DO IT NOW

ABOUT GOOD ROADS.

Much is being said on the road question, and as usual people disagree. It is reasonable to suppose that every body would like to have good roads over which to travel, and then the only matter of dispute is as to the method of obtaining them.

We have tried all the systems, and of course none of them are perfect, and none of them will give entire satisfaction to all the people. We tried the old plan for a hundred years, and every body knows it was a failure, because the average man is not going to work the roads. The time arrived when a different plan was necessary, and several years ago, the change was put on the roads, and it is a fact that more valuable work was done than had been done under the old system in fifty years.

It was done away with, and virtually nothing was done on the roads until the new road plan was again put on trial, and now we see good work being done all over the county. The change was also put back on the roads on the first of the year, and they are now engaged in making first class highways for the people. Of course it cost something to have it done, and we will never get them for nothing. The taxes are being paid by the property owners, and they are getting value received.

People ought not to kick about the plan, unless they can point out a better way, and the people in all the progressive counties of the state have adopted our present plan, because it has proven to be the best plan.

The time has arrived when business methods must be applied to the working of the public highways, because the travel is constantly increasing, and the day is past when two bales of cotton makes a load for two mules. On the other hand, with clay roads, and the hills graded, two mules will haul ten bales of cotton. The change is now doing work that ought to be done by every citizen, and he will endorse it, unless he happened to be one of the chronic growlers, or is mad because the road by his house is not the first one worked. It takes time to work all the roads, and it is proper that the roads with the most travel are the ones to receive the first attention. When a road is worked, all the people going over it, receive the same benefit as the man who lives on it.

Roads belong to all the people, and every man ought to be proud of seeing them put in fine traveling condition. The cost to the average man is very small, and not one-half of his tobacco bill. The roads are here for all time and for present and future generations, and many progressive counties are bonding themselves, and expending thousands of dollars a year on them. They increase the value of lands, make country life more desirable, lessen the wear on stock and vehicles, and enable the farmer to haul three times the load, and save half the time in going and coming. We insist that the method now in vogue is the best way to accomplish something, but if you have a better way, please state it, and the proper authorities will adopt your plan. If your overseers don't work or are stealing the road money, submit your proof to the commissioners, and they will be lifted out of their jobs. If you can do the job better make your application for a position and you will get it.

Don't be eternally kicking. The world is moving, and you had better crawl on the band wagon. If you can't help push, don't pull back. You have done nothing on the roads, and now don't object to somebody else doing it. Let us have them. The burden falls equally on everybody, and everybody receives equal benefit. The poor man don't have to work or pay a bit more under the new system than under the old, if he did what the law required.

The tax levied to keep the change-gang at work and to buy tools etc., is paid by the property owners all alike. The more a man has the more he pays. The hills must be cut down, and the sandy roads made better, and this is what the authorities are doing. Why object, unless you can suggest a better way? You would not work under the old law, and it is opposed to the new law, and it looks like you are opposed to any road law.

Go and look at some of the work being done by the change-gang, and by the overseers in the districts and tell us what's the matter, and it will be corrected. Give your friendly advice and it will be listened to, but don't accuse every body of rascality, and kick just to be kicking. Show us some good roads you have built yourself, and show it to be cheaper and better, and everybody will go your way.

Yellow Jack is in New Orleans

New Orleans, July 21.—Drs. Goldthwaite and Moore, of the Mobile board of health, came here today on the invitation of the Louisiana board of health to investigate two cases presenting symptoms of yellow fever, and gave it as their opinion that the Mobile board of health immediately put on a quarantine against passengers and household goods.

There will be no quarantine against merchandise, as the shipments of that will be under regulations of the Conference of Southern Health Boards.

The Texas and Mississippi boards of health will have representatives here to-morrow.

Dr. White, of the Marine Hospital service, has been ordered here to take charge of a detention camp, which will be located at Avondale, where travelers can go, and remain five days and then, with a certificate of non-infection, will be admitted to any city.

Up to date, there has been no autopsy, and until that has been held the State Board of Health will not make any announcement.

