxiety immediately by whining and will show pleasure only by the wagging of his tail."

"In order to get a man's temper one must watch his eyes, but for a dog's you have to watch his tail. The dog is likewise incapable of deceit, and hence he is nothing of a politician. He deceives none not even his master. If he is overjoyed every emotion is indicative of that fact, and his whole make-up gives ample testimony to it. If he is displeased or angered it is the same way."

Negotiations for Peace Are Now Under Way.

St. Petersburg, June 17.—The question of the place of the meeting of the Russian and Japanese representatives has been reopened and there is a possibility that The Hague instead of Washington may be selected. After the announcement that Washington had been selected, Russia expressed a desire to have the selection reconsidered and exchanges to that end are now proceeding before Foreign Minister Lamsdorf and Ambassador Meyer and Washington.

Russia's preference for The Hague is based on the obvious advantages that it is entirely neutralized, the capital of a small state and the site of the arbitration court, and also by considerations of time, the representatives to whom Russia will probably entrust the negotiations being now in Europe, while it is pointed out that either the United States or Holland is equally accessible to plenipotentiaries coming from Japan.

The influence of Russia's ally, France, is also for The Hague, which the foreign office announces is the only place under consideration aside from Washington.

Dispatches from the front are irreconcilable in tone. The correspondent with the Russian army in Manchuria telegraphs that the feeling there is against any but a most honorable peace, as the army is better in personnel, armament and equipment than ever before. THERE WERE EXCHANGES. Washington, June 17.—Subsequent to the designation of Washington as the seat of conference between the plenipotentiaries of Russia and Japan, some exchanges were had between the United States and Russia looking, on the part of Russia, to a re-opening of the place of the conference. The precise nature of the exchanges is not known but it is learned here officially that no change in the location of the conference is at all probable. Both the Russian and Japanese governments consented that the conference should be held in Washington after Japan had presented to President Roosevelt its objection to The Hague, or any other European capital. The official announcement of the selection of Washington is regarded as final, so far as the matter of location is concerned. No change could be made without the consent of Japan and her refusal to go to Europe is said to be final.

The authoritative statement was made at the Russian embassy late tonight that Washington was acceptable to Russia and would remain so.

Infant's Death.

Little Fannie Kate, the seven months old child of Dr. and Mrs. S. J. Alexander, of Collins, passed away on Monday the 19th, after a long and tedious illness. Its little spirit took its flight after a peaceful death, leaving its fond parents to mourn the loss of their only child. Physicians and friends exhausted all their skill in trying to restore to health the little one, but all in vain. Although her time was short on earth, the Master called her home, let us be submissive.

The parents have our sympathy and prayers in their sad bereavement.

Going to London.

Rev. J. S. McLemore the pastor of the Baptist church in Statesboro will leave for London, England on next Monday. He goes as a representative of the Baptist church to attend a world's convention of the Baptist which are soon to meet in that city. He will be absent nearly two months, and during that time will see several European cities, and the different countries of the old world. Mr. McLemore came to Statesboro several years ago from Kentucky, and is highly esteemed by his church and friends all of whom wish for him a safe and happy trip.

New Hotel Going Up.

Work is progressing on Statesboro's new brick hotel, and several thousand bricks are already in place. Contractor Franklin hopes to have this fine building completed by the first of November, and then our town will have one of the best hotels in all those sections of country.

Cought Escaped Convict.

Floyd Wallace and his brother brought in a negro yesterday and delivered to the sheriff, who is thought to be an escaped convict. He was working at a saw mill near Metter, and had told some one that he was an escaped convict, and Sheriff Kendrick found it out, and got on his trail, and as stated Wallace and his brother made the arrest later. When they got him they found a big pistol in his pocket, and a razor, and in addition the negro had on three suits of clothes, while the thermometer was ninety degrees. He says his name is Will Bell, but refuses to give much account of himself, but it is thought he will be landed back to his proper gang, and then Bulloch will get him for a year. These strange, mean negroes coming into the town and country, are the ones who do most of the devilment, and as we said when the Hodges family were murdered that a negro ought not to be allowed to stop in a community until he could show a previous good character.

