COMPLETED AT LAST!

WE HAVE been trying for quite a while to get a complete line of 10c goods to add to our stock of popular price articles, and our Mr. Griner has just returned from Baltimore and New York, where he spent two weeks selecting this line, and we are so well pleased with his success we want our customers to call and see the many unreasonable things we can sell you for 10c

For the Children.

While in the market we did not forget the school children and we have laid in a full supply of school supplies, such as Stationery, School Bags, etc. We also bought a nice line of popular priced School Hats and Caps for boys, School Gloves for girls, and many things that you will want when the fall comes and the cold weather begins to pinch. Don't forget our new Games for children, etc.

To the Ladies.

We have always felt good over our sales of Trimmings, etc., and now we have something new to offer—a complete line of Ribbons, Collars, Embroider pieces, Center pieces, Scarfs, Pillow Covers, Table Covers, etc., the most of which will go in our 10c Department and other at popular prices, such as the Racket Store is famous for. Our stock will be in and ready by Sept. 10th, and if you come then you will be surprised.

To the Men.

Never before did we show as complete a line of Suspenders, Shirts, Sox, Handkerchiefs, Caps and hundreds of other useful articles as now. We will not quote prices; if we were to you would think they were seconds and short lengths. Therefore, we ask that you see the garments and hear the prices at the same time. Our fall underwear has already been shipped and we can fit any size man, woman or child with either wool or cotton.

To the Public: HOW CAN THE RACKET STORE UNDERSELL OTHER PEOPLE?

FIRST—We only buy and sell small articles, therefore we put all our time and attention to them and keep posted on prices.

SECOND—When we go to market the men from whom we buy know we want popular price goods, and goods that we can undersell our competitors with and they trot them out, and if they haven't got them THEY DON'T GET THE BUSINESS

202 Ballots and No Nomination.

After Fruitless Balloting for Three Days the Convention Takes Adjournment Until Thursday Morning.

The congressional convention, which was in session here three days last week, reached an agreement, on Saturday morning, to adjourn until Thursday of this week. This was not done without the usual amount of sparring by the two factions that have the convention tied in a hard knot. Two hundred and two fruitless ballots had been taken up to the time of adjournment. On each and every one of these ballots the score stood: Brannen, 18; Shepard 18. On no ballot has there been even the slightest compliment thrown to a "dark horse." Though there has been considerable talk of "dark horses" and "black horses", yet not one has appeared in the open.

Friday night it looked as if there was going to be something doing. Jake Collins, the mouth-piece of the Sheppard delegation, who admits on the floor of the convention that he cares nothing for Sheppard, demanded that Brannen and Sheppard get together and settle their differences or the convention would settle them by putting both of them out of the convention within 48 hours and name a congressman.

He stated that he had enough votes to his back to do this, intimating that he had all of the eighteen Sheppard votes up his sleeve as well as some of the Brannen votes. In fact, he said as much. It was a big bluff, but it was promptly called by Mr. J. G. Blitch, chairman of the Brannen caucus, who, in an impassioned speech, declared that the eighteen Brannen delegates were as solid for Brannen as the rock of Gibraltar, and would not only be found here balloting for Brannen at the end of 48 hours but that they would be here 48 years if necessary. Mr. Blitch refuted the statement that there were any traitors in the Brannen ranks. It was a bluff, of course, and a mistake on the part of Mr. Collins. His attempt to force the Brannen delegation to compromise only served to cement them more closely together, and at the Brannen caucus on Saturday it was clearly evident that each and every delegate will stay here till the election morning rather than compromise in the least.

An attempt was made on the part of the Sheppard forces to move the convention to another town. They profess to think that the Brannen sentiment is too pronounced in Statesboro for the good of their various candidates, "dark horses", etc., but they have been plainly put on notice that no move of this kind will be accepted by the Brannen forces.

At this stage of the game it looks as if both sides were firm. Just how long the Sheppard forces will hold out for him, of course, cannot be said, but it is clear that there is never going to be any break in the Brannen forces.

