The Savannah Tragedy.

The disgraceful affair enacted on the streets of Savannah on Friday afternoon by which two men fill an untimely grave, and others lie wounded, is one to be regretted by the entire state. That men will so far forget themselves in the frenzy of partisan politics where there is nothing at stake but a few local offices and shed each others blood, is to be deplored.

Just what will be the outcome of the fierce struggle that is on in Savannah remains to be seen. Just what will be the outcome of the terrible affair on Friday, an account of which appears in our news columns, is hard to estimate. It may have the effect of restoring reason, or it may fan the flames to more blood and violence. It depends largely on what stand the best people in the city shall take. If they rise up and demand that politics shall be lifted out of the mire, as practiced at present, then things will go well, but on the other hand, if they stand idly by and allow the good name of their city to be debauched as it has been, they may look out for the worst.

If the officers of the present administration are not capable of clearing the court house corridors of a set of thugs and heelers whose business it is to assault men who go there to register and vote the ticket of their choice, then Savannah is in a bad fix. It is to be hoped that our friends in Savannah will cool off somewhat.

Mr. Lester Announces

By reference to our advertising columns will be seen the announcement of Mr. R. F. Lester, who offers his name for re-election to the office of clerk of the superior court. Mr. Lester has made a faithful and obliging officer. He is true to his friends and will have a warm support in the coming primary.

Col. Sheppard proposes to dig the Panama Canal and Col. Clifton is going to dig a huge canal from the Atlantic ocean to Hinesville. We fear that there will be no place left for Col. Brannen to dig.

After some of these fellows have voted to put Hoke Smith and his disfranchisement scheme in they will be pushed away from the polls by a big buck nigger who has been to school a while lot. They will feel like an elephant had stepped on 'em.

The Central railroad has hauled two train loads of white laborers from the west to south Georgia and Florida. This section needs something to take the place of the worthless negro laborers we now have.

The bank of Emanuel at Swainsboro has declared a dividend of thirty per cent in one year, and there are eight banks in Emanuel county. If we just only had the money we would put us up a bank of our own. There seems to be money in it.

Let the people give encouragement to the building of the Statesboro & Milledgeville railway. There is no telling but what this is the crowd who really are going to build. Give them a chance any way.

Gas In The Stomach

Belching and that sense of fullness so often experienced after eating is caused by the formation of gas. The stomach fails to perform its functions and the food ferments. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets will correct the disorder. They aid digestion and strengthen and invigorate the stomach and bowels. For sale by all druggists.

HAD MUCH SUCCESS.

Col. Dillingham Was Traveler Over the Entire Globe for Years.

WAS ACCOMPLISHED GREAT WORKS.

Has decided to Remain a Month Longer in the South Before Returning North.

Of the many well known men who have visited this section in the past few years it is doubtful if any aroused the unlimited enthusiasm that Col. Frank A. Dillingham's visit to this state has awakened in the midst of the people. So strong has this feeling been that hundreds of people have been making earnest endeavors to have Col. Dillingham remain in the South and yesterday he decided to yield to the power that has been brought to bear upon him by his many new friends. In an interview with a reporter Col. Dillingham said: "My intention was to leave for Cincinnati next Saturday, and I considered it to my interest to have done so, but the people of the state have been very kind to me, and the telephone in my apartment at the hotel has been ringing all day long for the past two days with requests that I remain a month longer. I have been urged by members of my company to remain, but have been compelled to decline on account of previous imperative business engagements elsewhere. I certainly greatly appreciate this evidence of friendship of the people of this county and will be very sorry to leave when the time comes." It is understood that Col. Dillingham's intention upon first coming South was to sell his medicines and handle them himself; that no one outside of the company be allowed to dispose of the remedies, but the demand for the goods has grown to such enormous proportions that he has found himself unable to supply hundreds of people anxious to obtain the remedies, and has placed the remedies in the hands of druggists, and the remarkable remedies will be sold from drug stores hereafter. Col. Dillingham is only an example of the well known fact that most of the successful men begin life with very little. He started with next to nothing and was educated to a great extent in the school of experience and hard knowledge; he comes from a long line of industrious Vermont politicians and has inherited from them a wonderful gift of oratory and personal magnetism. At the age of four, the desire for travel was too strong to be resisted by the boy and he left a luxurious home with nothing in his pocket, to seek fame and fortune in the unknown world which lay beyond the Green mountains surrounding his home; the next ten years he traveled the world over, encountering many hardships and seeing many people and places. It is claimed by him that there are very few towns of any consequence in the United States that he has not visited, and his wanderings extended to South America, Australia, China and Japan. He never stayed long in any place and was continually on the move, his restless disposition driving him ever onward, and, as the old story goes, "a rolling stone gathers no moss," at the end of ten years he was hardly any better off outside of the vast fund of experience and adventure. In the early nineties he spent six months in Australia, and it is believed he here learned the formula from which his famous Plant Juice is now made and which has brought him the enormous fortune he possesses; from Australia Dillingham made his way east and his fortune days seem to date from this time. During the journey westward he began advertising his remedies and met with almost instant success. By the time he reached Ohio he had accumulated a rather handsome nest egg, which formed the nucleus for his present fortune. He settled in Cincinnati, where he obtained a tiny laboratory for the assembling of the remedies, but the success of the medicine was so instant that in less than a few years he was forced five times to move into larger quarters.