Samuel F. Tarver, Barlow.

On Thursday the 15th inst. Hon. Samuel F. Tarver, one of Jefferson county's most honored citizens, was buried at his home, eight miles east of here, this week. He had for the last two or three years been a sufferer from rheumatism and Bright's disease. Mr. Tarver represented his county twice in the legislature. He leaves a wife, an aged mother, and several sons and daughters.

Mr. Tarver was the father of Mrs. J. E. McCroan of Statesboro, and Mrs. D. B. Franklin of Clito.

Abated The Dry Wells. The mayor and council at their last meeting this week passed an ordinance preventing the building of so called dry wells, and will have those closed that are already built. This is the safe and proper thing to do.

Ortic Pride.

In another article we spoke of the importance of the farmers making their place attractive with trees and flowers, and we desire to speak a few words in behalf of public pride. The old court house square had got to be a public eyesore to all nice people, when the authorities decided to fix it up. They have done this by the erection of a nice stone fence, and had the lot set out in grass and a row of shrubbery, and in a few years could be made a pretty place. There is only one trouble. Too many people want to walk over the fence, grass and shrubbery and try to destroy what time and money has been spent on it. A man ought to remember that it is his property, and that he ought to preserve it, instead of destroy it. Let every citizen take a pride in it, and he will see beauty where before it was an eyesore. While on this line, it would be a fine thing for the churches over the county, and the school grounds all to be set in shade trees, and make inviting to the boys and girls who go to school, and the people who go to church. Suppose we wake up along these lines, and try to make the world and country more beautiful, and we all will feel better and do better in the days to come.

A Philadelphia jury has fixed the value of a fine at $100, but there will be no cash for the Philadelphia brand, as there are others on the market that are equally as good and much cheaper.

Doc Oler will probably agree that while Chauncey Depew, at seventy-two, ought not to be chloroformed, his jokes ought to have met such an end at least thirty-two years ago, says the Atlanta Constitution.

The wife of a laborer in Kansas died leaving him a legacy of $40,000. He did not know she had, which shows that a wife can find more money in a man's pocket than he ever suspects. There, points out the Butte Inter-Mountain.

A New York court has decided that an apartment house janitor is a servant and not a master. That's fine; but we wouldn't like to have a photograph of the court's officer after he gets through trying to enforce the decision, concludes the Washington Post.

The Mayor of Kenosha, Wis., orders a street car line tied up unless transfers are granted, and the Mayor of Chicago demands more cars on the city lines to prevent overcrowding. Two more good Western precedents for Eastern adoption, thinks the New York Evening World.

A Chicago University professor has discovered how to restore life to cats that have been asphyxiated for over twenty minutes. It is thought, however, that if representations are made to him from influential quarters, he may be persuaded to guard the secret, remarks the Bystander.

A little over a year ago Baltimore had a fire that all but laid the city waste. A publication in the Baltimore Sun shows that the banking house clearances of Baltimore for three months exceed those of the corresponding months before the fire by about $10,000,000. Great is the new Baltimore.

The best banks are those in which no such defalcation as that of $1,500,000 in Milwaukee, Wis., can be made by the President without knowledge of the directors, says the Philadelphia Record. The next best banks are those in which such a defalcation can be quickly made up for without loss to depositors.

Of the five honor men of the class of 1905 at West Point one is from Georgia, one from Michigan, one from North Carolina, one from Oregon and one from Maryland. The South gets three of the five "stars" and the West the other two. The new South seems to be jogging along pretty well, comments the New York World.

The opening of a Fifth avenue branch of a great Western jewelry house is of parallel interest as illustrating the drift of outside business capital to New York City, says the New York Evening World. Ambition of successful storekeepers in other cities to have a vast establishment here has become responsible for a remarkable increase in the volume of local trade.

