CRUEL WAR IS ENDED AT LAST.

Plenipotentiaries Agree Upon Terms and Peace Now Reigns in the Far East.

Portsmouth, N. H., Aug. 29.—The long and bloody war between Japan and Russia is ended. The terms of peace were settled by Witte and Baron Komura at the session of the conference this morning, and this afternoon preliminary arrangements for an armistice were concluded and the actual work of framing the "Treaty of Portsmouth" was, by mutual agreement, turned over to Mr. De Martens, Russia's great international lawyer, and Mr. Dennison, who for 25 years has acted as the legal advisor of the Japanese foreign office.

The treaty is expected to be completed by the end of the week. This happy conclusion of the conference, which a week ago would have been shipwrecked had it not been for the heroic intercession of President Roosevelt, was sudden and dramatic.

For the sake of peace, Japan, with the magnanimity of a victor, at the last moment yielded everything still in issue. Russia refused to budge from the ultimatum Emperor Nicholas had given to President Roosevelt, through Ambassador Meyer. No indemnity under any guise, but an agreement to divide Sakhalin and reimburse Japan for the maintenance of the Russian prisoners were his last words. They had been repeatedly reiterated in Mr. Witte's instructions and in the form of a written reply to the Japanese compromise proposal of last Wednesday, they were delivered to Baron Komura this morning.

When Baron Komura, therefore, first offered the new basis of compromise outlined in the Associated Press dispatches last night (the complete renunciation of indemnity of Sakhalin at a price to be fixed by a mixed tribunal, consisting of representatives of the neutral powers, in fact it not in words, the solution offered by President Roosevelt). Mr. Witte again returned a non possumus. Before leaving the conference building felicitations were exchanged with the President at tion of the road by the Chinese Eastern, and providing, further, for substitution in the future of Chinese imperial police for Russian railway guards.

Grimschaw Promoted.

The many friends of Mr. H. B. Grimschaw are pleased to learn of his promotion to the place of general superintendent of the fifth division of the Seaboard Air Line railway.

Mr. Grimschaw has filled the same position with the Savannah and Statesboro railway twice, and each time his service has been such as to command the highest respect and confidence of all who have come in contact with him.

He leaves us in a few days to take charge of his new duties. His headquarters will be in Savannah. While his friends here dislike to give him up, yet they are pleased to note his promotion to a wider field, and one that he has merited.

His successor has not been named yet. President Anderson of the Savannah & Statesboro railway will name him in a few days. It is thought, however, that Mr. D. M. Bacon, chief clerk in the office of the general superintendent's office under Mr. Hale, will be the man to fill Mr. Grimschaw's place with the Savannah and Statesboro.

Back From Texas.

Elder M. F. Stubbs returned on Tuesday from a five weeks' tour of the state of Texas. Mr. Stubbs says that he had no difficulty with the quarantine officers in coming home. He says that the Texas cotton crop is almost a failure. The cotton was first drowned out and was followed by a disastrous drought. He says that there is a boll weevil that is playing havoc with the cotton much worse than the boll worm, that we hear so much about. He thinks the crop is short through the entire section of the cotton belt viz: Texas, Arkansas, Alabama as well as Georgia.

Kennedy-Sewell
Agreeable to the announcement of some days ago Miss Maggie Kennedy of Statesboro, Ga., and Mr. Lovick Sewell of Metter, Ga., were married at high noon Aug. 9, 1905. After refreshments the party left for Talbotton, Ga. To heighten the coming to Mr. Sewell's former home a selected party met them at the station on the afternoon of the 10th. The reception given the happy young couple was announced some days before. In response to invitations about fifty guests assembled at the beautiful and hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Sewell which never appeared more lovely than on this occasion. The veranda, reception room and spacious hall were decorated with rare pot plants, while the dining room was under the skylight touch of Mrs. R. A. Maxwell and Miss Ella Marshall presented a truly Edenic scene, white and green being the color scheme. The walls beautifully adorned with smilax and other lovely climbs looked down by a white light on the table crossing at right angles, exquisite in loveliness with green foliage, white blossoms, dainty dishes, bright silver, beautifully embossed cakes, the most beautiful one immediately in front of the bride and groom indicating the union of two hearts, two lives. The menu was very dainty and palatable and gracefully served after which for some time the merry voices of many happy couples rang out on the evening air, indicating the beautiful and sunny side of life of the assembled guests. The presents were numerous and beautiful, forcible attestations of love and esteem.