His principal laboratory is situated at 333 West Fifth street, Cincinnati, Ohio, and he also has two immense warehouses adjacent thereto. Col. Dillingham is a popular business and club man in his home city and his reputation of integrity and acts of philanthropy is everywhere he visits, as especially so in Cincinnati, where he gives several thousand dollars to the different charities throughout the city. Probably the most unique feature of Col. Dillingham's fads and fancies is the amount of beautiful gems he wears on his person. Col. Dillingham, wherever he goes, travels in royal style, carrying a private secretary, a valet and hosts of attendants, who have been in his employ for years and seem to be devotedly attached to him. His home life at Cincinnati seems to be ideal, as he retains apartments at Hotel Alms, Cincinnati's most exclusive hotel, and with his three automobiles and his stable of trotters and runners, he entertains his friends with the gorgeously and hospitality of an eastern potentate. Col. Dillingham's success as an advertiser and lecturer on disease has been so remarkable that many have come to the belief that he is a hypnotist of unusual power; that this remarkable force and wonderful influence here in the city is due to hypnotic powers. This is, of course, an absurdity on its face, as it is utterly impossible for a hypnotist, no matter how strong, to exert influence over more than one person at a time, and the idea of this man hypnotizing thousands of people into the belief that they were cured by the use of his medicines can only be entertained by people ignorant of what hypnotism and its limitations really are. Col. Dillingham's success can be attributed to but two things: First, his thorough understanding in all that it includes, and second, that he has remarkable remedies which do more than he claims for them. That the first is true can never be questioned. The fact that the entire county is acquainted with what Col. Dillingham has done here is proof enough that his ideas of advertising are correct and it would be hard to find another people for a continuation of his prosperity.

All Run Down

THIS is a common expression we hear on every side. Unless there is some organic trouble, the condition can doubtless be remedied. Your doctor is the best adviser. Do not dose yourself with all kinds of advertised remedies—get his opinion. More than likely you need a concentrated fat food to enrich your blood and tone up the system.

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil

Just such a food in its best form. It will build up the weakened and wasted body when all other foods fail to nourish. If you are run down or emaciated, give it a trial: it cannot hurt you. It is essentially the best possible nourishment for delicate children and pale, anemic girls. We will send you a sample free.

Be sure that this picture is in the form of a label on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you buy.

Count Bond Spent $2,017 A Day.

Parish, February 9.—Count Bond and his family are striving by every means in their power to induce the countless to withdraw their suit. They knew that if Jay Gould's daughter pushes her suit (Count Bond will be left practically penniless.

Even if Count Bond effects a reconciliation with the countless his income will be so cut down as to practically extinguish one of the greatest spenders that even prodigal Paris has ever known.

Of all the American investments in Old World titles Anna Gould's has probably been the most costly. Reduced to cold figures, the price of her title has been approximately $2,017 each and every day for the eleven years they have been married, or the equivalent every four weeks of President Roosevelt's salary for a year.

Recently Frank Work, the New York millionaire, and his daughter had a dispute that led Mrs. Roche to leave his home because for a time she spent about $850 a day, one-sixth of the daily expenditures of the count. Furthermore, Mr. Work permitted his daughter's extravagance for only a few weeks, while George Gould's title brother-in-law has hammered away until he was made the record $9,000,000 for the eleven years of his married life.

The count has smilingly spent $4 for a cherry and cheerfully given enough to pay the bounded indebtedness of a small city for a piece of bric a brac. He has made for himself a reputation as a spender that caused the famous literary men of this and other capitals to write about him, and he has inflamed the Parisian populace more than once so that he has had to placate the city by great gifts to charity.

One of his little foibles was a vaudeville performance given at Anteuil when for 350 guests, he presented an all star bill, no act of which cost him less than $500. Eclipse! That has been the one idea of the count from the moment he got his hands on the Gould fortune. He waited for others to give fester or to buy jewels or antiques only that he might eclipse them, and generally he has succeeded. He has lived to hear his praises sung, and the countless paid the cost.

