The Statesboro News

(INCORPORATED)

J. R. MILLER, Editor and Gen'l. Mgr.

Statesboro, Ga., May 29, 1906

Published Tuesdays and Fridays by THE STATESBORO NEWS PUBLISHING COMPANY.

Entered at Statesboro, Ga., Post Office as second class mail matter.

The gubernatorial campaign has been rather quiet for the past week. No one has been caught in the company with Ham Newhouser in ten days.

They are handing it out hot from the shoulder in Savannah. The primary comes off on June 12th and everybody will feel greatly relieved when the strain is over.

Augusta is making extensive preparations for the Georgia-Carolina Fair. The highest premium for an agricultural display being $100.00.

Gen. Stossel, who defended Port Arthur seemingly as long as human flesh and blood could endure, has been condemned to death by a Russian court martial.

Col. Estill is up in the enemies' country tackling them on their native heath, and the reports from that section are very encouraging to his numerous friends in South Georgia.

Darien by the sea will be set afire with enthusiasm this week. Hoke Smith, Coles. Brannen and Sheppard and Col. Estill and Tom Morgan are all on the program for a speech. There is evidently something doing in McIntosh this week.

Col. Julian Hartridge Smith, one of the leading lights of the legal profession of the great and good city of Eden, some times known as No. 2 Central Railroad, has challenged any and everybody opposed to Hoke Smith to meet him in a "jint 'spite." It used to be Hoke Smith and Hartridge Smith, but now it seems that it is Hartridge and Hoke.

A man that Dr. Osler would doubtless be pleased to see is Edward F. Weston of New York, aged 48. A few days ago Weston walked from Philadelphia to New York inside of twenty-four hours, and arrived at his destination fresh and strong. Twenty-five years ago he was famous as a long-distance walker, and his age doesn't seem to have detracted a great deal from his capacity in that line. Savannah News.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO PASSENGERS—SAVE MONEY

The Seaboard Air Line Railway gives notice that passengers traveling at stations where there are ticket agents, should in all cases purchase tickets, saving money by doing so. Effective Nov. 1st, 1906, conductors in Georgia and Alabama will collect four (4) cents per mile from passengers without tickets boarding trains at stations where there are ticket agents and when an opportunity has been afforded them to purchase tickets but who have neglected to avail themselves of such privileges. From non-agency stations where opportunity has not been afforded to purchase tickets, the conductor will only collect the ticket rate.

Negro Schools and Manual Labor.

According to Alderman Oliver, who is taking a great deal of interest in the labor and immigration questions, the negroes, in proportion as they acquire education, however meagre it may be, cease to engage in manual labor. His views on this subject were brought out by the suggestion of Dr. Brunner, the health officer, that the law against vagrancy, if rigidly enforced, would help, in this state, to solve the labor problem. Dr. Brunner called attention to the fact that there are 1,000 to 1,500 idle negroes in the city of Savannah who are well qualified to perform manual labor, and it is probable that in every other city and town in the state there is as large a number of idle negroes in proportion to the negro population as there is in this.

Alderman Oliver is of the opinion that you cannot make a man industrious by legislation, any more than you can make him moral or religious by that means. If Mr. Oliver is right, the negroes are bent on getting an education. He says the negro children are getting low-legged carriage books to read from school. It is a question whether the education the negro is getting is benefiting his race. If, with their education, the negro boys had ambition and thrift, it wouldn't be long before the negroes would own a pretty large part of the lands of the state. There is no hostility to their owning lands. Indeed, as far as we are informed, the land owners are glad to sell them land at a fair price and to encourage them to improve it and to make farms and homes for themselves.

The negro boy who gets a little education, however, doesn't want to work on a farm. He would rather run a hotel elevator at starvation wages with no prospect of ever bettering his condition than to hoe and pick cotton with the possibility of owning a farm of his own by the time he is thirty years of age. As soon as a negro boy in the country has learned how to read he wants to get to town, and what can he do there? Unless he is a mechanic there is no avenue, except that of manual labor, open to him, and that he will not enter if he can help it. It will be a half century, if not longer, before the negro population will have improved their material condition sufficiently to support any considerable number of negro professional men. It will be longer than that unless the negroes become more industrious and thrifty, and it is a question whether their education they are getting is helping them to develop those qualities.

