IN MEMORIAM.

M. B. MAHON.
Born July 25th, 1850; died Jan. 2nd, 1906, making his stay upon this earth 55 years, 5 months and 29 days.

He was laid to rest at Mill Creek church, of which he had been a member about ten or twelve years. He lived a consistent christian life up to the time of his death.

He leaves a wife, seven children, a mother and other relatives and a host of friends to mourn his loss.

Oh, how we miss him; but it is wrong for us to grieve when we have a hope that he is basking in the sunlight of heaven. He has gone to meet loved ones that have gone on before, and rejoicing with the saved forever.

We know that God makes no mistakes, but it is so hard for us to part with those who are near and dear to us in this life. But we have a sweet promise of meeting them once more in that land where neither sickness, nor sorrow, nor night ever comes. Let us who are left, here, try to live better and more consecrated lives, for we know not what day nor hour that our Master will call us, and we should be ready to answer His call.

Oh, Uncle, how we miss thee; even more than lips can tell; But this is the will of Jesus and he doeth all things we trust in Jesus, (all our souls on earth are O'er; Then we'll meet thee dear loved ones where parting is no more.

BRITAIN'S ELEPHANTS

WEALTH OF THE EMPIRE IN THESE BIG BEASTS.

They Are Located in India and Africa and Are Very Valuable in Industrial Enterprises of Various Interesting Kinds.

What with the wealth of India and Africa Great Britain possesses more elephants than any other power in the world. The Indian elephant differs very considerably from the African in several points, notably in the size of the ears, which are much smaller than the African's. Again, the African has an arched forehead while that of the Indian is concave. While the Indian males are about ten feet at the shoulder the African males are a foot higher. The principal reason for the difference in the size of the ears is the fact that the African elephant is a forest animal, while the Indian is a savanna animal. The African elephant is a forest animal, while the Indian is a savanna animal. The African elephant is a forest animal, while the Indian is a savanna animal.

At first the elephant did not seem to be a very important animal, but it has since become one of the most important animals in the world. It is used for many purposes, and its value is increasing every day. It is used for many purposes, and its value is increasing every day. It is used for many purposes, and its value is increasing every day.

It is extraordinary. An ordinary elephant can carry a load of ten tons, and a trained elephant can carry a load of twenty tons. It is used for many purposes, and its value is increasing every day. It is used for many purposes, and its value is increasing every day. It is used for many purposes, and its value is increasing every day.

Among the large and varied collection of wild animals, reptiles, and birds brought back by Capt. Stanley Flower, of the British army, in his recent expedition to the Blue Nile, one of the first and most important was a large elephant. It was a large elephant, and it was very valuable. It was a large elephant, and it was very valuable. It was a large elephant, and it was very valuable.

As a mere figure in pageants the elephant plays a very conspicuous part in the pageants of the world. It is used for many purposes, and its value is increasing every day. GREAT SALT DEPOSITS. One of the Wonderful Resources of North Western Canadian Provinces.

At first sight it would appear that the scene depicted is a winter one, with a river flowing past snow-covered banks, and what looks like snow in reality the purest salt. ODD TEAM OF MOOSE.

Broken to Drive in Harness by Edward Crossman of Ely, Minnesota.

Edward Crossman, of Ely, Minn., owns one of the oldest teams in America. He has succeeded in the unusual task of breaking a pair of moose to drive in harness. In his buggy Mr. Crossman spins about as rapidly behind these animals as if drawn by a pair of horses. Ordinary reindeer have long figured in the mythical doings of Santa Claus, and are actually driven by the Laplanders, but the moose is a much larger and different representative of the deer family, and should not be confused with the reindeer.

These moose shown in the photograph were captured at Bear Island lake, a few miles to the southwest of Ely, three years ago. The mother and her calf were taken by an Indian and a trapper in the vicinity, hearing his dog barking furiously, hurried to the spot where he found the moose. Mr. Crossman bought these calves from the trapper and secured a permit from the governor to keep them in his possession.

At first the moose didn't relish being hitched up, but as they are young, they became accustomed to it much sooner than if they had been full-grown. Their antlers are now growing, and by the time the animals are five years of age, will be of large size. At first they were very shy, but now they are as tame as small ones. When running wild they live on pond lily roots, leaves of trees and tender shoots of willow, but now they are fed with hay and corn.