The convention has been enlivened by speeches and recitations between the balloting. Col. W. M. Oiliff, the liberty-loving statesman from the common-

JOHNSTON-TAGGART.

One of the most brilliant social events of the season was the marriage Saturday afternoon at the Methodist church of Miss Margaret Outland Johnston to Mr. Grantham Israel Taggart, of Savannah. Promptly at 2 o'clock to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Mrs. A. J. Moore, the bridal party entered the church. First came the ushers, Mr. Homer C. Parker of Statesboro, and Mr. Lee Armstrong, of Savannah, followed by the bridesmaids, Miss Kathrine Parker and Miss Leah Lester, and the maid of honor, Miss Eunice Lester, then down one aisle came Mr. Taggart and his best man, Mr. Jack Taggart, of New York, and down the other the bride, leaning upon the arm of her father, Hon. G. S. Johnston. Coming together at the altar the ceremony was performed by the pastor, Rev. G. N. MacDonell, assisted by the Rev. Dr. John D. Jordan of Savannah.

The church was prettily decorated with handsome pot plants, beautiful palms and ferns and trailing ivy. During the ceremony "Deane" was softly played. As the bridal party left the church Lohengren's wedding march was played by Mrs. Moore.

The bride wore a beautiful brown silk traveling suit. The bridesmaids wore white linen coat suits. The maid of honor wore a blue linen coat suit.

The presents were numerous and handsome. The present from the groom to the bride was a handsome diamond brooch.

Immediately after the ceremony the bride and groom left over the Central for the north. The bridal tour includes Washington, Philadelphia, Atlantic City, New York, Montreal and Quebec and a trip down the St. Lawrence and a yacht voyage across the Great Lakes.

They will return to Savannah about October 1 and will reside at 707 Whitaker street. Among the guests who attended the wedding from Savannah were Messrs. Jack Taggart, L. G. Armstrong, and the Rev. Dr. John D. Jordan.

Opening of the Statesboro Institute.

Statesboro Institute had the most auspicious opening of its history yesterday. A large and enthusiastic crowd was present, the stores having closed for the purpose of allowing the business men and the clerks to attend the opening exercises. The addresses were grand, the people were interested and they did not fail to show their enthusiasm by frequent applause.

Never in the history of the town have the people rallied to the support of the school as they have this year. The faculty has been selected with great care and the teachers are the best that could be secured. The people for once are working together in harmony, and everything points to the most successful term of school that Statesboro has ever had.

The public school system goes into effect here this fall and while it will be on more or less of a trial, yet it cannot be anything but a success.

The exercises were opened with Scripture reading and prayer by Rev. G. G. N. MacDonell, of the Methodist church. Rev. M. H. Massey, of the Baptist church, then made a short address in which he said that religion and education go hand in hand, each dependent for its existence upon the other. In behalf of the religious institutions of Statesboro he welcomed the students here and assured them that the churches were their friends.

Mr. J. G. Blitch spoke for the business men of the town, saying that they were squarely behind the school and would give it their most loyal support. He was followed by Col. J. Randolph Anderson, who was introduced by Mr. Blitch.

Mr. Anderson's speech was a gem, being one of the best heard here in a long time. "In a republican government where the laws are made by the people themselves," he said, "the people should be educated in order to have the best and wisest government possible. It is necessary to perpetuate our institutions and make our government what our forefathers intended it should be—a government of the people, for the people and by the people. Education has made the Anglo-Saxon race the greatest on the earth, and if the American government is to retain its world supremacy the boys and girls of future must be educated. Since the settlement of Virginia in 1607 education has been our north star of hope. The two most important dates in history, those of most moment to civilization were," he said, "the birth of the Christ child and the settlement of Virginia, which made possible the greatest republic the world has ever seen." He declared himself heartily in favor of the agricultural colleges, the bill for which he did so much to help pass.

He has much in common with Statesboro and Bulloch county, he said, and will do all possible to secure the school for Statesboro. It has decidedly the best claim for the agricultural school of this district, he thinks, and ought to have it. He closed his speech by telling of the part that women have in education, calling attention to the fact that it is the part of woman to lift and elevate man, to raise him from the material to the ideal and sublime. His speech was heartily applauded.