If, when they have finished with their books they should go to the country, save their money and become owners of land it wouldn't take long to lift their race to a higher plane, morally and materially and in every other way than it now occupies. As long, however, as the boys with a little education seek the towns, and eke out a slender living by doing odd jobs, the number of negro vagrants is bound to be large.

Do the negro boys get the right sort of instruction in their schools? That is a question that ought to be looked into. The schools ought to turn out more earnest workers and fewer loafers. From the time they begin leaving their letters until they leave school they ought to have it impressed upon them that education will be a drawback to them unless they become earnest and steady toilers in the field or mines or shops or wherever they can find work to do. Since the world began no other inferior race has had the opportunity to improve its material condition that the negro race of the South has. It is deliberately throwing it away. It liberally throwing it away. It liberally throwing it away. It liberally throwing it away.

Many Populists Said to be Balking on Pledge.

Atlanta, Ga., May 29.—Evidence continues to crop out that many populists of the state are balking upon the conditions prescribed by the democratic committee as to who will be allowed to vote in the state primary. Many of them are of the opinion that the pledge is too raw for them to swallow, and they do not propose to take it. They want a candidate that measures up to the principles of their party and if they can't get one they will not vote. Ex-Representative Fullwood of Polk county, one of the most prominent populists in that section of the state, was in Atlanta yesterday. Mr. Fullwood is a populist from principle and says that he does not know how to be anything else. In discussing the political conditions as they exist in this state with references to the campaign for governor with a number of his friends, Mr. Fullwood said in substance:

"I am not going to vote in the democratic primary for the reason that I am a populist, and as such could not take the pledge that the committee exacts from the voter in that primary. If the people's party does not put out a candidate for governor I will simply stay away from the primary and not vote at all. Of course, I would like to have a candidate to vote for—a populist candidate—and if I can't get one, why, then I won't vote; that's all. "I would not enter into an agreement with the democrats that would bind me in a national affairs, as I expect to vote for a people's party candidate at the next presidential election. To do such a thing would be going too far with me, as I am not ready to join the Democratic party for all time to come. In local affairs in my county I have voted for Democrats, but not when I had a Populist to vote for."

Upon practically the same line appears an interview with Hon. G. P. Brightwell, a member of the State executive committee of the People's party, for the Eighth district which appeared in the Athens Banner of yesterday. The Banner says:

"Mr. George P. Brightwell, one of our most prominent citizens, who has been a Populist since the inception of the party, in conversation with a representative of The Banner yesterday said: "The action of the Democratic executive committee was entirely proper and the rules are only in keeping with the party and in order to maintain an organization there must be rules prescribed for its protection. "As a Populist I see no reason for any criticism from the Populists, or why they should be interested in the action of the Democratic party any more than a Democrat would be interested in the action of the Populist party. I believe in the principles of our party and for that reason I have voted and advocated the principles for these many years."

"When asked as to his opinion as to the suggestion by the enemies of both parties, Populists and Democrats, for political purposes only, that the Populist party be abolished, Mr. Brightwell said: "I am in favor of preserving our party and building it up in lieu of tearing it down and in the present gubernatorial contest I shall not vote in the primary, but will support a candidate of my own party should there be one in the general election next October. This primary is for Democrats and no Populist should participate in it. I shall attend the meeting in Atlanta of the State committee and also the meeting of the national committee next month and any movement to disrupt or disorganize the party will be opposed by me."

"Mr. Brightwell is the member of the State committee from the Eighth district and has been prominent in party affairs for many years. He was an elector from this district two years ago

Institute Comes to Close.