As a mere figure in pageants the elephant plays a very conspicuous part in the pageants of the world. It is used for many purposes, and its value is increasing every day. It is used for many purposes, and its value is increasing every day. It is used for many purposes, and its value is increasing every day.

A CURIOUS CHURCH

Constructed of All Sorts of Material and Used by Russian Settlers—A Tribute to the Priest.

Necessity is known to be the mother of invention, and the Canadian west is full of examples of how the enterprise and adaptability of pioneers has roughly fashioned to the uses of civilization the virgin resources of the wilderness. One of the most curious in our acquaintance, of how the energy of the pioneer has been harnessed to the uses of civilization, is the case of the Russian Orthodox Church of Canada, situated on Stella street, Winnipeg, and known as the "Russian Church."

LAST OF THE BLOOMERS.

One Lonely Old Woman the Sole Survivor of the Once Famous Band.

All that remains of the famous "Bloomer Band" of half a century ago is one lonely old woman and a new word in the dictionary. The term "bloomer" has survived, but few know that the word had its origin in a movement of half a century ago for the revolutionizing of women's costume as a first step toward the enforcement of equal rights with men.

The woman who led this band was Mrs. Anna Bloomer, of New York. She was a famous advocate of women's rights, but she attained world-wide fame only when she called upon her erstwhile sisters to break the shackles, dress convention and the uniform of dark, heavy, and unbecoming clothing. THE PULPIT.

AN Eloquent Sunday Sermon BY THE REV. D. M. HORTON.

Subject: Confessing Christ.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sunday morning, the Rev. Daniel H. Horton, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Brooklyn, preached on "Confessing Christ." The text was from John 1:12: "Whosoever shall confess me before men, I will confess him before my Father which is in heaven." The sermon was a powerful and eloquent one, and it was well received by the congregation.

CHRISTIANITY IN THE WORLD.

Why is it that there are so many more Christians in the world than there were a few years ago?

The answer is simple. It is because of the work of the missionaries. They have been working hard to spread the gospel, and they have been successful. There are now many more Christians in the world than there were a few years ago.

The proper name of the proposed Russian National Assembly is gosudarstvennaya duma. Our own national assembly is often called wrong names than that, observes Harper's Weekly.

The scarcity of labor in New Zealand is such that the colony has asked its high commission in London to find and send out 4,000 laborers for the construction of a new railway in the North Island. Three years' work is guaranteed, and inducements will be offered them to remain permanently. There is also great demand for agricultural laborers in Western Australia.

Customs move in cycles. Several generations ago the country merchant went to the city to buy goods. Then came a period when the big city wholesalers sent their armies of "drummers" to the country merchant, to sell to him by sample at his home. Now the old practice is returning again; the rural merchants are very generally going to the city once more, to look over the markets and choose for themselves. The drummers are complaining at the new order of things which is in many cases taking their jobs away from them.

The recent surprising military triumphs of the Japanese have given the people the present hegemony of eastern Asia; but the destiny of that great nation may be more bound up in the future transformation of China, with its multitudinous, homogeneous, and indomitable race, coupled with the development of these two great empires, there are other questions more or less intimately related to its future. Most prominent of these is the rivalry of Great Britain and Russia, involving the Afghanistan frontier and the suzerainty of Tibet. Outlying questions are the predominating influence in Persia, Germany's recent masterful interest in the helpless but incorrigible Turk, and the control of the Persian Gulf—John W. Foster in the Atlantic.

Ex-Governor Hogg of Texas, who in his public life won warm friends and made bitter enemies, will be best remembered and, very possibly, longest remembered, as one who loved his fellowmen. On the evening before his death, declares the Hartford Courant, and when he was fully informed concerning the conditions which made its coming a matter of hours only, he spoke of the kind of monument he wished to have erected to his memory. "I want no monument of stone," he said, "but let my children plant at the head of my grave a pecan tree and at the foot of my grave a walnut tree, and when these trees shall bear, let the pecans and the walnuts be given out among the plain people of Texas, so that they may plant them and make Texas a land of trees." He was thinking at the last of the people of his own state and of their welfare. Few men have better thoughts or express them better than did this man who had been a good fighter in his day.