In a few well chosen words Hon. J. A. Brannen in behalf of the

At the same time the roosts should be coated with a mixture of grease, containing enough kerosene to make of it a thin paint; with a stiff paint brush it should be rubbed into the cracks and crevices until they are filled, it being there that the mites secrete themselves during the day. As it is an easy matter for the mites to be in the nests, they should also be brushed proper, and the straw, too, should be taken out and burned and new put in its place. The farmer who confines him to two or three staple crops and who has no venture beyond that line, does not know the full capacity of a farm. He should try some special crops on a small area and endeavor to have a greater variety of articles than he has. He should know some crops do not influence others.

If you want fat clover, calves, lambs and pigs, sow clover. No kind of crop will stand so long as clover, either in pasture and hay, or half the pasture and meadow land of our stock farmers are in clover. It is no mistake. Aside from its nutritive value, it is the only crop that improves the fertility of the soil and enables the farmer to raise good crops.

Tar Improves Macadam.

Experiments in tar and oil for road improvement at Jackson, Tenn., are described in a bulletin issued by the

One of the greatest triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the conquering of woman's dread enemy, Tumor.

The growth of a tumor is so slow that frequently its presence is not suspected until it is far advanced.

The macadam streets in the business centre of Jackson were built originally of the hard siliceous rock which is abundant in the State. In 1905, after fifteen years of wear, repair of these streets became necessary. The old surface was first broken down with steam rollers, and then replaced by the solid pavement beneath. This was done because tar will not penetrate a "rock" surface which is covered with dust and loose stones. The old surface was loosened by means of spikes placed in the wheels of a ten-ton steam roller, the street resurfaced, and new material added where necessary. The old surface was then rolled, bonded and finished.

The Earth's Motion.

We have no direct sensation of this earth motion because of its absolute smoothness and freedom from any irregularities. The air in the atmosphere and sea and air is carried along on the same rate as ourselves, there is nothing to afford us any evidence that we are moving at all and we make reference to the earth as altogether detached from the earth—as upon rollers or stars—and even then, until we see sailing and mathematical calculation made, we are brought to bear it in the mind, and not ourselves which seem moving.

Glide in a boat down a smooth stubble and rolled in with a steam roller.

After more than seven months, including the winter season of 1905-6, the tarred streets and roads are still in excellent condition. They are hard, smooth and resemble asphalt, except that they show a more gritty surface. The tar forms a part of the surface proper, and is in perfect condition.

THE STARVING SAVANT.
A poet sat composing toasts
Before a fireless grate;
A mangled pencil 'twixt his teeth,
Upon his lip a shaggy pate.
While 'neath his ribs, his appetite
Bespoke an "empty" dread.
"Oh would," sighed he, "instead
Of words,
These toasts were made of bread."
—F. A. Brandt in Life.

cat bond has been reinforced by the penetration of the tar. The tar is the surface into which the stones of the mixture are set, forming a conglomerate or concrete. A second coating applied a year after the first would require much more tar than the first, as the interstices of the rock would then be filled with tar.

Good Roads.

Many things work together for good roads. The bicycle craze, while it lapsed, encouraged the improvement of the automobile by doing the same and the general increase of carriage travel for pleasure has its part. But, after all, the improvement depends on the man who is in charge of the automobile influence. He is affected by more practical interests, and when he is convinced that his business prosperity depends on having better roads, he is apt to take them, as the people of Crawford county are doing in order to afford easier access to their new creamery. Good roads and prosperity go hand in hand.

Spelling reform had its greatest success when it was used to make a man agree to finance it. For many years professors and others have been laboring to have the public accept reforms in the use of certain words. The public, while admitting that the existing spelling is a philological monstrosity, refused to take kindly to the proposed changes.