For his world-famed mansion on the Avenue Bois de Boulogne, known as the "Red Palace," Bond spent more money than he can ever accurately tell. He liked the location so well that he paid $740,000 for the land alone, and before he got through he had produced a palace that any king in Europe might envy.

Poisons Food.

Perhaps you don't realize that many pain poisons originate in your food, but some day you may feel a twinge of dyspepsia that will convince you. Dr. King's New Life Pills are guaranteed to cure all sickness due to poisons of undigested food—or money back. See at W. H. Ellis' drug store. Try them.

of men interested in any commercial enterprise establishing themselves in twice the length of time, on the firm basis of popularity which Col. Dillingham has obtained for himself in the very short space of time which he has spent in this section. That the second is true, any one will believe who will call at the drug store and spend an hour or so listening to what the people have to say, and listen to what is said by callers for the remedies. In nine out of ten cases they have been induced to come by some friend or neighbor who has taken the Dillingham medicine for one thing or another and have been so greatly improved and benefited that they have urged all their friends who may have been known to the sufferers to obtain some of the medicines. Col. Dillingham's work in this state is undoubtedly accomplishing a world of good to many sick people, and he has the best wishes of thousands of Bulloch county people for a continuation of his prosperity.

He never saw the like; he can't understand why the crowds all center at one spot in this city. He never dreamed but what he was the big bee of the town. He thought he was the who's cheese, but he has found out there are others, and more to follow. THE CARNIVAL IS GOING ON; it is going without a break. They tried to break through the lines, but found it a pretty hard thing to do. TURNER-GLISSON CO. has made the prices and sent word to the farmer and workman and they responded nobly to the call. He was not deceived; we never practice it in our business, and we are not going to practice it today. We had over $30,000 that we wanted to sell out to the people, and we sent word to all of them. We did not pick out the chosen few, and how well we are disposing of them, we leave to one and all, and we do not believe there is a man, woman and child within the borders of this county, but will vouch for it, that the people are centering at TURNER-GLISSON CO., the bargain spot of this city. They are buying, they are not just visiting and looking around, but they are taking away bundles and arms full. They are asking their neighbors to help carry their loads; in fact, which ever way you look, up or down the streets, you will see bundles marked from the big store owned and controlled by TURNER-GLISSON CO.

The Clothing Department.

We are still hammering away in the Clothing Department, and every man, woman and child in this city, in this county, we believe, is now talking for TURNER-GLISSON CO., the bargain givers of this country. Few times on earth do you have an opportunity of going in and buying at these prices such as have been made here for the past fifteen days, and will be made until the final wind-up of this CARNIVAL.

Will you be with us? Come, join the procession and get a part of the many bargains awaiting you here, and at prices that will never again be quoted in this city.

FOR THE THIRD TIME, WE BID YOU WELCOME.

Bulloch Oil Mill. Three Burned in Dodge Jail.

Eastman, Feb. 9.—The Dodge county jail was burned here tonight, three prominent men of the county meeting death as a result.

They had been arrested for being intoxicated on the street, and confined to jail to sober up. They were E. A. Cooper, Elbert Mullis and John Hart.

The fire was discovered about 9 o'clock but was too far advanced to be checked. Efforts to rescue the three men were unavailing and when the structure had been reduced to ashes their charred remains were found among the debris.

The jail was a small affair and very inflammable. It is not known how it caught, but many suspect that it was brought on by the unfortunate men themselves, probably in an effort to escape.

The dead men are prominently connected and the sad accident has caused a feeling of horror in the community. They were the only ones in the jail.

Next morning after eating his breakfast he did not thank me for what I had done for him but tried to insult me. I will advise all of my good citizens to beware of how they entertain such strangers. In Memoriam.

On Dec. 8th 1905, the black camel of death halted by his Master's command at the gate of Mr. C. E. Fordham and an entering the threshold bore away with him the most precious jewel of their home—Mrs. Victoria Fordham.

She was a benevolent wife, affectionate mother and friend. Surely she has trodden the golden streets and entered the pearly gates and is now in glory with her Savior. She left a large circle of relatives and friends to mourn her loss on earth, it is but an eternal gain in heaven.

Mrs. Fordham was a good woman. We never saw her with a frown on her face, but always a pleasant smile marked her countenance. She was an industrious woman for both earthly and heavenly affairs. She was a servant of the Lord. It was her will that all around her be done well, that all of us could live and die like she has we would brighten the gates of heaven. Consider the lilies as they grow. The choicest flowers must be gathered first. This way it is in a flower garden; so it must be in God's garden. But why should life be made so short, for she was of much service. How can those loved ones make up their minds to live on earth without her, life can no longer be a pleasure to them, but it is God's way. His will be done. He doeth all things well. It is very hard to give up one who always met us with a smile and cheerful words. Those days are rather sombre and melancholy to those she leaves behind, but let's all watch and pray to meet her some sweet day as she holds outstretched arms to greet us on the other side of Jordan.