Professor Brander Matthews, who is one of the conspicuous members of "The Simplified Spelling Board" recently organized by Mr. Carnegie for the purpose of improving English orthography by urging the omission of useless letters, contributes to Harper's Weekly a lucid and comprehensive outline of the purposes and plans of the board. Professor Matthews points out that the activities of the board are merely a continuation of a movement which has for many years been making gradually and inconspicuously for the simplification of our written speech. Thus, music has become tragedy; music and tragedy are now accepted by all, as Professor Matthews points out; but there was a time when these two words were as strange to a majority of readers as prolog and epilog were to many of us today. Professor Matthews and his associates are planning to set to work upon the curtailment of such offensive forms as typhoid, alginate, fluorometer, aesthetic, manoeuvre, comptroller, sovereign, etc., with the object of reducing them to their phonetic elements.

SHORTS ON CANAL

Head of Commission Answers Questions of Atlantans.

MAKES BANQUET SPEECH

Explains Some Inside Intricacies in Connection with Great Ditch and the Situation as it Prevails at Present on Isthmus.

One of the largest, most representative and enthusiastically interested assemblages of Atlantans was that gathered at the New Kimball Wednesday night to hear and welcome Theodore Perry Shonts, chairman of the isthmian canal commission.

The big banquet room of the New Kimball was crowded, the guests coming at the invitation of the Atlanta chamber of commerce. At seven o'clock a delightful buffet supper was served, and it was not until after eight o'clock that Mr. Shonts was introduced for an address. However, just before making the regular address which he had prepared, Mr. Shonts stated that he had been asked a number of questions by the members of the chamber of commerce regarding the Panama canal, and he would take great pleasure in answering them.

Mr. Shonts, in answering these questions, said in part: "When the commission assumed charge of its present undertaking, we found affairs at the Washington and in a chaotic condition. Our first work was at this end to create a Washington office of administration for supplies, accounts, finances, etc."

"Preparing to start for the canal in June, we received the resignation of Engineer Wallace, and for that reason our trip was delayed, and it was July before we arrived at Panama. Here we found a state of affairs little short of panic among the employees, and it was evident that the least trouble of any kind would have precipitated such disastrous results as to end in a real panic, which would prove of terrible detriment to the canal project. I do not mean to reflect on any one, but merely state what were the existing conditions."

"Governor Magoon was holding the fort steady, and the sanitary engineers were doing their work effectively, although it may have seemed to others that they were giving a very great deal of attention to theory. But they had accomplished much, and had proved that their theories were all right. After careful examination, the first thing we did was to stop the work that was going on, close down the shovels and prepare a regular campaign for the purpose of getting ready to work on a sound and practical basis. Sickens was on every hand, supplies were secured only at enormous prices, and there were some hardly able to earn the real necessities."

"So all the digging was stopped, and all available force set to work building quarters to afford relief to all classes of laborers. Even the American clerks were then living in ill-smelling and unsanitary buildings. We fumigated each and every house. We built administration houses and the usual accessories. In place of seven or nine thousand men at that time, with sickness and fear on every side, we now have a force of twenty-seven thousand men who are happy, and at the time I left Panama the percentage of sickness was less than it was in New York city, although I should add that this was the healthiest season in Panama."

"We built sewers and roads, and gave Panama the first clearing up in two hundred years. We built water-works and have water from mountain streams, with four reservoirs of large capacity. After completing better health conditions building hotels and mess halls, the laborers now have houses fit to live in, and conditions fit for work."

PRESIDENT REVIEWS CONFEDS.

A Pretty Incident of Memorial Day Parade in Portsmouth, Va.
A pretty incident occurred at Portsmouth, Va., as the parade passed the confederate monument memorial day. The members of Stonewall camp of confederate veterans were passed in front of the president. Recognizing Colonel Stewart, commander of the camp, President Roosevelt stopped his carriage, shook hands with him. The great throng on the street enthusiastically shouted its approval.

A notable career closed Wednesday night, when, after a long and painful illness, Michael Davitt, noted Irish leader, died at his home in Dublin. Mr. Davitt retired from the representation of South Mayo in parliament in 1889, but to the last he took a keen interest in the politics of his country.

SOLONS BIFF "UNCLE JOE"

Arrest and Haling of Democratic Members Before Bar of House Causes Exciting Protest.

A Washington dispatch says: An experience meeting was held Tuesday in the house of representatives. It grew out of arrests made by the sergeant at arms and his officers and haling members before the bar of the house in order to complete a quorum under a call of the house Monday evening. The journal set forth the names of the members who had been placed under arrest and permitted to vote.