RAWLINS GUILTY

Death On the Gallows To Be Fate of Father and His Two Oldest Sons. Together With Alf Moore.

Valdosta, Ga., July 20.—Perhaps the most remarkable murder trial in the annals of the state came to a conclusion at 12:35 this morning when the jury found a verdict of guilty, without recommendation to mercy, against J. G. Rawlins, for accessory before the fact in the murder of Willis and Fannie Bell Carter, two young children of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Carter.

The verdict against Rawlins this morning ends the case so far as the state is concerned as already Milton and Jesse Rawlins have been found guilty without recommendation to mercy, while Leonard, the youngest boy was found guilty, but recommended to mercy. Alf Moore, the negro hired by J. G. Rawlins to assist in the commission of the crime, has also been found guilty without recommendation.

Never before in the history of the state have a father and his three sons been before the bar of justice on the charge of murder. Brothers have appeared time and again on joint indictments for murder, but this is the first time where an old man and his three young boys aged 19, 17 and 15 were indicted and found guilty.

The trials occupied two weeks, beginning last Monday morning at 10 o'clock and ending Sunday morning at 12:35 when the verdict of guilty was brought in against J. G. Rawlins.

As a result of the trial there will be four hangings in Lowndes county, unless the higher courts intervene. J. G. Rawlins, 50 years old; Milton Rawlins, 19 years old; Jesse Rawlins, 17 years old; and Alf Moore, a negro, will all swing for the killing of Willis and Fannie Bell Carter. Leonard Rawlins, the youngest, will spend the balance of his days in the state penitentiary.

Sparrows Destroy Army Worms.

The small army of caterpillars that was reported to be infesting a hay field on West Main street in our last Tuesday's issue have entirely disappeared. Their going is ascribed to the flocks of English sparrows that are numerous around the city.

The worms had gotten a good hold and were simply walking through the fields, destroying everything in their path and increasing at a very rapid rate when the little birds spied them and flocked to the fields in numbers sufficient to do the job of extermination in short order. A sample of them had been sent to State Etymologist Smith at Atlanta, and he reports back that they are the army worm. He asked that other specimens be sent him, but when Prof. DeLoach went out on Wednesday to get them he found only two little worms that the birds had left, though he searched more than an hour.

Guano Factory.

Statesboro is in a fair way to get what has long been wanted—a guano factory. The oil mill has had the matter under consideration for some time but as yet has done nothing in that direction. Now Mr. Litchenstein of Adrian, who has had experience in the business, is here, and proposes to begin work right away, and is interesting several of our business men with them. They propose to furnish the farmers of Bulloch county with fertilizers made at home, and we welcome this new enterprise.

Brooklet May Have Been.

We understand that there is a well defined movement on foot to organize a bank in our sister city of Brooklet. It is said that there will be no trouble in securing the necessary amount of capital and that the business of the town will support one there is little doubt. After a while banks will be so plentiful and so thick that a poor newspaper man can borrow without difficulty.

DIG LION HUNT.

There is a great sensation over on Mill Creek over the report that there are lots of pumas in the swamp.

On Saturday afternoon about six o'clock as John Grover, colored, was returning from Statesboro, just after he had crossed the creek at the Lee ford, his old blind horse took a shy, having seen something that John up to this moment had failed to detect. Upon looking around, sitting up on its hind legs, there sat in about fifteen feet of the road, a yearling size lion. This caused John's wool to raise on its end. A slight rattling in the bushes on the other side attracted his attention just in time to see a full grown sure enough lion walk into the road a few feet behind him. This was sufficient for the colored friend, having no disposition to tarry further, he put up to "Old Blind" and the way the dust and sand flew up in the road leading up to Mr. Henry Jones' house a mile distant, was a caution. Mr. Jones being away from home the old horse was put in a sweeping run to the home of Mr. I. T. Newsome, who lives another mile further up the road.

The matter was reported and we understand that a large posse was formed and yesterday went into Mill Creek swamp determined to slay every lion in it. The party numbered somewhere in the neighborhood of one hundred as brave men as ever went to any other lion hunt in this or any other county, armed with weapons to kill; shot guns, breech and muzzle loaders, pistols, dirks, stilettos, bush knives, club axes, fence rails, and various other weapons of offense and defense.