The commencement exercises of the Statesboro Institute will be concluded to-night at the auditorium. Yesterday afternoon the music class, under Miss Leslie Brannen, gave an exhibition. They won the applause of the large crowd of patrons and friends present for the excellent recitations, etc. Last night the oratorical contest between the boys was held and the gold medal was won by Master John Powell. The medal was not won, however, without a hard contest as the speeches by three or four others were pronounced excellent.

The graduating exercises of the class of five young ladies will be held this morning. Those who are to graduate are: Misses Mary Conn, Tilla Hughes, Katie McDougall, Maude Brannen and Annie Moore.

The girls' class will contest for the gold medal to-night and the exercises will probably be more interesting in to-night's program than that of any other occasion.

Miss Leila Bitch returned this week from school.

Miss Helen Knight, of Tampa, Fla., is visiting Miss Eva Oliff.

Now that the Senate Committee has followed the recommendations of the majority of the engineer experts to build the Panama on the sandeval plan, there should be no more delay in pushing the work. There is no doubt that in view of the danger to keels and dams from earthquakes, the sea level type is the only safe one. It may cost a little more and take a little longer to build, and those who talked so much about making the "dirt" day may be disgruntled, but making haste slowly in a work of this magnitude is the only safe policy.

Notice is hereby given of an intention to apply at the next session of the general assembly for the passage of a local bill, of which the following is the title: "An Act to incorporate the town of Brooklet, in Bulloch county, Ga., to create a municipal government for said town of Brooklet; to define boundaries, to provide for the election of a Mayor and Council and other officers, and to define their powers and duties and for other purposes." This, May 6th, 1906.

What the bill will contain when the committee of conference of the Senate and House of Representatives gets through with it, only time will tell. It is already hinted that the oil pipe lines and the express companies amendments are to be stricken out of the bill. Devout assimilation in South-west Africa has already cost Germany $150,000,000. Colonies are expensive luxuries, thinks the Philadelphia Record.

Mr. Justice Grantham has reaffirmed in a London court the time-honored right of a man to thrash a "masher" who insults his wife. English and American legal instincts are pretty much the same.

At a cost of about $60,000,000 all the railways in the Bavarian Palatinate, extending upward of 500 miles, which have hitherto been administered as private companies, are to be taken over by the Bavarian government on Jan. 1, 1909.

Buffalo has heard of the great Pittsburgh, and now there is an All-Buffalo movement. It is becoming more and more difficult for people to dwell in the suburbs of an aspiring city. The city soon reaches out its tentacles and draws them in to swell the size of its directory.

Paul Haas, a student at London University, has received the degree of doctor of science for a thesis on "The Condensation of Dimethylhydrazine, Sorexin and Chloroketone, and the Condensation of this substance has been felt for years, and the reward is well earned. Observes the New York Sun: A "reaching sense" of the deadly sin of being old now stings the house of representatives. An age limit must be fixed, a "dead line" must be drawn, for employees of the classified civil service. It is curious that most of the most powerful and influential men in congress are old. Years make men more competent. Why do years make a clerk less competent?

Glencoe, the Chicago suburb which achieved fame by the construction of "bumps" for speeding automobiles, now has an additional reason to feel proud. Its device has been adopted by Professor Fisher, of Wesleyan University, recently elected Mayor of Middletown, Conn. It drives men over the speed limits in Mayor Fisher's tailwheel they will be shunted into the Connecticut River by the "bumps" and their ardor for rapid flight will be suddenly cooled.

Some one has said, records the Boston Advertiser, that this indicates a problem: There are today 30,502 more women than men in the state of Massachusetts. The surplus of women in the state has gained by nearly 17,000 in the last fifteen years. But it is not a problem. Let them come. The state is glad of it, and if we are satisfied why quarrel before the attacks of envious outsiders? Massachusetts has as much to be proud of in its women as in any other factor in its history, even if there are reform lads at their doors.

Members of half a dozen large business firms of Kansas City admitted Thursday at the trial in the federal court of George H. C. Crosby, the Boston traffic manager, George L. Thomas, the New York freight broker and the latter's clerk, L. B. Taggart, that they had received thousands of dollars in commissions from "unknown sources."