Mother thou wast mild and lovely, Gentle as the summer breeze, Pleasant as the air of evening, As it floats among the trees.

Her life was like a mountain railroad, And an engineer was brave, And she made the run successful, From the cradle to the grave.

Her Cousin.

Keep Your Eye On the Hobos. This community is being infested right now with a number of tramps; men to all outward appearances amply able to go out and do a good day's work, going around begging.

In view of some of the experiences our neighbors have had for the past week or two, it seems to us that we had better keep a close eye on the hobos. If a man is loitering in the community who is under the band of suspicion, investigate him, and if he has no business make him pull. It is the duty of the officers to pull these impostors as vagrants and put them on the gang.

It has been only about two weeks since the deaf and dumb racket was worked here by Drayton, the man who proved to be a safe robber, and who could hear and talk as good as anybody. Another one of the same gang was working the deaf and dumb racket in Macon last week. He was arrested as a tramp and got mad and cursed like a sailor. He had overlooked the fact that he was dumb. When he was pulled he had a roll of at least $1,000.00 in money on him, while at the same time he was begging on the streets of the city, and charitably disposed people had been throwing the nickels and dimes to him all the while.

Statesboro will wake up some morning with a bank robbery or some other devilment to face her if these scoundrels who are sneaking around are not looked after.

ATLANTA GETS STATE FAIR.

Macon, Ga., Feb. 14.—The state fair will be held in Atlanta next fall.

At a meeting of the Georgia State and Agriculture Society here today Atlanta was awarded the state fair over Macon, these two cities being the only bidders. The vote for the fair to come to Atlanta again was 18 to 16.

The Atlanta delegation again sprung a surprise on the Central City people, putting in a bid of $47,100, which was far and away the biggest bid ever made for a state fair. Macon's bid fell short of this amount by $9,600, so that Atlanta's claim to the fair next fall was beyond dispute, when the merits of the two bids alone were considered.

Atlanta's bid was divided as follows: Premiums, $12,000; races, $10,000; bonus, $5,000; advertising, $6,000; other attractions, $18,500; total, $47,100.

The bid of Macon was: Premiums, $20,000; bonus, $5,000; races and other features, $12,500; total, $37,500.

Last year Atlanta got the fair with a bid of $28,500 and it was with a bid of $28,500 and it was not thought that the amount would be so largely increased, so that Macon was taken by surprise.

Another fact which led to the bid of the Atlanta fair association being accepted was the success of the state fair held there last fall. It was shown by the committee which came from Atlanta to present her bid that the attendance was twice as large as that of any previous fair, and that the exhibition was in every way superior to anything else that had been undertaken under the auspices of the state agricultural society.

The Atlanta delegation is confident that the fair this fall will be larger and better and more successful in every way than the one last year, and the announcement that the Georgia State and Agriculture Society here today Atlanta was awarded the state fair over Macon, these two cities out will be hailed with enthusiasm in the Georgia capital.

The members of the State Agricultural society will get behind the fair and do everything possible to assist the Atlanta fair association in making the fair one that will draw many thousands of visitors.

While Macon would have liked very much to have secured the fair, the Central City will co-operate with the Georgia State and Agriculture Society in making the fair one that will draw many thousands of visitors.

Col. Corey Makes Statement

Col. E. A. Corey called at the News office on yesterday and requested that we place him straight before the public. He says there were some details in the account of his losing the $500 that might leave him in an awkward light.

He has sacrificed his home in order that Mr. Brown should be fully reimbursed for his loss. He had made arrangements for another party to take the property and give Mr. Brown the money, but Mr. Brown saw it was a bargain and having an opportunity to sell his own, preferred the property to the money.

Mr. Corey states that it was a bitter pill to sacrifice his home, but rather than any one should lose a single, solitary nickel on him, he walked out penniless, which is, in his opinion, one of the best tests of honesty that we know of.

Mr. Corey states that he has no idea who got his money; there were a number of people in the office on Saturday afternoon, either of which may have had an opportunity to have gotten it. He says the report that they got drunk on his own liquor was untrue, that the liquor belonged to Allen Brown who paid $4.00 for two and one-half gallons. Mr. Corey says that he and liquor have been divorced from this out, and that another drop shall ever go down his throat. His friends hope that it may turn out that he will come across the money which has been lost or stolen, but the chances for this are considered pretty slim.
