From this terrible affliction I was rescued by Electric Bitters, which restored my health and strength, and now I can walk as straight as ever. They are simply wonderful." Mr. W. H. Kennedy has bought from Mr. Edmond Kennedy his forty acre farm south of the city. The price paid was $4000.00 or $100.00 per acre. This is a pointer going to show the value of Bulloch county farm lands. $100.00 per acre is a record that few communities in Georgia can boast on for farming lands.

BROOKLET.

Our part of the county was well represented at the Sunday School Convention, and voted it a grand success in every particular. It was indeed a union, except the dinner part. Each family seemed to hide themselves to a spread of their own, and some few modest strangers had to resort to the hotels or boarding houses for this feast, whilst several baskets, boxes and trunks were heavily loaded on the homeward trip. In the future if it is to be a Union Sunday School Convention, let us have a union table also and not be so selfish with our grub. Of course, some of the fastidious ones will prefer to have their viands spread at home and have a few friends to partake, to them we give this privilege, but all who spread on the ground let it be a union table or none.

Mr. J. A. Warnock who has been suffering several weeks from facial erysipelas is much improved to the delight of his many friends.

It has been our pleasure to travel in each district in Bulloch county recently and we find such beautiful crops that we could but think of the historical old Egypt, whose farmers furnished food for a devastated country around, and we are more convinced than ever that Bulloch county is truly the Egypt of Georgia.

It is to the credit of our young men who are just out of school that each of them have secured work, some of them at the shingle mill, others with the Telephone Co., and others at the plow. Not a single loafer is to be found on our streets. Such boys are sure to succeed in life and will be credit to their name.

If Hoke Smith can deliver the goods, he is our choice for governor, but there is likely to be a How(e) among the candidates that may turn a few of the Smith's another direction.

Independence Day.

Today is Independence day, and while the average Georgia weekly is taking a week off, the Statesboro News goes to its readers, carrying the latest news just the same as if there was no holiday on at all. We have grown to the proportions that our time is not our own. We are wrapped up with other people's business to the extent that there is no place where we can stop and take a day off. Business before pleasure you know. We will be with you as usual on Friday.

ROAD NOTICE.

This is to notify all persons that on and after the 15th day of July next said change will be finally granted, if no good cause is shown to the contrary.

HOWELL REPLIES

(From the Atlanta Constitution)

And now comes the man who boldly proclaimed, in his opening address at Madison, that he based his candidacy for governor upon a "Divine Call," with the tardy admission that he has been "caught in the act" in the matter of his Wall street loan of Fifty Thousand Dollars, obtained through the instrumentality of, and on the endorsement of, Mr. Samuel Spencer, president of the Southern Railway Company!

"But," says Mr. Hoke Smith, "I put up collateral worth three times the loan."

Then, why was the personal endorsement of President Samuel Spencer necessary, and why was this large loan, on such valuable collateral security, not negotiated in the banks of Atlanta, a half dozen of which would, no doubt, would have gladly taken it, if the security were adequate?

And why, pray, did Mr. Dowie II—the Divinely Inspired candidate—go to the very bowels of Wall street for this loan and to the president of a railroad company which had been the object of bitter attack from the new Mr. Dowie's newspaper—the Atlanta Journal?

And why was it that, concurrent with this loan of Fifty Thousand Dollars, on the endorsement of President Samuel Spencer, there was an immediate cessation of the attacks on the railroads, in the columns of Mr. Smith's newspaper which became strangely silent from that day until the paper was sold by Mr. Smith?

If Mr. Smith denies this, let him show from his files one attack like those preceding this loan! And why was it that during the intervening period of several years Attorney Smith, and Proprietor Smith, of the Journal, became the paid champion of the railroads in litigation having in view the breaking up of the very non-competitive iniquities against which Mr. Smith's newspaper had protested so violently up to the time of this Fifty Thousand dollar loan? From his fees in these cases alone, and in the disruption of the Georgia Southern and Florida railroad, in which hundreds of women and children of Macon and South Georgia became penniless, while the Southern was enabled to secure this splendid independent line, Attorney Smith obtained far more than enough money to pay back his Fifty Thousand Dollar loan—with interest, which he proudly proclaimed he has done!

Who, in Georgia, or any other state, could not have paid a loan under these conditions!

But how many lawyers, or newspaper men have put themselves in the position of sacrificing honest convictions for ten times the money? No wonder the manhood of the Georgia bar resents the suggestion that such conduct can be cloaked or condoned by the argument of "professional regularity!"

It will not do for Mr. Smith to plead for time in the suggestion that he is willing to debate the question on July 25th at Camilla—nearly a month off—with any other candidate who wants to discuss it with him. He has already entered a plea of guilty, without discussion!

The gubernatorial primary is more than a year ahead, as the last state convention unanimously instructed the executive committee not to order it before July 10th of next year. So there is plenty of time to discuss these and all other issues in debate, and in this Mr. Smith will be accommodated to his heart's content.