All of the firms had hired Thomas to attend to the shipping of their goods.

ROOSEVELT IS SPITTED

Asserts That President, Shorn of Power, Was Bound Captive to Charlot of Aldrich, "Duke of Rhode Island."

A Washington special says: Well filled galleries and a large membership on the floor listened with great attention Thursday in the house of representatives to leaders of opposing schools of politics, Representative Charles A. Towne of New York and Representative John Dalzell of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Towne was in splendid voice and the dimmer character of the speaker was relieved with continued hand clapping on the democratic side and when he read the president out of the democratic party the minority again applauded.

Mr. Dalzell, who followed Mr. Towne, spoke of "letting well enough alone." His speech was enthusiastically applauded by the republicans.

Nothing of a legislative character was being given over to oratory. Mr. Towne read an extract from the speech of the president, accepting the nomination on July 27, 1898, wherein Mr. Roosevelt said: "That whenever the need arises there should be a readjustment of the tariff schedules is undoubted, but such change can with safety be made only by those whose devotion to the principles of high protective tariff is beyond question."

Having concluded the reading, Mr. Towne said: "I refrain at present from producing the deadly parallel columns from the same high source. They can be produced, I believe, on any subject he ever gave expression to, including the rate bill." (Great applause.) When he came into office he had the sanction of the people that no elective magistrate in the history of the world had. It gave him a chance to recognize that the vote of the people was in the nature of a plebiscite, as in that attitude he could and did choose his allies to carry out ideas of legislation that he entertained. In the senate these combinations were made with some republicans and many democrats, and we are informed on the record that there was at one time an arrangement arrived at by which forty-seven or fifty votes, enough to pass the law, were assured to the president upon the basis of an amendment to the rate provision of the so-called Hepburn law, providing for a restricted court review and for a suspension of the rate-making jurisdiction.

"Within twenty-four hours after the agreement was reached, without notice to his allies, without his ally in his own cabinet, the attorney general, the retention of that arrangement, which is now known to be eminently satisfactory to the senator from Rhode Island had triumphed. The democrats were thrown out.

"This vaunted non-partisan rate legislation became a partisan republican bill as far as they could make it, and the president of the United States, shorn of his barbaric, oriental powers, and humbled, followed the chariot of the duke of Rhode Island.

"What is one of the results? Henceforth our fight is against the republican party and its iniquity and Roosevelt is out of the way. He has repudiated his democratic allies and he is now bound hand and foot to the colonies at the other end of the capitol that dominates the republican policies in that body, and he can never again act independent of his party, having abdicated formally and submitted himself to the party yoke."

A GOLD MINE FOR SHIPPERS.
Kansas City Firms Received Large Sums in Rebates.

CHURCHES ARE MERGED.

Cumberland Presbyterian is swallowed Up in Union With northern Presbyterian Church.

"I do solemnly declare and here publicly announce that the basis of reunion and union is now in full force and effect, and that the Cumberland Presbyterian church is now reunited with the Presbyterian church in the United States of America as one church."

With these words uttered before the general assembly at Des Moines, Iowa, Thursday, Moderator Hunter Corbett officially established the union of the Cumberland church with the Presbyterian church in the United States of America.

The big ecclesiastical assemblage burst forth into a storm of rejoicing. The most dramatic scene of the ceremonies attending the formal union of the churches was the vote against union by two commissioners. Moderator Hunter Corbett put the question, which was in the form of a resolution, and called for the affirmative vote, to be expressed by the commissioners rising to their feet. Instantly the assembly hall was converted into a stamping, cheering crowd. As the handclapping and cheering died away and the commissioners took their seats, the moderator said:

"All who are of the opinion that the motion shall not prevail will please rise."