At the hour of going to press we had heard nothing from the hunt, though the repeated firing of heavy guns could be heard in that direction, and we are momentarily expecting to see them coming into town with several carcasses to their credit, unless it turns out like a similar chase did in the same community one day last week.

It is reported that "varmints" had been seen and a lion hunt organized. Every old dog and bird dog in the community were put in the chase. After some time a warm trail was struck and the lion tread in his den, the boys could hear the huge monster give growl after growl as the dogs would surround him. They decided the better plan of safety would be to keep a safe distance away till they saw how many of the dogs the lion would actually tear to pieces. After waiting some time one of the dogs came up switching his tail as much as to say: "You can come on now, the dangerous point has been sufficiently passed." This they did. They noticed a piece of wool in the dog's teeth and reached the spot just in time to see the dogs gnaw the last bit of flesh from the old sheep's bones.

MORE ROAD TALK

I did not think that after wringing in vindication of the present system of working the roads that I had struck a hornet's nest in another part of the county, and I would not now reply to Mr. Darsey if he had quoted me right. He says that if a man differs with me that he, Mr. Darsey, would not be satisfied in heaven. I did not say that, but did say that you could not satisfy some with a front seat in heaven but what they would want to get on the Lord's throne.

Now let us see what Mr. Darsey has to say about it. He calls it humbug and four-fifths of the county (he says he has been over nearly every part of the county) or almost every man is against it. Surely if that is the case we have not heard of Mr. Darsey living or being in the 1220th district where we have over one hundred miles of road and nine out of every ten indorses the system and are satisfied with the work done on the roads.

Again he says that overseers are working three or four hands—the less hands the longer the job. Now I know he imagines he could work fifteen or twenty hands, or even more than that. That shows he don't know anything about it. I inform him to work six or seven hands successfully is enough without having a road machine, for the reason that while one hand is plowing up the roads to make them wide enough the others dig up stumps and trees, and it will not do to scatter them too much or you will not get any work out of them for the overseer can't be at both places.

I don't know how it is in the 48th district, but we will soon be over our ditch for the second time in less than twelve months. Please don't measure everybody's corn by your half bushel, but I don't blame you, push up your overseer through the county commissioners and if he don't knock the commissioners to put somebody in that knows how to work a road.

Again he misunderstands me in regard to the present system being the true and just system to work the roads. I only mentioned turpentine and saw mill to show under the old system they cut up the roads and worked no more than the poorest negro or white man, but under the new law he has to pay his commutation tax as well as the balance and also a property tax for road purposes. You know the man with property uses the roads more than the man without property, so let them help keep what they wear out by having their property taxed to do it.

Our friend strikes it right when he says the overseers should be men of judgement. I say so too. Mr. Darsey still sticks to the old law passed a hundred years ago as the best. There is a great difference between then and now. Just as well go back to the time when they had a cat to pick their shoes full of cotton seed before going to bed so they could spin the next day. I would tell you that old foghorn is a thing of the past, and working under the old road law where a part of the hands worked and the other part lay in the shade and told tales is too. I hope forever gone.

I would request Mr. Darsey to wake up from his Rip Van Winkle sleep and go up in some of our neighboring counties and see the effects of the new order of working the roads and he will come back a wiser man.

Why you are fifty years behind Middle Georgia as far as road working is concerned, except a few counties, and they are like our friend too stung to work the road on modern ideas. You can't stop the procession, so you might as well fall in and march on with it. HAY SEED.

CORNHAR and GARDEN

Celery in the Garden.
Celery is an important crop for the home garden, as it occupies ground upon which some earlier crop has already matured. It can follow peas or spinach, for instance. It likes nitrogen in abundance and so does particularly well as a second crop on the ground previously occupied by peas, which leave nitrogen in the soil. The Garden Magazine.