When Andrew Carnegie announced himself as a convert to the reform, the matter was decided more than any time within the past 100 years. Mark Twain promised to take it up. But Mr. Carnegie had announced the conversion, and he was to finance the organization of reformers calling themselves the Simplified

In that book the manufacturers admitted that for the White House nothing but "the best, purest of paint could be used," and said that their pure white lead was selected.

Georgia's Increased Tax Returns

The returns are all in, and it is now definitely known that property values in the state of Georgia, as shown by the books of the tax assessors of the state, have increased more than $40,000,000 as compared with the previous fiscal year.

This is a magnificent showing, and one which appeals to the pride of every citizen of Georgia. From time to time we have chronicled, in our department of "The Growth and Progress of the South," various phases of the development of the state. Only a few days ago it was shown that the increase in the amount of new buildings erected in Atlanta in July as compared with July a year ago was twice as great as the average increase of the fifty odd leading cities of the United States.

Various other facts have been brought out to show the splendid growth of this city and state, but none of these facts has been more gratifying than the returns in the taxable value of the real and personal property of the people of the state this year as compared with last, and this verdict will be generally accepted. Forty-six—and in fact it is nearer forty-seven—millions of dollars is a great deal of money and when this much is voluntarily added to the assessed value of the real estate and personal property of the commonwealth we may imagine that it means a high degree of general prosperity on the part of the people.

These facts, presented to the thinking people who read The Georgian, are having a beneficial effect. We are proving to the country at large that we are increasing in our commercial and industrial greatness every day and that the South offers more splendid opportunities for the investor and the home-seeker than any other section of our common country. Figures do not lie—if you put them down right—and the official returns from the various counties of the state present a convincing argument.

Next year will show an even greater increase in the value of our taxable property, and thus the great work goes on.—Atlanta Georgian.

HOKE SMITH NOMINATED BY A RISING VOTE.

Convention at Macon More of a Hoke Love Feast Than a Democratic Convention.

The State Democratic Convention that convened in Macon on Tuesday turned out to be a Hoke Smith love feast. Everywhere you went it was Hoke Smith! Hoke Smith! The name rang through our ears until we got converted, then disgusted, reconverted, and re-disgusted several times over.

Bulloch county was represented by Col. R. Lee Moore, J. R. Miller and W. T. Wright. Col. Johnston, the other delegate, was sick and unable to attend. Messrs. B. T. Outland, W. H. Blitch and J. E. Anderson from Bulloch were there, and while they were not regularly appointed delegates they participated in the Convention as much as any one else. They and Rev. J. S. McLenore had a seat with the Bulloch county delegation in the Convention.

No name went before the convention with the exception of that of Hoke Smith in connection with the governorship. If there had ever lived such men as "Plain Dick" Russell, J. Holly Estill, Clark Howell or Jim Smith it seems to have escaped the attention of the throng who flocked to Macon on Tuesday. There seemed to be no disposition to abuse or poke fun at a fellow who had brought up the rear, but it was manifested that the spoils were to go to the victors in this fight. This being true all the men who fill the various places in the party machinery are those who were avowed supporters of Hoke Smith. Bulloch county did not ask for one of these places, she contented herself by voting for those whose names were put forth by the neighboring counties. There was no call of the roll of delegates of the counties. A Prominent among those who stood high and head and shoulders above all the balance was Col. Geo. W. Owens who cast the Chatham Estill vote in the first district caucus that morning. After the nomination was declared unanimous Hon. Hoke Smith was sent for and came before the Convention and delivered a speech of acceptance. His speech was broad a conservative as applied to those who had opposed of delegates of the counties. A elations that he intended to do all in his power to carry out the clear cut platform that had been adopted. He asked all those who had opposed these measures, that now as they were the party platform, to join in and give him a helping hand to carry out the pledges he had made to the people. He warned those who were fresh in victory to look out for scheming politicians who would take advantage of the great victory for these principles and slip in as a wolf in sheep's clothing and defeat the will of the majority. He hoped that inasmuch as "the ring" had been smashed that there would be no new ring built up of men who have assisted in winning this fight. Mr. Smith was especially careful to lay stress along this line. He hoped that the eighty thousand men who had voted against him would come in now and join the movement, and he believed that a large majority of them would. His speech was that of a statesman and had every ring of a man who was sincere in what he said. There was no motion to make the nomination unanimous. Had it been made the Bulloch County delegation would have heartily joined in this. They did not believe it to be their duty to go to the Convention as the delegates of one man and on the first ballot vote for another though the majority for him was very great. There being no second ballot of course they had no opportunity to do this except on the first shot out of the box.