To the astonishment of all present, two commissioners rose to their feet. Pandemonium broke loose, and it was feared for an instant that indignity would be offered the lonely member who opposed the union. One of the men was Dr. William Lawrie of Bellefonte, Pa., and the other was Rev. Roger F. Crosey of Jacksonville, Ill.

Two representatives from the Cumberland assembly were introduced to the assembly, which came to its feet and applauded, cheered and waved hats and handkerchiefs for five minutes. The Cumberland visitors were Professor W. H. Black of Marshall, Mo., and Dr. B. P. Fullerton of St. Louis.

MORE EVIDENCE OF GRAFT.

Commission is Making It Warm for Railroad Officials.
Additional evidence of discrimination of cars in the soft coal field was presented to the interstate commerce commission in session at Philadelphia, Thursday.

John Lloyd, a banker and coal operator at Altoona, who is one of the members of the banking firm of Cassatt & Co., testified that the Columbia Coal Company was forced to sell the Alexandria mine because of the shortage of cars, and George E. Scott of the Puritan and Crescent Coal Companies, declared that he paid for the use of railroad cars when he failed to secure his allotment, and that during a period of twenty-three days the railroad had furnished him with only one car. He also asserted that Michael Trump, general superintendent of transportation, had told him the company had intended to protect the Burnside-White company at all hazards.

GRAFT IS ADMITTED SIX LINES COMBINED

How Coal Companies Bought Good Will of Roads. New Railway System for Georgia and Florida.

PATTON GIVEN BIG SUM PROJECT IS WELL BACKED
Stock to Amount of $307,000 Is Secured by Railroad Official Without Paying Out a Cent—Revelations Most Startling.

Further revelations concerning the stock holdings in soft coal mining companies by officials of the Pennsylvania railroad were made Wednesday when the interstate commerce commission sitting at Philadelphia, resumed its investigation into the alleged discrimination by railroads in the distribution of cars.

Three high officials of the railroad, Vice President John P. Green, Third Vice President, Samuel Rea and William A. Patton, assistant to the president at Philadelphia, were the important witnesses of the case, and were brought under examination the greater part of the morning and was an unending witness.

The persistent questioning of Attorney Glasgow for the commission, however, brought out the fact that Mr. Patton had acquired stock, the par value of which is $207,000, in various coal companies without cost to himself.

He explained, however, that he had signed notes obligating himself for his share of the losses, and declared his belief that it was proper for him to accept the stock under those conditions.

Vice President Green read a statement to the commission in which he explained that he did not believe he was debarred from such ownership because of his connection with the railroad company. Mr. Rea said that most of the stock was acquired through his association with and purchasing syndicates for development.

Vice President Green said that twenty or thirty years ago, it was not considered improper for an official of the railroad to own coal company stock, but that conditions had changed, and such holding might not be regarded in the same light as formerly. He informed the commission that the board of directors of the Pennsylvania railroad, acting upon the information that had been brought out at the hearings, appointed a committee of five directors to make an investigation into the connection of the officials with coal companies. Mr. Green said that he did not own a dollar's worth of coal company stock.

Other witnesses testified to stock ownership and to discrimination in the distribution of cars.

Congressman Prince of Illinois opposes the President's policy of retiring as major-general those civil war officers who are now in the service and holding the rank of brigadier-general. An amendment to that effect was proposed to the Army appropriation bill and Mr. Grover declared the order to pass it really came from the President. "Oh yes," answered Mr. Prince, "but the President is a very busy man. According to recent criticism his regulation extends from family matters clear up to criticizing the judges in the courts." Since this the White House door does not yawn for the Illinois Congressman.

DON'T GO TO SLEEP.

Tillman and Bailey say the Rate Law will give relief.

Washington, May 28.—Toward the close of the rate bill debate in the Senate, the Senators began to defend their position in discussing railroad legislation for months.
They pointed out what everybody now admits, that they improved the rate bill and made it stronger.
In the winter of 1906, there was great clamor for the quick passage by the Senate of the Esch-Townsend bill, which thousands of people thought was just the thing. Now it has no advocates in or out of Congress.
The democratic leaders seem quite well satisfied with the Hepburn-Tillman bill.