Corn Silage.
A dairyman who has long fed corn silage says: "Corn silage is nothing more or less than corn, and it is better than corn stover for the same reason that cannot fruit is better than dried. The farmer who has built a good silo and filled it properly never says that silage is not a good feed, but on the contrary, he cannot say too much for it. He finds that in the spring that his silage-fed cattle have cows as sleek and smooth as most cows do by the middle of June. It is a well attested fact that an animal with a glossy coat is invariably in good health and properly nourished, and it is from the well-nourished cows that we get our strong and healthy calves."

Heat, Straw and Butter.
Some one asked for experience with corn straw fed to dairy cows as to causing long churning. The answer is: We have given out straw as a roughness, the only roughness, to our Jersey cows for four months continuously, and have had long churning, but not in that time. Our cows have been giving milk without cessation over 13 months, and had all the bright cows straw also desired. The corn, cob and all, all the good feed three times a week. We allow the cream to thicken and become somewhat acid and have it lukewarm before churning, use a balance churn, always rinsing with scalding water, and if weather is cold do not cool the churn much before adding the cream. When the cream is warm water is added to the cream in the churn. Usually the butter is worked, churn washed and put away in 45 minutes from commencement of churning. In zero weather, with perhaps a pint of scalding water to the gallon of new milk as soon as strained.—E. C. in Indiana Farmer.

To Beautify the Farm.
The lawn could be started the first year, and a few trees planted as desired about the house, and at the driveway entrance, with perhaps a cent properly grouped in intermediate positions to relieve any bareness that might exist. The next season shrubby berry borders any bareness that might be planted with additional trees on the lawn for ornamental purposes. The flower garden need not follow till later. Meanwhile the plan of the accompanying developments would be going on with always some little thing to look forward to.

Plant trees and shrubs that have permanent value and not too ordinary. Avoid the cheap, quick-growing trees which are invariably less satisfactory in the end and are short-lived. I will only name the oaks as being especially worthy trees, and ones that will never bring regret. A few really rare plants will increase the interest in your place wonderfully. Such as the tulip trees as the Yellow World, Ginkgo, Sophora and Japanese Varnish tree are not difficult to obtain, yet they are not common.

An unused piece of swampy ground could be made beautiful by planting in it some flags and Japanese Iris, Mallows, Lythrum, Coreopsis, and even many swamp-loving shrubs like the common elderberry, White Pine, and Swamp Magnolia. The walls of your house would likely be very much improved by a vine of the same. The fence along the front of your property could have a few vines placed at some of the posts.—Mendelson Meehan, Jr. American Cultivator.

Blocking the Road.
It is important to bear in mind that highways are dedicated for the purpose of travel only, and anybody that interferes and obstructs travel on the highway throughout its whole width, from the line on one side to the line on the other, which is not himself a traveler, is a wrongdoer, and in case of accident resulting in damage, he is not only barred from recovering for his damage because of his wrongdoing, but he is liable to respond in damage to the other. Under this head may be cited the usual habit of some people of leaving their wagon, a pile of wood, hay, or other truck on the side of the road.

Another instance under this head that might be mentioned is the case where a teamster drives his team to a hitching post on the side of the street, ties them to a post and goes away and leaves them. At that moment he ceases to be a traveler and is obstructing the highway. Have I not a right, you will ask, to hitch my team to a post and go away and leave them? I would answer, certainly you have, only you must beware of obstructing travel, the road was made to travel on and if travelers can get by you by ordinary diligence, you have, in any case, a right to complain.

SCIENCE NOTES.

Naturalists have discovered a wasp that uses a public toilet to deposit the earth over her nest. It is believed that this is the only one of the lower animals that makes use of a mechanical instrument.

A recent mechanical wonder is a telegraphic instrument which sends over thousands of words a minute over a thousand miles in length by means of human operator and transmits fifty words a minute.

Among the many balloon-supported airships with which experimenters are now working, that of the Lebaudy Brothers is remarkable for its fish-like shape and appearance. Especially when looked at from beneath does it suggest a whale, or some other monster of the deep, floating in the aerial ocean.