A woman in New York the other day had a photographer brought into court, and attempted to have her money refunded because the gentleman of the camera had made a photograph of her husband, and however she looked at it, the eyes seemed always to be looking away from her, states the Boston Herald. Naturally she does not like one's husband's picture to be constantly intruding to exchange affectionate glances; but the magistrate decided that no punishable crime had been committed by the photographer.

There has been a revival of the proposition to call into existence the half-cent or five mill copper piece. Five or six years ago a bill with that purpose in view was introduced into Congress, but it seems to have died out of main-tenance.

The call for the half-cent comes throughout from large cities in which there are great department stores, though it is quite likely that in all other cities the advent of the new money would be welcomed. Competition in trade in the great shopping centers is now so keen that a difference of half a cent in price often determines the mind of a would-be purchaser, the Savannah News calls to mind.

Augusta Breaks Cotton Record. By receiving 12,000 bales of the staple Saturday Augusta's cotton receipts reached 400,248 bales, which is the largest number of bales ever received in the local market in one year.

The local cotton men have been looking for the market to reach this amount for some time, and have arranged to have a special meeting of the members of the cotton exchange and prepare an open celebration.

Mr. Alry "Baby Farm." Mr. Alry, Georgia's great "baby farm," is rapidly becoming populated with its little inhabitants who arrive for the summer to gather that vigor and strength which will enable them to withstand the rigors of any city year.

Every day some fifty or sixty little ones may be seen on the lawn or in the woods, running about or in arms or baby carriages, breathing in the pure mountain air which makes red blood and builds up muscle and digestive tissue.

Teacher Must Wait for Cash. The public school teachers in the employ of the state will receive no more money until December. This was decided upon a few days ago after a conference between Governor Terrell and Assistant Treasurer C. T. Furber.

Under the act which appropriated $1,000,000 for school purposes in Georgia, $500,000 was to be paid out in the spring and the balance during the last month of the year.

The $500,000 has been paid out and therefore under the law the treasury cannot again be entered for the purpose of paying teachers until December.

All Counties Did Well. There is considerable interest throughout the state in the work done by the Georgia division, Southern Cotton Association. Every cotton growing county in Georgia was thoroughly organized and President M. L. Johnson's report at New Orleans showed that the average yield had been reduced 17 per cent and the reduction in the use of fertilizer 13 per cent.

The state division received 2,823 reports, the second largest number received by any state division in the association.

CONFESSION OF PRISONER

Alf Moore, Colored, Tells Graphic Story of Assassination of Carters and Diabolical Scheme of the Alleged Murderers.

The confession of Alf Moore, the negro arrested Saturday for complicity in the Carter assassinations, has added to the excitement in Valdosta, Ga., and the Habersham district, over the murders. He has told the full story of the plot from its inception, detailing the conversations he alleges to have had with the Rawlings, the deal made with him for his participation in the affair and the acts of himself and the Rawlings boys on the night of the tragedy.

He says that Rawlings hired him to come from Ivey's crockery camp, where he was working, to kill or help kill, the entire Carter family. That when they went to do this, he was taken to a small vacant house nearby and kept there until the night of the assassination, his meals being carried to him.

He says that Rawlings and his boys joined him at this house on the evening of the tragedy and that Rawlings told them to go and kill Carter and his wife, then the grown daughter and younger children, to throw their bodies in the house and to set the place on fire after taking all the money they could find.

The premature appearance of Willie Carter and his sister in the yard, where they were to set the place on fire, thwarted the original plan to kill Mr. and Mrs. Carter first.

After the boy and girl were shot down Carter began firing on the assassin and Moore states that he then became frightened and ran away, making his way back to the crockery camp where he was arrested.

The officers are working on other important evidence and while a close closure of the nature of this evidence would tend to defeat the ends of justice and needlessly increase the public feeling over the crimes, they intimate that other important developments are likely to be made in a few days. One or two other arrests will probably be made soon.