Mr. Gaines of Tennessee stated that he had left the house at 6 o'clock p. m. upon a mission of humanity to inquire after a sick brother. He had gone to his house and was notified that a "call of the house" was on. He went into the cafe at his hotel and saw a number of members there and notified them that there was a call for a quorum.

He responded with others and was overtaken by an officer of the house who placed him under arrest, and he was presented to the bar of the house. He wanted to take this opportunity to ask why the democrats were singled out for arrest, and the republicans immune, and he desired to serve notice that officers of the house must treat all alike. So far as he was concerned, he did not care for the arrest, for he was doing a duty to the sick, which he would do again, house or no house.

Mr. Becker of Missouri, another of those brought before the house, followed similar lines, except to call the sergeant at arms a "usurper with no authority to arrest."

He told him a member of the president's family last week (meaning Mr. Longworth), with a number of members under a call of the house had been "arrested" by the sergeant at arms, but had not been presented before the bar of the house, and he insisted that the discrimination ought to stop.

Mr. Wallace of Arkansas explained that he had been serving on a committee of investigation, and had gone to the entire country to get an early start of reviewing the testimony taken. He had been informed by telephone that a "call of the house" was in progress, and had responded, voting on the bill then before the body, after he had been placed under arrest with his friend, Mr. Wiley of Alabama, and together they were presented to the bar and excused. He thought he should be excused, as he was a member of the majority, then rose to move the previous question on the approval of the journal. It became apparent that the events of Monday night were the outcome of a plot on the part of the leaders of the republican side to keep the republican majority present to enact legislation. Mr. Payne said that there was no animus whatever back of the arrests, but a practical application of a rule that has been dormant for years.

FAST MAILS FOR SOUTH.

Provision is Retained by Senate in Postoffice Bill.
The southern fast mail provision has been adopted by the senate in the postoffice appropriation bill, thus insuring the appropriation for another year. The controversy over the wording of the proviso relative to approval by the postmaster general resulted in the adoption of language practically the same as that of the house proviso, so there is no obstacle in the way of the appropriation which means so much to the business interests of the south.

ROW IN CONVENTION

Tennessee Democrats Engage in Free-for-All Fight.

POLICE ARE CALLED IN

First Day's Session of State Convention Broke on Selection of Temporary Chairman and Turbulence Reignited Supreme.

The Tennessee state democratic convention which met in Nashville to nominate candidates for governor and railroad commissioners adjourned at 6:10 Tuesday until 10 o'clock Wednesday, without having even elected temporary organization. It was decidedly the most turbulent body of the kind that ever assembled in Tennessee. Pandemonium and free fights were the rule, and it was with the utmost difficulty that any sort of record of proceedings could be made.

Adjournment was effected after an understanding was reached between the leaders of opposing candidates, the three gubernatorial candidates, Governor John I. Cox, Congressman Malcolm R. Patterson and Judge Jno. R. Bond, each name four representatives, who should constitute a committee to decide on a temporary chairman.

Before this agreement was effected the battle over contested delegations occupied the entire time of the convention, which is the largest in the history of Tennessee politics.

The services of the police were necessary from the outset. Vice Chairman W. K. Abernathy of the state committee called the convention to order at noon. There was confusion from the very outset, and when the roll call of the counties for selection of temporary chairman began, the uproar steadily increased. The speaker was hooted down, and when opened with Crockett, and when Davidson was reached a battle royal was on, the wildest excitement prevailing. The county was finally passed, the contest going to the committee on credentials to be named later, and slowly the roll call proceeded, every move marking a fresh contest.

Chairman Abernathy is a splendid presiding officer, he was, with many speeches, and shouting from various parts of the hall, none could be heard.

Once the chairman laid down the gavel and advanced to make himself "the stage, as he went back for the second time, he was hooted down, and when he returned a Patterson supporter, had it and was assailing to act as presiding officer. When he returned, he was hooted down, and when he returned, he was hooted down, and when he returned, he was hooted down.

MONEY SPENT ILLEGALLY.

Remarkable State of Affairs in Connection with Agricultural Department Building.

A Washington special says: What members of the house committee on appropriations regard as an absolute disregard of the law authorizing the construction of the new building for the department of agriculture prevailed in the hearings on the sundry civil appropriation.

In 1903 congress appropriated $1,500,000 for this building. It was the general understanding that this amendment was for the erection of a complete building for the accommodation of the entire department. It was with some astonishment that the members learned recently that "somebody" had ordered the construction of two wings of what may be some of the two wings have practically exhausted the million and a half dollars. Moreover, their amendment was not lessened.