Some Good Crops.

It was the pleasure of The News man to walk through the fields of Messrs. H. I. Waters and Charlie Driggers, near Zoar, one day last week.

Mr. Driggers, who farms on part of Mr. Waters' land, has 19 acres of the best sea island cotton we ever saw. He thinks that he will get ten bales on it, but we believe that with no back set he will get twelve. He also has a field of corn that will yield thirty bushels to the acre besides loads of peas, pigs and potatoes, and the beauty of it he raised this together with a fine sugar cane patch and a bale of short cotton, and all by himself, one man and one plow on rented land. He will pay the expenses of the crop, have a years' provisions left for next year and at least $800.00 to the good in dry cash. Yet we occasionally see a fellow who says he can't make a living.

Mr. Waters also has a fine crop. He lives in one of the best sections in the county.

JUST TO BE FAIR

The Atlanta News wishes to know who is right about rates.

A dispatch from Birmingham says that Governor Jeffie will probably call an extra session of the Alabama legislature. One object of the extra session will be to pass an act giving to Alabama the same railroad rates charged in Georgia.

Commenting on this, the Atlanta News says: "Either freight rates are better than Alabama's, or they are worse. The issue is distinctly made between the politicians, of the two states."

"Only the rates sheets themselves can settle the controversy, and what better service can the Georgia Commission render this honest campaign of education than to publish side by side from official sources the rate sheets of the two states and give the people who vote exact and official information upon one of the vital issues of our politics."

"This is fair. This is honest. This is just."

"And while the commissioners are about it, it might be well to give the people (not in statement and assertion, but in facts and figures) the truth of the commission's statement in the Sunday Telegraph, that the present port rates from Atlanta to the Georgia coast cities were lower by nearly 50 percent than the port rates to equal distance in Carolina and Alabama to the coast."

"In this campaign of education it is now the commission's time to give the people the facts."

"No victory won upon misstatement or injustice can be wholesome or permanent."

"Let's us be just though the heavens fall."

The North Does Not Indorse Wamamaker

(Atlanta News.)

The Atlanta Journal is correct in the supposition expressed yesterday that the mass of the northern people are not in sympathy with Wamamaker's idea of social equality.

What the Journal states tentatively, the News is able to state positively; what The Journal surmises, The News knows.

The editor of this paper for thirteen years upon the lecture platforms of America has been in constant contact with the representative people of the north and east upon the great questions peculiar to the south, in personal discussion with private individuals, and in joint debates upon public platforms.

He has had an exceptional opportunity to know the minds and the spirits of the people of the north in discussion of this identical problem of the races with which we are grappling today.

And we do not hesitate to say, as we have said before, that the great mass of the representative people of the north, middle and western states are in perfect sympathy with the sentiments of the south upon this question of the races.

In Ohio, Illinois and Indiana there is a prejudice against the races which utterly negates any similar feelings entertained toward the negro of the south. The race riots in New York, in Delaware, Chicago, Evanston, Carterville, Danville, Evansville, Felicely, and at Leavenworth, and a thousand other towns and cities in the north, are simply the outcroppings of the spirit which the negro aggressiveness and assertions always and inevitably bring down upon him from the dominant race. The News would be willing to stake the splendid promise of its future upon a wager that with a fair vote upon this question Mr. Wamamaker and his radical philanthropists would be buried under the largest majority that ever contained a public issue in the north.

And this opinion is not from mere bare say evidence, or built upon the foundation of a sentiment that we would like to have, but is founded upon fact and intimate personal association extending over a dozen years.

Hereafter we would have our southern people restrain from crediting the Wamamaker spirit to the entire people of the north. We would have them believe as we believe that the representative spirit of the northern people is not only cordial and kindly toward the south as a section, but is entirely in sympathy with the south's attitude toward its great problem.

We need now and shall need more sorely in the future the help and cooperation of our northern fellow citizens in the final solution of this question. They are our friends and sympathizers, and when the time comes to submit to public ballot or to a real public opinion the difficulties and the trials of the south upon this question we will surely receive their help and cooperation which one great branch of the Anglo-Saxon race gives another in a question which affects the integrity of the race and the welfare of our common government.

It is high statesmanship and the broadest of wisdom that we people of the south should cultivate the sympathy and good will of the northern masses who are not represented, either by the fanatics of abolition or the trimmers in politics, the mistaken philanthropy, or the time-serving newspapers who do not know the sentiment that they seek to represent.