Senator Tillman, Senator Bailey both said if the bill fails to give the relief expected, it will be because the people themselves will go to sleep.
Senator Tillman in his main body publicly thanked President Roosevelt for his strenuous help. Tillman feels bitterly toward the President but paid him a tribute for his co-operation.
Senator Bailey said there had not been a more important question before Congress in fifty years, and he added: "Much has been said about the constitutional lawyers here, as if this were not the place of all others where there should be constitutional lawyers, as if it were a bright upon the character of a member of this body that he should assume to stand for the constitution of the United States. Effective legislation on this subject must be brought within the Constitution of the United States. We have heard from more than one lawyer here—and every man here must admit it—that it is not yet a settled question what our power may be. We know that we cannot ourselves lay down and fix railroad rates. We may have the power, but we have not the ability to make rates and apply them to all the railroads of the country. The question whether we can leave the determination of that matter to a commission is yet open."

Has Had Great Success.

Col. Dillingham Was Traveler Over Entire Globe for Many Years.

Work Accomplished Highly Commendable.

Of the many well known men who have visited this section in the past few years it is doubtful if any aroused the unlimited enthusiasm that Col. Frank A. Dillingham's visit to this state has awakened in the minds of the people. So strong has this feeling been that hundreds of people have been making earnest endeavors to persuade Col. Dillingham to remain in the south and yesterday he decided to yield to the power that has been brought to bear upon him by his many new friends. In an interview with a reporter Col. Dillingham said:

"My intention was to leave for Cincinnati next Saturday, and I consider it to my interest to have done so, but the people of this state have been very kind to me, and the telephone in my apartment has been ringing all day long for the past two days with requests that I remain a month longer. I have been urged by members of my company to remain, but have been compelled to decline on account of previous imperative business engagements elsewhere. I certainly gratefully appreciate this evidence of friendship of the people of this company and will be very sorry to leave when the time comes."

It is understood that Col. Dillingham's intention upon first coming south was to sell his medicines and handle them himself; that no one outside of the company be allowed to dispose of the remedies, but the demand for the goods have grown to such enormous proportions that he has found himself unable to supply the hundreds of people anxious to obtain the remedies, and has placed the medicines in the hands of druggists, and the remarkable remedies will be sold from the drug stores hereafter. Col. Dillingham is only an example of the fact that most of the successful men begin life with very little. He started with next to nothing and was educated to a great extent in the school of experience and hard knowledge; he comes from a long line of industrious Vermont politicians and has inherited from a remarkable gift of oratory and personal magnetism. At the age of fourteen the desire for travel was too strong to be resisted by the boy and he left a luxurious home with next to nothing in his pocket, to seek fame and fortune in the unknown world, which lay beyond the green mountains surrounding his homestead; the next ten years he traveled the world over, encountering many hardships and seeing many people and places. It is claimed by him there are very few towns of any consequence in the United States that he has not visited, and his wanderings extended to South America and Australia, China and Japan. He never stayed long in any place, but was continually on the move, his restless disposition driving him ever onward, and, as the old saying goes, "a rolling stone gathers no moss," at the end of ten years he was hardly any better off outside of the vast fund of experience and adventure. In the early nineties he spent six months in Australia, and it is believed he here learned the formula from which his famous Plant Juice is now made and which has brought him the enormous fortune he possesses; from Australia Dillingham made his way east and his fortunate days seemed to date from this date from this time. During the journey westward he began advertising his remedies and met with almost instant success. By the time he reached Ohio he had accumulated a rather handsome nest egg, which formed a nucleus for his present fortune. He settled in Cincinnati, where he obtained a tiny laboratory for the assembling of the remedies, but the wonderful success of the medicine was so instant that in less than a few years he was forced five times to move into larger quarters.