But in the meantime we have presented to the public gaze a so-called "Reform Dowie"—a self-styled Divine Inspiration, who has been forced to admit that when he needed money a few years ago he went to the president of the Southern Railway Company, and obtained Fifty Thousand Dollars of Wall street funds on his endorsement!

Alas! that the very thought of such conduct did not burn the coals of his heart when in August last fall Mr. Smith—always ready to attack the character of someone else, and to besmear the good name of his adopted state—fiercely assailed Tom Watson on the charge that the latter's candidacy for the presidency was the result of republican corruption money!

"No position taken by me in any of my professional work conflicts with the views I am now urging," said Mr. Smith in his Madison address.

We have already shown from the records that since the Fifty Thousand dollar loan Mr. Smith has appeared for the railroads in numerous instances, to argue:

(1) For the validity of the sale of the Macon and Northern railway company to the Central, which was attacked on the ground that it was violative of the non-competitive clause of the state constitution. And in this case the records of the supreme court show that he did not even give the name of his client, volunteering his address to the court on the ground that his nameless client was "interested in the result."

TO HOKE SMITH.

If, later on, it becomes necessary to do so, The Constitution will establish the connection between this "nameless client" and the Fifty Thousand Dollar loan! But perhaps Mr. Smith will not admit that?

(2) The Dunlap & Co. injunction case of Macon, in which it was sought to prevent railroad consolidations in Georgia, was argued for the railroads by Mr. Smith (fee $5,000), notwithstanding the fact that up to that good hour, and before the Fifty Thousand Dollar loan, Mr. Smith's newspaper, The Atlanta Journal, was most vigorously attacking these very consolidations, and arguing their unconstitutionality.

(3) The very essence of the Sherman anti-trust law came up before the federal court in Atlanta on the conspiracy charges brought by the Atlanta merchants. Who was there to defend the railroads, at a fee of $2,000, but Mr. Smith?

And so it goes! Recently The Constitution and other business houses of Atlanta were called upon to raise a fund for the protection of Atlanta against unjust freight rates. Mr. Smith was engaged, among other attorneys—and The Constitution—always ready to respond to the call for the public good—contributed handsomely to the payment of his fee.

And yet, today this same Mr. Smith holds that The Constitution, which is helping to pay his charges for defending the city of Atlanta, is not as safe as he is when it comes to caring for the interest of the city.

God forbid!

Report a Pleasant Trip.

Messrs. J. G. Brannen and D. Olliff, who are just back from a trip to White Springs, Fla. and other points in the Land of Flowers, state that their trip was one of pleasure as well as benefit.

While at the springs they made a number of side trips to visit relatives in that section of the state. Among those they met were the following gentlemen who had moved from Georgia to that section years ago, all of whom are doing well. Mr. C. B. Olliff, one of the leading business men of Welborne, a flourishing Florida city, is an old resident of Georgia and has been in Florida thirty years, and during that time he has amassed a fortune. He conducts a large department store and has numerous other interests besides. He is a relative of the Olliffs in Bulloch, and displayed considerable interest in asking about the welfare of our people.

Mr. W. M. Ogden, one of the successful farmers in that favored section, also placed these gentlemen under many obligations to him by the numerous courtesies shown them while in that section.

Among others they met were the Hodge brothers, viz: Messrs. Samuel W. and H. N. They were given a good time and their visit made a source of continued pleasure. There are a number of others they say who contributed no little to the pleasure of their stay, and they hope that no far distant date is to be able to return the same by having an opportunity to visit Bulloch.

Let us see about that!

We have already shown from the records that since the Fifty Thousand dollar loan Mr. Smith has appeared for the railroads in numerous instances, to argue:

(1) For the validity of the sale of the Macon and Northern railway company to the Central, which was attacked on the ground that it was violative of the non-competitive clause of the state constitution. And in this case the records of the supreme court show that he did not even give the name of his client, volunteering his address to the court on the ground that his nameless client was "interested in the result."

Brannen Trial On Monday.

"We learn that the time has been set for Monday next to try Erastus Brannen, charged with the murder of Jack Ellis some time ago. The prosecution has employed Col. J. J. E. Anderson, and Judge H. D. D. Twigg, and the defendant will be represented by Messrs. Brannen & Booth, G. S. Johnston, R. Lee Moore and Deal & Lanier. The following justices will preside. Messrs. Holland and Rountree, of the 120th, and Trapnell and Everett of the 45th districts.

The case will be hard fought from start to finish, and will probably take up the entire day in trial. We are informed that there will be some sensational developments brought out in the evidence on Monday. A large number of witnesses are being summoned to appear.

Cotton Sees Skyward.

The cotton market took a shoot upward on Monday that was calculated to swell the hearts of every farmer in the land. On the publication of the government cotton report showing the condition of cotton on June the 25th to be only 77 per cent as against 88 last year, and with practically no supply on hand, jumped 110 points or a little more than a cent on the pound in less than ten minutes. Tuesday being no holiday there was a market. On Wednesday another slight rise was recorded, followed by a small decline, but the net gain for the day on Wednesday was four points, or 114 points in the two days. Good middling is now quoted at 10 1/2 cents. It is predicted that short cotton will go to twelve cents within the next few weeks.