Formed that the two wings, when completed, will not begin to accommodate the department, and that congress will be called upon to appropriate another couple of millions to fill the space between them.

Considerable irritation was manifested during the hearings, and Secretary Wilson and officials of the agricultural department were questioned of concerning what is said to be a direct violation of law.

F. S. Gardner, mechanical engineer of the department, was asked if he knew the limit of cost of the entire building and replied that he did—that it was $1,500,000.

"You are constructing a building with two wings?" asked Chairman Tawney.

"Yes, sir," replied Mr. Gardner. "Does your plan contemplate a central administration building?" inquired the chairman.

"Is that also in the contract?" "That has not been appropriated for," Mr. Gardner replied. "No in construction near an agricultural building, that will actually accommodate the department, congress will have to appropriate a larger sum to carry out the general plan on which the two present buildings have been based."

"That is the idea exactly," said Mr. Gardner. It developed further from Mr. Gardner's testimony that the administrative work of the department would continue to be carried on in the present building, although congress provided that it should be torn down.

Bomb Thrown at Newly Wedded King and Queen.

Would-be Assassin Lodged in Prison and Lays Plot Bare.

Madrid, Spain, June 1.—The city, which was only yesterday the scene of happy rejoicings in celebration of the wedding of Alfonso and Ena, is today cast in gloom, caused by the attempt which was made on the lives of the young monarchs while on their way from the church to the royal palace. The horror of the dastardly crime and the sorrow caused by the deaths of so many innocent victims has unnerved the populace. The people have now no heart for entering into the festivities, which had been planned for the next ten days, and it is probable that the fete will be cancelled.

From the investigation of the police the following is known of the assassin: He is known variously by the names Mateo, Motan, or Manuel Enra. On May 24th he engaged a room at 88 Calle Mayor, from which the bomb was thrown, offering to pay $5 per day for it if its occupants would move out temporarily. After securing the room the anarchist refused to let anyone enter, alleging that he was indisposed. Yesterday he ordered a big bouquet. In it he concealed the bomb which was hurled at the king's carriage. After throwing the bomb he stepped back into the room, quickly changed his hat and escaped in the confusion caused by the act.

The Publishers' Press correspondent is assured by a high police official that the man who threw the bomb has been arrested and is now confined in the Melilla police station. He also states on high authority that the prisoner made confession that he is the would-be assassin.

It is now known that more than fifty were injured. Five of them are in a dying condition. Among those seriously injured was General Weyler, of Cuban revolution fame. It was he who drove the reconquered into refuge camps, where they were literally starved, causing such a protest in America that finally led to war with Spain and the freedom of the Cubans.

Among those killed in yesterday's tragedy were the following: Carlos, commanding part of the king's escort; Lieutenant Reynier, Lieutenant Pendergast, six soldiers, the marquis of Colosa and daughter, Don Antonio Calvo and niece, aged six years; Jose Sola, military; Louis Ponceca and one royal groom, who was leading a horse drawing the royal coach. The bomb thrower was upon a balcony, where a large number of people were watching the wedding procession which was then in progress from San Geronimo church to the palace, which the royal couple were just preparing to enter.

At once the bridal coach was stopped. Officers and soldiers were felled to the ground by the shock, and the groans of the injured and dying added to the trying misery of the occasion.

The royal coach was still intact practically uninjured. The couple left the equipage, and entering another carriage were quickly driven into the palace grounds. Carriages were torn to splinters mixed with the mingled remains of horses, animals driven wild by the noise, trampling upon the masses of ruin, added horror to the occasion. Scores of horses were killed or injured. As soon as the first shock passed the injured were taken up from the streets and carried to hospitals and the dead were removed to undertaking establishments.

The bomb was thrown from a boarding house, where on May 22 a man from Barcelona took apartments. He gave his name as Moral, and seemed to have no regular occupation. The house was immediately surrounded by the police following the explosion.

Moral attempted to escape, but was caught. However, another successfully eluded the officers. Another Catalan took an apartment there on the same day. His name is Manuel Durand, and it was from his room that the missile was hurled. He was well dressed at all times and seemed well supplied with funds.

The king's carriage escaped only by a few feet, and the distance from where the bomb was thrown and the confusion caused by the crowds alone saved the lives of the newly married royal pair. One of the horses attached to the royal equipage was killed.