His principal laboratory is situated at 888 West Fifth street, Cincinnati, Ohio, and he also has two immense warehouses adjacent thereto. Col. Dillingham is a popular business and club man in his home city and his reputation for integrity and acts of philanthropy is everywhere he visits, as is especially so in Cincinnati, where he gives many thousands of dollars to the different charities throughout the city. Probably the most unique feature of Col. Dillingham's face and features is the amount of beautiful fangs he wears on his person. Col. Dillingham wherever he goes travels in royal style, carrying a private secretary, a valet and host of attendants who have been in his employ for years and seem to be devotedly attached to him. His home life at Cincinnati seems to be ideal, as he retains apartments at Hotel Alms, Cincinnati's most exclusive hotel, and with his three automobiles and stable of trotters and runners, he entertains his friends with the gorgeousness and hospitality of an eastern potentate. Col. Dillingham's success as an advertiser and lecturer on disease has been so remarkable that many have come to the belief that he is a hypnotist of unusual power: that his remarkable force and wonderful influence here in the city are due to the hypnotic powers. This is, of course, an absurdity on its face, as it is utterly impossible for a hypnotist, no matter how strong, to exert influence over more than one person at a time, and the idea of this man hypnotizing thousands of people into the belief that they were cured by the use of his medicines can only be entertained by people ignorant of what hypnotism and its limitations really are. Col. Dillingham's success can be attributed to but two things: First, his thorough understanding in all that it includes, and second the fact that he has remarkable remedies which do more than he claims for them. That the first is true can never be questioned. The fact that the entire country is acquainted with what Col. Dillingham had done here is proof enough that his ideas of advertising are correct and it would be hard to find another instance of any one man or company of men interested in any commercial enterprise establishing themselves in twice the length of time, on the firm basis of popularity which Col. Dillingham has obtained for himself in the very short space of time which he has spent in this section. That the second is true, that any one will believe who will call at the drug stores and spend an hour listening to what the people have to say, and listen to what is said by callers for the remedies. In nine out of ten cases they have been induced to come by some friend or neighbor who has taken the Dillingham medicine for one thing or another and have been so greatly improved and benefited that they urged all their friends who may have been known by the sufferers to take some of the medicines. Col. Dillingham's in this state is undoubtedly accomplishing a world of good to many sick people and he has the best wishes of thousands of Ballew county people for a continuation of his prosperity. ### A New Trial Asked for the Rawlings.

Valdosta, Ga., May 25.—John R. Cooper, attorney for J. G. Rawlings and his two sons, sprang a surprise in the celebrated case Thursday in the shape of an extraordinary motion for a new trial before Judge Mitchell in the superior court. After hearing argument the judge overruled the motion.

The principal contention of Mr. Cooper was that Milton Rawlings was of unsound mind at the time he is alleged to have killed the Carter children last June; that he was before that time, and has been in that condition since the tragedy. Affidavits were submitted from S. B. Barfield, Jasper Cowart and J. E. Duncan, citizens of this county, in support of this contention. In rebuttal Solicitor General W. E. Thomas submitted an affidavit from Sheriff Passmore that Milton was of perfectly sound mind and had been all the time.

Other grounds coming under the head of newly discovered evidence was that Alf Moore, the alleged accomplice of Rawlings and his sons in the murders of the Carter children, had confessed to a fellow-prisoner in jail that he, Tim McDonald, Joe Bentley and old man Rawlings were the parties who committed the crime. Another ground was that J. G. Rawlings had confessed that he hired Alf Moore to commit the crime, and another that W. L. Carter, father of the dead children, swore before the coroner's inquest that he saw two white men and two negroes on the scene the night of the murder, and that Leonard Rawlings was not present.

The allegation that Milton Rawlings was of unsound mind was a complete surprise to the people who have kept up with the case. It was expected that Mr. Cooper would make a plea of this sort in behalf of J. G. Rawlings, but not for the boys.

Child Dies of Hydrophobia

Atlanta May 25.—As a result of the bite of a mad dog inflicted four weeks ago, 4-year-old Bernard Buxton, of Girard died Thursday at the Baptist Tabernacle Home and infirmary. The child was brought to the Pasteur institute Wednesday evening by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Buxton, of Girard, and their being no room there, he was taken to the infirmary.