Electroplated faces are among the latest French novelties. The faces are made of conductors of an electric current and placed in a galvanic bath. Under the influence of a current of about three volts they become coated with an exceedingly delicate metal surface. The color of which can be changed at will, and the faces are so constructed that they can be regulated at will.

Recent experiments by Berthelot show that the odor of iodine is so sensitive that the odor of iodine can be recognized in quantities as small as the one hundredth-billionth of a gram. In such a small quantity it was distinct, although hundreds of years would be required for the substance to lose a thousandth part of its weight.

The latest novelty in photographic discovery is the most puzzling of all, as it shows some effect of gravitation on photographic action. It was recently announced at Basel, Switzerland, by G. W. A. Kahlbaum. After other experiments—some of them proving that the density of the metallic image of the cadmium is decreased instead of increased at very high pressure—he placed a sensitive plate, iron upward, over a glass box filled with water, and over this he laid in succession a strip of paraffin paper, pieces of cardboard and of sheet metal, then a reverse of this arrangement, with a photographic plate on top. The metals were aluminum, iron, zinc and lead. After several days a distinct photographic action was seen on the film before the light had been admitted.

Disfiguring Ulcer.
People looked at her in amazement. "Profound thanks God for this cure," Mrs. P. Hackett, of 400 Van Buren St., Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I was given to understand that my mother, or by Cauter's, had a severe ulcer, which physicians had pronounced incurable. I was told that it was a case of Mocha coffee, and I bought a box of Oatmeal and Milk, and now, thank God, she is completely cured, and her face is as smooth and clear as ever."

Drainage a Simple Task.
The drainage of a farm by many farmers during seasons of extreme moisture. "I know I ought to lay a good many tile on my farm, but some of them don't get around to it, and the rest are not so good as they should be. I have heard that only ordinary intelligence is required, or that possessed by any level-headed farmer."

Some of the German technical papers have been engaged in a discussion of the means of ensuring the safety of the patrons of the cinema, and it is generally agreed that there should be some means of separating the auditorium from the stage and the front curtain seems to be the best means of effecting this separation.

In some instances, however, the iron curtain has failed to operate at critical moments, and in order to keep them in working order the experts have been working on the problem. It was tried in some houses of putting the curtain to a test once or twice each day. At the Berlin Opera House this was done regularly during the last few days of the season.

A Big Loan That Failed.

Vienna, June 1.—A big Russian loan has failed. According to intelligence from St. Petersburg, received in financial circles here, negotiations for a loan of 100,000,000 rubles, or $1,000,000,000, for the purpose of building a canal through the Bosphorus, have failed.

COOS BAY.

Paradise for the Man With Ash, Gun and Rifle.
After reading a column editorial in the Coos Bay Harbor we confess to an almost uncontrollable desire to make for the Coos Bay country as fast as steam and train can take us. "Let us set a trap for the Coos Bay," says the Harbor, "with nothing else in the world but an ash, gun and fishing tackle. He can—his own land and log cabin. He can find employment enough in logging camps or on dairy farms, sugar, coffee and such other articles as he may crave. Or he can dig claims or net salmon and sell them." Listen to the catalogue of good things—ash, gun and rifle.

From the first of May there is a succession of wild berries. First come the raspberries, then the blackberries, raspberries, strawberries, thimbleberries, salalberries, blueberries and huckleberries. There is a case of a man who lived for years on the berries of the coast.

"These berries all grow wild and are free for the picking. But better still is to have a little plot of land, an orchard where the can grow the most delicious fruit. If one wishes to live luxuriously and cheaply, too, this is the country.

"There on the hillside a man can plant an orchard where the can grow the most delicious fruit. If one wishes to live luxuriously and cheaply, too, this is the country.

Mr. Dorsey Writes

Mr. Editor:

In your issue of last Friday there appeared an editorial which casts reflection upon myself and nine tenths of the people of the county. You accuse all who oppose the present system of working the public roads as kickers against good roads. This is a mistake. There isn't a man in the county opposed to good roads. Every man who writes about it is clamoring for better roads, but they are kicking because they don't get them. It is wrong to brand a fellow as a chronic kicker because he clamors for the roads to be worked.