None of the prisoners are allowed to see or communicate with any persons except their attorney.

WAR PARTY IS OBSCURE.

Backed by Military Element, It Endeavors to Hammer Peter Moore, a St. Petersburg special, under date of June 19, is as follows: The war party has by no means surrendered. On the contrary, backed by the military element, it is making a concerted effort to dislodge the emperor from his throne. Even with the two armies already clashing members of the war party are filling St. Petersburg and Petersburg with optimistic views and Lieutenant General Linvich and his lieutenants are reinforcing their arguments with rosy reports of the strategic situation.

Many Russian correspondents at the front, evidently inspired from St. Petersburg, are flooding their papers with dispatches in the same strain.

The Novoe Vremya's correspondent, in his zeal against the conclusion of a humiliating peace, writes that the effort to dislodge the emperor from his throne is a matter of life and death for the Russian empire.

"If peace can be obtained without the cession of Russian territory, or blood money, then peace by all means."

Gustav Strahl of the foreign office left Stockholm, Sweden, Saturday as Swedish-Norwegian charge d'affaires, the legations abroad continuing to represent both countries as Sweden does not recognize the dissolution of the union. Mr. Strahl says he will be glad to renew his acquaintances with people at Washington, as he has pleasant recollections of his secretarial work there.

The Statesboro News
(INCORPORATED.)
Entered as the post office at Statesboro as 2nd class mail matter.
Statesboro, Ga. Friday, June 23, 1905
Published Tuesdays and Wednesdays by THE STATESBORO NEWS PUBLISHING COMPANY.

The rural carriers are going to have a state convention at an early date.

If you can't help your country don't try to injure it, by crying down every good thing.

Happy is the man who knows when he has got enough. This may refer to other things besides money and property.

Good health is the most priceless thing of all and it behooves the people in town and country to give close attention to their water and sanitary condition of their premises.

Aim of Laws.

Laws are made to protect the weak from the strong, and the good from the bad, and to elevate men and women. Take a fellow who thinks that he has the right to wreck a boy by selling him liquor and cigarettes, so he can make a little money, is one of the meanest kind of citizens, and the law is intended to reach such a fellow and teach him that he owes a duty to society which he can't trample under foot. Those in authority who refuse to enforce the laws, against the bad citizen, ought to step down, and let others enforce the law.

The Children's Favorite.
For coughs, croup, whooping cough, etc. One Minute Cough Cure is the children's favorite. This is because it contains no opiate is perfectly harmless, tastes good and cures. Sold by W. H. Ellis.

Petty Meanness.

If we could see our little petty meanness brought us more trouble than pleasure we would do different, and not always be ready to hatch up trouble about little worthless things. Most of the trouble that arises in a neighborhood, don't amount to a row of beans if we would just take the right view of things. Many a man has been killed about nothing, and many a woman's life ruined by some little thing.

Out in Lowndes county, two families have been ruined and some killed and others in jail, all because some of the children of one family caught a few fish on the lands of the other. This brought on a family war and feud that wound up in murder and arson, and the end is not yet. Yet it all sprung from nothing as to speak. Most of the rows and feuds come from some little thing that ought not to be noticed, and if people will learn not to notice every little thing they will be happier. The trouble is we are always looking for something to raise a row about, and a man who does that can always find something. We usually find what we want to find, and a fellow who wants trouble can always get it. If we would go ahead in life and look for happiness and try to find it, we will do so, and we will live longer and be better citizens, and our children will make better men and women.

Civic Pride.

The city of Statesboro and the county of Bulloch are progressive communities. We are proud of our town and county. We claim that no other section of the state has shown greater progress within the last decade. We are hopeful that our development is in its infancy. The future will not excuse us if we stop now. There is no reason why our growth, as a community, should not be much more rapid during the next ten years than it has been during the last. Here and now is the time for us to think and plan for our future town and county.