More particularly do we urge upon our southern newspapers and public men that in their comments upon this and similar incidents they shall forbear a mistaken criticism of the northern people and discriminate between

Published at Statesboro, Ga.
TUESDAYS AND FRIDAYS.
By The Statesboro News Publishing Co.

The Cleveland Leader says:—"Unlabeled China, revived and great, may be John Hay's most imposing monument."

Rev. D. Wille, of the Scotch Presbyterian church, New York, says, "Yes, Doctor, and in every other land where grass grows and water runs, comments the Herald."

The project of draining the Everglades is up again and it looks this time as if something would be done. It will give to Florida three million acres of rich and virgin soil, an gift of a principality and one not to be slighted.

"Train butchers" on the Pennsylvania and Long Island railroad system in control of the Union News Company, have been told that they must not sell "fish" literature hereafter. The "Red-Eyed Dick, the Train Robber," style of book, in which there is a wreck of a train on the first page of the book, with armed bandits holding up the passengers, a staple of the railroad reading, must go.

It is probably true that the world is growing better, but that is no reason why we should rest on our oars in the struggle for still better conditions. On, on, ever onward, so long as the world turns! If the world is better today than it was, it is because those who live before us worked to that end, and we must keep the work going, so as to leave the world better than we found it. To cease agitating and clamoring, even for a day, would be treason to posterity and a dead loss to ourselves, for in human society, as in other realms of nature, nothing ever stands still, and if we do not wish to be set back in time we must keep moving forward.

Some of the worst fears that beset those who have the welfare of the world at heart, or who are responsible for the character and education of the young, may be reduced when we take into account the part which heredity plays as a regulator. Without going to the great contentions of Spencer and Weismann, we may accept it as a rule, declares the Christian Register, that heredity concerns itself mainly with the traits of human life which come first into view, which lie deepest in the physical organization and the mental constitution of the race, and that the tendency is constantly to recur to the strong, underlying, permanent qualities and powers in the stock from which the individual originates. This fact explains the reproduction from generation to generation and from century to century of family traits and racial characteristics. Whenever we are able, through pictures, statues, or written descriptions, to learn the peculiarities of a family, we find that a child is quite as likely to inherit from an ancestor of three centuries ago as he is from his grandparents.

According to Harper's Weekly the most difficult questions that now assail the management of the American colleges are how to pay the professors larger salaries and how to make the athletes work for nothing. The latter question is the harder of the two. Mr. Carnegie has helped with the problem of the professors' pay, and several of the older universities are raising big funds to the same end; but to keep the athletes from drawing salaries is a more complicated matter. It is accepted in all the colleges that players and contestants in intercollegiate games must be amateurs; players, that is, who do not play, and have never played, for hire. Just as the Elkins law drives the railroad lawyers to the concocting of devices whereby unlawful rebates may lawfully be paid, and drives freight-agents to dark transactions and unrevealed bargains, so the acceptance of the law of amateurism seems to drive the college lawyers and the team-managers to devices by which useful amateurs may lawfully be hired, or may be paid surreptitious wages without its coming to public knowledge.

Now Harness Shop

The undersigned having opened a harness shop in the rear end of the building occupied by Sutton's barber shop takes this method of calling the public to give him a call. New harness manufactured on short notice, or old ones made as good as new. I have all the latest tools and machinery in order to turn out first class work and one trial will convince you that my goods are the stuff that you deal more than a distance. My work is all guaranteed to be first class in every respect, and if any of it fails to come up to this standard I am right here to make it good. I also carry a full line of parts and furnishings for repairs in harness. Give me a call.

Respectfully, J. G. MITCHELL.

Three Jurors Cured

Of Cholera Morbus with One Small Bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Mr. G. W. Fowler of Hightower, Ala., relates an experience he had serving on a jury in a murder case at Edwardsville, county seat of Calhoun county, Alabama. He says:

"While there I ate some fresh meat and some soup and it gave me cholera morbus in a very severe form. I was never more sick in my life and in the drug store for a certain cholera mixture, but the druggist sent me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy instead saying that he had what I sent for, but that this medicine was so much better he would rather send it to me than the drug store."

"I took one dose of it and was better in five minutes. The second dose cured me entirely. Two fellow jurors were afflicted in the same manner and one small bottle cured the three of us." For sale by All Druggists.