The fight is over, and Hoke Smith has received a triumphant nomination and will receive a unanimous vote in the general election, unless the republicans put out a man against him which is not at all likely. We believe that the people are ready to stand to him shoulder to shoulder and assist him in making good to the people the many reforms that he has promised them.

Deputy Sheriff Elsmore

Too Quick to Shoot.

Reidsville, Ga., Sept. 4.—Last night Deputy Sheriff E. C. Elsmore, accompanied by Jesse Furvis, Marion Bennett and Jesse Branch, went in search of Kid Green, colored, who was wanted for shooting cows. The negro was located about two miles from Lew and his house was surrounded. He was called out, but refused to come, at the same time opening a window. Deputy Elsmore ordered him to surrender, but Green fell back and called to his wife to give him his gun. Deputy Elsmore jumped on the wood scaffold at the window and fired at Green.

Mr. Branch heard the shooting and supposing that the negro had opened fire on Deputy Elsmore, rushed around the house. Just as he cleared the corner Elsmore jumped from the scaffold and Branch thought it was the negro escaping and raised his gun to shoot, but recognized Deputy Elsmore and lowered his gun. Elsmore thought Branch was the negro trying to shoot him and fired at Branch, killing him almost instantly. Mr. Branch was a prominent citizen and leaves a wife and two children. Deputy Elsmore is almost prostrated with grief.

During the excitement the negro escaped.

Mr. H. W. Daugherty has returned from New York, where he went to purchase the fall and winter goods for the Olliff company.

He will give the Secretary an urgent invitation to visit Georgia and believes that he will accept.

Wilson-Beal.

A marriage of much interest here was that of Miss Mackie Wilson to Mr. J. T. Beal, in Millen, Wednesday. Mrs. Beal formerly lived here but she has lived in Millen for some time. The groom is prominent in business circles. He is superintendent of the oil mill at Millen. Both of the young people are very popular. The bridal tour has been postponed for the present on account of the illness of the groom.

Chicago, Ill.—Driven to a state bordering on insanity by the fear of burglars, Mrs. Angusta Kelter, 67 years old, of 1881 Nebraska Ave. was taken to the city hospital in a demented condition. The sum of $2,880 was found hidden in various parts of her clothing, which she defended with the zeal of a Mexican duenna, fighting off hospital attendants who endeavored to relieve her of her wealth.

Mrs. Kelter began acting strangely several days ago. She believed that persons were pursuing her. Finally she became so violent that neighbors reported her condition to the police, and the unfortunate woman was removed to the hospital.

When received at the institution, Mrs. Kelter refused to allow Miss Moraghan, the night matron, to search her. When Mrs. Weider, the day matron, came on watch, it was decided to place Mrs. Kelter in hospital garb. As her clothes were removed the money was found. There was $200 in gold. In a bustle was found $2,100 in greenbacks. There was a note for $150 and various papers believed to be of value.

After being relieved of her money, Mrs. Kelter called for her son, J. Kelter. He was sent for and told the hospital authorities that his mother had complained of a fear of burglars for sometime past. He was not aware that his mother had so much wealth about her person.

It is said that Mrs. Kelter formerly kept her money in bank, where, knowing of its safety, it caused her no uneasiness of mind. But recently she had drawn the money for a business investment, and the responsibility of its safe-keeping preyed so heavily upon her mind as to result in mental collapse.

This ought to be a solemn warning to people who carry money concealed to their persons or in their homes. Beware, Oh, beware! Deposit your money in THE BANK OF METTER where it is insured and is safe.

THE BANK OF METTER, Metter, Georgia