As soon as the individual thinks himself removed from the danger of physical want, he begins to plan for his convenience. He gives expression to a natural craving for pleasure. He begins to surround himself with the things that suit his individual taste. He gets himself a better home, he plants trees, he cuts avenues, he removes the scaffolding, the temporary shed and the rude fence. His farm becomes not only a source of revenue but a delight to the eye and a source of satisfaction and pride to the community.

As with the individual so with the community. Is there any valid reason why the best agricultural county in the state should not have the best system of public schools? Is there any excuse why the city of Statesboro should not have in the immediate future a public school system that will compare favorably with the best in the state? Is there any reason why this city should not be as beautiful to the eye as less favored cities?

These matters do not rest entirely with those in authority. They have done well. The beginning in the right direction has been made. A Sabbath day's journey along the line of march has already been travelled. This is written lest we forget that civic pride is closely and intimately connected with civic virtue.

Pro Bono Publico.

Bullets Do Deadly Work.

Fatal End to Long Standing Feud Between Young Men In Laston District.

Jack Ellis Lies Dead and Two Others Are Seriously Wounded as a Result of Genetal Shooting Affray.

On Sunday night about nine o'clock the air in the vicinity of Mr. Edmund Brannen's gin house rang with the sound of a fusillade of bullets, and as a result, Jack, the young son of Mr. Abram Ellis living near by, is dead, and Conley Barnes is in the hospital in Savannah suffering from several painful and probably fatal wounds in the body. Erastus Brannen is also suffering from a slight wound in the knee.

The circumstances as far as we have been able to get them are about as follows, while the stories told by the different parties of the affair, yet they all tally pretty well, except as to who fired first; this will probably never be known: On Sunday afternoon Messrs. Jack Ellis, Conley Barnes and Lester Olliff called at the home of Mr. W. H. Hollingsworth and remained there until about nine o'clock, when all three in a buggy started home via of Mr. Edmund Brannen's, where the shooting occurred.

They say that early in the evening, about dark, Messrs. James and Erastus Brannen and another young man named Nick Aldred passed the Hollingsworth home where they were visiting, and that when at a point at a cross road some two hours afterwards, they drove into the buggy driven by the Brannen brothers and Aldred, looking wheels with it before they saw it. The young men who had rode in the buggy were out on the ground, and they say without a word of warning young Erastus Brannen began to shoot into the crowd in the buggy that had driven up, inflicting a deadly wound in young Ellis the first shot, the ball striking him in the side, passing through his spinal column and lodging in the hip. Young Ellis, who was also armed, made an attempt to fire his pistol but it is reported that the wound had so paralyzed him that he was unable to pull the trigger. He started to reel and had not been caught by Barnes he would have fallen out of the buggy. Holding to him with one hand and wrenching his pistol out of his hand with the other, Barnes returned the fire that was raining into them like so much hail, wounding young Erastus Brannen in the knee. Ellis was taken to his home a few miles distant and died yesterday morning about nine o'clock from the effects of the wound received at the gin house the night before.

Mr. Jas. A. Brannen, father of the young man accused of participating in the shooting, was in the city yesterday afternoon, and in an interview with a News reporter stated that there had been lots of devilment committed in the neighborhood for the past several months, that these boys who were with young Ellis had made it a business to pass his home and shoot off their pistols, shoot at his dogs and at any other object that presented itself. He says that this conduct was carried to the excess on the previous Sunday night, and had he done his duty he would have shot them in protection of his home. He says his information from his sons is to stay sober too. Whisky is a good thing in its place, and its place is not altogether in hell as some fanatics have said. It was made for a good purpose, and its abuse is where it comes in at. We have it out from under the nose of the rising generation, and in order to get it a man has got to send off and wait a day or two before it comes; this, it seems to us, removes largely the temptation for men to drink to excess.