The shock excited both the king and queen considerably, and when they reached the royal palace it was noticed that they were in tears.

Communication

Editor News: While time has rolling over and over our little cities have been growing very much; some day they will be large and industrious towns. Just think back four hundred years ago and compare them then and now. It was nothing but a vast wilderness and today it is settled as thick as hops. It is here today belonging to us and none else. We should have our country. Think back when our mighty Columbus, reversing on unknown seas trying to discover a new world. And here it is, large and prosperous. It seems as if Christ dwelt here himself. We don't know what the next century will bring to us, so boys and girls let us all strive to help our country along and perhaps the next century will be as good as the past. The boys and girls seem to be interested in their business, though some have better opportunities than others, but let's make use of what we have. It isn't the opportunity every time; it is the boy or girl who has vim in them.

Just stop a moment. Be sure you are right and then go ahead. Look back at old Andrew Jackson, he didn't have the chance of a speckled monkey, and look what he did—he made our country more famous than any other man. Why can't we rise in fame, boys and girls? We have nothing to prevent us from doing it, and come, one and all, and help roll that awful wheel or it will go down hill faster than it came up, and in the right way we can keep it up where we have it. We must strive to do our duty and all every day every notch to a job and title and perhaps we will reach the top some day.

Now, Mr. Editor, thanking you for your kind attention and asking for the favor of you to give the boys and girls advice how they should do so, and what to do; I feel like I need instructions from an experienced, good and moral man.

Yours very truly,
Joseph K. Heasley,
Blitch, Ga.

By User of Plant Juice

Tells of its Wonderful Effect.

A poor gentleman comes forward testifying to the wonderful results obtained from taking Plant Juice. He begins by saying that his wife had been ill for many years, that he spent hundreds of dollars for medical and medical treatment, all to no purpose. And that she gradually declined until he had almost given up hope of her recovery. Ten days ago he heard of Plant Juice remedies sold by Dillingham and he decided to try the treatment.

He brought one bottle of Plant Juice and prevailed upon his wife to try it. She willingly did so, but the usual misgivings of a doubtful patient were overcome by the continual failures of other medicines she had taken in the last seven years. A fog seemed to give her relief. She kept up the treatment and each day her condition improved. She had grown bolder since she began taking the Juice and Mr. C. Franklin told her that she was in better health than she had been for years. It could have been no other medicine than Plant Juice that she was taking. He told her that she was in better health than she had been for years. It could have been no other medicine than Plant Juice that she was taking.

Miss Peterman, lived with the brother of the latter, Mr. Jas. Maxwell, and none of the family knew of the elopement until the following morning.

There was great indignation among the family, and several of the male relatives of the girl armed themselves and went to the home of Julie Holland, learning that the bride and groom were there, and demanded that the bride return home with them. She refused to do so at first and Holland ordered the intruders to leave his premises. The Maxwell family finally forced their niece to return to her mother. It is not unlikely that there will be other developments as the young people have not repented.

Miss Peterman, while very young, is a pretty country girl, and of one of the most prominent families in the section in which she lives. She is an only daughter of Mr. Peterman, and by the will of her father, inherits his estate, amounting to a very considerable sum. For some reason the mother was not provided for in the will. The Petermans lived in Moultrie prior to the death of the husband and father, and some of the estate consists of Moultrie real estate.

Young Holland is only 18 years old, but he is of a good family, except for the age of the two there might have been no objections to the marriage.

ELOPED THROUGH BEDROOM WINDOW

Moultrie, Ga., June 5.—Quite a sensation has been created in the Liberty community in the western part of Colquitt county by the elopement and marriage of Mr. Jess Holland and Miss Ida Peterman. There has been strong objection to the marriage from the mother of the girl, as she is only fourteen years old, but the young people planned an elopement, and Saturday night Miss Peterman escaped by the window of her bedroom, and joining young Holland at the gate, they drove to the home of Rev. John Cooper, where they were married. After the marriage they went to the home of the father of the groom, Mr. Julie Holland, and spent the night.

Miss Peterman and her mother, Mrs. Laura Peterman, lived with the brother of the latter, Mr. Jas. Maxwell, and none of the family knew of the elopement until the following morning.

There was great indignation among the family, and several of the male relatives of the girl armed themselves and went to the home of Julie Holland, learning that the bride and groom were there, and demanded that the bride return home with them. She refused to do so at first and Holland ordered the intruders to leave his premises. The Maxwell family finally forced their niece to return to her mother. To Move Court Ground.