You, in substance, tell us to point out a better way or submit proof to the authorities that the roads are not worked and they will attend to the matter. This has been done time and again through the press, and the "authorities" have been invited to come and see, but as yet I have not heard of one of them making an inspection. No, not one. If you or the "authorities" would visit and inspect many roads that I have seen, you certainly would not blame the people for clamoring for the roads to be worked. But under the present plan it is not likely that the roads will be worked in the next twenty-five years. I know of many places in the county where the public roads are impassable and the authorities don't seem to care enough to investigate. The people have to go through the woods.

You say that we must work under the old law and are opposed to the new law. Bless your life, I have done more work on the public roads than you editors or any one of the "authorities" have ever done, and a good deal of it before some of them were born.

You say that the old law was a failure. Not so, my dear bud; as I have already said, no law is good unless carried out. There is no law upon the statute books that has failed to be enforced, but that is no reason they are failures. In Liberty, my native county, where I did most of my road duty, we kept the roads in a first class condition and that under the new law. Everybody knows this to be true. Let us take the 48th district of this county. There are something like 400 hands subject to road duty in the district. These hands, if properly managed, could put every section of the roads in good condition in one week, but as things move on now it will take several years—if ever done at all. We have already admitted that in some few places the roads have been improved, but no one man with a half dozen hands can keep the roads in good fix. Some of the best places of road in the county were put so by the county convicts a few years ago, and we are glad that they have been put

It is this humbug of a law that the people complain of and nothing else. But when a person condemns an evil there is always some one ready to jump on him.

STATESBORO, GA., FRIDAY AUGUST 4, 1905.

VOL. 5, NO. 22

Special Notice.

The time is growing close when we will have to know what we will have to go in the Bullock county exhibit, and we would be glad to hear from anyone who has something in the way of good agricultural products, fruits or vegetables. We will send for this as far as possible, and as we have always done, will either return it or give you its value.

Mr. Miller has a one hundred acre farm this year and much of the exhibit has been raised on this farm, but he expects to put up an individual exhibit, and besides on one farm will produce the articles making up an exhibit that would be creditable to a great county like Bullock.

If you have anything that you can let us have let us know. Mr. Miller or Mr. R. H. Donaldson will see you. Mr. Donaldson is now making a tour of the county in a buggy and anything that you may do for him will be appreciated.

Use Hunt Ends in Failure.

The big lion hunt on last Monday in the swamps of Mill Creek resulted in a failure as far as lions are concerned, but the boys rounded up a good deal of other game. As far as we have been able to ascertain the following is about what they bagged: 117 rabbits, 9 pole cats, 2 possums, 1 coon, 8 joint snakes and one watermelon patch ruined. No sign of any lion was scented, but last accounts the negro who claimed to have seen him had not been lynched.

The Fever Situation.

Despite all the claims of the health board of New Orleans the fever situation in that city is steadily growing worse. It seems to have been there since June, and the fact that yellow fever prevailed there was disclosed by outside physicians.

The fever has appeared in Shreveport, La. and Montgomery, Ala. The latter city only reporting one case, but the other cities and towns are quarantining against her, and it would not be surprising to see it pop out in other cities.

Atlanta has opened her doors wide to the refugees and Savannah has declared a quarantine, but in our opinion the quarantine ought to prevail against Atlanta. If the refugees are already there and pouring in by the thousands, as reported, it is as dangerous as New Orleans.

It will be too late to take these steps after the plague takes a hold in your city.

He will remain in the city during August, and during this time expects to close up the accounts that are due him, and will be pleased to have his friends call on him and settle without delay. This was one of the most delightful entertainments of the season and was thoroughly enjoyed by all. The program was lengthy, and aside from a number of instrumental solos rendered by Misses Leslie Brannen, Eunice Lester and Carline Lee, several games were played, after which a love making contest was given by the young men with suitable answers from the ladies, in which Col. Howell Cone and Miss Carline Lee took first prize, showing a remarkable degree of perfection in the science of juggling with this momentous subject. Mr. Homer Parker and Miss