Some men hurt the cause they advocate by trying to overdo the job, and we believe the present effort has a tendency in that direction. Many a man who is a dry man under present conditions will not follow you in the extremes that you propose to lead him.

Huge Task.

It was a huge task, to undertake the cure of such a bad case of kidney disease, as that of C. F. Collier, of Cherokee, Ia., but Electric Bitters did it. He writes: "My kidneys were so far gone I could not sit on a chair without a cushion, and suffered from dreadful backache, headache, and depression. In Electric Bitters, however, I found a cure, and by them was restored to perfect health. I recommend this great medicine to all with weak kidneys, liver or stomach. Guaranteed by W. H. Ellis druggist; price 50c.

Unwise Legislation.

We are informed that a petition has been presented to the city council of Statesboro, asking them to put a prohibitory tax on the expenses companies and railroad companies from bringing any whisky into Statesboro. The News doubts that the city council will spend many minutes to its consideration. We have such confidence in the good judgement of that body that we believe the measure will meet its just defeat in short order.

The News has always stood for temperance and in the battles to rid this town of blind tigers and dispensaries, etc., we have shown ourselves with those who didn't want a bar room stock in front of their door, but in this instance we have to dissent. There is such a thing as pushing anything too far. The trouble with most people is they are unable to tell the line where conservatism stops and fanaticism begins. We remember that one of the arguments used in the dispensary campaign was: "If you have got to have whisky, why can you send off and get it by express; we are not trying to deprive you of your rights, etc., etc."

Legislation of this kind has assumed shape in other places from time to time. There is a case pending in the supreme court now from Lawrenceville. It was declared unconstitutional by the superior court and was carried to the supreme court by the town. We believe that it is as unwise as a case in the supreme court. Under our present system the country is fairly well ridden of whisky. True, there is occasionally a case where you see a fellow under its influence, but these cases are so seldom as to be a subject of special comment. A drunk man is really a sight that is seldom seen in this town. True, some people will have it—and have it they will as long as cane skimmings and corn will sour and ferment.

In our opinion the whisky problem is solved here as best it possibly can be and any further legislation on it, especially on the line indicated by the petition now before council, will be dangerous. These people will go a long way with you on temperance, but the word prohibition causes them to balk, and many a man who will help you keep the cross road bar rooms and dispensaries voted out of your midst will not go with you to the extent to shut every avenue of obtaining it at all.

We take the position that every man ought to keep a little whisky in his house, and that he ought to use it in moderation. It is a good thing in its place, and its place is not altogether in hell as some fanatics have said. It was made for a good purpose, and its abuse is where it comes in at. We have it out from under the nose of the rising generation, and in order to get it a man has got to send off and wait a day or two before it comes; this, it seems to us, removes largely the temptation for men to drink to excess.

Some men hurt the cause they advocate by trying to overdo the job, and we believe the present effort has a tendency in that direction. Many a man who is a dry man under present conditions will not follow you in the extremes that you propose to lead him.

Unwise Legislation.

We are informed that a petition has been presented to the city council of Statesboro, asking them to put a prohibitory tax on the expenses companies and railroad companies from bringing any whisky into Statesboro. The News doubts that the city council will spend many minutes to its consideration. We have such confidence in the good judgement of that body that we believe the measure will meet its just defeat in short order.

Bullets Do Deadly Work.

Fatal End to Long Standing Feud Between Young Men In Laston District.

Jack Ellis Lies Dead and Two Others Are Seriously Wounded as a Result of Genetal Shooting Affray.

On Sunday night about nine o'clock the air in the vicinity of Mr. Edmund Brannen's gin house rang with the sound of a fusillade of bullets, and as a result, Jack, the young son of Mr. Abram Ellis living near by, is dead, and Conley Barnes is in the hospital in Savannah suffering from several painful and probably fatal wounds in the body. Erastus Brannen is also suffering from a slight wound in the knee.