Hydrophobia had already developed, and the physicians could do nothing but give the child opiates to relieve his sufferings.
It appears that Bernard was playing near a saw mill at Girard, four weeks ago, when the dog came to him. The animal was apparently harmless, although it acted a little queerly. The child played with it, when suddenly the dog sprang at the child's face and bit him on the cheek.

Sore Nipples.

A cure may be effected by applying Chamberlain's Salve as soon as the child is done nursing. Wipe it off with a soft cloth before allowing the child to nurse. Many trained nurses use this salve with the best result. Price 25 cents per box. Sold by all Druggists.

Killed By Wagon Wheels

While Hauling Oats Mr. Jas. Gould Meets Untimely Death Near the City Wednesday.

One of the saddest accidents that has happened in this community in a long time was the death of Mr. James Gould, which occurred on Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Gould was over in the field of Mr. S. F. Olliff hauling in oats. He had just loaded a two-mule wagon as long as the bundles would stay on and he and his little boy had crawled on top to haul them to the barn. Somehow in adjusting himself on the load, preparatory to starting, a part of the load, which hung above the top of the wagon body, began to slip out from under him. The falling bundles gave the mules a scare and they dashed to run, throwing Mr. Gould and his son from the wagon, the heavy wheels passing over the breast of Mr. Gould and injuring him to such an extent that he died before he could be carried to his home on South Main street.

The heavy wheels are said to have broken one shoulder and severed nearly all of his ribs from his backbone.

While he was suffering greatly, yet an attempt was made to take him to his house, but he died before they could reach home with him.

When the home of Mr. John Franklin, on College street, was reached it was seen he could survive only a few minutes. He was taken inside of the house, where he died in a few minutes. The little boy was badly injured somewhat but not bruised up.

The funeral was held at the residence on yesterday afternoon, Rev. T. J. Cobb conducting the services. There was a large crowd out to pay him their last tribute of respect. The interment was made in East Side Cemetery. The deceased leaves a wife and a large family of small children. He had been married twice and was the father of eighteen children, twelve of whom survive him. He had lots of friends who will learn with regret the news of his untimely taking off. Just five months to a day previous to his death his brother, the late W. E. Gould, passed away; his father and a sister, too, have all died within the past twelve months.

Mr. Gould was a member of the Carpenters' Union and that order was out in a body.

Owing to the lack of room in the school building, the board of trustees and the city council, at a meeting Wednesday afternoon, decided to make an addition to the building of about three new rooms, and work will begin as soon as the material can be procured.

Statesboro Institute Commencement.

The commencement exercises of the Statesboro institute closed Tuesday evening at the college auditorium with a recital by the pupils of Misses Wood and Brannen, each one of whom rendered her part with credit.

The feature of the closing night was the contest in elocution by Misses Alma Davis, Ruth Lester, Annie Olliff and Mildred Wood. The prize, a gold medal, was awarded by the judges to Miss Ruth Lester, who rendered with marked expression and naturalness, "Higher Culture in Dixie." The climax of the program was the rendition of the transformation scene from "Pygmalion and Galatea," the part of Pygmalion being well acted by Dell Anderson and that of Galatea by Miss Wood, who was at her best and who held the audience spellbound during her passionate appeal to her lover, Pygmalion.

The program was concluded by the awarding of the prizes, by Prof. Brinson, the one to John Powell, and the other to Miss Ruth Lester.

At Tuesday morning's exercises the essays of the graduating class were read. Miss Mary Cone, who graduated with honorable mention, read an excellent paper. Her subject was, "The Past a Heritage; the Present an Opportunity." Miss Annie Moore's subject was, "School Friendships; Miss Katie McDougald's, "The Humble Origin of Great Men;" Miss Maude Brannen's, "The Influence of Women;" and Miss Tilla Hughes', "A Reverie."