We are informed that there is a move on foot to move the court ground of the 47th G. M. district to Arcola. Mr. P. R. McElveen, one of the enterprising citizens of the 47th, whose home is at Arcola, was in the city Monday, and he thinks there will be no trouble about getting the court ground moved to Arcola. A petition has been circulated over the district to this effect, which contains nearly 150 signatures of the property holders of the district. It is reported that only three approached refused to sign. Arcola is located on the railroad and is conveniently situated for all those who have business in court. The petition will be presented to Judges Davis and Brannen of the district court soon.

Will Have Cheap Rates.

On account of the Sunday School convention to be held here on Thursday, 14th inst. the S. & S. railway agrees to make a special rate of one fare for the round trip from all stations on their road. The morning train will arrive at Statesboro by 10 o'clock. Train will leave in the afternoon at 4 o'clock.

It is confidently expected that the Central railway will name a like rate along their line from Clito to Metter and stations between. These rates have been requested, but up to this writing there has been no reply. The train on the Central railway will doubtless be run on usual schedule which is very convenient for parties coming and going in either direction.

Rev. M. A. Jenkins, of Dublin, who has state reputation as an earnest and forceful speaker, has been chosen as orator for the occasion.

In conclusion I will say that the park used by the convention last year has been tendered us again this year free in every respect, with all the rights and privileges desired. Now let all interested in the welfare of the Sunday School convention come prepared to make this convention the very best in the history of the organization.

Boosting Bryan for Presidency in 1908.

Jefferson City, Mo., June 5.—What is generally regarded as the most significant feature of the democratic state convention held here today was the pointed and absolute endorsement of William Jennings Bryan for the presidency in 1908, by David R. Francis of St. Louis, former governor and the secretary of the interior in Cleveland's cabinet.

Ex-Governor Francis was invited to address the meeting. He said in part: "I wish to ask this convention to send its congratulations to the national democracy on the disappearance of our differences. There are no differences between us now. In 1904, what is known as the conservative element of our party asked to be allowed to make the platform and name the candidate. Right liberally did the radical faction concede the honor to the conservative element. You know the result. Now another campaign is approaching. Those of us who belong to what is known as the conservative faction would not be magnanimous, worthy democrats if we did not say to you that we will support your candidate and your platform this time. The differences that have divided the democracy exist no longer."

Gov. Francis described Bryan as "a sincere lover of humanity and a patriotic citizen of the United States." He eulogized both Bryan and Cleveland amid loud cheering.

Gov. Folk also spoke, declaring that Bryan would be nominated for president in 1908 and would be elected. He said the principles which Bryan advocated in 1896 were then considered anarchistic, but now are considered the acme of patriotism.

Former Governor Dockery spoke in a similar vein. The platform which was adopted tonight declares that William J. Bryan was defeated by corrupt campaign contributions by trusts and that he is the greatest American democrat, and that Missouri demands his election to the presidency in 1908; declares against issuing free transportation to political conventions by railroads and asks reduction of passenger rates.

The platform denounces the tariff and censures President Roosevelt for favoring the present system, after declaring for tariff revision. It also censures President Roosevelt for his stand on the railroad rate bill and the republican party for not giving statehood to Oklahoma.

Coco Cola Bottled Here Now
Mr. Landrum George, the progressive and up-to-date manager of the Statesboro Ice Manufacturing company, has just closed a contract for the exclusive right to bottle coco cola in this territory. This great drink, in connection with their right to bottle rock ginger ale and hop ale, places them in position to serve the wants of their increasing trade.

Mr. George is one of our foremost citizens, with that get-uppance about him that has won friends and success for himself and company. Send them your order for home-made ice, coco cola, red rock ginger ale, hop ale and soda water. You will then be patronizing home industry.—2t.

CARD OF THANKS.
I take this way of giving my heartfelt thanks to the many who were kind to me and my family in our great trouble and bereavement. In gratitude, I am,

Gets His Reward.
After many long years of unsuccessful efforts Will Joice has at last succeeded in breaking into the changing. Will was up this time for deserting a child that he was the father of. Judge Brannen recognizing the great importance of the better roads movements has assigned Will to a term of ten months on our road system and will not require or even accept a money consideration. During this ten months Will, for the first time in his life, will make his native country the better for his having resided here.