The circumstances as far as we have been able to get them are about as follows, while the stories told by the different parties of the affair, yet they all tally pretty well, except as to who fired first; this will probably never be known: On Sunday afternoon Messrs. Jack Ellis, Conley Barnes and Lester Olliff called at the home of Mr. W. H. Hollingsworth and remained there until about nine o'clock, when all three in a buggy started home via of Mr. Edmund Brannen's, where the shooting occurred.

They say that early in the evening, about dark, Messrs. James and Erastus Brannen and another young man named Nick Aldred passed the Hollingsworth home where they were visiting, and that when at a point at a cross road some two hours afterwards, they drove into the buggy driven by the Brannen brothers and Aldred, looking wheels with it before they saw it. The young men who had rode in the buggy were out on the ground, and they say without a word of warning young Erastus Brannen began to shoot into the crowd in the buggy that had driven up, inflicting a deadly wound in young Ellis the first shot, the ball striking him in the side, passing through his spinal column and lodging in the hip. Young Ellis, who was also armed, made an attempt to fire his pistol but it is reported that the wound had so paralyzed him that he was unable to pull the trigger. He started to reel and had not been caught by Barnes he would have fallen out of the buggy. Holding to him with one hand and wrenching his pistol out of his hand with the other, Barnes returned the fire that was raining into them like so much hail, wounding young Erastus Brannen in the knee. Ellis was taken to his home a few miles distant and died yesterday morning about nine o'clock from the effects of the wound received at the gin house the night before.

Mr. Jas. A. Brannen, father of the young man accused of participating in the shooting, was in the city yesterday afternoon, and in an interview with a News reporter stated that there had been lots of devilment committed in the neighborhood for the past several months, that these boys who were with young Ellis had made it a business to pass his home and shoot off their pistols, shoot at his dogs and at any other object that presented itself. He says that this conduct was carried to the excess on the previous Sunday night, and had he done his duty he would have shot them in protection of his home. He says his information from his sons is to stay sober too. Whisky is a good thing in its place, and its place is not altogether in hell as some fanatics have said. It was made for a good purpose, and its abuse is where it comes in at. We have it out from under the nose of the rising generation, and in order to get it a man has got to send off and wait a day or two before it comes; this, it seems to us, removes largely the temptation for men to drink to excess.

Shilmore Defeats Statesboro. On last Friday the Statesboro baseball team went up to Stillmore to play George Brinson's crack nine, and the result is they caught it where Billie wore the beads on the neck. The boys say they went up against a tough proposition in the person of Siotte, the French pitcher from Augusta. George Brinson don't sleep all the time, especially when he thinks he is going up against the best amateur base ball team in Georgia, and he went up to Augusta and employed the best league battery that money would get. The game is said to have been a pretty one, and the score of three for Stillmore and two for Statesboro showed that the boys did some first class work. The home boys made several inexcusable errors that enabled Stillmore to earn her three runs, and to this is ascribed the defeat, as much as to the good work of the crack pitcher for Stillmore. Maynard did the pitching for Statesboro, and did the best work of his life, but the few errors in the field cost us the game. Four hits were scored on each pitcher, going to show that their work was about equal. It is probable that another game will be played between the two teams some time in the near future.

Decoration Day.

On this day, and on the fourth of July, everybody feels that he would like, above everything else, to be a soldier; and, perhaps, some of the girls wish that they, too, could join our nation's warriors.

I remember how, when I was a very small child, I longed to speakable to be a soldier. The fact that I was a girl was a grief to me because it prevented me from ever realizing my cherished ambition. I would often play soldier with a paper cap and a wooden sword, but of course that was when I was a very small child. Still, you know I did become a soldier when I enlisted to fight for King Jesus under the banner of cavalry. To be a soldier means sacrifice and hardships, as well as glory. We do not decorate the graves of our dead soldiers and honor their memory merely because they were a uniform or carried a shining gun, or beat a drum or sang patriotic songs. No, we honor them because they sacrificed and fought for their country. My dear father has lived now three quarters of a century and I remember well how often he has told us the hardships he suffered, how hungry, thirsty, cold and weary he would get, but he did not give up, but fought to the end of the war.

You and I, soldiers of King Jehovah, will not receive the crown from his hands merely for singing the songs of the Kingdom. No, but if we are grateful to the end, for doing our Master's bidding at home or away in big things and small, till God will say it is enough, come higher! Then we will forget about the weariness, the loneliness and the difficulties of the way and will rejoice greatly that we did not give in, but lived and died at our post. May it be so with each one of us.

Mrs. T. H. Whitaker.

Farm Improvement.

Do you know that you can add much to the value of your farm by giving some attention to planting trees around your place like peaches, and have you a nice grove of oaks and other trees?

To see a farm house out in the fields with no trees around it, gives the place a cold and cheerless aspect, and the visitor and traveler is not impressed with such a place. If he wanted to buy a farm he would pass by that kind of place, and hunt one that was made inviting and beautiful with trees and orchard, and a lawn of green grass, and where the yard fences were painted and kept in fine shape.

While we are rushing forward making corn and cotton to feed and clothe the world, let us not forget that we are entitled to some of the pleasures and enjoyments of life also, and one of the ways to get it, is to make our homes and farms attractive, and if we do this we will find out that the boys and girls will appreciate country and farm life more than they do now. There is too much disposition on the part of the young people to rush off to the cities, and leave the old farm, and no doubt much of this is caused by the want of pride on our part to make the home attractive as we have stated. In the old country the farmers plant shade trees along the highways near their homes and the roads are even thus made beautiful and pretty and they have fine driveways, and not open hot roads. The peach tree makes a pretty shade tree and at the same time is valuable as a money producer. We hope to see the wide awake farmers of Bulloch set the pace for fixing up and beautifying their premises and they will find out in a few years that it was time and money well invested.

Unwise Legislation.

We are informed that a petition has been presented to the city council of Statesboro, asking them to put a prohibitory tax on the expenses companies and railroad companies from bringing any whisky into Statesboro. The News doubts that the city council will spend many minutes to its consideration. We have such confidence in the good judgement of that body that we believe the measure will meet its just defeat in short order.

The News has always stood for temperance and in the battles to rid this town of blind tigers and dispensaries, etc., we have shown ourselves with those who didn't want a bar room stock in front of their door, but in this instance we have to dissent. There is such a thing as pushing anything too far. The trouble with most people is they are unable to tell the line where conservatism stops and fanaticism begins. We remember that one of the arguments used in the dispensary campaign was: "If you have got to have whisky, why can you send off and get it by express; we are not trying to deprive you of your rights, etc., etc."

Legislation of this kind has assumed shape in other places from time to time. There is a case pending in the supreme court now from Lawrenceville. It was declared unconstitutional by the superior court and was carried to the supreme court by the town. We believe that it is as unwise as a case in the supreme court. Under our present system the country is fairly well ridden of whisky. True, there is occasionally a case where you see a fellow under its influence, but these cases are so seldom as to be a subject of special comment. A drunk man is really a sight that is seldom seen in this town. True, some people will have it—and have it they will as long as cane skimmings and corn will sour and ferment.

In our opinion the whisky problem is solved here as best it possibly can be and any further legislation on it, especially on the line indicated by the petition now before council, will be dangerous. These people will go a long way with you on temperance, but the word prohibition causes them to balk, and many a man who will help you keep the cross road bar rooms and dispensaries voted out of your midst will not go with you to the extent to shut every avenue of obtaining it at all.

We take the position that every man ought to keep a little whisky in his house, and that he ought to use it in moderation. It is a good thing in its place, and its place is not altogether in hell as some fanatics have said. It was made for a good purpose, and its abuse is where it comes in at. We have it out from under the nose of the rising generation, and in order to get it a man has got to send off and wait a day or two before it comes; this, it seems to
